Sanchez Trial in Fatal Costco Shooting Begins

INDIO - An ex-cop created a false narrative in his head and acted unreasonably when he fatally shot a developmentally disabled man in a Corona Costco and critically wounded the victim's parents, a prosecutor told jurors Wednesday, but a defense attorney said his client only had seconds to react after being "brutally, violently and unexpectedly" knocked to the ground while holding his son.

SALVADOR Alejandro Sanchez, 33, of Corona, is charged with voluntary manslaughter and two counts of assault with a semiautomatic firearm, according to court records. He additionally faces sentence-enhancing allegations of using a firearm and causing great bodily injury.

The charges stem from a shooting that occurred on the evening of June 14, 2019, inside the Costco at 480 N. McKinley St., where 32-year-old Kenneth French was killed and his parents, Russell and Paola French, all of Corona, were wounded.

Sanchez, who was an off-duty Los Angeles Police Department officer at the time of the shooting, is free on a $155,000 bond.

During opening statements of Sanchez's trial Wednesday at the Larson Justice Center in Indio, Deputy Attorney General Michael Murphy told jurors Sanchez created a false narrative and failed to assess the situation before using deadly force, leaving the victim dead and his parents with life-changing injuries.

The French family was shopping at the store when they stopped at a food sample table, where the defendant was also standing, holding his 20-month-old son, Murphy said. For unknown reasons, Kenneth French punched the defendant in the back of the head and stepped back from him.

Santa Ana Winds to Whip Parts of Inland Region Through Friday

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Santa Ana winds will continue to lash parts of the Inland Empire Friday, with gusts over 50 mph in wind-prone locations, according to the National Weather Service.

"MODELS depict wind gusts of 35 to 50 mph for southern sections of the forecast area, locally near 60 mph through favored passes, such as the San Gorgonio Pass," the NWS said in a statement. "The winds may produce difficult driving conditions in blowing dust and sand. The highest winds can be expected Thursday evening and overnight."

A wind advisory went into effect for the inland region 10 a.m. Thursday and is expected to last until 4 p.m. Friday.

A trough of low pressure dragging across Northern and Central California will be the Santa Ana generator on Thursday. However, several high pressure ridges will replace the trough on Friday, according to Weather Service prognostication charts.

"The area of high pressure will build in from the southwest," the NWS stated. "The pressure gradient oriented from west to east will shift from north to south as these two interact with one another. This will bring increasing Santa Ana winds from the north and east on Friday."

The Inland Empire will be on the receiving end of Santa Anas Friday morning, but the more intense gusts will be across the San Diego mountains, meteorologists said.

"The winds will diminish by late Saturday morning," according to the Weather Service. "After they decrease, calm weather will prevail for the weekend."

According to the NWS, daytime highs on Friday in the Riverside metropolitan area will peak in the upper 60s, with lows falling to around 45 degrees. On Saturday and Sunday, highs will settle in the low 70s and lows in the upper 40s, forecasters said.

For the Coachella Valley, daytime highs will top out in the mid 70s Friday, with overnight lows in the upper 40s, and the temperature band will be roughly the same through the weekend, with clear skies.

In the Temecula Valley, the highs Friday are expected to hover in the mid 60s, with lows in the low 40s, and through the weekend the mercury will be analogous to temps in Riverside.

Full Westbound 91 Freeway Closure Scheduled Next Week in Corona

CORONA - The westbound Riverside (91) Freeway is slated for a complete shutdown next week in Corona to facilitate overnight construction work, with ongoing closures planned for the rest of the month and the first half of January, officials said Tuesday.

THE initial nighttime closure is scheduled for 10 p.m. Monday, with all westbound 91 lanes -- including Express toll lanes -- out of service from Interstate 15 to just beyond the Corona (71) Expressway, on the west end of Corona. The lane closures will be in effect until 4 a.m. Tuesday. The same closures will be implemented again on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, according to RCTC.

The closures are analogous to shutdowns that occurred in October and November on the eastbound 91 for the "71/91 Interchange Project."

RCTC said the Monday-to-Wednesday schedule will be maintained, weather- permitting, to Jan. 17, though scheduling changes are expected to be implemented during the Christmas and New Year's holiday period.

In addition to the 91 closure, the transition bridges from south- and northbound I-15 to the westbound 91 will be closed during the work. That includes Express Lanes connectors.

The southbound 71 to the westbound 91 transition will have to be closed, as well, according to RCTC.

"The full closures will allow crews to safely continue construction of support structures for the new eastbound 91 to northbound 71 connector," the agency stated. "Weeknight traffic congestion is anticipated in Corona, and motorists are strongly advised to allow for extra travel time and to bypass the area by using Route 71 to the westbound Pomona (60) Freeway to the southbound Orange (57) Freeway to navigate around the closure."

Those attempting to enter Corona via the westbound 91 from Riverside will be detoured through downtown Corona. Officials said a wildlife crossing will be one of the other features of the reconfigured interchange.

