100 MILE CLUB CELEBRATES 30 YEARS WITH A WALK. OF COURSE!

Reported by Jerry Soifer

The year was 1992. Bill Clinton was elected President. The European Union was formed. And Hurricane Andrew obliterated South Florida.

BUT a young 4th generation public school teacher from Norco was laser focused on Barcelona, Spain and the '92 Summer Olympic Games.

In her second year as a classroom teacher in a career as a special education specialist, Kara Lubin was inspired by the triumph and sense of accomplishment of the athletes. And she wondered how to instill the same sense of personal victory in her students, who were managing various learning disabilities.

And that's when Lubin lit upon the idea of the 100 Mile Club, which she launched in her classroom later that school year, in 1993.

Lubin writes, on the organizations' website, that she was inspired by the philosophy of a family friend. A fella named John Wooden, who happened to be one of the most inspirational and successful coaches in, well the history of coaching.

Spelling Bee Champion Carries on Family Tradition

MORENO VALLEY (CNS) - A Corona-Norco Unified School District seventh- grader Thursday claimed the championship title in Riverside County's 45th Spelling Bee, extending his family's ownership of the local top speller mantle for the seventh time.

Avijeet Randhawa correctly spelled "forbs," a plant species, to win the bee and advance to the Scripps National Spelling Bee, where he will represent the county.

Avijeet endured multiple rounds over three hours to beat out his competition and become the third person in his family to claim top honors in the countywide bee, which

Separate Collisions Claim Lives of Two Corona Residents

CORONA - First on Monday and then again Tuesday, vehicle accidents inside the City of Corona claimed the lives of a teen and 43-year-old man, both residents of the city.

When Corona Police responded to the first incident at the intersection of El Sobrante Road and Circle City Drive around 8:35 a.m. Monday, they found an overturned vehicle that had contained three teenage occupants.

One passenger identified as 16-year-old Noel Martinez was pronounced dead at the scene. The driver and a second passenger, 16 and 17-years-old, suffered what have been described as moderate injuries, and were hospitalized in stable condition.

The following evening, at about 10:15 p.m., the operator of a Tesla was killed while driving through the intersection of Foothill Parkway and Rimpau Avenue, when he was broadsided by a pick-up truck, according to police.

Authorities have stated that the Tesla was proceeding through a green light when the Ford F-150 ran a red light.

At the time of publication, the 43-year-old male victim had not been identified other than being a resident of Corona.

His 45-year-old passenger and the 26-year-old driver of the truck, both Corona residents, were treated at a regional trauma center for minor injuries.

Corona Police Department Public Information Officer Cpl. Tobias Kouroubacalis says both accidents remain under investigation, and it has not yet been determined whether alcohol or drugs were involved in either.

Anyone with information relating to either fatal accident is encouraged to contact Traffic Officer Jacob Westall at 951-817-5784.

Large Numbers of Hispanics Didn't Pick Single Race in Census

More than 43% of Hispanics either didn't respond to the question asking them to select their race or selected the "some other race" box on the 2020 census form, the U.S. Census Bureau said Tuesday, lending support to arguments that the federal government should change its race and ethnicity categories.

THE percent of the Hispanic population reporting a single race went down to 57.8% in the 2020 census from 81.6% in 2010 census, according to the Census Bureau.

At the same time, around a third of the Hispanic population reported being two or more races in the 2020 census, compared to around 5% in the 2010 census.

There were more than 62 million Hispanic individuals in the 2020 head count of every U.S. resident, or almost 19% of the U.S. population. A post-census report card on the quality of the count showed that Hispanics were undercounted by almost 5%.

The latest figures on Hispanic racial identity in the once-a-decade census back up arguments from proponents of changing the federal government's race and ethnicity categories. The White House's Office of Management and Budget is set to decide on new classifications next year and is accepting public comment on its proposals through next month.

The proposed changes would combine the race and ethnic origin questions into a single query because some advocates say the current method of asking about race and separately about ethnic origin often confuses Hispanic respondents. With the revisions, the government would try to get more detailed answers on race and ethnicity by asking about country of origin.

The preliminary proposals also would create a new category for people of Middle Eastern and North African descent, also known by the acronym MENA, who are now classified as white but say they have been routinely undercounted.

