DELIBERATIONS RESUME IN COSTCO SHOOTING TRIAL OF EX-LAPD OFFICER

By KRISTY RAMIREZ
City News Service

INDIO - After a nearly three-week break, jurors continued deliberating Thursday in the trial of a former Los Angeles police officer suspected of fatally shooting a developmentally disabled man and critically wounding the victim's parents at the Corona Costco.

SALVADOR Alejandro Sanchez, 33, of Corona, is charged with voluntary manslaughter and two counts of assault with a semiautomatic firearm. He additionally faces sentence-enhancing allegations of using a firearm and causing great bodily injury.

The charges stem from a shooting that occurred on the evening of June 14, 2019, inside the Costco at 480 N. McKinley St., where 32-year-old Kenneth French was killed and his parents, Russell and Paola French of Corona, were wounded.

Jurors began deliberating in the trial Dec. 27, 2023 and, after not reaching a verdict by the end of that week, began their nearly three-week break. They're set to return at 9 a.m. Thursday to the Larson Justice Center in Indio to continue deliberating.

Sanchez, who was an off-duty Los Angeles Police Department officer at the time of the shooting, is free on a $155,000 bond.

The French family was shopping at the store when they stopped at a food sample table, where the defendant was also standing holding his son, and for unknown reasons, Kenneth French punched the defendant in the back of the head and stepped back from him, prosecutors said.

CARGO MOVEMENT FINISHES 2023 STRONG AT PORT OF LA

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - Officials at the Port of Los Angeles Tuesday announced that the port closed out 2023 on a strong note, processing 747,335 twenty-foot equivalent units in December, 2.5% more than December of 2022.

December 2023 also marked the fifth consecutive month of year-over- year gains. In total, the port handled more than 8 million TEUs, or about 13% less than in 2022, as a result of a decline in trade in most categories at ports worldwide. However, officials said the Port of LA retained its position as the nation's busiest container port for the 24th consecutive year.

Smash and Grab Jewelry Robbery Suspect Arrested After Long Search

CORONA - A 24-year-old man suspected of joining others in a series of smash-and-grab jewelry heists, including one in Corona, was released from custody Friday after posting a $100,000 bond.

Corona PD

JOSHUA Matthew Lewis of Inglewood was arrested and booked into the Byrd Detention Center in Murrieta Thursday on suspicion of robbery and vandalism.

Lewis obtained the requisite bail and was let out of the Murrieta jail Friday morning.

According to the Riverside County Sheriff's Department, early on the afternoon of last July 30, the suspect and a half-dozen others allegedly burst into a jewelry shop in the 1600 block of Perris Boulevard, used pepper spray to subdue a security guard and proceeded to smash the glass on display cases.

Sgt. Dave Tinker alleged the suspects grabbed items worth an estimated total $100,000, after which they fled the location.

Identical smash-and-grab robberies occurred in Perris, Thousand Oaks and other outlets region-wide, according to Tinker.

Authorities ultimately identified most of the suspects through a multi-jurisdictional investigation. However, Lewis was not linked to the robberies until late last summer.

Tinker said that sheriff's investigators obtained an arrest warrant for him but had difficulties tracking him down.

On Thursday morning, detectives located him in Riverside and took him into custody without incident, according to the sheriff's spokesman.

Background information on Lewis was unavailable, and the custody status of his alleged cohorts could not be confirmed.

Civil Rights Leader, Humanitarian and UFW Co-Founder Dolores Huerta Honored

By Jim Forbes, Publisher

LOS ANGELES – Dolores Huerta, a life-long champion of farmworkers and women in California and far beyond, was bestowed the 2023 John Anson Ford Human Relations Award in Los Angeles on Tuesday.

THE 93-year-old Huerta, who co-founded the United Farm Workers union alongside Cesar Chavez and founder of The Dolores Huerta Foundation, received the Yvonne B. Burke Courage Award, which honors an individual for their "bold, dauntless action to advance human relations."