Board OKs Crisis Response Pilot Project

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The Board of Supervisors Tuesday approved a $900,000 two-year pilot project intended to improve Riverside County's teen and young adult crisis response program available via a 211-call center.

In a 5-0 vote without comment, the board authorized the Riverside University Health System to utilize the state grant funding to contract with Inland Southern California 211+ for the "Youth Suicide Prevention Reporting & Crisis Response Pilot Program."

"This program is intended to develop and test models for rapid reporting and comprehensive crisis response at the local level related to youth suicide and suicide attempts in those ages 25 and under," according to a RUHS statement posted to the board's agenda.

The funding will cover the period retroactive to July 1 and ending June 30, 2025.

"RUHS will (rely on) 211+ to increase capacity for responding to youth crisis calls through the local Helpline, provide suicide crisis response training to community organizations, and enhance data collection on the number of crisis helpline calls, suicide-related crisis calls, referrals to local crisis clinics, crisis mobile unit hand-offs and active rescues," according to the agency.

The 211+ service, which is run by Inland SoCal United Way, provides a series of options to callers, who are routed to the appropriate operator after selecting one. Along with suicide crisis response, the call center also provides referrals to assist with food insecurity, utility assistance and transportation.

"The main beneficiaries of this pilot project will be residents, county organizations, schools and community organizations," RUHS stated.

The grant was awarded by the California Department of Public Health.

First Installment of County Property Tax Payments Due Monday

RIVERSIDE - Riverside County homeowners have until Monday to pay the first installment on their property tax bills, after which any unpaid amounts will accrue penalties.

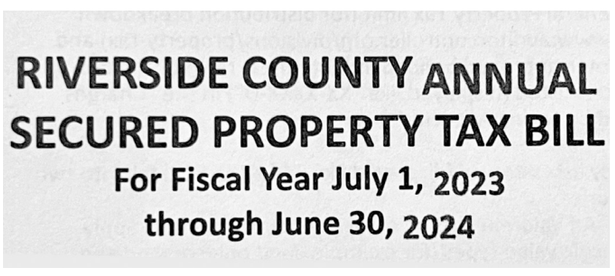

"It is important for all property owners to ensure they meet the deadlines to avoid any unnecessary penalties," Treasurer-Tax Collector Matt Jennings said.

The Treasurer-Tax Collector's Office this summer sent out notices seeking payments on over 900,000 secured properties, including parcels, houses and condominiums, for the 2023-24 tax year.

The grace period to pay the first installment will end on Dec. 11. Any payments received after that date will be considered delinquent and may incur a 10% late fee, according to county officials.

Property owners can make a payment anytime online via www.riversidetaxinfo.com.

Residents can also make payments in person, without an appointment, at the tax collector's main office at 4080 Lemon St., Riverside, in the Palm Desert satellite office at 38-686 El Cerrito Road, and at the Temecula branch, 40935 County Center Drive.

Credit and debit card payments are accepted online, or by calling 951- 955-3900. Credit card transactions include a 2% "convenience fee."

Checks are always welcome. However, officials said if they're mailed, the envelopes must be postmarked on or before Dec. 11, or they'll be considered overdue.

Officials said residents who don't pay their taxes risk having a lien placed on their property.

The second and final property tax installment will be due in April.

Sanchez Trial

"Within seconds, the defendant pulled out a gun and shot Kenneth four times in the back, killing him," Murphy said. "The defendant also shot Kenneth's mother and Kenneth's father as they were trying to protect their son from being shot."

Sanchez later told police he opened fire at the family because he believed that he had been shot, Murphy said. The prosecutor insisted that evidence in the trial will show that no reasonable person in that position would have jumped to such a conclusion, and Sanchez's decision to shoot at the family was not a justifiable act of self-defense.

Murphy told jurors Sanchez chose to take a gun, loaded with 13 bullets, into the store and that by loading that gun, he made it ready to fire with just a pull of the trigger.

While on the ground after being struck on the back of the head, the victim's parents pleaded with the defendant to not shoot their son because he was sick, but Sanchez ignored their pleas, aimed his gun at them and pulled the trigger, Murphy said. Paula French was shot first, once in the stomach, her husband was hit once on his side and their son was shot four times in the back.

The remaining four stray bullets were lodged in display cases and didn't strike anyone else, according to Murphy. When police responded to the store to assess the situation, the defendant and French family were all lying on the ground.

Kenneth French was taken out of the store in a body bag and his parents were taken for emergency treatment while the defendant was seen in an officer's body-worn camera video being escorted out without assistance, Murphy said. He added that Sanchez requested to be taken to a hospital, where a doctor found no injuries on the defendant, but still diagnosed him with a concussion due to Sanchez's claim that he lost consciousness after being hit on the back of the head.