Metro Water District Begins Refilling Area's Largest Reservoir

HEMET (CNS)

- Following the drought-easing deluge of rainstorms that hit Southern California in recent weeks, the Metropolitan Water District today announced a "major milestone" as it began refilling the region's largest reservoir for the first time in three years.

MWD

OFFICIALS from the district -- which is the wholesaler that serves some 19 million people in six SoCal counties -- gathered with state officials at Diamond Valley Lake in Hemet to announce "operational actions" that will "maximize the amount of water stored in depleted reservoirs and groundwater basins," the district said.

"With the help of these recent storms, and the continued efficient water use of Southern Californians, we expect this year to be able to nearly replace all the withdrawals from storage we made over the past three years," Metropolitan General Manager Adel Hagekhalil said in a statement.

But he also cautioned, "We need to save every drop we can for the next dry cycle, which could be even more severe than the last one."

California Secretary for Natural Resources Wade Crowfoot, meanwhile, said in a statement released by the district, "Our water supplies have improved dramatically after three years of record-breaking drought. While we've been blessed with abundant rain and snowfall this year, it's only a matter of time before we experience another dry cycle."

He added, "We need to press forward with Governor (Gavin) Newsom's water supply strategy for a hotter, drier future. This includes continuing to invest in facilities like Diamond Valley Lake to capture and store water during really wet winters for use during extended dry periods."

Metropolitan officials said the wholesaler relies heavily on its reserves in Diamond Valley Lake, and that "without this 810,000 acre-foot reservoir, the impact of the dry cycle on the region would have been far worse."

The lake was built in the late 1990s, and is the largest in Southern California. It's owned and operated by Metropolitan.

Monday's announcement by Metropolitan came after Newsom, on Friday, said the state would ease emergency drought restrictions, and that agencies across California would be receiving dramatically higher State Water Project deliveries than originally anticipated.

"The weather whiplash we've experienced in the past few months makes it crystal clear that Californians and our water system have to adapt to increasingly extreme swings between drought and flood," Newsom said. "As we welcome this relief from the drought, we must remain focused on continuing our all-of-the-above approach to future-proofing California's water supply."

Newsom's announcement means that water agencies -- including Metropolitan -- will now receive 75% of their requested allotment from the State Water Project. That's a dramatic from December, when agencies were told to expect only 5% of their requests.

The anticipated allotments increased to 30% in January, then to 35% in February.

Newsom's lifting of emergency drought measures also meant an end to the voluntary 15% water-use-reduction target that was implemented last year, although residents were still urged to continue conserving any way they can.

In addition, his action ended the requirement that local water agencies implement "level two" of their drought contingency plans. A state of emergency issued for all 58 counties in the state to facilitate drought response and recovery efforts will remain in place.

California Lifts Target for 15% Water Conservation as Storms Continue

By Alastair Bland, CalMatters

With the Sierra Nevada smothered in snow, large swaths of the Central Valley underwater and many Californians weary of water, state officials announced today that they are lifting some drought-related provisions on water use.

"Our water supply conditions have improved markedly," said Secretary of Natural Resources Wade Crowfoot.

The state is rescinding its request for voluntary 15% water conservation statewide, which was issued in July 2021, and instead, Crowfoot said, shifting to an approach of making conservation a "way of life."

"We need to maintain our vigilance," he said. "It's not about going back to normal anymore. It's really adjusting to a new normal."

Some of the state's emergency provisions were ended and some were left in place. Wasteful uses of water, such as hosing down sidewalks and watering ornamental grass on commercial property, remain banned, according to state officials.

The state, however, is ending its requirement that local water agencies implement Level 2 drought contingency plans, which are locally written water use regulations— such as limits on watering lawns — that are invoked during water shortages.

In total, 81 drought-related provisions were enacted since April 2021. Just 33 remain in place, said

Gov. Gavin Newsom at a press briefing today.

State officials also announced today a large increase in the amounts of water that local suppliers will get from the State Water Project, increasing from 35% announced last month to 75% of requested supplies. The water is provided to 750,000 acres of farmland and 27 million people, mostly in Southern California.

The announcements come as some of the state's reservoirs near capacity, with some of the state's largest expected to fill by late spring. And the snowpack of the Sierra Nevada, nearing record levels in the southern portion of the range, continues to grow.