"Dolores is an inspiration that transcends generation after generation," Los Angeles County Supervisor Hilda Solis said in a statement following the event.

President Barack Obama's first Secretary of Labor added, "She has dedicated her life to advancing the rights of farmworkers, women, and other marginalized communities. Never did I imagine as a young girl growing up in the San Gabriel Valley that I would get to meet her, let alone partner with her in uplifting our most vulnerable. So, today we come full circle."

daughters of Cesar Chavez, accepted on their mother's behalf.

"I am honored to receive this award from the LA County Human Relations Commission," said Dolores Huerta in a provided statement. "So much of my life's work aligns with the historical work of the Commission, beginning with the Community Service Organization, which started in Los Angeles – founded by Ed Roybal to fight discrimination against Latinos, which resulted in the passage of significant legislation: Public Assistance for Legal Immigrants; which included Old Age Pensions, Aid to the Disabled including Blind and later, Aid to Needy Children, removing deputy registrars as a requirement for voter registration, voting in Spanish, and driver's license exams in Spanish. The Human Relations Commission gives legal support for the racial equity work with tangible results needed for our American society today as we set the model for the rest of the world,"

Born in New Mexico and raised in the California central valley farming community of Stockton, Huerta began her community activism in that city as a 25-year-old in 1955.

According to her biography published in the National Women's History Museum, she "co-founded the Stockton chapter of the Community Service Organization (CSO), which led voter registration drives and fought for economic improvements for Hispanics."

Year in Review: Legislators Respond to Hot Labor Summer, Crime Concerns

Sameea Kamal, CalMatters

The 2023 Legislature returned to close to normal after three years under the ups and downs of the pandemic, and after a 2022 election that brought turnover and the most diverse membership ever.

But it faced a different challenge: After two years of record budget surpluses, it had to navigate a $30 billion deficit, with more choppy financial waters ahead.

Another big change: In June, Assemblymember Robert Rivas, a Democrat from Salinas, took over as speaker from Lakewood Democrat Anthony Rendon in a peaceful transfer of power following an attempted mutiny by some members last year.

The leadership shift didn't significantly impact the Legislative agenda. More so, lawmakers responded to rising public concern about crime, continued worry about homelessness and housing and the "hot labor summer" of union activism.

State senators participate in the final session of the year at the state Capitol in Sacramento.

On crime, legislators passed a package of bills addressing the fentanyl crisis, which has claimed more than 6,000 lives in California this year, though not the tougher sentences sought by Republicans.

But after an initial partisan standoff, the Legislature came together — with some pressure from the governor and new Speaker Rivas– to pass a bill by Bakersfield Republican Sen. Shannon Grove that imposes harsher penalties for child sex trafficking, which some members opposed due to concerns that victims might be punished.

On housing, legislators approved two key bills to spur more production and gave renters a little more power. They signed off on Gov. Gavin Newsom's plan to overhaul mental health care, and acceded to his wishes for a related proposition to have the March 5 ballot all to itself.

On labor, the Legislature passed some key bills signed into law, including one to expand the number of paid sick days from three to five a year and another, after many years of failed attempts, to allow legislative staff to unionize. The Democratic majority also gave its blessing to a deal between unions and the fast food industry to increase the minimum wage for workers and another pact that increases pay for the lowest-paid health care workers.

But other labor bills didn't get the stamp of approval from the governor, including one that would have allowed striking workers to get unemployment benefits.

In all, the Legislature passed 1,046 bills this year — down 120 from last session. Gov. Newsom signed 890 into law.

Major issues for 2024: After failing to address the home insurance crisis — companies pulling policies due to wildfire and other costs affected by climate change — the Legislature will pick that back up next session. Crime will also be at the top of the priority list: Assembly Speaker Robert Rivas has formed a select committee on retail theft, and Sen. Scott Wiener announced a bill to crack down on car thefts. Other big, continuing issues: the fentanyl crisis, housing and homelessness.

