Laphonza Butler DECIDES AGAINST RUNNING FOR FULL TERM

By Yue Stella Yu, Cal Matters

U.S. Sen. Laphonza Butler made herself a lame duck a little more than two weeks into the job and solidified the contours of the U.S. Senate race in 2024.

THE newly-appointed senator announced last week she will not run for a full six-year term, avoiding an already crowded 2024 field that includes three fellow Democrats: U.S. Reps. Barbara Lee, Katie Porter and Adam Schiff.

"I've always believed elected leaders should have real clarity about why they're in office and what they want to do with the responsibility and power they have," she said in a statement. "I've spent the past 16 days pursuing my clarity — what kind of life I want to have, what kind of service I want to offer and what kind of voice I want to bring forward. After considering those questions I've decided not to run for Senate in the upcoming election."

"Knowing you can win a campaign doesn't always mean you should run a campaign," Butler added. "I know this will be a surprise to many because traditionally we don't see those who have power let it go. It may not be the decision people expected but it's the right one for me."

RIVERSIDE COUNTY REPRESENTING AT PAN AMERICAN GAMES

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Former John W. North High School track star and four-time Olympian Chaunté Lowe is part of the three-member U.S. presidential delegation that attended Friday's opening ceremony of the Pan American Games in Santiago, Chile.

Lowe won a bronze medal in 2008 Olympics. She initially finished sixth, clearing 1.99 meters -- approximately 6 feet, 5 inches. However, in 2016, the third-, fourth- and fifth-place finishers failed retroactive doping tests, moving her into third. She received her medal in 2017.

County War Vet Without Diploma to Receive One Next Week

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A U.S. Army veteran who didn't graduate from high school will receive his diploma next week thanks to a Riverside County program that provides graduation certificates to former airmen, soldiers, sailors and Marines who gave up school to serve their country.

THE county Office of Education will conduct its 17th "Operation Recognition" ceremony Nov. 1, honoring Charles Johnson of Riverside, who applied to receive his certificate after learning about the program.

County Superintendent of Schools Edwin Gomez will personally award the diploma at the Office of Education Board Room in Riverside.

Johnson entered the U.S. Armed Forces toward the end of the Vietnam War, in 1975. He completed a three-year tour of duty, during which he served as a military policeman and performed other tasks. Among his medals was a presidential unit citation for service in the Republic of South Vietnam.

After leaving the Army, Johnson worked as a trucker and owned a petroleum delivery service, as well as worked in law enforcement, according to the Office of Education.

The septuagenarian has seven children, 16 grand kids and two great grandchildren.

Veterans of World War II, the Korean and Vietnam

Wars qualify to receive certificates even though they never finished school.

Officials said 377 veterans have received diplomas under Operation Recognition since it was initiated in 2007. Some of the county residents have been over 90 years old.

Due to the coronavirus public health lockdown in 2020 and ongoing concerns in 2021, formal ceremonies were canceled, though people still applied and received certificates. In-person ceremonies resumed last November.

Operation Recognition is based on California Education Code 51440, which permits retroactive granting of graduation certificates to honorably discharged or retired veterans who served while the United States was on a war footing. All they have to do is sign up.

Treasurer: Property Tax Payments Due Next Month

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Riverside County homeowners were reminded Friday that the first installment on their property tax bills will be due beginning Nov. 1, and no later than Dec. 11 to avoid penalties.

THE Treasurer-Tax Collector's Office this summer sent out notices seeking payments on over 900,000 secured properties, including parcels, houses and condominiums, for the 2023-24 tax year.

The grace period to pay the first installment ends on Dec. 11. Any payments received after that date will be considered delinquent and may incur a 10 percent late fee, according to county officials.

Treasurer-Tax Collector Matt Jennings encouraged property owners to make a payment anytime online via www.riversidetaxinfo.com.

"It is important for all property owners to ensure they meet the deadlines to avoid any unnecessary penalties," Jennings said.

Residents can also make payments in person, without an appointment, at the tax collector's main office at 4080 Lemon St. in downtown Riverside, in the Palm Desert satellite office at 38-686 El Cerrito Road, and at the Temecula branch, 40935 County Center Drive.

Credit and debit card payments are accepted via the internet, or by calling 951-955-3900. Credit card transactions include a 2% "convenience fee."

Checks are always welcome. However, county officials said that if they're mailed, the envelopes must be postmarked on or before Dec. 11, or they'll be considered overdue.