When Newsom issued his voluntary conservation target almost two years ago, many water experts said Newsom should have made

Board Backs Initiative by Counties to ID Homeless Mitigation Strategies

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The Board of Supervisors Tuesday signed onto a plan put forward by the California State Association of Counties to find solutions to homelessness by marshalling local government resources to develop strategies aimed at identifying the best use of taxpayer funds for reducing the number of chronically unsheltered people.

the CSAC Board of Directors approved earlier this month.

"California is in need of a comprehensive plan to address homelessness effectively and equitably," said Supervisor Chuck Washington, who is president of CSAC. "While the state and federal government provides some funding for separate efforts, everything created from that funding has been a patchwork of programs and responses that often don't work together."

Washington said that the statewide homeless crisis cries out for a "unified" approach with counties at the forefront of reorienting "disparate efforts" to create "a robust system of response and support."

CSAC's focus is geared to advocating for legislation and policies based on "pillars" that promote accountability, affordable housing, economic opportunities, mitigation of the causes of homelessness, outreach and transparency in data.

An "outreach workforce" would be part of the approach, according to county officials. Despite tens of millions of dollars allocated to homeless programs in recent years, California continues to have the largest homeless population in the country, accounting for almost 200,000 of those who experienced homelessness in 2022, according to figures released by the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development in December.

Fully one-third of the nation's homeless are in California, where six of the top 10 cities with the greatest number of dispossessed people are located, HUD's Annual Homelessness Assessment Report said.

Riverside County's 2022 homeless census confirmed 3,316 people were chronically unsheltered, a 15% increase from two years earlier. Results from the 2023 point-in-time survey are slated to be released in less than two months.

Anxious to celebrate its 30th year with a walk at the Auburndale Intermediate School in Corona this past Saturday, there was another obstacle to hurdle. Record rains from the seemingly never-ending "Atmospheric Rivers" this winter, that have replenished a parched California.

Hurdle? No problem! Nothing that 2-thousand pounds of trucked-in dirt couldn't handle.

And as Kara Lubin exulted in the day's sunny skies, walkers, skippers, joggers, and runners from 3 to 83 circled the Auburndale track, celebrating an idea that has become a national phenomenon.

Happy 30th Birthday and here's to 100 more.

was held Thursday at the Moreno Valley Conference & Recreation Center.

"One of the hardest words was 'forbs,' because that first sound in Greek is usually 'ph,'" he said. "But then I remembered about five months ago, my sister quizzed me on it, and we went over it because it was an exception."

The Auburndale Intermediate School student said he followed his two older sisters' advice not to feel "anxious ... to keep on breathing, focus, and no mater what, keep on going."

"The moment when I was most nervous, I could feel my heart beating, but I took deep breaths like my dad told me, and I was able to get the spelling," Avijeet said.

The youth said he makes it a habit to learn and repeat 500 to 800 words daily.

"I'm feeling excited and happy and can't wait to go to the (national) competition," he said. "This takes a lot of work, but if you keep going at it, you'll be able to do it. I am really thankful for my parents' and siblings' help, and I couldn't have done it without them."

A total of 27 contestants took part in the county bee, which was the first in-person competition since 2019. Fourth-grader Victoria Michael-Taiwo from the Lake Elsinore Unified School District was the runner-up, followed by sixth-grader Profess Adhikari from River Springs Charter School in third place.

The bees in 2021 and 2022 were all-virtual. The 2020 bee was nixed when then-county Public Health Officer Cameron Kaiser declared a coronavirus public health emergency. The 2021 and 2022 events were held online due to ongoing precautionary measures implemented by the county Office of Education.

Avijeet's family has formed a quasi-dynasty on the academic stage in Riverside County. Last year, his sister, Lara Randhawa, claimed the county championship title after correctly spelling "cumulocirrus," which is an upper atmosphere cloud.

Lara, who previously attended Auburndale Intermediate, also took top honors in the county's 2021 virtual bee.

Aisha Randhawa laid the groundwork for her younger siblings' success, winning local championship titles in 2016, 2017, 2018 and 2019, paving the way for her to compete nationally in each of those years.

The Scripps National Spelling Bee is slated for May 28-June 3 at Gaylord National Resort & Convention Center in National Harbor, Maryland, according to the county Office of Education.