Her early work caused Huerta to meet Cesar Chavez, and fueled by their mutual interests in organizing farmworkers, they first formed the National Farm Workers Association (NFWA) in 1962, and then the United Farm Workers (UFW) three years later.

Their organizing efforts led to 5,000 grape workers going on strike in Delano, evolving into international attention with the call for a boycott of table grapes. With the planting of those roots, organizing efforts spread as does a grapevine, eventually bearing fruit with the passage of the California Agricultural Labor Relations Act of 1975, which tilled the soil for farmworkers to organize and bargain for improved working conditions and pay.

When Chavez embarked on a 25-day fast in the early '70s in Phoenix, Huerta adopted the phrase, "Sí se puede," translated as "Yes, it is possible." Roughly translated to mean, "Yes we can."

It has been reported that then-President Barack Obama once acknowledged to Huerta, that he "stole" her slogan for his campaign, to which she replied, "Yes you did."

Obama honored her with the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 2012. Fourteen years earlier, she had been awarded the Eleanor Roosevelt Award for Human Rights by President Bill Clinton in 1998.

Other presidential contacts were far from sanguine.

In 1968, she was on stage at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles when Sen. Bobby Kennedy was assassinated. Twenty years later, in 1988, while peacefully protesting the policies of then-Vice President and Presidential candidate, George H. W. Bush, the 58-year-old Huerta was severely beaten with a San Francisco police officer's baton, which broke ribs and caused her spleen to be surgically removed.

Once recovered, she focused increasingly on women's issues and electing them to public office.

Named after John Anson Ford, a longtime human relations leader, the JAF Human Relations Awards have identified and honored human relations champions throughout Los Angeles County.

Wet Weather on the Way for Inland Region

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The Inland Empire's first significant rainstorm of the year is forecast to arrive this weekend, sweeping through the region Saturday and Sunday and lingering into Monday, according to the National Weather Service.

A trough of low pressure is expected to move down from the Pacific Northwest, arriving in Southern California by Saturday morning, the NWS said.

"There are some model differences in the timing, track and intensity of weather systems moving along in this flow, which would affect the timing of periods of potentially more significant precipitation across (the region)," according to an agency statement. "Chances for measurable precipitation are greatest on Sunday and Monday, as well as chances for greater precipitation amounts."

Snowfall is anticipated above 7,000 feet, forecasters said.

Prognostication charts published by the NWS indicated the presence of rain region-wide until Monday night, replaced by a ridge of high pressure on Tuesday.

No weather advisories have been issued yet.

Conditions are expected to be mostly clear until the weekend, and temperatures are expected to hover within the normal range for this time of year.

In the Riverside metropolitan area, highs will generally reach the upper 60s Tuesday to Friday, with overnight lows in the upper 40s. On Saturday and Sunday, the daytime mercury will peak in the low 60s, and nighttime lows will drop into the low 50s.

In the Coachella Valley, highs will hold in the low 70s Tuesday to Friday, and lows in the low 50s, and the temperature range will decrease slightly for the weekend, with highs in the mid-60s and lows around 50.

The temperature band in the Temecula Valley will be almost identical to the Riverside metro area's for the week, though nighttime temps will fall into the mid-40s some of the time.

County Home Prices Rose While Sales Dropped in 2023

RIVERSIDE – Though the median price of a sold home in Riverside County dropped by 2% in December when compared to November, median prices rose by 5.7% for the year in 2023.

That median price was $607,500 at year-end, up from $575,000 at the close of 2022, but down from $620,000 at the end of this past November.

While sales increased 2.9% in December compared to November, they were down 2.4% overall in 2023.

This mirrored a statewide trend when home sales in 2023 experienced their steepest decline since 2007, the California Association of Realtors said Wednesday.

Statewide, the median price of an existing single-family home was $819,740 in December, down slightly from $822,200 in November, but above the $770,490 in December of 2022.