Officials said residents who don't pay their taxes risk having a lien placed on their property.

"Property taxes play a crucial role ... by supporting essential services such as education, public safety, infrastructure development and various public programs," Jennings said.

The second and final property tax installment will be due in April.

Report: County's Jobless Rate Drops Slightly in September

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Gains across multiple sectors of the regional economy last month pushed Riverside County's unemployment rate lower, according to figures released Friday by the California Employment Development Department.

The countywide jobless rate in September, based on preliminary EDD estimates, was 5.2%, compared to 5.4% in August.

According to figures, the September rate was more than a percentage point above the year-ago level, when countywide unemployment stood at 3.9%.

An estimated 60,200 county residents were recorded as out of work last month, and 1,096,300 were employed, according to EDD.

Mecca had the highest unemployment rate countywide in September at 12.6%, followed by Coachella at 11.1%, Cherry Valley at 9.4%, Rancho Mirage at 7.4%, and East Hemet at 7.2%.

The combined unemployment rate for Riverside and San Bernardino counties -- the Inland Empire -- last month was 5%, down from 5.3% in August, according to figures.

Bi-county data indicated that payrolls increased by the widest margin in the public sector, mainly in education, as teachers and support staff returned to full-time employment following schools' summer hiatus.

Additional gains were recorded in the agricultural, construction, health services, hospitality and transportation sectors, which altogether expanded by 6,500 jobs, data showed. Miscellaneous unclassified industries boosted payrolls by around 100, according to the EDD.

The financial services, information technology and professional business services sectors posted losses totaling 1,300 jobs in September, figures showed.

Only the mining sector was unchanged.

Data indicated the statewide non-seasonally adjusted unemployment rate last month was 4.9%.

County Celebrates Closing Phase of Two-Decade-Long I-215/Hwy 79 Connection

FRENCH VALLEY (CNS) - Riverside County officials Wednesday celebrated the closing phase of a two-decade-long project on the north end of French Valley and Murrieta that has entailed extending an east-west artery to facilitate travel between Interstate 215 and Highway 79.

THE $88 million Clinton Keith Road Extension, which began with design work in 2001 and continued in construction phases, is slated to wrap up in December.

"Riverside County is the fastest growing county in the state, and much of that growth has occurred right here in the Third District," Supervisor Chuck Washington said. "This project will provide improved access to French Valley, Lake Skinner and (Temecula Valley) Wine Country for residents and visitors alike."

Washington gathered with fellow Supervisor Karen Spiegel, who represents the Second District, along with county Transportation & Land Management Agency officials and others for a ribbon-cutting at the recently finished French Valley Creek Bridge, between Benton and Leon roads, which is part of the extension.

The last segment of the project will connect Clinton Keith to Highway 79 via Leon, according to the TLMA.

The four-phase extension was first conceived in the 1990s, when transportation officials recognized the need for a direct route with multiple lanes running between I-215 and state Route 79 to alleviate congestion. The groundwork was laid when funds began coming available in the early 2000s.

At the time, motorists largely relied on Scott Road for east-west travel in the Murrieta area, or alternately Los Alamos Road. The latter does not run all the way to the highway, and Scott was narrow and "heavily congested" daily, the TLMA said.

Clinton Keith provides six lanes, with a raised center median for added safety, over most of the route.

The first phase of the project was completed in 2011, adding a six-lane artery between the 215 and Whitewood Road; the next phase was finished in 2018, extending Clinton Keith from Whitewood to Leon; and the third phase involved raising the median, which started and concluded in 2018.

An amalgam of funding sources have been tapped, including countywide Measure A sales tax revenue, Transportation Uniform Mitigation Fee revenue, developer impact fees, as well as other allocations, officials said.

Up to 14,000 vehicles utilize Clinton Keith per day, with a projection for 35,000 in the future.

"California voters want leaders who think about them and the issues they care most about," said Butler, who earlier this week was named to the Senate Judiciary, Banking, Homeland Security and Rules committees. "I now have 383 days to serve the people of California with every ounce of energy and effort that I have."

While her decision might indeed come as a surprise to some, if Butler had decided to run, she would have also faced multiple challenges. She would have only had less than five months to assemble a competitive campaign before the March 5 primary and catch up in fundraising. As of Sept. 30, Schiff's campaign had $32 million in the bank, whereas Porter had $12 million and Lee, $1.3 million.