Corona PD

Sanchez's attorney, Michael Schwartz, told jurors his client was punched so hard on his temple, unexpectedly and unprovoked while holding his son, that a witness said she saw his head hit the concrete and heard it make a thunk noise.

Once that occurred, Sanchez had three seconds to figure out what just happened, if he was hurt, if his son was hurt, where the threat was, who the threat was, and what he needed to do, according to Schwartz. He then showed jurors a video from the day of the shooting, in which the victim is seen being pushed away by his father.

"What the evidence will show is that this shooting was not a random shooting where Mr. and Mrs. French got hit by random bullets," Schwartz said. "Both jumped in the way of Kenneth French, understandably to save their son."

Sanchez had limited time to stop the threat and didn't see the parents because he had tunnel vision due to his fear for himself and his son, according to Schwartz. Additionally, the gun he shot with was a semi-automatic handgun, which has the ability to fire 13 rounds in just a few seconds.

He concluded his opening statement by telling jurors that evidence will show his client did not act unlawfully, saying he was knocked to the ground while in "parental bliss," and in three seconds he acted to defend himself and his screaming son.

The Riverside County District Attorney's Office in September 2019 took the matter to a 19-member county grand jury, and the panel declined to indict Sanchez, culminating in the California Department of Justice ultimately filing charges.

In the summer of 2020, the Los Angeles Police Commission determined the Costco shooting was an unjustifiable use of force, and Sanchez was fired from the LAPD.

The French family filed a lawsuit against the department, the city of Los Angeles and Sanchez at the end of 2019, alleging negligence and civil rights violations. A Los Angeles jury in November 2021 ruled in favor of the plaintiffs, awarding them $17 million.

The Lasting Toll of California's COVID Layoffs

(Editor's Note: In this final installment of the 4-part CalMatters investigation of problems plaguing California's Employment Development Department, the EDD, 6 individual cases are profiled. From lost homes to mounting debt, workers from across the state share how they were impacted by payment delays, fraud panic and mass confusion about unemployment benefits. This full version is also available to share, at www.zapinin.com/california-news/edd-fraud-part-4)

By LAUREN HEPLER

Lose your job, file for unemployment, get a few hundred dollars a week from the state to pay for essentials while you find a new gig.

IT sounds simple, in theory. But that's far from the reality that many workers experienced when the state's job safety net unraveled during the pandemic.

Five million people — about 1 in 8 Californians — got stuck waiting for delayed payments from the California Employment Development Department. More than 375,000 unemployment debit cards were cut off without warning. As few as 1 in 1,000 workers calling for help got through on jammed state phone lines.

In the 3½ years since COVID shutdown orders began, state audits, class-action lawsuits and unemployment experts have blamed the problems on different factors: crushing demand, outdated technology, inconsistent funding and unprecedented fraud, among others.

EDD officials say that change is coming with a new five-year, $1.2 billion effort to overhaul the department's unemployment and disability systems. But the stakes are still high when something goes wrong, as it did for millions of people during the pandemic.

Here are some of their stories.

DANNY RAMOS

Age: 37

Location: Carlsbad to Tecate, Mexico

Problem: Never received EDD Bank of America debit card, taxes garnished

Impact: Moved across the border to Mexico, separated from family

As California locked back down in late 2020, Danny Ramos needed an out.

On paper, the San Diego construction worker had more than $8,000 in his state unemployment account after losing a soundproofing job that summer. But Ramos told a state appeals judge, he never received an EDD debit card to access the money.

"I just went into panic," Ramos recalled. "Like, 'How the hell am I going to pay for my apartment?'"

He packed up his place in Carlsbad and found a cheaper rental just across the Mexico border, in Tecate. His then-fiancé took the kids to stay with family in the Midwest — a split Ramos said he thought would be temporary.

But by the spring of 2022, Ramos was still living in Tecate and riding his motorcycle across the border each day to work near San Diego. And then he became one of hundreds of thousands of workers whose unresolved unemployment cases came back to haunt them.

Ramos was flagged for potential fraud after the EDD said he did not send in required identity documents, then was ordered to repay the benefits he never received. He'd never gotten the notices after he moved and only realized what was happening, Ramos told a judge, when the state garnished more than $2,200 from his tax refund.

He filed an appeal, spent $1,800 on a lawyer, then waited months for a hearing before the judge ruled in his favor this past August. In late October, paper checks finally started to arrive with the long-delayed money.

Other losses can't be repaid. Ramos said his wedding was called off. He's rebuilding his life alone.

"I'm just still trying to catch up to where I was," he said. "And I don't even know if I ever will."

As a longtime seasonal hospitality manager in Big Bear Lake, Donna Cook thought she understood how to file for unemployment with the EDD. But the pandemic brought a whole new level of stress, confusion and up to 4½-hour waits on the phone.

DONNA COOK

Age: 58

Location: Big Bear Lake

Problem: Payments delayed for past penalty

Impact: Considering selling her house

"They become the center of your life," Cook said. "It's always negative, and you're already feeling down on yourself for being unemployed."