The county bees began in 1978.

Ambulance Service Put on Notice to Improve or Face Contract Change

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - American Medical Response's ambulance contract to serve most of Riverside County could be in jeopardy due to ongoing challenges with providing appropriate equipment during emergency calls, officials told the Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

WE have serious questions to ask and answer moving forward," county Emergency Management Department Director Bruce Barton told the board. "Does it make sense to continue with the model we have? Does our current contract have the flexibility to move our system forward?"

Barton presented a performance review of AMR's response capabilities covering fiscal year 2021-22, and the foremost issue of concern was tied to staffing and the ambulance service's frequent inability to dispatch advanced life support -- ALS -- vehicles, instead sending basic life support -- BLS -- ambulances.

Barton, county fire Chief Bill Weiser, Murrieta Fire & Rescue Chief Bernard Molloy and board Chairman Kevin Jeffries, a former county fire paramedic, all noted the conundrum created by sending BLS ambulances in place of ALS equipment -- a firefighter-paramedic is required to ride with the BLS emergency medical technicians to care for the patient on the way to the hospital.

Only ALS ambulances are staffed by certified civilian paramedics under the county contract with AMR.

"There are severe impacts to our department in the current model," Weiser said. "When we send determinant codes to fill our ambulance needs and they don't show up, county fire has to provide support. Then we have to go collect our personnel after the call."

He said that taking a paramedic away from a fire engine crew effectively takes the entire engine out of service.

Molloy said that in Murrieta, AMR is only meeting its ALS obligations about half of the time.

"We can't transport patients to the hospital in a timely fashion," the chief said. "When we're waiting for an ambulance to come, then that fire engine can no longer do the fire engine work because of delays. We have to provide the ALS services."

Barton told the board that ALS turnaround times had been impacted by offloading delays of patients at hospitals, and the problems could often be traced to hang-ups with the hospitals themselves in providing emergency room bed space. The so-called "bed delays" have been most problematic in the western county region, he said.

AMR, which has had a contract with the county going back almost three decades, is not the stand-alone ambulance provider in some parts of the Coachella Valley, including Cathedral City, Indian Wells, Indio, Palm Desert and Rancho Mirage, where emergency services are handled by other agencies, according to the EMD.

Barton said that while AMR has secured one-year contract extensions to June 30, 2026, the problem of "sending BLS ambulances to ALS level calls" has raised the prospect of the county needing to have a "different conversation" regarding further extensions after 2026. AMR Regional Director of Operations Jeremy Shumaker told the board the effects of losing staff during the coronavirus public health crisis continue to weigh on the company.

"COVID had a significant impact on AMR services in Riverside County," Shumaker said. "There is a nationwide shortage of paramedics. Many decided to leave the industry during COVID."

He said incentives packages, including sign-on bonuses, automatic pay raises and educational benefits, have been established to draw greater numbers of prospective employees and put more EMTs into the pipeline to earn their paramedic credentials. But the process is slow.

"We're continuing to compete for the same diminished pool of paramedics," Shumaker said. "We're sending as many employees to paramedic school as possible."

Jeffries said AMR "gets a pass" on many of the hurdles thrown in its path during COVID, but he worried that "AMR is not getting back to normal operations" at a satisfactory pace.

"There needs to be a sense of urgency to get you back to adequate staffing," the chairman said. "There's an impact to fire engines because a paramedic with a fire crew is doing your job. You have a mandate to provide a certain level of service, and you haven't found a way to do that. That opens you up to criticism, and possibly down the road, there may be a wholesale change in our contract if you don't turn around."

Shumaker said AMR "fully acknowledges the impact of a BLS ambulance showing up when it's an ALS call."

"This is important to us," he said.

According to the EMD report, AMR responded to more than 220,000 emergency calls for service in 2021-22, with ambulance crews covering 7,942,849 miles in the one-year period.

"AMR has historically been a good partner," Barton said. "I believe they'll work with us to get the train back on the tracks."

Water Conservation

it mandatory, as former Gov. Jerry Brown did during the previous drought. They also criticized him for failing to reduce use by farmers, who consume 80% of the state's delivered water supply.