The state's highest median home price in December was San Mateo County's $1.8 million.

Sales of existing single-family homes in California have been below the 300,000 threshold since September 2022 and will likely stay below that level in the first quarter of 2024, CAR said.

California recorded an annual sales level of 257,630 in 2023, a decline of 24.8% from the revised sales level of 342,530 reported in 2022.

"The housing market had a tough year in 2023 as a shortage of homes for sale and high costs of borrowing continued to have a negative impact on housing inventory and demand," CAR President Melanie Barker said.

"With mortgage rates expected to come down in the next 12 months, home sales will bounce back as buyers and sellers return to a more favorable housing market. Home prices should see a moderate increase in 2024 as well." Sales in all major regions dipped in December on a year-over-year basis, including 6.2% in Southern California.

"Easing inflationary pressure and a soft economic outlook suggest that we will see some interest rate cuts in the upcoming year, which bode well for a housing market recovery," CAR Senior Vice President and Chief Economist Jordan Levine said.

"With rates declining to a 7-month low in late 2023, Americans are feeling more positive about the market, and we could begin to see some increase in market activity at the start of the year. The improvement is expected to be gradual as tight housing supply will remain the norm in 2024."

Port

"In 2024, our sights are set on community investment, sustainability progress and capturing additional market share," Gene Seroka, executive director of the port of LA, said in a statement.

"To drive cargo, we're investing in a 10-year, $2 billion capital improvement program," Seroka added. "We'll also focus on secure technology enhancements to improve efficiency and reduce our carbon footprint. All that leads to additional jobs and the port's ability to re-invest more dollars back into our communities."

The port reported loaded imports in December landed at 369,477 TEUs, an increase of 5% compared to the amount moved in 2022. Loaded exports came in at 121,575 TEUs, an increase of 26% compared to the same time last year.

Empty containers totaled about 256,283 TEUs, a decrease of 8.5% compared to 2022.

Last week, Seroka outlined the port's goals and priorities for 2024 during the 9th Annual State of the Port Address.

Today is the 19th day of 2024. There are 347 days left in the year.

Today in History

Today's Highlight in History: In 1953, CBS-TV aired the widely watched episode of "I Love Lucy" in which Lucy Ricardo, played by Lucille Ball, gave birth to Little Ricky. (By coincidence, Ball gave birth the same day to her son, Desi Arnaz Jr.)

ON THIS DATE:

In 1853, Giuseppe Verdi's opera "Il Trovatore" premiered in Rome.

In 1915, Germany carried out its first air raid on Britain during World War I as a pair of Zeppelins dropped bombs onto Great Yarmouth and King's Lynn in England.

In 1942, during World War II, Japanese forces captured the British protectorate of North Borneo. A German submarine sank the Canadian liner RMS Lady Hawkins off Cape Hatteras, North Carolina, killing 251 people; 71 survived.

In 1944, the federal government relinquished control of the nation's railroads to their owners following settlement of a wage dispute.

In 1966, Indira Gandhi was chosen to be prime minister of India by the National Congress party.

In 1987, Guy Hunt became Alabama's first Republican governor since 1874 as he was sworn into office, succeeding George C. Wallace.

In 2005, the American Cancer Society reported that cancer had passed heart disease as the top killer of Americans age 85 and younger.

In 2009, Russia and Ukraine signed a deal restoring natural gas shipments to Ukraine and paving the way for an end to the nearly two-week cutoff of most Russian gas to a freezing Europe.

Costco Killing

"Within seconds, the defendant pulled out a gun and shot Kenneth four times in the back, killing him," Deputy Attorney General Michael Murphy said. "The defendant also shot Kenneth's mother and Kenneth's father as they were trying to protect their son from being shot."

But Sanchez's attorney, Michael Schwartz, told jurors that Sanchez was unexpectedly punched in the back of the head so hard that he felt as though he was shot, and acted in self defense.