The trouble for her started in mid-2021, when she said several payments for her pandemic unemployment claim came late. Then came a letter from the EDD ordering Cook to repay the agency for failing to report $61 of income. The agency wanted back $79, including a 30% penalty, despite Cook's argument that she hadn't meant to deceive anyone and received the extra money from an orientation that she did not know was paid.

The timing of the confusion, while she was caring for her terminally ill mother, was terrible. Cook pitched in for utilities but had to rely on her mom to buy groceries.

Like thousands of other workers who are penalized each year for even slight income miscalculations or clerical errors, the worst of it came the next time she had to file for unemployment.

Late this past summer, Cook lost another hospitality job, filed for benefits and was confused when she didn't get any payments, leaving her in a familiar loop of dialing the EDD and getting a message that all agents were busy. This time, she was struggling to keep paying for the small house she'd just bought with the money she said her mom left when she died.

Finally, Cook got through in October to an agent who delivered the bad news: Under the EDD's strict payment rules, she had to serve a five-week penalty for the previous overpayment, leaving her in limbo once again.

"I don't know how they expect people to wait," Cook said, "when you're already living check to check."

When Maria Sanchez got the letter telling her she owed the state more than $2,000, she thought she didn't have any choice but to sign up for a payment plan she couldn't afford.

"I would have paid that money to the EDD," Sanchez said in Spanish, recalling "a lot of fear."

Her daughter Maribel, however, had a different idea.

The law student had watched for months as her mom — a longtime San Francisco nanny who emigrated from El Salvador in 1976 — struggled to explain to the EDD, in Spanish, how she'd lost her job and spent months waiting for unemployment payments.

NORAD SANTA TRACKER

SITE GOES LIVE TODAY

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Preparations for monitoring Old St. Nick's worldwide journey on Christmas Eve, which includes several passes over the Inland Empire, will be finalized today, December 8, when the North American Aerospace Defense Command unveils its 2023 Santa Tracker.

THIS will mark the 68th straight year NORAD, located at Peterson Space Force Base, Colorado, has provided simulated tracking of Santa Claus' global mission to deliver gifts and cheer, according to the agency.

The tracker will be online beginning Friday morning at www.noradsanta.org, focused on the North Pole, awaiting Kris Kringle's epic trip on Dec. 24.

In 2022, the tracker captured Santa and his reindeer crossing Riverside County into San Bernardino County from south to north, as well as a depiction of the sleigh flying directly from Twentynine Palms to Moreno Valley.

"The (website) features Santa's North Pole Village, which includes a holiday countdown, games, movie theater, holiday music, web store and more," NORAD said. "The website is available in nine languages: English, French, Spanish, German, Italian, Japanese, Portuguese, Chinese and new this year, Korean."

NORAD will be providing updates regarding the upcoming flight via most social media platforms.

"On Dec. 24, trackers worldwide can call 1-877-HI-NORAD to ask our live operators about Santa's location from 6 a.m. to midnight mountain standard time," the agency said. "Website visitors will see Santa's flight from 4 a.m. to midnight MST."

NORAD, which is responsible for identifying and sounding alarms regarding potential airborne threats to the U.S. and Canada, inaugurated the Santa tracking tradition informally in 1955 when a child called the wrong number and connected with an aerospace command colonel asking about Santa's whereabouts. He assured the girl that the jolly man would make it through the night safely.

NORAD formalized Santa tracking in 1958, providing reports to media regarding Santa's progress making the rounds on Christmas Eve.

"Though the program began due to a misdialed number, `NORAD Tracks Santa' has flourished and is recognized as one of the Department of Defense's largest community outreach programs," according to the agency.

OVEN BAKED RIBS

Connor Cooks

Connor Forbes

By Connor Forbes

I wrote an oven baked ribs recipe about 3 years ago but since I have really dialed in my methods and am overall a much better cook, I thought it would be an appropriate time to update it. And I'm assuming most of you reading this won't remember that recipe 3 years ago.

MAKING ribs is a mostly set it and forget it affair. Which is good because these take about 5 hours to make correctly. So don't fret about how long they take. Put them in the oven, go about your day, and check on them 2 hours in and 4 hours in. Before you know it, you'll be enjoying fall off the bone ribs.

INGREDIENTS

- 1 rack spare ribs
- 3 tbsp Dijon mustard
- 2 tbsp honey
- 2 tbsp Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp salt
- 3 tbsp bbq sauce, split
- 1 tbsp vinegar
- 2 tbsp butter, sliced

Prep your ribs by drying them off with paper towels and remove the membrane under the bones (or ask your butcher to do that for you). Preheat the oven to 250°. Spread the mustard, honey, and Worcestershire sauce all around the ribs, top and bottom. Salt. Place the ribs in a baking pan (on a rack in a pan is preferable but not necessary) and place in the oven for 2 hours.