State officials say even though the 15% target was voluntary, it worked. However, the data does not back that up: Californians used 6% less water from July 2021 through December 2022 compared to 2020 -- falling far short of Newsom's 15% goal.

Heather Cooley, director of research at the Pacific Institute, an Oakland water supply thinktank, said California must not relax its ethos of water conservation.

In spite of wet weather, the state's largest water supply -- its groundwater basins -- remain depleted.

"Even though reservoirs are recovering, groundwater aquifers remain depleted. The Colorado River -- a major water source for Southern California -- is also facing a massive deficit," Cooley said. "The reality is we don't have water to waste in California. We need to continue investing in water efficiency to prepare for a hotter, drier future and more intense droughts."

Mike McNutt, spokesperson for the Las Virgenes Municipal Water District in Los Angeles County, said the retraction of the conservation target "sends the wrong message" to the public. "Why put out messaging that says something different, that says, 'You can conserve if you want to, but you don't need to?'" said McNutt, whose district serving 75,000 people is totally reliant on water from the state aqueduct.

"The next drought is certainly just around the corner," he added.

Californians did cut their average water use by 600,000 acre-feet in almost two years. That's almost two-thirds the volume of Folsom Reservoir and enough water to serve 1.2 million households in a year.

Crowfoot stressed that the drought is not over, noting that drought status "is not a completely binary situation." In some parts of the state, drought conditions have dramatically eased, but not in others. Crowfoot said the Klamath River basin and the region of Southern California that relies on Colorado River water continue to face "acute water shortages."

Thousands of households lack drinking water due to depleted groundwater basins, which have been overdrafted for decades and experts agree they will not rebound in a single rainy winter.

Joaquin Esquivel, chair of the State Water Resources Control Board, said the hope is that cities "are not just rebounding" to old ways of water use.

"Conservation remains a priority," Crowfoot added.

Michael Anderson, a climatologist with the California Department of Water Resources, said snowpack is at 278% of normal, with another storm system expected to hit the North Coast and move inland and south from there, starting Monday. The system, he said, will deliver a relatively cold storm originating in the Gulf of Alaska, unlike some recent blasts of tropical moisture. This means it will drop more snow in the mountains. "Not massive accumulations, but could be locally heavy," he said.

Board Hearing on Mining Operation's Request for Expansion Postponed

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A hearing on whether to approve a mining company's application for "vested rights," potentially allowing it to expand operations over a nearly 1,000-acre space in close proximity to residential areas, was postponed by the Riverside County Board of Supervisors Tuesday after the applicants said they weren't prepared.

THIS is the second continuance, and I hope this will be the last continuance," board Chairman Kevin Jeffries said. "Hopefully they will be prepared to go on May 2."

If Robertson's Ready Mix requests one more postponement, its application will be taken off the board calendar, requiring a series of steps to have the matter re-agendized.

The company is seeking confirmation of its rights to 792 acres that surround its original 132-acre site on a hillside that has been used for extraction of rocks for decades south of Cajalco Road and east of Interstate 15 on the boundaries of the Dos Lagos Golf Course, in what's known as the Temescal Wash, an unincorporated part of Riverside County.

"RRM's vested activity is aggregate mining, which includes excavation, crushing, washing, sorting, stockpiling, loading, transporting and otherwise managing an aggregate surface and utilizing the equipment to do so," according to a Department of Planning statement posted to the board's agenda.

Aggregate is used to build and improve roads, support dams and levees, construct rail lines, as well as for commercial and residential construction projects.

Planning staff are recommending that the board deny RRM's confirmation of vested rights on 657 of the 792 acres, saying in a report that the company "has not shown by a preponderance of evidence that their predecessors in interest manifested an intent to extend surface mining activities ... to the entire proposed vested rights area as of the 1949 vesting date."

Stone quarries were first established in the area in the 1930s. According to county staff, changes in ownership of the parcels at issue raise doubts as to the legitimacy of RRM's claims.

"The lack of mining on the property for the past 30 years, and the substantial investments exploring residential development constitute clear and convincing evidence of an intention ... to abandon mining operations (on the 657 acres)," according to the Department of Planning.

The California Surface Mining Control & Reclamation Act of 1975 and Riverside County Ordinance No. 555, approved in 2019, are the primary laws governing mining operations locally and provide guidelines for determining vested rights.