Butler was also behind in name recognition, and some labor unions — which could have been a key ally to Butler — were already endorsing other candidates and were unlikely to change their minds. Schiff has received the most endorsements from statewide unions among all four Democrats, but several major labor organizations — such as the California Labor Federation, SEIU California and the California Teachers Association — have not decided yet.

In a Public Policy Institute of California poll released in late September, Schiff at 20% and Porter at 15% were well ahead, while Lee stood at 8% among likely voters.

"Nobody was looking for a fourth candidate," said John Burton, former chairperson of the California Democratic Party. "It wasn't like they were looking for another person to run in a weak field. It's a very strong field."

Her choice means that California voters will choose a new senator next year to serve out the final two months of the late Sen. Dianne Feinstein's term from November to January, as well as who they want to serve the full six-year term.

Spokespersons for Democrats already in the race said they looked forward to continuing working with Butler.

"Senate Butler took on the enormous responsibility of filling an open Senate seat with grace, integrity, and a deep commitment to delivering for the people of California," said a spokesperson for Lee, who pushed Gov. Gavin Newsom to appoint her instead.

Butler, 44, grew up in Magnolia, Mississippi, and graduated from historically Black Jackson State University. She currently resides in Maryland, but re-registered to vote in California after Newsom tapped her on Oct. 1 to replace Feinstein. Butler made history as the first Black, openly LGBTQ person to serve in the Senate.

Butler was a longtime leader in the labor movement in California, serving as the president of the Service Employees International Union Local 2015 — a union representing long term caregivers in the state. She also led the SEIU State Council, the political coordination arm of the union. She was also the president of EMILY's List, a national fundraising machine supporting female Democrats running for office.

She is known for representing both corporations and unions. In 2015, she successfully brokered a deal with then-Gov. Jerry Brown and state lawmakers to raise California's minimum wage to $15 an hour — the highest in the nation at the time. But she also advised Uber in 2019 as the company fought against legislation to allow independent gig workers to be counted as employees.

Butler's bid could have further split Democratic votes in the primary and boosted the likelihood of a Republican candidate emerging from California's top-two primary, although the chance would have been slim, said Thad Kousser, professor of political science at the University of California San Diego.

Butler's run could have also further splintered Black votes as well as labor union support, political experts say. It would have given voters who want to see a Black woman in the Senate a second option — a potential setback for Lee's campaign, said Wesley Hussey, professor of political science at the California State University, Sacramento.

The Republican field is far less crowded. Former Dodgers star Steve Garvey announced Oct. 10 he is joining the race, and a poll last month put him ahead of Attorney Eric Early and Coast Guard veteran James Bradley.

If a Republican makes the November ballot, Kousser said it could "change the game." Democrats could be more relentless in attacking their fellow Democrats during the primary campaign without worrying about losing those voters for the general election, since a Democrat would almost certainly win against a Republican in November, Kousser said.

Today is the 300th day of 2023. There are 65 days left in the year.

Once it was Hailed as a Drought Fix but Now California's Moving to Restrict Synthetic Turf Over Health Concerns

By Shreya Agrawal,
CalMatters

Gov. Gavin Newsom last week passed on a chance to limit the use of the so-called “forever chemicals” in legions of plastic products when he vetoed a bill that would have banned them in synthetic lawns.

HIS veto of an environmental bill that overwhelmingly passed the Legislature underscores California's convoluted guidance on the plastic turf that some homeowners, schools and businesses use in place of grass in a state accustomed to drought.

Less than a decade ago then-Gov. Jerry Brown signed a law prohibiting cities and counties from banning synthetic grass. At the time, the state was in the middle of a crippling drought and fake lawns were thought to be helpful in saving water.

But this year Democrats in the Legislature went in a different direction, proposing bills that would discourage synthetic turf. They're worried about health risks created by the chemicals present in these lawns, including perfluoroalkyl and polyfluoroalkyl substances, also known as PFAS chemicals. Some chemicals in the crumb rubber base of synthetic turf, such as bisphenol A, commonly known as BPA, can leach out during extreme heat. These chemicals have been linked to various chronic diseases including cancers, diabetes and neurological impairments.

Dianne Woelke, a retired nurse in San Diego, is among the Californians who've grown concerned about their neighbors' synthetic lawns.

Workers install artificial turf in the yard of a home in Los Angeles in 2015.

