SOLEMN PROCESSION

HONORS FALLEN FIREFIGHTERS

By Don Ray

The flashing, blinking and sometimes spinning lights were blue, red, amber, and white — and they numbered in the thousands. They were affixed to more than a hundred emergency vehicles involved representing dozens of fire and police agencies from throughout Southern California.

AND they carried with them more than 200 firefighters, paramedics, and other emergency responders.

They assembled on Thursday of last week to accompany the bodies of two fallen firefighters on a nearly five-mile journey from the Riverside County Coroner's office on Redlands Ave. in Perris to the Evans Brown Mortuary on Encanto Dr. in Menifee alongside the northbound 215 Freeway.

Cal Fire Assistant Chief Josh Bischof, 46, and Cal Fire Capt. Timothy Rodriguez Jr., 44, had died on Sunday, Aug. 5, aboard one of two fire helicopters that had collided above a hillside fire not far from Cabazon. Their contract pilot, Tony Sousa, 55, of Red Bluff, also perished in the crash. The crew of the other helicopter had been able to land their craft safely.

Forty Riverside County Sheriff deputies on their motorcycles rode, side-by-side, to guide the two white hearses — their own white lights flashing.

Then, 89 fire-response vehicles followed the fallen firefighters' hearses as they slowly traveled along city streets and roads that

Hurricane Hilary Heading Towards Southern California

MEXICO CITY (Combined Sources)— Tropical Storm Hilary strengthened into a hurricane early Thursday off Mexico's Pacific coast threatening to become a major hurricane as it keeps heading north by northwest over the ocean, toward the Baja, with a current trajectory placing Southern California directly in its path.

At print time, the U.S. National Hurricane Center said that Hilary had maximum winds of 85 mph and it was located 365 miles from Cabo Corrientes in Mexico.

According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), as of Noon Thursday, "Hilary has continued to intensify rapidly. The cloud pattern of this large hurricane is very impressive, with extremely intense deep convection and cloud tops...Satellite intensity estimates are wide-ranging.

It continues, "Over the next few days, a mid-level ridge to the north of Hilary is forecast to shift eastward while a mid-level low remains near the California coast. This evolution of the steering currents should result in a gradual turn toward the north in a couple of days, which would bring Hilary near the Baja California peninsula in 72 hours or so and near the U.S./California border in 3-4 days. The official forecast track is very similar to the previous one. Although there is fairly

Texas Sheriff's Corporal Arrested in Connection with Riverside Fatal Crash

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A former Texas sheriff's corporal was in custody Wednesday awaiting extradition to California in connection with a hit-and-run crash in Riverside that killed a man who was trying to put gas in his pickup on the shoulder of Interstate 215.

ACCORDING to the California Highway Patrol, Giovanni Ceja, 31, of San Antonio, Texas, was arrested without incident Monday by the Bexar County Sheriff's Department on an arrest warrant issued in Riverside County. Ceja is being held on suspicion of murder, manslaughter with gross intoxication, felony driving under the influence causing injury and felony hit and run.

Ceja was a detention corporal with the Bexar County Sheriff's Department, but he resigned upon his arrest, Sheriff Javier Salazar told reporters in Texas. He said Ceja was vacationing in California and had borrowed a vehicle from a relative when the Aug. 7 crash occurred, adding that Ceja drank "a significant amount of alcohol" before getting behind the wheel.

The crash occurred around 1:45 a.m. Aug. 7 on the southbound Moreno Valley (215) Freeway south of state Route 91.

According to investigators, 38-year-old Gilberto Sotelo of Lake Elsinore was putting gasoline into his disabled Chevrolet Silverado on the right shoulder when a Honda Ridgeline struck him and the Chevrolet.

Sotelo was pronounced dead at the scene by emergency personnel.

The driver who struck him left the scene and continued southbound on I-215, CHP officials said.

On Aug. 9, the Honda the suspect was driving was found at a repair facility in Riverside, and was taken into CHP evidence.

