California Sen. Feinstein Says She Won't Run for Reelection

By MICHAEL R. BLOOD
AP Political Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Democratic Sen. Dianne Feinstein announced Tuesday that she will not seek reelection in 2024, signaling the end of a groundbreaking political career spanning six decades in which she shattered gender barriers and left a mark on political battles over reproductive rights, gun control and environmental protection.

Feinstein, first elected in 1992, said in a statement that she intended to remain in Congress through the end of her term.

``Even with a divided Congress, we can still pass bills that will improve lives. Each of us was sent here to solve problems. That's what I've done for the last 30 years, and that's what I plan to do for the next two years,`` she said.

The announcement was widely expected. Feinstein, who turns 90 in June, is the oldest member

ESTEEMED NORCO COACH GARY CAMPBELL REMEMBERED

By Jerry Soifer

Football was a part of Gary Campbell's life, not all of it. If it had been more important to him, the immense numbers measuring his success would have been even greater than they were: 275 wins at Norco, three Southern Section division championships, three runners-up, countless playoff semifinal appearances and innumerable league championships.

CAMPBELL died at age 79 on Feb 11 in Payson, Ariz., where he had moved since leaving Norco.

He retired in 2003 after a section finals loss, but with the cupboard full of returning players including future Heisman Trophy runner-up Toby Gerhart. Campbell's first grandchild was on the way and he wanted to be a family man, said Alan Krueger, a former player and longtime assistant coach.

Early in Campbell's career, Norco was a little-known football outpost. He changed all of that, coaching waves of college and pro players. Many players followed his footsteps into coaching.

Former offensive lineman James Cregg has championship rings. One from the Super Bowl as a Denver Broncos assistant and another from a national championship as a Louisiana State University assistant.

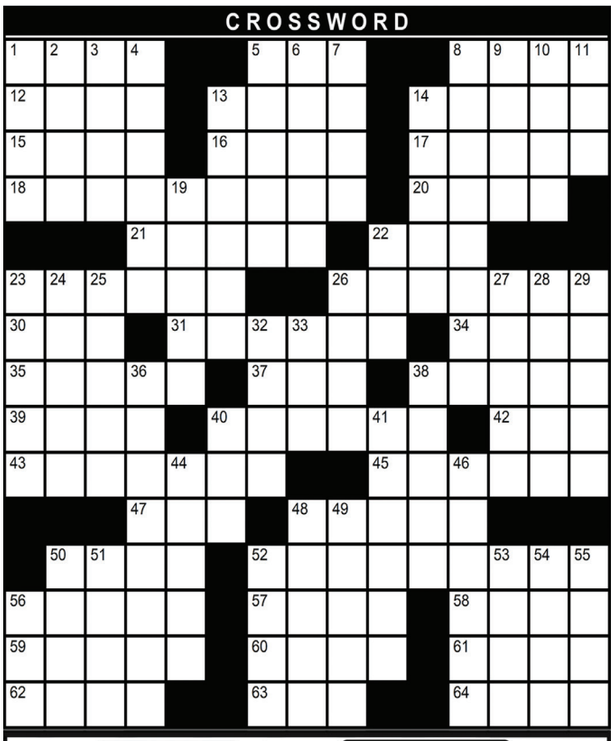

Corona Centennial's Matt Logan, one of the more successful public school's coach's nationally, is another mentee. And former Norco quarterback Kyle Wachholtz has a Super Bowl ring with the Green Bay Packers.

Campbell had a charisma that bonded players to him. Even parents whose sons had been disciplined severely, remained loyal to him. Campbell was a pallbearer at the funeral of Paul Chastain, the late father of former Norco quarterback Charlie. Campbell had kicked Charlie off the team after a temper tantrum at a 1981 game in

IRS Says More Early Birds Filing Taxes

By Peter White

Barely three weeks after the start of this year's tax filing season, the IRS had received 19 million tax returns, processed 16.8 million of them, and issued eight million refunds each averaging $1,963.

THE message – IRS Deputy Commissioner Kevin Moorehead told reporters on an Ethnic Media Services conference call last week – is file your returns sooner rather than later, and do it electronically. Ask that refunds be wired directly into your bank account. The IRS turn-around time will be a lot faster.

The reason is that the Inflation Reduction Act put $80 billion in the IRS bank account to hire 5,000 more telephone assisters and to add more Taxpayer Assistance Centers around the country where you can go for free help to file your taxes.

"We expect more than 168,000,000 individual tax returns to be filed, with the vast majority of those coming in before April 18, the tax deadline date," Moorehead said.