She joined a group called Safe Healthy Playing Fields to advocate against their use.

“It's staggering the depth of minutia involved in this product. It's just a lot of plastic with a lot of chemicals leaching from it,” Woelke said.

One of the bills Newsom signed, for instance, undoes the Brown-era law and allows cities and counties to again ban artificial turf. Some California cities have already begun moving to prohibit fake lawns, including Millbrae in San Mateo County and San Marino in Los Angeles County.

“Emerging research is making it clear that artificial turf poses an environmental threat due to its lack of recyclability and presence of toxins such as lead and PFAS,” said state Sen. Ben Allen, the Redondo Beach Democrat who authored the bill. With the new law “local governments will again be able to regulate artificial turf in a way to both protect our environment in the face of drought and climate change but also by preventing further contribution to our recycling challenges and toxic runoff,” he said.

Manufacturers of synthetic turf say they are working to address concerns about the materials they use, although for the most part they have been unable to entirely remove PFAS. Some have switched to sand and other safer products in an attempt to replace rubber crumb.

“Our members are already working with existing customers, states, and local governments to demonstrate the continued safety of our products and are committed to ensuring their products contain no intentionally added PFAS,” Melanie Taylor, president of the Synthetic Turf Council, wrote in a statement to CalMatters.

Newsom in vetoing the PFAS chemicals bill wrote that he “strongly” supports the intent of the legislation, but he was concerned that the state was not positioned to ensure its effectiveness.

The bill “does not identify or require any regulatory agency to determine compliance with, or enforce, the proposed statute,” he wrote in his veto message.

He also wrote that he's directing his administration to consult with lawmakers on “alternative approaches to regulating the use of these harmful chemicals in consumer products,” suggesting the issue could return in the next legislative year.

Chemical risks from fake lawns

Synthetic turf is a man-made, non-living replacement of turfgrass that requires little water or maintenance. The grass blades are made of fibers such as nylon or plastic while the base is typically a crumb rubber made from used tires, plastic pellets or sand.

Synthetic grass usually contains PFAS chemicals. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, PFAS chemicals are a known carcinogen which can interfere with hormones, reproduction, immunity and cause developmental delays in children.

Adam Smith, an associate professor of environmental engineering at the University of Southern California, said although research is still being done to understand fully what the health implications of the chemical are, current research suggests that “PFAS is absolutely bad for human health.”

“Certainly, in terms of the drought, (synthetic turf) seems great, but there's all of these downsides,” Smith said.

According to experts, these chemicals can enter the human body through contact with skin, by breathing the particles in or through water sources, especially groundwater sources, that can get contaminated during leaching.

PERSIAN VERSION

FINDS LAUGHTER, TEARS IN IRANIAN AMERICAN TALE OF RESILIENT WOMEN

By JOCELYN NOVECK
AP National Writer

Let nobody say writer-director Maryam Keshavarz doesn't know how to start a movie.

THE first time we see Leila, her alter ego in the autobiographical, warm-hearted, personal, funny but also somewhat chaotic "The Persian Version," she's walking across the Brooklyn Bridge. Headed to a Halloween party, she's carrying a surfboard and wearing what she calls a "burkini" -- a sexy bikini, but paired with a niqab, the face-covering garment worn by some Muslim women.

It's surely not an accident that Leila is crossing a bridge, because her film (and Halloween costume) is about bridging two identities -- her Iranian heritage, and her American life. Leila (an engaging Layla Mohammadi) is a New York born- and-raised aspiring screenwriter (she wants to be an Iranian Martin Scorsese) who, we learn, has never been fully comfortable in either world. American kids would call her names at school; Iranians saw her as too Americanized.

There are other bridges to be crossed here, too. The most important is that between Leila and her formidable immigrant mother, Shireen (the wonderful Niousha Noor), who created a successful life in America out of sheer grit, educating herself and becoming an adept businesswoman while running a household full of boys and one girl. It's the girl, Leila, with whom Shireen has the fraught relationship, because -- well, if you're a mother or a daughter you probably get it.

But there's a deeper backstory behind this troubled dynamic, and to learn all that, we must take a journey -- a long journey, in terms of the film's run time -- back to a remote village in 1960s rural Iran. But let's not get ahead of ourselves, because first adult Leila, gay and newly divorced from her wife, gets pregnant with the guy in drag who plays Hedwig on Broadway.

We told you this was chaotic.