RRM said in documents submitted to the board that "the geological and historical context of the mineral region" is vital in recognizing a vested right, and according to the company, the area in question has been rich in pit mines for almost the last century.

"Under the well-established principle that vested rights are property rights that attach to and run with the land, RRM ... has succeeded to the vested rights derived from the surface mining operations established under (prior) ownership," the company said.

Residents with homes surrounding the existing mine expressed dismay that it might be expanded.

"We are original homeowners at Dos Lagos and have had to tolerate and endure RRM's mining business for 16 years," Bob Schuch wrote in an email to the Department of Planning. "The mine blasts have cracked our concrete, stucco, pipes and have caused considerable damage to our homes. The constant dirt we breath in, the construction noise around the clock is nonstop."

Della Sewell said her home backs up to the Dos Lagos Golf Course, and "we have had several problems and damages to our home due to the current mining, which include a $10,000 bill due to broken water pipes."

"There are several cracks in concrete due to mining in this area, not to mention the monthly earthquake-like activity," she said.

Justin and Cynara Hutchinson, who reside on Cabot Drive, wrote an extensive email, stating the "mining and explosions unreasonably interfere with the health, safety, welfare, use and enjoyment of our property and the surrounding public at large."

"When we first purchased the home, we were told they would only be mining once a month, yet Robertson's Ready Mix oftentimes mines and creates explosions several times a week," the couple said. "My wife and I work from home, and this disturbance substantially interferes with the enjoyment and use of our property."

Sheriff's Estate Auction to Feature Cars, Phones, TVs, Jewelry

PERRIS (CNS) - An auction of automobiles, appliances, jewelry, foreign currency and phones from estates placed under the management of the Riverside County Sheriff's Department will be held April 5.

Hesperia-based Bid Fast & Last is coordinating with the sheriff's Office of the Public Administrator to conduct the live internet-based auction.

Interested bidders will be permitted to view items to be auctioned at the sheriff's Perris warehouse where they're stored, officials said.

CONNOR COOKS

BY CONNOR FORBES

I am constantly trying to think of a new green vegetable to introduce to my two young children. I am extremely fortunate to have kids that are generally open to trying new things. I attribute this to two main things. First, my wife started feeding them early in the baby lead weening method. Which is essentially letting them try whole foods, appropriately cut to their ages. This started when they were able to sit up on their own, around 5-6 months. This introduced them to fruits and vegetables right away. And second,

I cook a wide variety of dishes. For the pleasure of my wife and I, but also to expand the kids' palates.

So I cook brussels sprouts, and broccoli, and make salads. And now I have introduced asparagus into the mix. They are still learning about (what we say when they don't take to a food right away) so I cook it every week or so to normalize it more and more.

Asparagus happens to be one of my wife and I's favorite vegetables so it's a pretty east sell for us. This is a basic asparagus recipe to get you started.

Ingredients

- 1 bunch of asparagus

- 1 tbsp olive oil
- ½ tsp salt

To Make

Preheat oven to 425°. To get the hard bits of the asparagus off snap the bottom ends off, snapping them off will get cause the hard bit to be completely removed. You can cut the ends off as well but that is more of a guessing game. Lay the asparagus on the pan and drizzle the olive oil and salt over. Bake in the oven for about 12 minutes or until desired tenderness. Serve and EAT!

Celebrity Grand Marshal for Palm Springs Classic Car Parade, Nancy Sinatra

PALM SPRINGS (CNS) - Nancy Sinatra, the daughter of Frank Sinatra, will be the celebrity grand marshal for the Palm Springs 85th Anniversary Classic Car Parade next week, city officials announced today.

THE free "Cruising Through the Years" parade will get in gear at 11:30 a.m. April 8 along Amado Road from the Palm Springs Convention Center to the Downtown Park, according to Palm Springs communications director Amy Blaisdell. A limited number of free bleacher seats will be set up near the Jackie Lee Houston Plaza.

"We are absolutely thrilled to have the fabulous Nancy Sinatra and so many other local celebrities, community leaders, and pioneers join us for what is sure to be an epic parade and incredible day celebrating 85 years of the magic that makes Palm Springs like no place else," Mayor Grace Garner said in a statement.