Although refunds are expected to be somewhat smaller this year because the COVID economic impact payments have ended, Moorehead advised people to file a 2022 return even if you don't owe taxes.

"While people with income under a certain amount are not generally required to file a tax return, those who qualify for certain tax credits or already paid some federal tax by having taxes withheld from their paycheck may qualify for a tax refund, but they must file in order to get one," he said.

Don't leave money on the table, agreed Sue Simon, Director of IRS Customer Assistance.

"What we want to do is ensure that anyone who has not filed a 2021 tax return do so.

But in order to collect unpaid benefits, you have to file both a 2021 and a 2022 return. However you fill out these returns, either electronically or by paper,

Simon said it is imperative that you put "Zero" as the amount of your adjusted gross income. Then IRS computers can digest that information and by filing for both years, technical errors can be avoided.

The IRS won't call you but you can call them on toll free phone lines and get assistance in one of 350 languages. Simon said interpreter services are also available in any of IRS's 362 taxpayer assistance centers via their telephones.

"There are forms that are commonly used by taxpayers that are available in Spanish, simplified Chinese, traditional Chinese, Haitian, Creole, Vietnamese and Russian," Simon said.

There are online tools at IRS.gov to help people determine if they are eligible for EITC, a Sales Tax Deduction Calculator to determine how much sales tax is allowed as a deduction in your state. There is the Free File Online Lookup tool that helps taxpayers find the right company to file their tax return under the Free File program. Go to IRS.gov and search the Pick List. There is also a tax withholding estimator tool.

"All of those are available in English as well as those languages that I listed," she said.

The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program (VITA) provides help and counseling to taxpayers, free of charge, especially about EITC and additional Child Tax credits which can be hard to understand, Simon added.

"During the last two years, we had about 50,000 volunteers throughout the United States doing tax returns. This year, as of today, we have 81,000 volunteers in the United States and Puerto Rico preparing free tax returns for individuals and families."

Simon said the IRS provides information in a way that taxpayers can have faith and trust that their tax return is being done correctly, that there is no scam going on, that there is no fraud. A lot of people used VITA. Last year, VITA volunteers prepared 2.2 million tax returns.

"Each one of these volunteers is trained by the IRS. They are certified. They are tested. So, you know you are getting accurate information," she said. There is a Taxpayer Assistance Locator tool at IRS.gov to find the local office where you can set up an appointment and talk to someone in person.

This year is going to be "significantly better" than the last few difficult years of tax returns some of which the IRS is still processing, Moorehead predicted.

You could get more money in your pocket, he says.

Feinstein Retiring

of Congress. In recent years, questions have been raised about her cognitive health and memory, though she has defended her effectiveness representing a state that is home to nearly 40 million people.

Anticipating her departure, a field of candidates had already begun assembling for what is expected to be a fierce campaign to replace Feinstein in the heavily Democratic state.

Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer announced Feinstein's decision during a closed-door lunch of Democratic senators at the Capitol. The senators broke into rounds of applause.

Feinstein told her colleagues how hard her husband's death was and that she was ready to step away from public life after finishing this term, Sen. Elizabeth Warren, D-Mass., said afterward. Her husband, Richard Blum, died last year.

``Senator Feinstein made history," said Warren.

``She changed this country, and she was a woman on the front lines in fights, like access to assault weapons, and national security and intelligence."

Warren said: ``Every other woman in public office owes a special debt to Dianne Feinstein."

Feinstein's career was marked by triumph and tragedy, and she set a long line of historical markers.

Feinstein was the first woman to serve as president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors in the 1970s, the first female mayor of San Francisco and the first woman elected to the U.S. Senate from California. She was the first woman to head the Senate Intelligence Committee and the first woman to serve as the Judiciary Committee's top Democrat.

Feinstein was first elected to the Senate in 1992 in the ``Year of the Woman," in which a group of newly elected female senators changed the face of the chamber.

During her three decades in the Senate, she was a pragmatic centrist who was known for reaching out to Republicans to find middle ground. But in more recent years her moderation chafed with a state party growing increasingly liberal.

Feinstein has long been associated with efforts to broaden gun restrictions. Early in her career, the Senate approved her amendment to ban manufacturing and sales of certain types of assault weapons as part of a crime bill that President Bill Clinton signed into law in 1994. The ban expired 10 years later and was never replaced. But it remained a trademark issue in a career that was molded by gun violence, as she became San Francisco Mayor after the murder of Mayor George Moscone.