Student Video Production on Human Trafficking Seeks to Build Awareness

PALM DESERT (CNS) - Students from Palm Desert High School have produced an original video to combat human trafficking, the Riverside County Office of Education announced Tuesday.

PRODUCTION of the four-minute video was a partnership among the Riverside County Office of Education, Riverside County Sheriff's Department, Riverside County District Attorney's Office and the Coalition to End Human Trafficking Coachella Valley Riverside County at Barbara Sinatra Children's Center.

Titled "Waiting By The Phone," it was written, directed and edited by students from the Desert Sands Unified School District school to create awareness by identifying warning signs that students might not otherwise recognize.

"I encourage all educators in Riverside County to share this video with students of an appropriate age who should be protected from this form of modern enslavement that threaten to interrupt their limitless future," Riverside County Superintendent of Schools Edwin Gomez said.

"I applaud our Riverside County Sheriff, District Attorney, and the Coalition to End Human Trafficking in Coachella Valley and Riverside County who are committed protecting the dignity and worth of all 430,000 students in Riverside County," Gomez added.

"The dedicated Anti-Human Trafficking unit within the Riverside County Sheriff's Department was formed in 2010 and is actively preventing and investigating those who are seeking to take advantage of Riverside County residents," Sheriff Chad Bianco said. "To further that commitment to end human trafficking in our county, we need educators, students, and the public to know the signs and report suspicious activities. Our team remains available to come to your events, trainings, or school assemblies, so you can join the fight to protect one another," Bianco added.

"Our office is committed to prosecuting human traffickers who attempt to prey on any of the citizens of our county," Riverside County District Attorney Mike Hestrin said.

"This starts with educating the public about warning signs since the more our students and educators can be on the lookout for one another, the safer we all become in preventing anyone from taking advantage of one of our most valued assets -- the youth in our community that represent our future," Hestrin added.

Educators interested in building awareness in their school communities can schedule trainings and presentations for school assemblies and events by contacting the coalition at 760-773-1635, or visiting humantraffickingcoalition.org.

Funding to Archive Oral Histories of IE Civil Rights Movement Secured

When the Civil Rights Institute of Inland Southern California opened last October 2-years after its ground-breaking, a pillar was planted in downtown Riverside with the promise of developing a cultural centerpiece for the region.

With the foundation now in place, the goal has been to support and expand the pillars of public understanding of the roots, history, and evolution of the civil rights movement across the Inland Empire. One powerful tool was the buildout of a media center to record an oral history, first-person accounts, of those who have led, lived, and learned.

Toward that end, State Sen. Richard Roth secured a half-million dollars in funding from the just-passed California budget, which will in part fund an electronic archival system, to document the oral histories of Californians who have made significant impacts on the advancement of civil rights in the region.

"In the face of rising censorship and those who seek to revise history, the Institute is a beacon that shines a bright light on the long civil rights path from the past to today and to the glorious possibilities that the future provides," Roth said.

The funding "is critical to developing our digital archive that will preserve the region's civil rights history and will carry the lessons learned from our community into the future," Sabrina Gonzalez, the executive director of the Institute remarked.

Part of the funding will also support an enhancement of the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial in downtown Riverside planned by the Riverside African American Historical Society.

Rose Mayes, Executive Director, Fair Housing Council of Riverside County added, "With the funds provided for the enhancement of the MLK site on Main Street and for the archival project in conjunction with the Civil Rights Institute of Inland Southern California and the Riverside African American Historical Society, Inc., the history of the Inland Empire and the residents who have made powerful impacts for the betterment of all, will be preserved for perpetuity."

"Our civil rights history is too often overlooked, and the Institute does the important work of centralizing these critical stories of our past," said Senator Roth.

Located on Mission Inn Avenue, both the Civil Rights Institute of Inland Southern California and Fair Housing Council of Riverside County are in the new Mission Heritage Plaza. The 92,000-square-foot project also provides 72 units of housing and services for families and homeless/disabled veterans.