Schwartz said Sanchez only had a few seconds to react after being injured because he feared the possibility of the most vulnerable person in the area, his 20-month-old son, also being injured. The attorney contended that if his client had taken time to confirm whether or not Kenneth French had a gun and he did end up having one, he would have been dead by the time he found out.

Sanchez had no intention of shooting the victim dead, just until he was down and knew the threat was over, adding that his client still had three bullets that weren't fired, Schwartz said.

Murphy rebutted the argument by telling jurors that it was undisputed Kenneth French punched the defendant and that he shouldn't have done that, but the defendant also drew his gun and shot 10 rounds when no injury or bruises ever appeared on the defendant, whose fear of hypothetical scenarios like the threat to his son was not enough to justify the deadly shooting because no reasonable person would have done what he did.

When someone chooses to carry a gun, they also choose to carry the power of life and death, which requires great responsibility because they have an obligation to make a reasonable assessment before aiming a gun and shooting it at a human being, Murphy said.

A reasonable person in Sanchez's position, after being struck in the back of the head, would have said something like "What the heck?" and felt the back of their head to see if there was an injury, Murphy said.

"This did not need to happen for self protection or to defend his son, and it shouldn't have happened," Murphy said. "The defendant needed only to take a few moments to check himself to see if he had a gunshot wound and realize that he did not."

Murphy said that Sanchez chose to take a gun loaded with 13 bullets into the store and that the victim's parents pleaded with the defendant to not shoot their son because he was sick, but Sanchez ignored their pleas, aimed his gun at them and pulled the trigger. Paola French was shot first, once in the stomach, her husband was hit once on his side and their son was shot four times in the back.

Kenneth French was taken out of the store in a body bag and his parents were taken for emergency treatment while the defendant was seen in an officer's body-worn camera video being escorted out without assistance, Murphy added.

The Riverside County District Attorney's Office in September 2019 took the matter to a 19-member county grand jury, and the panel declined to indict Sanchez, culminating in the California Department of Justice ultimately filing charges.

In the summer of 2020, the Los Angeles Police Commission determined that the Costco shooting was an unjustifiable use of force, and Sanchez was fired.

The French family filed a lawsuit against the department, the city of Los Angeles and Sanchez at the end of 2019, alleging negligence and civil rights violations. A Los Angeles jury in November 2021 ruled in favor of the plaintiffs, awarding them $17 million.

Year in Review: California Poverty Rises as Aid Ends

By ALEJANDRA REYES-VELARDE AND JEANNE KUANG, CalMatters

California's poverty rate remains lower than it was pre-pandemic, but the expiration of COVID expanded safety net programs has led to a continued gradual increase compared to 2022.

Screen Actors Guild members and Writers Guild of America members picket at the Amazon Culver Studios in Culver City on June 17, 2023. A bill would pay strikers unemployment benefits.

ACCORDING to the California Poverty Measure, which takes into account the state's high housing costs and various government anti-poverty programs, the state's poverty rate increased from about 11% in 2021 to 13% in early 2023.

That means about 5 million Californians remain below the poverty line of about $39,900 a year for a family of four, according to the Public Policy Institute of California. The 2019 poverty rate was 16.4%.

Several major social safety net expansions ended in 2023. California, like other states, in the spring began re-evaluating the income eligibility of those enrolled in Medi-Cal, the public health care program for low-income residents, after three years of being barred from kicking anyone off coverage.

And March was the last month the state issued a boost in CalFresh, or food assistance benefits, which had given every recipient additional monthly funds. Food banks across the state reported increases in clients seeking help, and some served record numbers.

Californians continued to feel the impacts of the pandemic, so many workers felt emboldened to walk out of their jobs to demand better wages as the cost of living increased. Hotel workers, fast food workers, actors, writers, hospital workers, graduate student workers, and teachers all contributed to what labor leaders coined the "hot labor summer."

According to Cornell University's School of Industrial and Labor Relations tracker, there have been 78 labor actions in California this year as of Oct. 31, not counting those that began in 2022.