At the 2-hour mark, prep a large piece of aluminum foil with the sliced butter. Pull your ribs out of the oven, slather with half the BBQ, and place meat side down on the butter in the foil. Wrap the foil around the ribs tightly so there are no ribs showing or air pockets around the spare ribs. Cook for another 2 hours.

At the 4-hour mark pull the ribs out, unwrap from foil, and place uncovered on the baking pan. Brush on the vinegar and then the remaining bbq. Cook for 1 more hour.

After 5 hours you are done. EAT your fall off the bone ribs!

"THE ISLAND WHERE PEOPLE FORGET TO DIE"

GREEK chickpea SOUP WITH LEMON

By Joanna Barajas

If I told you this soup will make you live to 100, would you try it?

THIS recipe comes from an island in Greece, called Ikaria. And it's nicknamed "the island where people forget to die," because people live so long there.

It's one of the Blue Zones, or places in the world where people live 90 to 100 years young and are free of disease. Sure, they probably live more stress-free lives than us. Which we can't always do. But they also eat simply, which is something we can do.

A lot of their good health comes from following a Mediterranean diet. That's a diet full of fresh fruits and vegetables, olive oil, herbs, beans, whole grains, and occasionally some red wine.

Here's an easy recipe to get a taste of that island life and help you live a long, healthy life!

Greek Chickpea Soup with Lemon

Servings: 1-2

Cuisine: Gluten-free, vegan, dairy-free

Ingredients:

- ½ lb. dried chickpeas* or 2 cans, rinsed
- ½ medium onion, coarsely chopped
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 small bay leaf
- ¼ cup extra Virgin olive oil + more to serve
- Salt and pepper
- Juice of 1-2 lemons
- 1-2 Tbsp. Chopped fresh dill

Equipment:

Medium pot

Directions:

*Skip this step if using canned chickpeas. How to cook chickpeas from scratch:

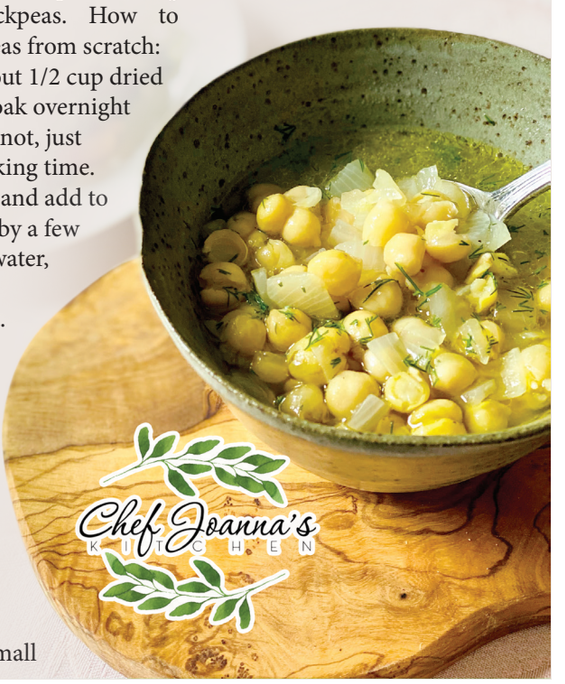

Measure out 1/2 cup dried chickpeas. Soak overnight if you can. If not, just increase cooking time. Drain, rinse, and add to a pot. Cover by a few inches with water, and add 1/2 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover, and cook at a simmer until tender, about 90 minutes to 2 hours.

1. In a small pot add all ingredients except lemon juice and dill. Add just enough water to cover beans and vegetables. Bring to a boil, then lower and simmer with lid for 20-30 minutes.

2. Add salt and pepper to taste. To serve, spoon into bowls and finish with lemon juice, olive oil and fresh dill.

I hope you try this new recipe! Snap a picture and tag me @chefjoannas on instagram so I see how yours came out.

"RENAISSANCE: A FILM BY BEYONCÉ"

By Bob Garver

When the writers' and actors' strikes of 2023 forced several movies off the fall schedule, it was a pair of musicians that came to the rescue with two of the most heavily-promoted concert movies of all time. "Taylor Swift: The Eras Tour" got the box office through a rough patch back in October. Now comes "Renaissance: A Film by Beyoncé" to get it through early December. The box office shouldn't need Beyoncé to get it through early December, Thanksgiving weekend should have brought about some hits with staying power, but where the slate of traditional blockbusters failed, the concert documentary is here to thrive.

SINCE comparisons to the Taylor film are inevitable, I'll jump right into those. One of the first things I noticed was that this film is a mashup of several Beyoncé concerts, whereas Taylor's film was limited to one. There are points in the film that cut between performances of the same song at different venues. The editing during these scenes is always smooth, and I'd be unable to tell that any cutting was even going on were it not for Beyoncé's outfits inexplicably changing mid-song. They're always great outfits, so the chance to see as many of them as possible is greatly appreciated.