Just What the Doctor Ordered: In California, a Prescription Could Pay for Your Fresh Fruits and Veggies

By Rya
Jetha, CalMatters

Every other Friday, the Stockton Emergency Food Bank hosts two live cooking classes — one in English and one in Spanish. Last week, Brenda Munoz made a classic tuna melt with an orange, romaine and dandelion salad.

“DANDELION is completely edible,” said Munoz, holding the small leaves from the flower. “They’re really high in vitamin A and folate.”

But this isn’t your typical cooking lesson on Zoom and Facebook. It’s part of a “food prescription” experiment — prescriptions for healthy food instead of pills. Diabetics get a free box full of fruits, vegetables, chicken breast, quinoa and other nutritious food delivered to their homes every two weeks — and then can learn some recipes.

Advocates who want to expand the program across California say it could very well be a way to improve chronic conditions, lower health care costs and reduce hunger, all at the same time.

It’s aimed at people like Shane Bailey, a 72-year-old who served in the Coast Guard who has three heart conditions, diabetes, kidney disease, high blood pressure and cholesterol. A participant in the Stockton food bank’s Healthy Food RX Program, she says her lifestyle has dramatically improved since she began receiving produce prescriptions last year.

“My primary doctor is impressed with my cholesterol because they say it’s better than theirs!” said Bailey, who has started meal prepping using cookbooks from second-hand stores, reading food labels closely, and experimenting with different kinds of squash and greens.

“My dream is to live to 95,” she said. “If we start younger, then maybe people won’t get sick until they’re in their 80s and 90s.”

Food prescriptions are part of the “food is medicine” movement that views nutritious food as a way to prevent, manage, and reverse chronic disease. Such programs have been found to lower obesity, blood pressure, and average blood sugar. One study estimates that incentivizing healthy eating could save $100 billion in national healthcare costs over the projected lifetimes of current Medicare and Medicaid patients.

Across California, a patchwork of food prescription programs are being tested using a variety of strategies, while an ambitious initiative to reform Medi-Cal and a bill that failed in the Legislature this session would standardize the effort.

A California experiment

At the beginning of 2022, California launched a five-year effort to reform Medi-Cal, called CalAIM, to address the root causes of diseases based on “whole person care,” which considers biological, behavioral, social, and environmental factors.

Medically supportive food programs, which include medically-tailored meals and food prescriptions, are the third most popular service. In 2022, 6,400 Medi-Cal members used food programs, the vast majority the more established medically-tailored meals program.

Katie Ettman, a food in healthcare expert at the San Francisco nonprofit research institute SPUR, said there is vast potential for food programs, considering that Volunteer Kim Palma passes out fresh produce at the Solano County Mobile Food Pharmacy in Fairfield.

California has the largest Medicaid program in the country with about 15 million people enrolled.

But the challenge is getting counties and health plans to start them.

“The vast majority of them don’t even know how produce prescriptions work,” said Brent Ling, director of external affairs at the nonprofit Wholesome Wave. “So it’s a lot of education and information sharing.”

CalAIM encourages Medi-Cal managed health plans to experiment, allowing them to opt in to provide 14 optional community support services, such as housing navigation, assisted living and sobering centers.

The goal: Improve the health of Medi-Cal patients with lower-cost treatments. By the end of 2022, all 58 California counties offered at least two community services, while 16 counties offered at least 10 and three counties — Sacramento, Riverside, and San Diego — offered all 14.

There are also a variety of food prescription programs being funded outside CalAIM. The Stockton program is being financed by the philanthropic Abbott Fund, Kaiser Permanente is funding a test in Los Angeles County, and programs in San Diego County and San Francisco are being funded by their local governments.