The strikes were a catalyst for a late-session legislative proposal to pay workers unemployment benefits during work stoppages. It became one of the most contentious bills of the year. Lawmakers passed it, but Gov. Gavin Newsom vetoed it.

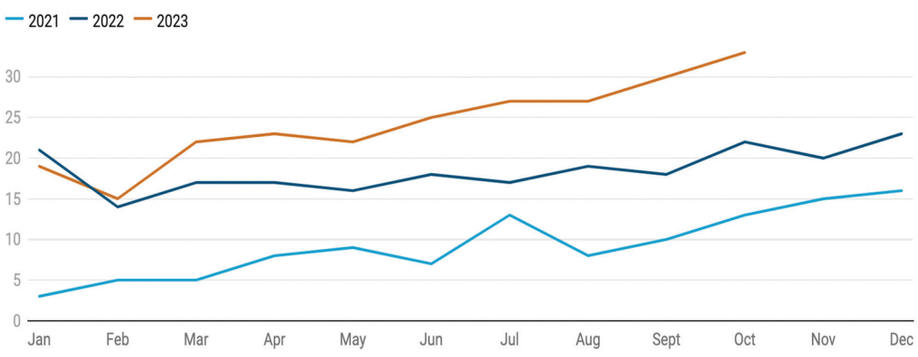

Labor groups did score other victories, including higher minimum wages in two major industries: health care, where all workers will get to $25 an hour over the next five years, and fast food, where the minimum will be $20 an hour starting in April.

In both industries, the Service Employees International Union agreed to truces after bitter fights with employers that included the threat of costly statewide ballot measures. Both truces also mean in the near future, the union likely won't pursue any additional local minimum wage increases in the two industries, ensuring a degree of stability sought by employers.

Major issues for 2024: Anti-poverty advocates and unions will be watching to see if minimum wage increases passed in 2023 will make a dent in the state's poverty rate in 2024. At the same time, workers still on strike, including hotel workers and actors, continue to negotiate for fair deals that they hope will allow them to keep up with the rising cost of living. The state plans to launch several guaranteed income pilot programs focused on giving no-strings-attached cash to low-income pregnant people or young people leaving foster care, which will be funded with $30 million approved by lawmakers.

CALIFORNIA SAW MORE STRIKES HAPPENING AT ONE TIME IN 2023 THAN THE PAST 2 YEARS

A single strike may appear in multiple months, and may have started a prior year. There have been 78 total strikes in 2023 so far.

Data as of Oct 31, 2023. Strikes included if at least one location was in California.

PICKLED SERRANO

By Connor Forbes

I am a huge fan of pickles. Picked cucumber, pickled onions, pickled cabbage. Put it all in my belly. So, when my wife came home from the store with materials to make salsa, and about 20 extra serrano peppers, my first thought was "omg that's a lot of serrano peppers." And my second though was, "I should pickle them." And so, I did. I Made about a 32-ounce jar full of pickled serrano with a bit of red onion.

THE purple from the red onion adds a pretty splash of color. And everyone knows that if your food looks pretty it is going to taste better.

INGREDIENTS

- 20 serrano peppers
- 1 red onion, half moon slices
- 1 cup distilled vinegar
- 1 cup apple cider vinegar
- 4 cloves garlic, sliced
- 1 tbsp salt
- 1 tbsp sugar

TO MAKE

In a small saucepan combine the apple cider and distilled vinegar with the salt and sugar. Bring to a simmer. While the vinegar is heating up slice your serrano's into 1/4-inch coins. Slice your onion and garlic as well and place into a 32-ounce mason jar. Once the vinegar has simmered for a minute and the salt and sugar are dissolved, pour hot vinegar over the serrano, onions, and garlic and cap. Let cool on the counter then place in your fridge. Eat immediately or over the course of a couple of weeks. ENJOY!