Feinstein was long known for a keen mind and a razor-sharp tongue, dispensing verbal zingers when challenged on the issues about which she was passionate. But in recent years, she sometimes appeared confused when asked questions about signature issues, and she infuriated liberals when she closed out confirmation hearings for Justice Amy Coney Barrett with an embrace of Senate Judiciary Committee Chair Lindsey Graham, a Republican, and a public thanks to him for a job well done.

Liberal advocacy groups that had fiercely opposed Barrett's nomination to replace the late liberal icon Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg were furious and called for her to step down from the committee leadership. A month later, she announced she would remain on the Judiciary Committee but step down as the top Democrat.

Assemblyman Seeks Limits on Pet Euthanasia in Animal Shelters

CORONA (CNS) - Assemblyman Bill Essayli, R-Corona, unveiled proposed legislation Friday seeking to establish uniform guidelines on euthanasia of dogs and cats in animal shelters, in the hope of preventing "perfectly healthy, loving animals" from being put down when there's a likelihood of them being adopted.

ESSAYLI has introduced Assembly Bill 595, also known as "Bowie's Law," which would require a 72-hour public notice before any pet could be euthanized in California. In support of the bill, the assemblyman is proposing a comprehensive statewide study aimed at collecting data on the status of shelters and their euthanasia practices.

"Every adoptable pet deserves the chance to find a loving home," Essayli said during a news briefing outside the Corona Animal Shelter Friday. "Unfortunately, far too often, perfectly healthy, loving animals are euthanized before they have a chance to be adopted. Last year, an innocent puppy named Bowie was wrongfully euthanized, and AB 595 would have prevented this tragedy from occurring."

The puppy had been selected for adoption by a nonprofit, "Underdog Heroes Rescue," but before volunteers could retrieve the canine, workers at a Los Angeles County animal shelter euthanized him, according to Essayli.

"Some shelters give notice, some give very little notice, and some give no notice at all," the assemblyman said. "Bowie's Law will end the inconsistency. Our goal is to make every shelter in the state a no-kill shelter, and the state study required by this bill will build the foundation for our mission."

``We understand it's a complex issue, and it's going to take multiple strategies and partnerships, but Bowie's Law will be a critical first step," he said.

The Riverside County Department of Animal Services partners with multiple rescue organizations and has maintained a policy of delaying euthanasia when animals are not sick, overly aggressive or otherwise adoptable.

Agency spokesman John Welsh told City News Service last month that staff will euthanize older pets that have not been claimed, or in which potential adopters have shown no interest over a period of time, particularly when shelters approach maximum capacity.

Essayli's bill is in the Assembly Rules Committee, awaiting assignment for further analysis.

Palm Springs. Then Charlie criticized Campbell for being unfair to him in an article in The Press-Enterprise.

But years later, Charlie Chastain came back to be an assistant coach to Campbell before going on to be one of the leading officials refereeing high school games. Charlie's son, Chuck, quarterbacked Norco and was its head coach before resigning last week to take the head coaching job at Eleanor Roosevelt.

"He did his job," said former Norco High girls' basketball coach Rick Thompson of Campbell. "He turned boys into men."

Campbell's son, Steve, 47, said his father did so by holding them accountable while showing them how much he cared about them. He went on to say, that if you're the son of a coach, you are going to love the sport or hate it. Steve coaches at Williams High School in Arizona, and says he loves the sport because his father always included him in team activities, including practices and games from the time he was 5. Steve was a ball boy for Norco with future baseball major leaguer, Mike Darr.

Friday night could be a time of both triumph and anguish for Campbell.

Early in the 1992 season, Steve, now playing for his dad, suffered a broken ankle in a game. Team physician, Dr. Lawrence Nelson arranged surgery the next day.

That enabled Steve to return in time for the playoffs, demonstrating, in his first game back, the toughness imbued in all Norco players by taking off on several long runs, showing no fear from the injury.

Campbell never tried to build the stats of his player, including his son, Steve, a quarterback. He tried to never to run up the score. "You have to respect the dignity of the other players," he said.

He could be a genius at improvising plays under pressure. At the end of the 1989 Mountian View League championship game against Moreno Valley Canyon Springs, Campbell drew up a razzle dazzle play. Future USC Trojan and Packer Quarterback Kyle Wachholtz flipped a sideways pass to wide receiver James Ridens, who flung the ball downfield to Tyrone Harts who barely got into the end zone for the 28-24 victory.

Wachholtz' mother, Judy, said she was pleased with the way Gary coached Kyle, the discipline he instilled in her son.

