

Chandra Sentenced to Life for Killing Three Teens Over Doorbell Prank

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A Corona-area man who chased down and rammed a car occupied by six teenagers, causing the vehicle to crash and kill half of the boys, was sentenced Friday to life in prison without the possibility of parole.

A Riverside jury in April convicted 45-year-old Anurag Chandra of three counts each of murder and attempted murder, along with special circumstance allegations of taking multiple lives and sentence-enhancing great bodily injury allegations, for the January 2020 attack.

"The lives of countless families will never be the same because of one man's anger, callousness and outrageous conduct, and I am grateful to Judge Valerie Navarro for imposing the maximum sentence in this case,"

District Attorney Mike Hestrin said Friday.

During the sentencing hearing at the Riverside Hall of Justice, Craig Hawkins, father of Daniel Hawkins, who was among the teens killed, read a letter to the court, saying "Every day, we sense the absence of this young man. The hole in our hearts and lives from the taking of our son's life is staggering."

In addition to Dan Hawkins, Chandra killed Jacob Ivascu and Drake Ruiz on Jan. 19, 2020. Ivascu was from Riverside; the other two

Corona Playing New Chord on Thursday Summer Nights

By Jerry Soifer

Looking to add a little juice to the event, The City of Corona has combined its street fair and summer concert series into Thursday night events designed to attract crowds to the historic civic center.

For the past few years, the city has had street fairs featuring food vendors and artists booths at the Circle City Center on Mondays and concerts at the civic center Thursdays.

The new series debuted July 13 with performances of Latin music and dancing at the civic center.

The impetus for the change was to attract more vendors, said City councilwoman Jacque Casillas.

Blistering Heat and Multiple Fires Scorching County

JURUPA HILLS (CNS) - Two brush fires that broke out Wednesday adjacent to a golf course in Jurupa Hills merged into one, scorching 35 acres before crews stopped the conflagration.

THE non-injury fires were reported just after 2 p.m. in the vicinity of the Oak Quarry Golf Club, near Sierra Avenue and Armstrong Road, according to the Riverside County Fire Department.

The agency said multiple engine and hand crews from the county,

Cal Fire-San Bernardino County, cities of Riverside, Ontario, Rialto, Pomona and other agencies were sent to the location and encountered flames moving at a rapid rate upslope, not threatening any homes or other structures.

The fires, which combined into one at about 2:45 p.m., were on the boundary separating Riverside and San Bernardino counties, though most of the burn zone was in Riverside County. Riverside County and San Bernardino fire personnel were in unified command by 3 p.m.

The fire's forward rate of spread was stopped shortly after 4 p.m.

Fire crews reported the flames were 40% contained at around 6:55 p.m. Wednesday.

This followed a series of county fire that broke out last weekend. The Rabbit Fire was the largest of four brush fires that broke out Friday and Saturday across the county.

"Everybody has been working hard to get these fires down," Riverside County

Fire Chief Bill Weiser told the Riverside Board of Supervisors Tuesday, during a summary of wildfire operations.

"We've had mutual aid, which has really helped us in the firefight."

Heat Wave to Persist Through Saturday in Riverside County

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Excessive heat warnings will be in effect through Saturday in parts of Riverside County, with temperatures expected to particularly soar in the Coachella Valley.

According to the National Weather Service, the Coachella Valley and San Geronimo Pass near Banning could see temperatures of 112 to 116 degrees through Wednesday, followed by highs of 116 to 120 Thursday through Saturday.

In the Riverside County mountains, temperatures below 5,000 feet are expected to be in the 90s to as high as 104, forecasters said.

In the Riverside County valleys, highs of 100 to 105 are anticipated through Wednesday, with temperatures likely to reach 110 Thursday through Saturday.

Excessive heat warnings will be in effect in all of those areas through 8 p.m. Saturday.

"Strong high pressure aloft will maintain hot weather inland into next week, with periods of high clouds," according to the NWS. "Breezy west to southwest winds near the passes will keep fire weather conditions elevated."

Forecasters said the peak of the heat is expected this weekend, followed by slight cooling early next week.