About that Halloween party: Leila wins the costume prize -- justifiably! -- and also hooks up in a back room with Maximillian (Tom Byrne, charming in a less roguish Hugh Grant way), who's starring in "Hedwig and the Angry Inch" at the Belasco Theatre (where the show did actually run). And when she gets pregnant -- professing she didn't know you could get pregnant from a one-night stand -- Max says he's all in.

Keshavarz, whose film won the audience prize at Sundance, likes a flashback, and one of them takes us back to Leila's childhood summer trips to Iran, fooling guards at the airport looking for banned American music and videos, and bringing Cyndi Lauper to her Iranian relatives. Who, in turn, dance with abandon to "Girls Just Wanna Have Fun" -- a joyous scene.

Back in the States (the film toggles perhaps too frequently between eras, mostly 2000s New Jersey, 1980s Brooklyn and 1960s rural Iran) adult Leila's father needs a heart transplant. And Leila is hurting from her failed marriage. In flashback, we see her bringing her wife to Thanksgiving dinner and her mother, unable to approve of the gay relationship, ultimately kicking the couple out in disgust.

What has made her mother's heart so cold, particularly with her daughter? Leila's grandmother hints that a mysterious scandal long ago brought Shireen to America. To understand, we're taken back to that village in Iran, where Shireen was a bride at 14, coping with early motherhood and heartbreak. Luckily, this section of the film stars an extraordinary young actor, Kamand Shafieisabet in her first film, packing an emotional wallop into every scene.

As vividly as Keshavarz portrays the country of her heritage, she is unable to return there -- her first feature, "Circumstance," about sexual desire between two girls in Iran, won her her first audience award at Sundance but also got her banned from the country.

In any case we end "The Persian Version" not in Iran but back in the States, in a place not usually very comical but where most comedies involving a birth, even a dramatic comedy like this, eventually wind up: the maternity ward.

The scene here is intentionally crowded and yes, chaotic, just like the entire film. But it ends on a note that brings easy tears.

The rebelliousness of each of the strong women here -- mother and daughter -- somehow coalesces into understanding. Such moments can be sappy, but here, as with her lovely opening shot, Keshavarz does it well. She sticks the landing.

"The Persian Version," a Sony Pictures Classics release, in limited release Friday and nationwide on Nov. 3, has been rated R by the Motion Picture Association "for language and some sexual references." Running time: 107 minutes. Two and a half stars out of four.

SAVES THE DAY

BE THE HERO AT YOUR NEXT POTLUCK

By Joanna Barajas

Did you ever notice there's no salad at potlucks? Don't fear, Chef Joanna is here!

THAT'S why I always make it a point to bring at least one to the party. That way I know there's at least something fresh to eat. And I won't get taken down by all the carbs on the table.

So if your potluck is in need of greens, save the day with this seasonal salad!

Butternut Squash Salad with Orange-Pomegranate Dressing, Quinoa, Feta, Walnuts

Serves: 4

Ingredients:

- ½ cup quinoa
- 1 cup water
- 3-4 cups butternut squash, cut into 1/4" cubes
- 1 tsp. Sea salt, divided
- ¼ cup olive oil

- ¼ cup orange juice
- ¼ cup pomegranate juice (can use cranberry)
- 2 Tbsp. water
- Fresh ground black pepper
- 1 (5-oz.) bag arugula
- ½ cup feta, crumbled
- ¼ cup walnuts
- ½ cup pomegranate seeds (or dried cranberries)

Directions:

1. Preheat oven to 425 F (218 C).
2. The best way to peel a butternut squash safely is to poke holes in it and microwave it for 5-6 minutes. Then, it softens and you can peel it with a vegetable peeler.

3. Cut squash into ¼" cubes. Then, place on baking tray and toss with 1-2 tsp. vegetable oil and ¼ tsp. of salt. Place in oven. Cook for 30 minutes at least, or until tender. (The smaller you cut them, the faster they will cook). Turn every 10-15 minutes to prevent squash from burning.

4. Cook quinoa. Rinse first if not specified on package. In a medium saucepan combine quinoa and water. Bring to a boil, then reduce to a simmer for 15-17 minutes or until quinoa is tender.

5. In a small bowl, mix the ¼ cup olive oil, ¼ orange juice, ¼ cup pomegranate juice, water, and ½ tsp. Salt and pepper. Use half the dressing to toss with the arugula. Use a little of the dressing to toss with the quinoa.