Corona investment advisor John Weyhgandt credits playing as an undersized offensive lineman for Campbell in the early 1980s, for his success as a businessman which included being chairman of the board of the Corona Chamber of Commerce.

Weyhgandt reflected, "I think what I appreciated the most from playing for coach Campbell, was that he knew football was not the only thing in my life. He was tough on me and made me a better person, learning to persevere. One time, the practice field was wet, and we were all tip toeing around, not wanting to get dirty. He stopped practice and had us all dive into the mud."

Pat Harlow, another offensive lineman who went on to the pros with the Patriots and Raiders, relates that, "Gary had a huge impactful on my life and obviously football career He taught me toughness, grit, work ethic, loyalty. Qualities that have stayed with me throughout my life. Gary believed in me which in turn made me believe in myself which was huge in my development as a football player and person. I consider myself blessed to have been coached by such a great mentor. I am sure everyone that played for him feels similarly to me about Gary."

I think it is about time that I share my right and proper guacamole recipe with you. I made this for my son's first birthday party and everyone made a point of saying how much they enjoyed the guac. This is the perfect recipe to throw on any dish or eat straight with chips. I made this for a party so I wrote this for a party sized recipe. I'm not sure how much more of an introduction guacamole needs so lets get to it!

INGREDIENTS

- 7 Medium to large avocados
- ½ white onion, chopped
- ¾ cup of tomato, chopped
- 1 large jalapeño, diced
- 2 lemons, juiced
- ½ tablespoon salt

TO MAKE

To start blend 4.5 avocados in a blender with the lemon juice and salt, cut 1.5 avocados into cubes, and mash 1 avocado with a fork. This will give you a great consistency with surprise avocado chunks. Transfer the avocado into a large bowl and mix in the onion, tomato, and jalapeño. Serve with anything and EAT!

"MAGIC MIKE'S LAST DANCE"

By Bob Garver

I had never seen a "Magic Mike" movie before "Magic Mike's Last Dance." The franchise's first two installments both missed out on the domestic box office crown in their respective opening weekends in 2012 and 2015, thus not warranting reviews from me. Ironically, "Last Dance" made less money in its opening weekend then either of its predecessors, but those opened in the more blockbuster-y summer season instead of the void that is Super Bowl weekend. If the first two entries in this series are anything like the third, then not only am I glad I missed them, but I have to wonder why this property was even allowed to have three movies.

THE film opens with former exotic dancer Mike Lane (Channing Tatum) bartending in Florida, his relationships and business ventures all having fizzled out since the second movie. Lonely philanthropist Maxandra "Max" Mendoza (Salma Hayek Pinault) hears that Mike can provide certain services, and he agrees to give her a lapdance that turns into much more. Taken by his talent and charm, Max invites Mike to London to become the director of a one-night-only strip show at a theater she owns. Again, he reluctantly agrees, though the relationship has to be strictly professional from that point forward.

The rest of the movie is mostly what you'd expect from the "Let's Put on a Show" genre. Mike balks at the new setting at first, but he quickly adapts. He doesn't get along with Max's daughter (Jemalia George) or butler (Ayub Khan Din) at first, but of course they come to like him. There's a montage of auditioning dancers and some antics with a stuffy city official (Vicki Pepperdine). It looks like the show will be shut down, but they pull out all the stops and put it on anyway because they just love performing so much. The Mike/Max relationship deepens, by which I mean there is one, apparently.

Proponents of this film say that the best thing about it is the chemistry between the two leads. I was not picking up on any such movie-saving chemistry. Even with a grand gesture toward the end of the film, I was having a hard time buying that either Mike or Max has commitment to the other in their future. Maybe this belief in their chemistry comes from the lap dance sequence early in the film. They do nail that scene, though it seems to involve a lot of physical exertion from Max. I thought lap dances were supposed to be relaxing for the recipient?

The film is surprisingly restrained on the sexuality front. I'd say that for about 80% of the dances in this movie, the dancers wear pants – that's full-legged pants. Mike and a female partner share a dance sequence toward the end of the movie for a supposedly-ravenous, mostly-female audience, and she's way more scantily-clad than he is. The movie's advertising didn't exactly promise heaps of male nudity, but it was certainly implied. I'd bet that this movie could clean up its language, make no cuts visually, and get a PG-13 rating. Were the other "Magic Mike" movies this tame?