"... Drink plenty of fluids, stay in an air-conditioned room, stay out of the sun, and check up on relatives and neighbors. Young children and pets should never be left unattended in vehicles under any circumstances. This is especially true during warm or hot weather when car interiors can reach lethal temperatures in a matter of minutes."

In addition, the South Coast Air Quality Management District on Tuesday extended an ozone advisory for much of the South Coast Air Basin and Coachella Valley. The advisory -- which had been scheduled to expire at 8 p.m. Tuesday -- now will run through 8 p.m. Saturday.

According to an AQMD statement, "Over the past few days, Air Quality Index (AQI) levels have reached Unhealthy in most inland areas and Very Unhealthy in some localized areas due to a prolonged heat wave."

AQI will likely reach unhealthy or worse in inland areas of the South Coast Air Basin and in the Coachella Valley in the afternoon and early evening hours through Saturday, the agency said.

were from Corona. All of the boys who died were 16.

A 13-year-old boy, 14-year-old boy and 18-year-old man, who was driving the car that was struck, suffered moderate to major injuries and were treated at Inland Valley Medical Center in Wildomar. They have since recovered to varying degrees.

According to prosecutors and California Highway Patrol investigators, the boys were having a Sunday night sleepover at one of their homes and decided to try a "doorbell ditch" prank in the neighborhood, on Modjeska Summit Road in the Temescal Valley, just south of Corona.

Shortly after 10 p.m., five of them piled into a Toyota Prius parked on Modjeska Summit Road, while another went to Chandra's residence and rang the bell several times, investigators said. The youth then ran to the Prius, which raced away from the location.

According to a District Attorney's Office statement, Chandra "chased after the Prius in his 2019 Infinity Q50."

"As Chandra pursued the victims, he rear-ended the Prius and sideswiped the vehicle until they were forced to stop," according to the agency. "The Prius made a U-turn to escape; however, Chandra continued his pursuit."

Investigators said that the defendant bore down on the Prius at 99 mph along Temescal Canyon Road, approaching Squaw Mountain Road. Chandra rammed the Prius, causing it to spin out of control and slam into a tree on the side of the road.

Family members told reporters that the boys were fleeing out of fear and were trying to avoid a confrontation with Chandra. There was no prior dispute between him and the teens, according to prosecutors.

Witnesses followed Chandra back to his residence and alerted CHP officers, who arrested him roughly four hours after the deadly collision.

Chandra had no documented prior felony convictions, but at the time of his arrest, he did have an unresolved misdemeanor case for battery on his wife and child endangerment. Those charges were folded into the murder case and disposed with it but did not factor into his sentence.

County Sued Over Alleged Unresponsiveness to Public Records Requests

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The ACLU announced a lawsuit Tuesday against Riverside County for alleged unresponsiveness to public records act requests concerning how legal counsel is made available to cash-strapped residents countywide, but the county attributed the problem to miscommunication, and a resolution was already in the works.

ACCORDING to the ACLU Foundation, in 2021, the organization's Northern California branch sent letters to all of the state's 58 counties, inquiring about the process of how indigent residents receive legal assistance, or are appointed attorneys.

ACLU attorney Eva Bitran said Riverside County was "alone" in not responding to requests for documents under the California Public Records Act, adding that the alleged unresponsiveness "harms the public and violates the California constitution."

"Before today, we were unaware of this request for records, as it was originally submitted to the wrong department and not forwarded," according to a county Executive Office statement released to City News Service. "We were surprised at seeing this (ACLU) news release, as the county works daily with the community on public records act requests.

"Over the last two years, the county has responded to several records requests on indigent defense, as well as records requests from the ACLU ... We immediately investigated to understand what happened (in this instance), only to learn that it was submitted to a department that is not ... the county custodian of records. This misunderstanding is regrettable, and we look forward to resolving the matter."

Attorney Phillip Wiese, who is representing the ACLU in its suit, alleged Riverside County "has wholly disregarded its obligations under the PRA."

"This behavior prevents public oversight of the county's actions," he said. The suit is seeking a Superior Court order compelling the county to comply.

In addition to operating the Office of the Public Defender, which has received budget increases for most of the last decade, the county has long maintained "indigent defense contracts."