6. To plate the salad, place some quinoa on the bottom of plate, then top with dressed arugula and finally the feta, walnuts, and pomegranate seeds.

I hope you try this new recipe! Snap a picture and tag me @chefjoannas on instagram so I see how yours came out.

Adopting a Rescue Dog? Here's What to Know About Pet Insurance

By SARAH SCHLICHTER of NerdWallet

Adopting a rescue or shelter dog doesn't just give a needy animal a home. It can provide a playmate for your kids, a jogging buddy for you and a loyal companion for everyone to cuddle with on the couch. But a new pet can also come with unexpected vet bills, which is why you might want to consider pet insurance.

Pet insurance policies can help pay for treatment if your furry friend gets sick or hurt. In some cases, they may also cover vaccinations and other routine care. Here's how to decide whether pet insurance is right for your rescue dog.

ESTIMATE THE COST OF VET CARE

It's impossible to know which medical problems a given pet may have in the future. However, researching the breeds you're interested in can help you get a sense of which health conditions are most likely to crop up, says Dr. Antonio DeMarco, chief medical officer at GoodVets, a chain of animal hospitals with locations across the U.S. Some of these conditions can be both serious and expensive to treat, he says.

For example, large-breed dogs like golden and Labrador retrievers are prone to hip dysplasia, a deformity of the hip joint. Some dogs may need surgery to treat it, costing thousands of dollars. A local vet can advise you on potential health concerns and how much it might cost to manage them. They can also help you estimate the price of routine care.

UNDERSTAND PET INSURANCE

Pet insurance likely won't reimburse every dollar you spend at the vet. For example, most plans won't cover pre-existing conditions that your dog had before you bought the policy. So if you adopt a senior dog with diabetes, you'll need to pay for the treatment yourself.

For the same reason, you can't simply wait to get a policy until your vet diagnoses an injury or illness. DeMarco has had pet owners ask him if they can buy insurance after their dog tears an ACL. "(You) sure can, but this isn't covered," he tells them.

Most pet insurance plans pay to treat illnesses and injuries

CREAMY BEER Shrimp SCAMPI

By Connor Forbes

One of the first recipes I ever wrote back in 2019 was a beer shrimp scampi recipe. It was right when I started Connor Cooks. I was transitioning away from a business I had started, a brewery, and was trying to figure out my next steps in life.

I had always had a passion for cooking and so I started Connor Cooks to inspire other people to find joy in cooking as well. I hope you find these recipes fun to make, and more importantly good to eat!

Anyways, I didn't always have white wine in the house at the time, but because I owned a brewery, I always had beer. A shrimp scampi is made with white wine, lemon, and garlic. So, I decided to sub out the wine with beer and the beer shrimp scampi was born. I have since taken this recipe a step further and made it creamy.

This meal is too decadent and maybe one of my favorite things to make and eat. It is a bit labor intensive but well worth the effort. Let's make some scampi!

Ingredients

- 1.5 pounds of shrimp, shell on
- ½ yellow onion, diced
- 1 tomato, diced
- 8 cloves garlic, diced
- 12 oz light lager beer
- 16 oz pasta
- 1/3 cup flour
- ½ lemon squeezed
- 2 tbsp butter
- 1 tbsp oil
- 1 cup parmesan
- Salt and pepper

To Make

1. Peel the shrimp and place shells in a small saucepan with water to cover. Salt and simmer on low until ready to use later in recipe. This is making shrimp stock.

2. In a large skillet, on medium heat add the oil and then the onions. Cook onions for 5 minutes or until slightly translucent. Add tomato. Cook for 1 minute and then add the lemon, garlic and beer. Bring to a simmer, and a dash of salt. Then add the shrimp. Cook shrimp until they just turn pink then remove from pan and set aside.

3. Cook pasta to direction on package.

4. Scoop out the onion, tomato, and garlic and place on side and let the beer simmer down until about half the volume. Add the butter and melt. Add the flour and mix. The texture will be crumbly. Add the shrimp stock in small increment and whisk until smooth. Adding stock as needed. May take a few cups. This is a roux. Once smooth add the parmesan and mix in thoroughly.

5. Add Cooked pasta to the roux and mix so pasta is covered in roux. Add onions, tomato and garlic mix back in and top the pasta with the shrimp. Serve with added parmesan, basil, or green onions.