Then again, there's something about all the cutting between concerts that seems like cheating. With Taylor, there was a "no second takes" atmosphere that made the whole production seem flawless and magical (though I have since learned that some flubs were edited out). With Beyoncé, I get the impression that there's a safety net where if a take didn't go well at one concert, the film could just cut to footage from another. That's not to say the film leaves out imperfections entirely – one show is interrupted by a power outage – but I feel like the film only left this scene in as a calculated showcase for the crew overcoming adversity, and possibly so the audience wouldn't think about other mistakes.

The other big difference between Beyoncé's film and Taylor's is that while that one was almost entirely limited to what the audience saw at the concert, this one throws in behind-the-scenes footage. I have mixed feelings on this idea, both in concept and execution. In concept, yes, we're getting to see exclusive footage, but I kept getting the feeling that it was at the expense of getting to see her perform more songs – including some of her biggest hits, which aren't in this movie.

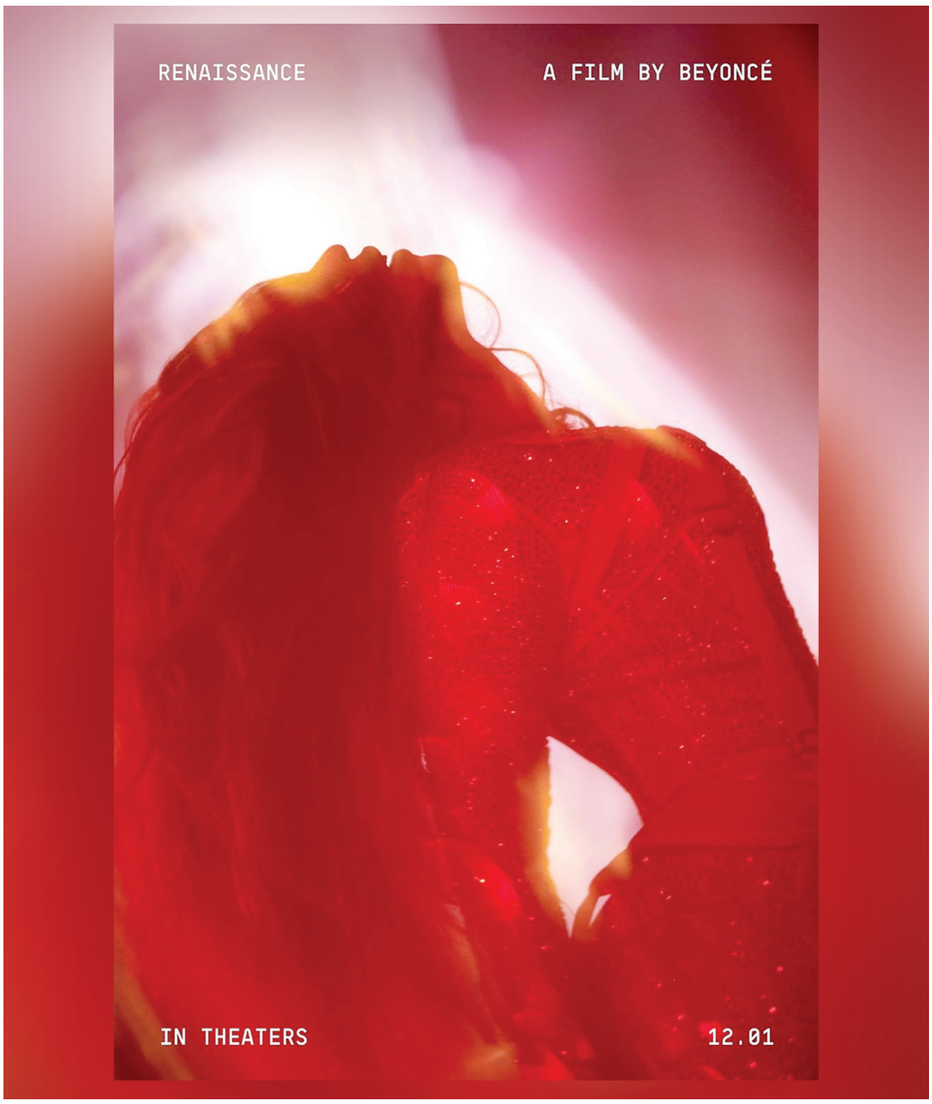

In execution, I found the behind-the-scenes stuff to be hit or miss. Beyoncé wants the audience to know how hard she works, which is undeniably true to a nearly impossible degree, but the point is made so often that it feels beaten into the ground by movie's end. Anecdote-wise, Beyoncé often makes time to affectionately put over role models like her mother and a family friend named Uncle Jonny that made many of her early outfits. Uncle Jonny passed away over 20 years ago and somehow he's the breakout star of this film.