The agreements are intended to ensure residents who cannot be represented by deputy public defenders due to conflicts, or who require a level of representation that the Office of the Public Defender is unable to provide at a given time, receive legal counsel.

The current head of the Office of the Public Defender, Steven Harmon, is a former indigent defense contractor with the county, and the county's chief executive officer, Jeff Van Wagenen, served in a similar capacity, representing indigent defendants by court appointment, prior to entering county government in the 2010s.

The Board of Supervisors' most recent approval of indigent defense contracts occurred on June 27, involving five-year agreements with multiple law firms serving all corners of the county, at an aggregate estimated cost of nearly $12 million. Details are available via the Office of the Clerk of the Board's web portal.

CSU Campuses Mishandled Sexual Harassment Allegations, Audit Finds

By SOPHIE AUSTIN
Associated Press/Report for America

SACRAMENTO - A flawed policy at California State University, the largest higher education system in the country, contributed to the closure of nearly a dozen sexual harassment cases without thorough explanation, according to a state audit reviewing 40 cases over the span of seven years.

The audit, released Tuesday, examined allegations of harassment between 2016 and 2022 against employees at the university system's chancellor's office and three of 23 campuses: California State University, Fresno, San José State University and Sonoma State University. It found that the colleges failed to discipline people found responsible for misconduct, including one case where officials took no action in the five years after a faculty member was found guilty of sexual harassment, sexual violence and stalking.

"The problems and inconsistencies we found during this audit warrant systemwide changes at CSU," California State Auditor Grant Parks said in a statement. "In particular, the Chancellor's Office must take a more active approach to overseeing campuses' efforts to prevent and address sexual harassment."

Parks' office recommended the university system require colleges to find out if someone has been accused of harassment multiple times, make them clearly explain why officials didn't investigate a case, and give guidance for how to contact accusers.

Jolene Koester, California State University's interim chancellor, said in a statement that officials would comply with the recommendations. Representatives from California State University, Fresno, San Jose State University and Sonoma State University did not immediately respond to an email request for comment on the audit's findings.

Sexual harassment is among the misconduct banned by state and federal laws, but California State University's policy aimed to address it falls short, the audit found. The auditor's office says it should better guide colleges on what steps to take after an incident is reported.

"Deciding whether to conduct a formal investigation is one of the most critical steps in a campus' process for responding to an allegation," the audit says. "Nonetheless, CSU's sexual harassment policy lacks detailed guidelines about how to make and document these determinations."

There were more than 1,200 reports of sexual harassment by employees overall at California State University campuses between 2018 and 2022, the report shows. Of those, 254 were investigated.

The largest share of reports — nearly 18% — were at California State University, Fullerton, which is about 22 miles (35 kilometers) southeast of Los Angeles. There were also nearly 160 employees across all 23 campuses between 2018 and 2022 who were accused of sexual harassment multiple times, according to the report.

One student alleged a faculty member made inappropriate comments to her and compared her to women he had dated. The campus declined to investigate, the audit found. It didn't specify which campus.

Seven of 21 investigations the auditor's office reviewed "contained deficiencies that caused us to question the campuses' determinations that sexual harassment had not occurred." For example, a faculty member who was found responsible of making inappropriate comments to a contract worker and hugging her, and kissing another worker without their consent was not found to have violated the sexual harassment policy, the audit says.

Today is the 202nd day of 2023. There are 163 days left in the year.

How Benjamin Franklin Laid Groundwork for the US Dollar by Foiling Early Counterfeiters

By DAVID HAMILTON
AP Business Writer

SAN FRANCISCO - Benjamin Franklin was so busy as an inventor, publisher, diplomat and U.S. founding father that it's easy to lose track of his accomplishments.

Add one more to the roster: his early work in printing colonial paper currency designed to counter a constant threat of counterfeiting.

Franklin was an early innovator of printing techniques that used colored threads, watermarks and imprints of natural objects such as leaves to make it far harder for others to create knockoffs of the paper bills he printed. A team at Notre Dame University has shed new light on his methods via advanced scanning techniques that reveal some of Franklin's methods in greater detail.