She will be joined by notable local celebrities, community leaders and city pioneers including football legend Fred "The Hammer" Williamson, supermodel Beverly Johnson, philanthropist Harold Matzner, Palm Springs International Film Festival chairman Charlie Pasarell, tennis legend Rosie Casals and many others, Blaisdell said.

Participants will ride in 85 classic cars dating back to 1938, when the city was incorporated.

The parade will be followed by various festivities, including an opening ceremony at 12:30 p.m., a car show and DJ set at 1 p.m., a canine celebrity costume contest at 6 p.m. and an Elton John Tribute Concert at 7 p.m. to end the night, according to Blaisdell.

"Our 85th Anniversary Classic Car Parade & Show is sure to go down in the history books," organizer and founder of Palm Springs Exotic Car Auctions Keith McCormick said in a statement. "No other city that I know of has ever had 85 cars representing 85 years all in one place."

He added that the Guinness Book of World Records will be on hand to document the event.

Legendary Memorial Day Motorcycle Ride to Return After Four-Year Pause

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - After a four-year suspension that began with the coronavirus public health lockdowns, a celebrated motorcycle ride through Riverside and surrounding locations that's intended to honor members of the U.S. Armed Services will return this Memorial Day.

"West Coast Thunder" is slated for May 29 -- the first ride since Memorial Day 2019.

Riverside Harley-Davidson hosts the events, which began in 2000 when the dealership belonged to Skip Fordyce and operated under that banner.

In the past, the rides have attracted upwards of 7,500 motorcycle enthusiasts, joined by area political figures.

The 2020 ride was nixed due to Riverside County's and the state's COVID-driven prohibitions on mass public gatherings, and ongoing concerns about exposure risks led to cancellations in 2021 and 2022.

However, organizers said the ride will resume for the upcoming Memorial Day ceremonies, though specific details regarding the route and where the motorcyclists will end their journey after leaving Riverside Harley-Davidson on Indiana Avenue have not been finalized.

The rides often draw thousands of people, mainly along streets running between Riverside and Moreno Valley, to watch as the participants head over to Riverside National Cemetery before turning south. In the past, riders have rendezvoused for a finale barbecue and musical celebration at the Soboba Casino or Perris Fairgrounds.

On Wednesday, It was announced that Journey cover band DSB will headline.

A large share of proceeds raised from the rides and musical shows are donated to the Riverside National Cemetery Support Committee, which relies on contributions to build monuments and make other improvements at the hallowed grounds, where nearly 300,000 U.S. military veterans, police officers, firefighters and others are interred.

More than $1 million has been generated over the past two decades, and even when the rides weren't held, the West Coast Thunder Foundation continued with donation drives to support the cemetery, with $25,000 going to the American Indian Veterans Memorial in 2021.

More information about the rides is available at <https://www.westcoastthunder.com/>.

JOHN WICK:

CHAPTER 4

By Bob Garver

There's something about a fourth movie in a series that tends to be dangerous for a franchise's legacy. "Batman and Robin" led to the Caped Crusader being taken off the big screen for eight years. "Terminator: Salvation" is better remembered for its miserable production than anything in the finished film.

INDIANA Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull" was widely seen as a severe disservice to the iconic character. Even the Oscar-winning "Toy Story 4" was criticized for not leaving a perfectly good trilogy alone. Yes, "Mad Max: Fury Road" was a rousing success, though fans seemed to care very little about the "continuation" aspects of the movie. "John Wick: Chapter 4" didn't have a 30-year gap to make sure things were just right. It only had, fittingly, four years, and they were affected by the pandemic. What I'm saying is that it's no surprise that the new movie is the worst of the series. Now that's only a relative "worst," I still recommend the movie overall. But I can't help but see this movie as a misstep in a franchise that hadn't made many mistakes up to this point.

The film sees the revered title assassin (Keanu Reeves) at war with the mysterious overlords known as the High Table. He killed an off-limits enemy way back in Chapter 2, and the High Table wants him killed as a consequence, but he's not having it, and tensions and body counts have only escalated since. A high-ranking Table member known as the Marquis de Gramont (Bill Skarsgård) is tasked with handling the situation, and he starts by handing down consequences to Wick's allies Winston (Ian McShane) and Charon (the late Lance Reddick). I would have been unhappy with Charon's fate even if Reddick hadn't recently died, and now it frankly seems downright disrespectful.