I'll be honest, I had a hard time enjoying "Renaissance: A Film by Beyoncé," despite Beyoncé being an incredible artist with some of the most dominating charisma on the planet. Maybe it was because so many of the songs chosen for this movie were unknown to me. Maybe it was all the cutting away from the music for non-musical pontifications. Maybe it was just that after two concert movies in two months, I'm all concert-ed out. I can't say I "go" for this one, but if you're a member of the BeyHive, you'll probably get more out of it than I did.

Grade: C

"Renaissance: A Film by Beyonce" is not rated by the MPAA, but would be an R for language and sexually suggestive material. Its running time is 169 minutes.

`RENAISSANCE' OPENS ATOP BOX OFFICE WITH $21 MILLION

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - "Renaissance: A Film by Beyoncé" opened atop the box office this weekend, taking in $21 million to lead all films in North America, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

"The Hunger Games: The Ballad of Songbirds & Snakes" was second with $14.5 million after topping the chart in its first two weekends, Comscore reported.

Third place went to "Godzilla Minus One," the latest Japanese entry in the long-running monster franchise, which opened in North America with $11 million.

"Trolls Band Together" was fourth with $7.6 million Friday through Sunday in its third weekend, followed by "Wish," which made $7.4 million in its second weekend.

Director Ridley Scott's "Napoleon" was sixth with $7.1 million, a sharp drop from its $32.5 million opening weekend.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases, as estimated by Comscore, were "Animal" ($6 million), "The Shift" ($4.3 million), "Silent Night" ($3 million) and "Thanksgiving" ($2.6 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $94.7 million. The year-to-date total is $8.367 billion -- an increase of 23% over the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

MARIA AND MARIBEL SANCHEZ

Age: 69 and 27

Location: San Francisco

Problem: Payment delays, language translation and fraud accusations

Impact: Sued the EDD — and won — after taking on debt

The last straw for Maribel was when court records show that her mom was accused of fraud and ordered to pay back some of the money for making a "false statement" in a language she doesn't speak fluently.

"There was so much fraud going on with the EDD scams," Maribel recalled. "I'm like, 'You're going to come after a 66-year-old lady that doesn't have money to begin with?'"

In mid-2021, the family found a lawyer at advocacy group Legal Aid at Work to challenge the notice ordering her to pay back $1,750 in benefits, plus a $525 penalty. The following February, they filed a legal complaint in Superior Court arguing that the EDD's fraud allegations were based off a conversation in English that "contained obvious inaccuracies."

It took multiple rounds of appeals and legal hearings, plus living on high-interest loans in the meantime, but a judge cleared Maria in 2022.

Still, Maribel can't help but wonder, how many others weren't so lucky?

As Hollywood shut down with the rest of the world in early 2020, losing her job as a video editor wasn't Madeline Maye's biggest concern — at least at first.

Right before quarantine, Maye said she had come out as a trans woman. She started hormone therapy two months later. New clothes that she ordered online or got second-hand helped make her feel more like herself. And she was doing it all while estranged from family.

"It's kind of hard to describe how much stress that is," Maye said. "It's basically having to discover an entire new person that you always were, from scratch."

Then she awoke one morning in mid-2020 to find that the unemployment money she was relying on to survive had disappeared. Maye said in a legal filing that she noticed a string of mysterious ATM charges on her state-issued Bank of America EDD debit card, which at one point showed a negative balance of $5,000.

"It was terrifying," she said. "That was my only source of income, and all of a sudden, it was gone."

Maye was one of thousands of Californians experiencing similar issues with frozen debit cards. With few answers at the time, she started a GoFundMe campaign, raising money from friends and strangers online to pay for rent and other essentials, while she said the state's Medi-Cal program continued paying for hormone treatments.

After several months of staying in touch with her state representative's office, Maye said she got her money back. In 2021, she joined an ongoing class-action lawsuit against Bank of America.

"It was one of the worst times of my life," Maye said, "and there's zero reason why it should have happened at all."

KELLY SWANSON

Age: 53

Location: Fairfield to Wickenburg, Ariz.

Problem: Never received unemployment

Impact: Drained retirement savings, sold his house and moved out of state

In March 2020, Kelly Swanson came down with what he remembers as "a really intense flu." He went home sick from his credit union IT job of 23 years just as the first pandemic shutdowns hit Solano County.

So began a chain of events that Swanson, now 53, said would lead to draining his retirement savings, being forced to sell his house in Fairfield and leaving California in his new home: an RV that his wife took to calling "a roving coffin" — an example of the domino effect that can happen when workers say the process is too daunting and they give up on fighting for benefit money.

"I was screwed six ways to Sunday," Swanson said in a recent call from the trailer park where the couple now lives in the old mining town of Wickenburg, Arizona.

At first, Swanson received disability payments when the flu turned out to be a more intense long-term illness that he now assumes was COVID-19. Things got more complicated in the summer of 2020, when he was laid off and filed for unemployment.