The new research, published Monday in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, describes data gathered with techniques such as spectroscopy, which uses laser light to identify particular elements in test samples, and electron microscopy for imaging fine details. The intent, said lead author Khachatur Manukyan, a Notre Dame associate professor of physics, was to learn more about the materials used by Franklin and his network of affiliated printers and how they served to distinguish their bills from cheaper knockoffs.

The work examined

Library of Congress

Franklin's penchant for including watermarks, tiny indigo-dyed threads and "fillers" of special crystal in printed bills to create barriers to copycats. Franklin also employed "nature printing," a technique by which he transferred the detailed vein patterns of tree leaves to printing plates.

These techniques raised numerous barriers to would-be copycats. Counterfeiters naturally sought to keep their costs low, and thus were loath to invest in improving their own printing techniques. Franklin's fillers served to make bills hardier and thus extend their life considerably over the cheaper paper preferred by criminals, while his indigo-dyed threads added another production barrier.

Similarly, Franklin's nature-printed images involved such detail that it was particularly difficult for less skilled printers to duplicate.

The Revolutionary War, however, brought on such a surge of counterfeiting - much of it provided by the British army - that the new United States government shunned paper bills in favor of coinage. With the onset of the Civil War, the federal government first authorized the printing of dollar bills called "greenbacks."

Colored threads were later included in the U.S. banknotes printed a century later.

MISSION: IMPOSSIBLE

DEAD RECKONING PART ONE

By Bob Garver

Last summer, when “Top Gun: Maverick” was making roughly all the money printed in the United States during that fiscal quarter, I read a number of articles (many publications jumped on the trend at once) calling Tom Cruise various iterations of “The Last Movie Star.”

THE moniker is obviously an exaggeration – Leonardo DiCaprio and Brad Pitt haven’t exactly been left in the dust in Hollywood – but it’s understandable where it comes from. It may take a few beats to remember that the “Avatar” movies star Sam Worthington or that Tom Holland is the most recent (live-action) version of Spider-Man, but there is no such confusion with a Tom Cruise movie. I bet most people, when discussing the “Mission: Impossible” movies, say “Tom Cruise” instead of his character’s name of Ethan Hunt. For that matter, I wouldn’t be surprised if people say “Tom Cruise” instead of “Jerry Maguire” when discussing the film named after the character.

All of this is to say that Tom Cruise has an undeniable screen presence and charisma. He certainly has the straight-up talent to justify this popularity, but his blockbuster appeal is about more than that. He clearly believes that if he’s going to be at the top of the industry, he should push himself harder than the rest of the industry. That’s why he insists on undertaking difficult tasks like long sequences of running and dangerous stunts involving planes and motorcycles. This kind of dedication is why “Mission: Impossible” is a respectable franchise unto itself and not the James Bond knockoff that it would be otherwise.

The new installment sees Hunt racing around the globe to stop The Entity, a computer program that has seemingly become sentient and bent on world domination. Whoever can access The Entity first, whether it’s a government or an individual, can basically control the world. Hunt is initially sanctioned by the U.S. government, represented by Impossible Mission Force leader Eugene Kittridge (Henry Czerny), but he soon realizes that nobody should be allowed to have that much power, so he goes on a rogue mission to destroy The Entity.

Hunt is aided by faithful teammates Luther (Ving Rhames), Benji (Simon Pegg) and Ilsa (Rebecca Ferguson). Complicating matters are money-driven duplicitous characters like high-class pickpocket Grace (Hayley Atwell) and black-market arms dealer Alanna (Vanessa Kirby). Full-on villains include assassin Gabriel (Esai Morales) and his henchwoman Paris (Pom Klementieff, gleefully maniacal in a role that frankly doesn’t call for it), who are apparently representing The Entity itself, and no, I’m not sure how that business relationship works.

The mission involves gaining possession of two halves of a key and then figuring out what exactly the key opens. It also involves an elaborate series of druggings, pickpocketings, thievery, bomb scares, knife-fights, shootouts, car chases, crosses and double crosses, and a ton of antics with a runaway train. Oh, and those super-realistic masks that this series loves come into play. This movie really hopes you like Vanessa

Kirby, because you’re getting a double dose of her here (no complaints from me).