The federal Farm Bill is funding 14 food prescription tests in California. One is Recipe4Health in Alameda County. What started as a food pharmacy program in 2019 has evolved into California’s most successful medically supportive food program that is integrated into the county’s healthcare system.

The program has 11 sites across Alameda County and serves almost 4,000 people according to Steven Chen, its chief medical officer.

Chen believes the testing across California is an important stage to make the services a permanent benefit under Medi-Cal: “Any innovation starts with fragmentation, because it’s a 1,000 flowers bloom approach... You want to create enough openness because otherwise, it’s just a top down approach, which never works.”

Alameda County screens for food insecurity and offers people who might not have chronic conditions prescriptions and health coaching to prevent diseases like diabetes developing in the future.

“There’s so many benefits,” Chen said. “We’re getting human health, economic health, climate, health, and equity all together by really asking the question, ‘Where does the food come from?’”

A covered benefit?

This session, Assembly Bill 1644 was introduced that would have required Medi-Cal to cover medically supportive food and nutrition for at least 12 weeks for eligible Californians.

“I remember opening the fridge and seeing only celery and peanut butter and my mother telling me we were on a ‘special diet.’ I did not realize at the time we were food insecure,” said Assemblymember Mia Bonta, an Oakland Democrat who proposed this bill. “Too many Californians, particularly Californians of color, are living with largely preventable chronic conditions.”

While Bonta highlighted how this bill would help the state save money in the long run, its estimated cost was in the tens of millions of dollars. With the $30 billion-plus state budget deficit, the bill was held in the Assembly appropriations committee.

Bonta’s office and bill co-sponsor at SPUR said that they plan to reintroduce the bill next year.

National momentum for food prescriptions is growing. Last year, the White House released a national strategy on hunger, nutrition and health that prioritizes “food is medicine” interventions including food prescriptions.

Combined with grassroots efforts across California, the bill will gain momentum, Ettman said.

Kansas Prosecutor Says No Basis for Local Newspaper Raid

MARION, Kansas (AP) — A police raid that drew national attention to a small Kansas newspaper over threats to press freedoms wasn't supported by evidence, a prosecutor said Wednesday, as the paper's staff scrambled to print its first edition since their cellphones and computers were seized.

FORCED to rewrite wholesale stories and ads from scratch, the four-person newsroom toiled overnight to print Wednesday's edition, with a defiant front-page headline that read: "SEIZED ... but not silenced." Under the 2-inch-tall typeface, they published stories on the raid and the influx of support the weekly newspaper has since received.

On Wednesday, Marion County Attorney Joel Ensey said his review of police seizures from the Marion County Record offices found "insufficient evidence exists to establish a legally sufficient nexus between this alleged crime and the places searched and the items seized."

"As a result, I have submitted a proposed order asking the court to release the evidence seized. I have asked local law enforcement to return the material seized to the owners of the property," Ensey said in a news release.

Last week, a police raid of the newspaper's offices, and the home of its editor and publisher, foisted the town into the center of a national debate about press freedom, with watchdog groups condemning the department's actions. Eric Meyer, the publisher, believes the raid was carried out because the newspaper was investigating why the police chief left his previous post as an officer in Kansas City, Missouri.

Police Chief Gideon Cody left the Missouri department earlier this year and began the job in Marion in June. He has not responded to interview requests.

Asked if the newspaper's investigation of Cody may have had anything to do with the decision to raid it, Bernie Rhodes, the newspaper's attorney, responded: "I think it is a remarkable coincidence if it didn't."

The Kansas Bureau of Investigation is leading the investigation into the raid and what allegedly prompted it. A search warrant suggests it was over the newspaper's examination of a local restaurant owner. On Wednesday, the state agency said its investigation remains open, but authorities will continue their work without examining any of the evidence seized last Friday. Once the state investigators finish their work, they will turn their TV and print reporters joined the conversation Wednesday in what is normally a quiet community of about 1,900 residents.