6. EAT!

with routine care extra coverage. may be worth tain dogs, says director of pet support at the Humane Rescue Alliance in Washington, D.C. Smaller dogs are more prone to dental disease and benefit from regular cleanings, which wellness plans can help pay for.

When shopping for pet insurance, check for deductibles and copays. Say your plan will pay 80% of your expenses after you've met the $500 annual deductible. That means you'd have to spend $500 on your pet's treatment in a given year before your plan would start reimbursing you.

Your policy may also have a maximum payout limit, such as $5,000 or $10,000 per year.

GET PET INSURANCE QUOTES

The average cost of accident and illness coverage for a dog is about $640 per year, according to the North American Pet Health Insurance Association. However, you might pay more or less depending on where you live, the coverage options you choose and the breed and age of your dog.

You can get online quotes from most pet insurance providers. Check rates from at least three companies to make sure you're getting the best price for the coverage you want.

Pet insurance isn't worth the cost for every rescue dog. Policies may be prohibitively expensive for older dogs, especially if they already have chronic conditions that the policy won't cover. In these cases, you may be better off skipping insurance and setting up an emergency fund for vet expenses.

CONSIDER YOUR PEACE OF MIND

One of the biggest benefits of pet insurance is avoiding heart-breaking financial decisions. Sosa has seen owners forced to surrender pets because they couldn't afford to treat their medical conditions. "The economy is in a really bad place," she says. "That's trickling down and affecting what people are able to afford."

Even worse, some owners may have to euthanize their dogs if the treatment for a serious condition is simply too expensive, DeMarco says. "As veterinarians, that is the worst-case scenario for us."

You may go years without having to use your pet insurance. But in a crisis, having the policy can give you peace of mind, DeMarco says. You'll know that "if those situations arise, you're going to be able to handle them financially and not have to make decisions based on finances rather than what's best for your animal."

Synthetic Lawns

Microplastics from the grass blades and crumb rubber can also leach into groundwater and freshwater bodies.

"These molecules are actually entering the food chains in the ocean, and they're in our system, they're in our blood, they're in our muscles," said Sylvia Earle, a marine life advocate and former chief scientist at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

"We've changed the nature of nature through actions that we've taken. Now they are coming back to haunt us."

At what temperatures is it a risk?

Research by the National Toxicology Program shows that high heat can cause chemicals to leach out of the crumb rubber base of synthetic turf, which is made of recycled tires. These leached chemicals are known to cause cell death in humans.

Synthetic turf, like other artificial surfaces including asphalt and pavement, heats up by several degrees more than living lawns.

According to Kelly Turner, associate director of the UCLA Luskin Center for Innovation's Heat Equity

Initiative, the material can trap heat and radiate it back slowly, staying warm for longer periods of time.

"It is one of the hottest surface materials," she said. "It is hotter than asphalt."

Janet Hartin, horticulture expert at UC Extension in Los Angeles County, measured various types of surfaces in Palm Springs, where air temperatures around 100°F are common during the summer.

On days around 100°F or more, she reported temperatures of synthetic turf and other artificial substances around 175°F.

Alternative approaches Hartin said the best alternative to any artificial surfaces are living plants.

"We want to increase the population of our habitat pollinators, and plant climate-resilient plants that provide shade, buffer sun exposure, provide windbreaks, help reduce stormwater runoff and reduce soil and water erosion. And you can't do that with synthetic grass," she said.

There are several drought-friendly approaches to landscaping, including warm-season grasses such as Bermuda grass and Buffalo grass, or doing away with grass altogether and planting trees or drought-resilient varieties of plants that are endemic to California.

Hartin said that even though plants require water and maintenance, their cooling benefits and ecosystem benefits go far beyond the water savings one could get through synthetic turf.

"You have choices," she said. "What we plant today is going to maximize society and urban ecosystem benefits by the time that you're in your later years."

If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. Notice to Potential Bidders If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a Trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (800) 280-2832 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site - www.Auction.com - for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case: Ts#166749. On November 1, 2023, the City Council continued the public hearing to November 15, 2023 at 6:30 p.m. to allow for publication of this notice.