"MEAN GIRLS

By Bob Garver

Of all the pop culture institutions to be cancelled, ended, or otherwise shut down by the pandemic in 2020, the permanent closure of the "Mean Girls" Broadway musical was perhaps the one that disappointed me the most.

I'M not sure why it wasn't brought back post-pandemic – ticket sales had clearly been healthy enough to keep me from scoring cheap seats during its two-year run – all I knew was that the show was gone and I had missed all 833 chances to see it live. But then a ray of hope appeared when it was announced that the musical, which itself was based on the 2004 movie, which itself was based on a book, was going to become a movie. I immediately got my hopes up, this movie would be the payoff to six long years of waiting. With my expectations that high, is it any wonder I found the movie disappointing?

The story follows shy teenager Cady (Angourie Rice) as she navigates her first high school in the United States after moving from Kenya with her mother (Jenna Fischer). She's a great academic, impressing her math teacher Ms. Norbury (Tina Fey, who played the role in the original film and is the writer of all three versions of the property), but lacking in social graces. Outcasts Janis (Auli'i Cravalho) and Damian (Jaquel Spivey) invite her to be their lunchroom companion, but she can't help but be drawn to the ultra-popular Plastics clique, led by the domineering Regina George (Renee Rapp).

Regina and the Plastics are surprisingly receptive to Cady and invite her to join the group. She isn't really comfortable around the chic Regina and her friends, busybody Gretchen (Bebe Wood) and vacuous Karen (Avantika), but Janis convinces her that it will be so fun to infiltrate the group and report back on how catty and ridiculous they are. This of course makes Cady and Janis just as catty and ridiculous as the Plastics, but they don't pick up on it until it's too late. Meanwhile, Cady develops a crush on Regina's ex Aaron (Christopher Briney), and when she learns that Plastics rule schemes to manipulate and usurp other word "mean girl" thought pos

`MEAN GIRLS' CANNOT HELP IT THAT IT'S SO POPULAR OVER HOLIDAY WEEKEND

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - "Mean Girls" opened in first place at the North American box office over the holiday weekend, taking in an estimated $33.2 million, according to industry estimates released Monday. The new version of 2004's hit is written by Tina Fey, who wrote the original, and is based on a hit Broadway musical inspired by the original film.

The Jason Statham-starring action film "The Beekeeper" opened in second place with about $19 million in ticket sales Friday through Monday, Comscore reported.

Third place went to "Wonka," which took in another $11 million in its fifth week in theaters.

Fourth place went to the romantic comedy "Anyone But You," which added another $8.5 million to its total in its fourth weekend.

The animated adventure "Migration" was fifth with $8.3 million in its fourth week.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were "Aquaman and the Lost Kingdom" ($6.6 million), "Night Swim" ($5.5 million), "The Boys in the Boat" ($4 million), "The Iron Claw" ($3 million) and "The Book of Clarence" ($3 million).

This weekend's overall box office haul from Friday through Monday was estimated at $121.7 million. The year-to-date total is more than $322.7 million, down about 9.7% compared to 2023, according to Comscore.

There are sequences and classrooms that are impressive and no doubt d work went into them, he problem, it's hard not out how much work went Somehow it's perfectly that these characters k into song and dance, but I have a hard time believing that they would choose to do this much limb-flailing choreography in such a tight space.

I think the bigger problem with this version of "Mean Girls" is that it may be too soon to remake a movie from 2004, even with the change-up of musical numbers. The original is so fresh in the audience's mind that they know the progression of the story and in some places can quote the dialogue word-for-word, which includes stepping on some integral punchlines. Tina Fey and Tim Meadows (as the school's principal) reprise their roles without singing, and it's less a welcome nostalgia act and more of an unflattering copy. Still, I'd like to see the movie become a hit, partly because I want to reward its infectious energy and partly because I'd like to see it lead to a revival of the Broadway show so I can finally see the musical the way it was intended.

Grade: C

"Mean Girls" is rated PG-13 for sexual material, strong language, and teen drinking. Its running time is 112 minutes.