Even the White House weighed in. "This administration has been vocal about the importance of the freedom of press, here and around the globe," White House press secretary Karine Jean-Pierre said at her daily briefing on Wednesday. "That is the core value when you think about our democracy, when you think about the cornerstone of our democracy, the freedom of press is right there."

She said the raid raises "a lot of concerns and a lot of questions for us."

The newspaper's publisher said all of the returned equipment will be forensically audited to make sure that nothing is missing or was tampered with.

"You cannot let bullies win," Meyer said. "And eventually, a bully will cross a line to the point that it becomes so egregious that other people come around and support you."

He added, "We have a staff that's very experienced, including myself, and we're not going to take crap."

stress from the raid of his home caused the death Saturday of his 98-year-old mother, Joan, the paper's co-owner.

To put out the Wednesday edition of the paper, journalists and those involved in the business side of the newspaper used a couple of old computers that police didn't confiscate, taking turns to get stories to the printer, to assemble ads and to check email. Because electronics were so scarce, it took the newsroom until 5 a.m. to finish the paper, said Emily Bradbury, the Kansas Press Association's executive director. Bradbury chipped in herself by answering phones and ordering meals for staffers.

The paper reports that it received 2,000 new subscriptions in five days, most from locations far removed from Marion County.

MEG 2: THE TRENCH

By Bob Garver

It's around the two-thirds mark in "Meg 2: The Trench" that we learn that some of the film's minor aquatic monsters (not the Megalodons or "Megs" of the title) have developed the ability to walk, and attack, on land. It's a mistake to bury such a huge twist this late in the movie. That the human characters aren't safe on land is a movie in and of itself. Make it the selling point of the third movie. Better yet, make it the selling point of this movie, because nothing about the first two-thirds was working anyway.

JASON STATHAM is back as diving expert Jonas Taylor. He has some job with an undersea research station, but even within the movie, everyone knows he's only here to do action hero stuff. Working for billionaire Driscoll (Sienna Guillory), Jonas goes on a mission in the titular Mariana Trench with his brother-in-law Jiuming (Wu Jing), possible love interest Rigas (Melissanthi Mahut), some warm bodies not worth your attachment, and just for laughs, his stowaway stepdaughter Meiyang (Shuya Sophia Cai). Watching from the station are returning characters Mac (Cliff Curtis) and DJ (Page Kennedy), as well as new character Jess (Skyler Samuels). When we learn that there's a saboteur among them, guess who's catching my gaze.

Megalodons wreck the team's vessels, so they have to use special suits to walk to a mysterious fully-built facility they've stumbled across in the middle of the over-1,500-mile Trench. There's no getting around it, the underwater scenes in this movie are terrible. The characters are in thick suits and you can't tell who's who, the dialogue is garbled, everything is poorly lit (though these characters make the ridiculous decision to all use their limited light supplies at the same time instead of one person at the front of the group using theirs while the rest follow), and the jump scares are cheap. I know this movie wants to be brainless fun, but it's a lot less fun when things are this murky and miserable.

The facility turns out to be the headquarters for an illegal mining operation, with mercenary Montes (Sergo Peris-Mencheta) not wanting our heroes interfering with his boss's efforts. The characters at the research station aren't safe from the evil humans either, and for a while this movie just turns into an ocean-based action movie with no Megs in the mix. Things get temporarily sorted out just in time for the characters to realize that three Megs and a host of other Trench creatures are about to attack the hedonistic human population of Fun Island.

Here's where "Meg 2: The Trench" has its opportunity to have fun. The Megs and company make snacks out of mercenaries and particularly unlikeable tourists. The heroes use everything at their disposal to stop them, including helicopters, jetskis, Jason Statham being Jason Statham, and of course, lots and lots of explosives. For roughly the last 30 minutes, the film achieves the "guilty pleasure" status it so desperately wants, too bad it takes an 86-minute slog to get there.