The text of Resolution No. 2023-093, including exhibits thereto, is on file with the City Clerk of the City of Corona located at 400 South Vicentia Avenue, Corona, California and reference is made thereto for the particular provisions thereof. The text of Resolution No. 2023-093 is summarized as follows:

1. The City Council declared its intention to conduct proceedings for the annexation to CFD 2016-3 of the territory described in Exhibit "A" to Resolution No. 2023-093. The territory proposed to be annexed to CFD 2016-3 is also shown and described on the map thereof entitled "Annexation Map No. 36, Community Facilities District No. 2016-3 (Maintenance Services) of the City of Corona, County of Riverside, State of California," which is on file with the City Clerk.

2. The types of public services to be provided within CFD 2016-3 are as follows:

(a) The annual costs of maintaining, servicing, cleaning, repairing and/or replacing landscaped areas (may include reserves for replacement) in public street rightofway, public landscaping, public open spaces and other similar landscaped areas officially dedicated for public use, including, but not limited to, maintenance and lighting of parks, parkways, streets, roads and open space, maintenance and operation of water quality improvements and storm drainage systems, and public street sweeping, within and in the area of CFD 2016-3, as well as the costs associated with the determination of the amount of and the levy and collection of special taxes which are levied to provide such services and costs otherwise incurred in order to carry out the authorized purposes of CFD 2016-3 (the "Special Tax A Services"); and
(b) The cost of any services permitted under the MelloRoos Community Facilities Act of 1982 including, without limitation, those services authorized to be funded by CFD No. 2016-3 as set forth in the documents adopted by the City Council at the time the CFD was formed to be provided by the City in the event the Administrator makes a determination that a Property Owners' Association fails to adequately provide such services, as well as the costs associated with the determination of the amount of and the levy and collection of special taxes which are levied to provide such services and costs otherwise incurred in order to carry out the authorized purposes of CFD 2016-3 (the "Special Tax B (Contingent Services)").

3. A special tax sufficient to finance the Special Tax A Services and a special tax sufficient to finance the Special Tax B (Contingent) Services (together, the "Special Taxes"), secured by the recordation of a continuing lien against all taxable or nonexempt property in CFD No. 2016-3, shall be annually levied within CFD No. 2016-3. All parcels of taxable property in the territory of CFD No. 2016-3 shall be subject to the annual levy of Special Taxes. The rate and method of apportionment of special taxes to be levied on parcels of taxable property to finance the Special Tax A Services and the Special Tax B (Contingent) Services shall be as set forth in Exhibit "A" to Resolution No. 2023-093. The Special Taxes require the approval of twothirds of the qualified electors of CFD 2016-3 at a special election called for that purpose by the City, with each voter having one vote for each taxable acre, or portion of a taxable acre, owned.

4. The officers of the City who are responsible for providing the Special Tax A Services and the Special Tax B (Contingent) Services are directed to, at or before the time of said hearing, file or cause to be filed a report with the City Council containing a brief description of the services by type and an estimate of the cost of providing those services and the incidental expenses to be incurred in connection therewith. Such report shall be made a part of the record of the public hearing.

5. The voting procedure with respect to the annexation of territory into CFD 2016-3 and the imposition of the Special Taxes shall be by mailed or personally delivered ballot election.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that at the time and place of said hearing, all persons interested for or against the annexation of said territory to CFD 2016-3 or the levying of special taxes within such territory to pay the costs of providing certain services within the territory proposed to be annexed to CFD 2016-3 will be heard. At the hearing, protests against the proposals described in Resolution No. 2023-093 may be made by any interested person. Any protests pertaining to the regularity or sufficiency of the proceedings shall be in writing and shall clearly set forth the irregularities or defects to which objection is made. All written protests shall be filed with the City Clerk prior to the time fixed for the hearing. The City Council may waive any irregularities in the form or content of any written protests and at the hearing may correct minor defects in the proceedings. Written protests may be withdrawn in writing at any time before the conclusion of the hearing.

If the owners of onehalf or more of the area of land in the territory included in CFD 2016-3, or if the owners of onehalf or more of the area of land in the territory proposed to be annexed to CFD 2016-3 file written protests against the proposed annexation of such territory to CFD 2016-3, and protests are not withdrawn so as to reduce the protest to less than a majority, no further proceedings shall be undertaken for a period of one year from the date of decision of the City Council on the issues discussed at the hearing.

The hearing may be continued from time to time, but shall be completed within 30 days. At the conclusion of the hearing, the City Council may abandon the proceedings or may, after passing upon all protests, submit the question of levying the special tax within the area proposed to be annexed to CFD 2016-3 to the qualified electors of the area proposed to be annexed.