"Magic Mike's Last Dance" isn't particularly funny, romantic, or interesting, nor does it work as a visual spectacle outside of some acrobatic feats that viewers of any sexuality will likely find more impressive than tantalizing. I know it wants to be a date movie for Valentine's Day, but it has to contend with yet another rerelease of "Titanic." That movie may as well be Kate Winslet floating on a suspiciously-roomy door, because this movie is dead in the water.

Grade: C-
"Magic Mike's Last Dance" is rated R for sexual material and language. Its running time is 112 minutes.

`Magic Mike's Last Dance' Opens to $8.2M to Lead Weekend Box Office

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - ``Magic Mike's Last Dance'' opened to $8.2 million this weekend to top the North American box office chart, according to industry estimates released today.

The third in a trilogy of films starring Channing Tatum as a male stripper is screening in fewer theaters than the previous two movies, but its per-screen average of $5,467 is higher than 2012's ``Magic Mike'' and 2015's ``Magic Mike XXL.''

The next two spots were taken by films directed by James Cameron -- 25 years apart. ``Avatar: The Way of Water'' was second with $6.8 million in its ninth week in theaters in the United States and Canada.

Third place went to a silver anniversary re-release of 1997's ``Titanic,'' which brought in $6.4 million Friday through Sunday, Comscore reported. ``Titanic'' was originally released in December 1997 and went on to become the highest-grossing movie in history, though it was eventually surpassed by Cameron's 2009 ``Avatar'' and 2019's ``Avengers: Endgame,'' due in part to higher ticket prices.

The older-skewing comedy ``80 for Brady'' was fourth with $6 million in its second week, followed by ``Knock at the Cabin,'' which grossed $5.5 million one week after opening in first place.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases, as estimated by Comscore, were ``Puss in Boots: The Last Wish'' ($5.5 million), ``A Man Called Otto'' ($2.62 million), ``Missing'' ($2.6 million), ``M3GAN'' ($2.3 million) and ``Plane'' ($1.1 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $51.1 million. Super Bowl weekend is traditionally a slow time at the domestic box office.

The year-to-date total is $763.2 million -- an increase of 47% over the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

Raquel Welch

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - Raquel Welch, the actress who became an international sex symbol for her roles in such films as 1966's "One Million Years B.C." and 1970's "Myra Breckinridge," died Wednesday at the age of 82, her management confirmed to City News Service.

Welch "passed away peacefully early this morning after a brief illness," according to her representative Stephen LaManna. No further information about her death was immediately available.

Welch was born in Chicago and first shot to fame in "One Million Years B.C." She had almost no speaking lines in the film, a fantasy adventure about the prehistoric world that featured human and dinosaurs living together. But the image of her in a tattered, doe-skin bikini was enough to make her one of the era's biggest sex symbols.

She parlayed her instant fame to starring roles in "Bedazzled" (1967), "Bandolero!" (1968), "100 Rifles" (1969), and "Myra Breckinridge," a graphic social satire based on Gore Vidal's novel.

She scored another major role in 1974's "The Four Musketeers," which brought her a Golden Globe for best actress in a motion picture musical or comedy.

Welch was also an accomplished stage actress, leading Broadway productions of "Woman of the Year" in 1981 and "Victor/Victoria" in 1997.

She memorably skewered her reputation with an appearance on a 1997 episode of "Seinfeld," playing herself as a demanding diva who torments the series' Kramer and Elaine characters.

Her career spanned over 50 years and included starring roles in 30 films and 50 television appearances.

Her recent work included an episode of the sitcom "Date My Dad" in 2017 and the film "How to Be a Latin Lover" in 2017.

Welch was also involved in a successful line of wigs in her later years.

She leaves behind two children, son Damon Welch and daughter Tahnee Welch, LaManna said.

The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 619-846-7649, or visit this internet website http://www.qualityloan.com, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-22-937854-SH to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE OWNEROCCUPANT: Any prospective owneroccupant as defined in Section 2924m of the California Civil Code who is the last and highest bidder at the trustee's sale shall provide the required affidavit or declaration of eligibility to the auctioneer at the trustee's sale or shall have it delivered to QUALITY LOAN SERVICE CORPORATION by 5 p.m. on the next business day following the trustee's sale at the address set forth in the below signature block. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF RAMIRO QUIROZ SR.
Case No. PRRI2300231
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of RAMIRO QUIROZ SR..
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by RAMIRO QUIROZ JR. in the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that RAMIRO QUIROZ JR. be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held on 4/5/2023 at 8:30 AM in Department 11 located at 4050 Main St, Riverside, CA 92501.
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