Aside from all the specific, mostly pacing-based issues I have with "Meg 2: The Trench," my biggest complaint is that the movie generally seems to be aspiring to nothing more than "so bad it's good" appeal. It's debatable if it even pulls that tone off well (I say it doesn't), but there are so many straightforward "good" movies out right now that we don't need this. "Barbie" and "Oppenheimer" are both in the middle of historic runs, while the delightful "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles: Mutant Mayhem" could use a boost in ticket sales. Don't divert your time, money, or energy to "Meg 2: The Trench" unless you truly feel that enough resources have gone to movies that are good on purpose.

Grade: C-

"Meg 2: The Trench" is rated PG-13 for action/violence, some bloody images, language and brief suggestive material. Its running time is 116 minutes.

By the Associated Press

Today's Highlight in History: On Aug. 18, 1920, the 19th Amendment to the Constitution, guaranteeing American women's right to vote, was ratified as Tennessee became the 36th state to approve it. Tennessee Assembly Speaker Seth Walker, originally thought to be a supporter of women's suffrage, changed his position and announced his opposition. Walker exclaimed, "This is a white man's country!" Representative Harry T. Burn, at the urging of his mother to "be a good boy," made history by changing his vote to support ratification and breaking the tie.

In 2005, a judge in Wichita, Kansas, sentenced BTK serial killer Dennis Rader to 10 consecutive life terms, the maximum the law would allow.

In 2011, Vice President Joe Biden met with Chinese Vice President Xi Jinping in Beijing.

In 2014, Missouri Gov. Jay Nixon ordered the National Guard to Ferguson, a suburb of St. Louis convulsed by protests over the fatal shooting of a Black 18-year-old, Michael Brown.

In 2020, Democrats formally made Joe Biden their 2020 presidential nominee at their all-virtual national convention.

high confidence in the track prediction, Hilary's oblique angle of approach to the west coast of the Baja California peninsula makes it nearly impossible to know at this point if the center will remain just offshore or move over the peninsula before reaching the southwestern United States.

"Rainfall impacts from Hilary within the Southwestern United States are expected to peak this weekend into Monday," the National Hurricane Center wrote in a report. "Flash, urban, and arroyo flooding is possible with the potential for significant impacts."

The area affected by heavy rainfall may include the stretch between San Diego and Yuma, Arizona. An area between Bakersfield, and Tucson could also see rain.

program is in Solano County, where Rich Oliver drives a colorful box truck painted with crates of fruits and veggies to clinic parking lots during the week.

"We are purposely outside of clinics because we want patients in the clinic to have access to this," says Oliver, who is the coordinator of the county's "mobile food pharmacy."

The program began in 2018 when the county partnered with the local food bank and the Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation, a federally recognized native tribe. From April to June this year, the truck served 16,000 people, according to the Food Bank of Contra Costa and Solano.

At county clinics, providers give patients facing food insecurity or diet-related health conditions a paper food prescription. If the food truck is there that day, patients can then stop by the nearby truck or parking lot.

On Tuesday mornings, the truck parks outside a Fairfield health clinic. Last week, Jose Leyva, a 67-year-old Suisun City resident on disability, handed over his wife's prescription and received potatoes, onions, cantaloupes, lettuce and a 25-pound box of pantry staples.

"We don't have much money for the grocery store because it's too tight," says Leyva, who regularly picks up food from the truck for his diabetic wife. "This helps a lot."

Memorial Procession

eventually crossed the 215 freeway on Ethanac Road.

Hundreds of afternoon freeway drivers were, no doubt, first annoyed at the red brake lights of the cars ahead that brought them to a halt. But the frustration would vanish when they saw uniformed firefighters saluting on the bridges and on parked fire units as the flashing procession of fire trucks, paramedic units, and staff vehicles crossed over above them.

Once they arrived at the mortuary, the 200 or so firefighting brothers and sisters stood at attention on the lawn in front of the mortuary and saluted as two precision teams of pall bearers in their dress fire uniforms carried, military style, their fallen brothers' flag-draped caskets into the mortuary.