Wick knows that the High Table will kill anyone that helps him, so naturally he goes to Osaka and endangers old friend Koji (Hiroyuki Sanada). A shootout ensues, in which Wick finds out that another old friend, a blind assassin named Caine (Donnie Yen) is working for the High Table, but only because they'll kill his daughter if he doesn't. He also meets an anonymous "tracker" (Shamier Anderson) who is so greedy that he's willing to help keep Wick alive until the Marquis raises the bounty on his head to a more lucrative amount, then he'll kill him.

The Marquis is right to be nervous. High Table rules state that Wick can win his freedom if he can kill the Marquis in a one-on-one duel. There's a whole side-trip where Wick has to be accepted into a family of assassins and get revenge on sleazy crime boss Killa Harkan (Scott Adkins) in order to qualify, but the duel in Paris is destined to happen. There's just the matter of Wick needing to live until the appointed dueling time of sunrise. To make it, he'll have to survive a citywide shootout against anyone that wants to collect the bounty. Cue a seemingly hour-long sequence of Wick in shootouts in the middle of traffic at the Arc de Triomphe, at an abandoned building with wondrous overhead camerawork, and on a steep staircase outside Sacré-Cœur. And all John has is a bulletproof suit and a gun provided by his friend The Bowery King (Laurence Fishburne) that also serves as a flamethrower.

The third act saves "John Wick: Chapter 4" by the skin of its teeth. Until then, the film is plagued by baffling character decisions, insufficient exposition (like, why does the High Table use extortion on Caine when they're otherwise happy to pay people for their services?), and poor pacing. But once those gun-kata action scenes start up, I just can't stay mad at this movie. If this marks the end of the "John Wick" series, then I can say the franchise never had a "bad" installment. I just have to put a nervous emphasis on "bad" so as not to give "Chapter 4" undue praise.

Grade: B-

"John Wick: Chapter 4" is rated R for pervasive strong violence and some language. Its running time is 169 minutes.

'John Wick: Chapter 4' Opens Strong With $73.5 Million

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - "John Wick: Chapter 4" opened with a strong kick at the box office, grossing $73.5 million this weekend to lead all films in North America, according to industry estimates released today.

The four films in the action series starring

Keanu Reeves have earned successively larger grosses since the original opened to about $14 million in 2014. The latest entry was far ahead of "Shazam! Fury of the Gods," which took in $9.7 million Friday through Sunday, one week after opening in first place, Comscore reported.

"Scream VI" was third with $8.4 million in its third week of release.

"Creed III" was fourth with $8.36 million in its fourth weekend in theaters in the United States and Canada, followed by "65," which grossed $3.2 million in its third weekend.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases, as estimated by Comscore, were "Ant-Man and the Wasp: Quantumania" ($2.4 million), "Cocaine Bear" ($2.09 million), "Jesus Revolution" ($2 million), "Champions" ($1.5 million) and "Avatar: The Way of Water" ($1.4 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $117.4 million. The year-to-date total is $1.674 billion -- an increase of 28% over the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 800-280-2832 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-22-939084-AB. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 800-280-2832, or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-22-939084-AB to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE OWNER/OCCUPANT: Any prospective owner/occupant as defined in Section 2924m of the California Civil Code who is the last and highest bidder at the trustee's sale shall provide the required affidavit or declaration of eligibility to the auctioneer at the trustee's sale or shall have it delivered to QUALITY LOAN SERVICE CORPORATION by 5 p.m. on the next business day following the trustee's sale at the address set forth in the below signature block. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. Notice To Potential Bidders: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. Notice To Property Owner: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. Norco's Maddy Aguilera blasts a three run home run in the second inning against visiting Corona. Aguilera's homer was a part of a 16 batter, 11-run barrage unleashed during the bottom of the second by the Cougars on their way to a 19 - 0 Big VIII League victory over the Panthers.

Corona Santiago's Ashleigh Mejia hits a towering home run over the centerfield fence as the Sharks defeated visiting Norco 4 - 3. It was Cougars first loss of the season.

Corona's Sam Burgess (second from left) gets ready to launch his batting helmet skywards as he is mobbed by teammates after his bottom of the 10th walk off home run defeated the Norco Cougars 6 - 5.