Famed Dickens Festival Moves from Riverside to Jurupa Valley

JURUPA VALLEY (CNS) - The celebrated Riverside Dickens Festival will be held at a new venue this year, relocating from downtown Riverside to Jurupa Valley, where a museum property will be converted to Victorian-era London, with an assortment of characters and shows reflective of author Charles Dickens' life and times.

ACCORDING to the festival's website, the 31st annual event will be presented at the Jensen Alvarado Historic Ranch & Museum, near Flabob Airport, on Feb. 24 and 25.

It was not clear what prompted the change of venue. Fest organizers did not immediately respond to requests for comment.

Previously, the fests have been convened along the Main Street pedestrian mall, between Mission Inn Avenue and 11th Street, in Riverside.

The entire event was nearly nixed in February 2021 amid the coronavirus lockdowns, but organizers managed to throw together a virtual presentation featuring profiles of Dickens' stories and other entertainment online.

In-person activities returned in February 2022.

The fest regularly features theatrical performances, pageants, music, speeches, historical recreations and children's activities. Visitors often encounter actors representing Dickens, Queen Victoria, Bram Stoker, Mark Twain, H.G. Wells, Oscar Wilde, Edgar Allen Poe, Louisa May Alcott, Jules Verne, Emily Bronte, Mary Shelley and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle -- to name a few.

Merchants sell food and wares reminiscent of a 19th century London bazaar, interspersed with caroling and dancing.

Palm Springs Art Museum's Albert Frey Exhibition is Open

PALM SPRINGS (CNS) - The Palm Springs Art Museum's new exhibition "Albert Frey: Inventive Modernist" opened Saturday, and the museum's annual Art Party fundraiser, honoring the legacy of the mid-century modern architect, will be held in late January.

The exhibit will opened at the Architecture and Design Center, Edward Harris Pavilion, located at 300 S. Palm Canyon Drive. It features various architectural models, drawings, films, photographs and furniture.

The Swiss-born architect moved to Palm Springs in 1939 and remained until his death in 1998. He was most noted for his residential designs but his other works included the Aerial Tramway Valley Station and the Tramway Gas Station.

Frey's architectural style, characterized as a "simple but severe" style of desert modernism, will be on display until June 3, museum officials said. It will honor the impact he had on the architectural community.

"Through his design philosophy of clean lines, minimalism, and a seamless integration with the natural environment, Frey not only paid homage to the unique beauty of the desert but also demonstrated a profound understanding of the region's challenging climate and environmental conditions," according to museum officials.

The fundraiser will be held at 6 p.m. Jan. 27 at the museum's main galleries, 101 N. Museum Drive. The evening will begin with a cocktail reception followed by a dinner at 7:30 p.m., an hour before the night is closed out with entertainment and dancing.

"This fundraiser comes at a crucial time when we are still rebuilding our programming after the pandemic closure," museum Executive Director/CEO Adam Lerner said in a statement. "Because of the generous support of the gala sponsors and attendees, we are able to further the museum's mission of being an all-inclusive institution by developing new ways to connect with our entire community."

More information about the event and tickets, starting at $1,000 per person, can be found at artparty2024.com.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site https://www.altisource.com/loginpage.aspx using the file number assigned to this case 2021-00686-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction, if conducted after January 1, 2021, pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (877)-518-5700, or visit this internet website https://www.realtybid.com/, using the file number assigned to this case 2021-00686-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid, by remitting the funds and affidavit described in Section 2924m(c) of the Civil Code, so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site https://www.altisource.com/loginpage.aspx using the file number assigned to this case 2023-00917-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction, if conducted after January 1, 2021, pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (866)-960-8299, or visit this internet website https://www.altisource.com/loginpage.aspx, using the file number assigned to this case 2023-00917-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid, by remitting the funds and affidavit described in Section 2924m(c) of the Civil Code, so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.