Memorial services for Capt. Tim Rodriguez will be at the Ontario Convention Center on Aug. 21, and for Assistant Chief Josh Bischof on Aug. 24, at the Toyota Arena in Ontario.

Pilot Tony Sousa's private memorial service will be on Aug. 25 in Gerber, CA.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times to the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 1-866-539-4173 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-22-941145-SH. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 1-866-539-4173, or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-22-941145-SH. NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE OWNER/OCCUPANT: Any prospective owner/occupant as defined in Section 2924m of the California Civil Code who is the last and highest bidder at the trustee's sale shall provide the required affidavit or declaration of eligibility to the auctioneer at the trustee's sale or shall have it delivered to QUALITY LOAN SERVICE CORPORATION by 5 p.m. on the next business day following the trustee's sale at the address set forth in the below signature block. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (844) 477-7869 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.STOXPOSTING.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 111838-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call ServiceLink Auction | Hudson and Marshall at (866) 539-4173 for information regarding the Trustee's Sale or visit the Internet Website address https://www.servicelinkauction.com/ for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, CA07000446-23-1. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Website. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

CHICKEN Quesadilla

Connor Forbes

By Connor Forbes

Sometimes I need something quick to eat. And quick to make my kids when they are entering the “hanger zone”. I basically always have some kind of cheese in the fridge. Usually Tillamook cheddar or queso Oaxaca.

BOTH work amazing in a quesadilla on their own. Want to be extra cheesy, mix them both in. Adding chicken is a great way to up the ante as well and make the quesadilla really pop. Finish with salsa and a hit of sour cream and you are basically eating out at your favorite taco stand. So let's make some chicken quesadilla.

INGREDIENTS

- ¼ cup precooked shredded chicken (I used a store bought rotisserie)
- 2, 8 inch four tortillas
- 1 cup of cheese

To Make

On medium heat and on a frying pan, or preferably a comal, preheat your tortillas on top of the other and flip the stack half way through. Lift one quesadilla off the pan and place to the side while you pile on your chicken and cheese, spreading evenly. Replace the second tortilla on top and cook for 1-2 minutes. Flip the quesadilla and cook the second side for another minute or so. Pull quesadilla off the pan and set aside for a minute before cutting into 6ths. Top with your favorite toppings and EAT!

Love Ribs? Make Them Corny

By Joanna Barajas

Have you ever had “corn ribs”!?

They're delicious and fun to eat.

Here's what they look like when you're done.

Let me show you how to make 'em!

* WARNING: Be Careful When Cutting*

Ingredients:

- 4 ears of corn, shucked and cleaned
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 teaspoon paprika

For the sauce:

- 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon Sriracha sauce
- A squeeze of lemon juice

Instructions:

1. Preheat oven to 400 degrees

F (200 degrees C).

2. TIP Precook the corn for easier cutting. Bring a pot of water to the boil. Boil corn on the cob in boiling water for 4-5 minutes before cutting.

3. Cut corn on the cob into quarters lengthwise. Break in halves, then stand cobs up vertically to cut.

4. In a small bowl, combine olive oil, salt, garlic powder, and paprika.

5. Brush corn ribs with oil mixture.

6. Bake corn ribs in preheated oven for 22-25 minutes, or until tender and crispy.

7. To make the sauce, combine mayonnaise, Sriracha sauce, and lemon juice in a small bowl.

8. Serve corn ribs with sauce.

Tips:

- You can also grill corn ribs. To do this, preheat grill to medium heat. Grill corn ribs for 10-12 minutes, or until tender and crispy.

- Corn ribs are a great way to use up leftover corn. Simply cut the corn on the cob into quarters and season it with the oil mixture. Then, bake or grill the corn ribs as directed.

I hope you love the recipe! Snap a picture and tag me @chefjoannas on instagram so I see how yours came out.

Enjoy!