The money never came, Swanson said. Instead, he was summoned to a call with the EDD and said he was questioned about fraud.

"It scared me enough that I was like, 'Nevermind, you can cancel my application,'" Swanson said. "I don't want to commit fraud."

An unfruitful job search followed, and Swanson said he started borrowing from his 401(k). He sold his house in the summer of 2022 and moved most of his belongings into storage. Since he and his wife arrived in Arizona, he estimates that he's applied for 270 office jobs, but he said he's working at an ACE hardware store earning $15 an hour.

"My key takeaway from all of this," Swanson said, "is just because you saved for retirement and just because you worked for a company and paid your taxes, don't expect the state to come help you."

As Nicole Oyler awaits a hearing on her third EDD appeal, anxiety bubbles up each time she opens the mail and sees the agency's name on an envelope.

"It's just hanging over you," she said. "All day you're thinking about it."

Oyler wasn't living in California when the coronavirus hit. She had recently left her Orange County hometown and moved to Washington, D.C., to chase her dream of working in museums. When her first museum job in D.C. disappeared with pandemic shutdown orders, she filed for unemployment with officials in the nation's capital. At first, everything seemed fine — even better than before, with the added benefits allotted for laid-off workers during COVID.

Then, in early 2022, everything came screeching to a halt. Her $2,300 tax refund was seized for "government debts." According to the nation's byzantine unemployment rules, a lawyer helped her figure out, she should have filed for unemployment in California. And in the meantime, records show that officials in Washington wanted their roughly $20,000 back.

So began Oyler's surreal quest to prove her own identity and clear the five-figure debt.

Officials say multi-state unemployment cases are inherently more complicated, but it's an issue impacting more people amid broader shifts toward remote work and an exodus of hundreds of thousands of California residents moving to other states.

In May 2022, the EDD rejected Oyler's identity verification documents. Then her online account showed that "some guy" had received unemployment in California using her Social Security Number. In June 2022, she got a letter from the EDD that she couldn't read because it was in Spanish. Her next tax refund was also garnished.

Today, Oyler has a new job. She's taking a philosophical outlook on the bureaucracies she remains trapped between.

"There are people that believe that we should have a social safety net, and there are people that don't," she said. "You end up with this creature that we have now, that's under-funded and under-staffed. It's going to fail."

You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 855 238-5118, or visit this internet website http://www.qualityloan.com, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-20-886824-AB to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE OWNEROCCUPANT: Any prospective owneroccupant as defined in Section 2924m of the California Civil Code who is the last and highest bidder at the trustee's sale shall provide the required affidavit or declaration of eligibility to the auctioneer at the trustee's sale or shall have it delivered to QUALITY LOAN SERVICE CORPORATION by 5 p.m. on the next business day following the trustee's sale at the address set forth in the below signature block. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 714-730-2727 or visit this internet website www.ndscorp.com/sales, using the file number assigned to this case 22-20490-SPCA. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT*: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are a "representative of all eligible tenant buyers" you may be able to purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 888-264-4010, or visit this internet website www.ndscorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 22-20490-SPCA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as a "representative of all eligible tenant buyers" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. *Pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code, the potential rights described herein shall apply only to public auctions taking place on or after January 1, 2021, through December 31, 2025, unless later extended. NOTICE OF SECOND AMENDED PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:
STEVEN DOUGLAS KENT AKA STEVE DOUGLAS KENT
CASE NO. PRRI2301674
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of STEVEN DOUGLAS KENT AKA STEVE DOUGLAS KENT.
A SECOND AMENDED PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by BRIAN KENT in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.
THE SECOND AMENDED PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that PETER KOTE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE SECOND AMENDED PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 01/29/24 at 8:30AM in Dept. 8 located at 4050 MAIN STREET, RIVERSIDE, CA 92501
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

We are attempting to collect a debt and any information we obtain will be used for that purpose. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 800-683-2468 option 1 or visit this Internet Web site www.servicelinkASAP.com, using the file number assigned to this case 2023-05703. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 800-683-2468 option 1, or visit this internet website www.servicelinkASAP.com, using the file number assigned to this case 2023-05703 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. PP2022-0003: Precise Plan application for the proposed development of the Magnolia Avenue Business Center Project consisting of two industrial buildings totaling 334,520 square feet on 16.6 gross acres, located at the northeast corner of Magnolia Avenue and El Camino Avenue at 1375 Magnolia Avenue (APN: 107-030-022) within the Business Park land use designation of the Corona Magnolia Specific Plan.

California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) – An Initial Study has been prepared for the project pursuant to Section 15063 of the State Guidelines for Implementation of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA). Therefore, per CEQA Section 15070 (b), the City has prepared a Mitigated Negative Declaration for the project. The Mitigated Negative Declaration and Mitigation Monitoring Report for the project is being considered by the Planning and Housing Commission at the public hearing on January 22, 2024.