I spent most of this movie having a hard time deciding if it was worth recommending. Cruise and his team are their usual delightful selves, but it seems like this movie’s been done several times before. The villains are more memorable than some of the others in this series, but their motivations are questionable. The action is mostly pretty exciting, but the stakes are affected by the “Part One” in the film’s title, which tells me that nothing too conclusive is going to happen here. At the last minute, the film pulled out an effective action sequence with a train that finally earned it my endorsement. I reckon you’ll have a good time with the seventh “Mission: Impossible”

‘Mission Impossible -- Dead Reckoning’ Opens with $80M Over Five Days

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - As expected, “Mission: Impossible -- Dead Reckoning Part One” is at the top of the weekend box office chart, but its five-day $80 million domestic gross is a bit below industry expectations, according to estimates released today.

The latest installment of Tom Cruise’s action franchise, which launched in 1996, opened Wednesday to get a head start on the weekend competition, and will be looking to foreign markets to help recoup its sizeable budget, which multiple reports have estimated at about $290 million.

It was off to a good start in that regard, with an estimated gross of $155 million internationally Friday through Sunday, topping all films.

Coachella Valley Repertory Summer Cabaret Continues Through August

CATHEDRAL CITY – Described as a “A cross between Evanescence and the new Jewel,” Burbank native Christia Mantzke takes the stage next Thursday at The Coachella Valley Repertory’s Summer Cabaret Series. She is the first of the final 5 performers this season.

THE cabaret series begins at 7 p.m. Thursdays until Aug. 24 at the performing arts theater, 68510 E. Palm Canyon Drive, Cathedral City. In describing her influences on her website, Mantzke muses, Evanescence is awesome. I can’t say that they influence me, because they’re newer, but I love them. I listened to a lot of rap and R&B when I was little, and then as a teenager I really got into more rock stuff and female artists like Tori Amos, Ani DeFranco, Alanis Morrisette, Annie Lennox - I love them. I feel like I really mix soul, rock, and alternative into my own thing.

Tickets for the coming cabaret performances are available for $45 at <https://cvrep.org/>.

The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (844) 477-7869 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.STOXPOSTING.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 110778-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 110778-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of JEAN A. SCHULTZ

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Carole J. Schultz in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Carole J. Schultz be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held on August 18, 2023 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 08 located at 4050 Main St., Riverside, CA 92501.
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855)-976-3916, or visit this internet website <https://tracker.auction.com/sb1079>, using the file number assigned to this case 2016-03886-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid, by remitting the funds and affidavit described in Section 2924m(c) of the Civil Code, so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. Dang it is hot out there. And when it gets this hot, I really lose motivation to cook.

Not because I don't want to cook. But I think about how hot my kitchen will get. Which in turn heats up my whole house. Which never really recovers. Which leads me to run my AC constantly.

WHICH leads to insane energy bills. Which leads to me shedding small tears as I depart with my money. Which could have been spent on groceries to create new recipes for you. So, I decided to avoid all that and make a really easy chicken Caesar salad with mainly store bought ingredients. Sometimes you just need to keep it simple and let someone do most of the work for you. I made my own dressing, but after that, I bought the chicken, lettuce, parmesan, and crostinis from the grocery store. My house was nice and cool and my family's belly's were nice and full. Let's make Chicken Caesar salad!

CHICKEN CAESAR Salad

Connor Forbes

For the Dressing Ingredients

- 1 cup mayo
- ½ cup shredded parmesan
- 1.5 tbsp Worcestershire sauce

- 1 tbsp Dijon mustard
- 1 tbsp chopped garlic
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- 1 tbsp lemon Juice

- 1 tsp salt
- 1 tsp anchovy paste (optional)

• ½ tsp horseradish (optional)
To Make
In a bowl, mix all the ingredients.

For The Salad

- Store-bought rotisserie chicken

- Crostinis or croutons
- Shaved parmesan
- Large head of romaine, cut To Make

In a bowl mix the cut romaine with ¼ - ½ cup of Caesar dressing. Carve up the chicken and shred. Add chicken, shaved parmesan, and crostinis on top of salad. Mix if desired. EAT!
