

TOTAL SOLAR ECLIPSE WOWS MUCH OF NORTH AMERICA

By MARCIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

MESQUITE, Texas (AP) — A chilly, midday darkness fell across North America on Monday as a total solar eclipse raced across the continent, thrilling those lucky enough to behold the spectacle through clear skies.

STREET lights blinked on and the planets came into view, as the moon shrouded the sun for a few minutes across the land. Dogs howled, frogs croaked and some people wept, all part of the eclipse mania gripping Mexico, the U.S. and Canada.

Almost everyone in North America could see at least a partial eclipse, weather permitting.

It was the continent's biggest eclipse audience ever, with a couple hundred million people living in or near the shadow's path, plus scores of out-of-towners flocking in to see it. With the next coast-to-coast eclipse 21 years out, the pressure was on to catch this one.

While the Midwest and Eastern U.S. viewed a spectacular full eclipse (L) on Monday as it was tracked live from Mexico to Canada, the partial eclipse (R) in Southern CA, was stunning in its own right.

County to Seek Fed Funds for Cold Case Prosecutions

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The Board of Supervisors Tuesday authorized Riverside County District Attorney Mike Hestrin to submit a request for federal grant funding to support cold case prosecutions.

IN a 5-0 vote without comment, the board gave the DA's Office the go-ahead to file an application for a U.S. Department of Justice-Bureau of Justice Assistance grant totaling $500,000 for the current fiscal year.

"The BJA provides funding to support the prosecution of violent cold case crimes where a suspect -- known or unknown -- has been identified through DNA evidence," according to an agency statement. "Provided a DNA profile attributed to a suspect has been developed from crime scene evidence, this funding also supports investigative activities, as well as crime and forensic analyses, that

Report: Area Inflation Jumps More Than 1%

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Inflation throughout the Riverside metropolitan area climbed 1.4% over the previous two months, largely driven by rising energy costs, according to data released Wednesday by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

THE agency's bimonthly report, which covers northwestern Riverside County as well as the cities of Ontario and San Bernardino, indicated that the metro area's Consumer Price Index shifted to an upward trajectory compared to the start of the year, when a mix of increases and offsetting decreases left the CPI flat.

BLS officials said the energy sector was the primary driver of pocketbook pressure from the beginning of February to the end of March. Gasoline prices jumped 8.8%, while electricity costs rose 3.2%, and natural gas prices notched up .6%, figures showed.

Property rents also went up, reflected in the index's "shelter costs," which increased .9% over the two-month period.

Longer term, the regional CPI was 4.3% higher over the previous 12 months, with rents leading the advance at 7.4%, according to data.

Energy prices were up 3.1%, led by electricity costs, which leapt 10% year-over-year. The BLS said food prices rose 2.6% during the period, and health care expenses were 5.5% higher.

Price tags on some items fell over the last 12 months, including those for household furnishings, which rated a 4.4% drop, and costs on motor vehicles, which declined 3.4%, according to the index.

The report showed inflation was up .4% nationwide in March, and 3.8% from March 2023 to March 2024.

The current rate of inflation reflects the elevated price trajectory impacting most sectors of the economy.

Accelerating consumer price hikes have been blamed by the Biden administration on the war in Ukraine and consequent energy supply disruptions, but critics have pointed to what they call the administration's restrictive domestic energy policies, as well as excessive spending, including the flood of dollars contained in relief packages, as root causes.

The national debt is at $34.6 trillion, after passing $33 trillion just seven months ago, according to the U.S. Treasury Department. Estimated annualized interest rate payments on the country's debt passed the $1 trillion mark in November, according to Bloomberg News. That same month, Moody's Investors Service lowered its outlook on the U.S. credit rating from

"stable" to "negative."

The Federal Reserve's Open Market Committee started gradually increasing its benchmark, or target, lending rate in spring 2022, though the FOMC suspended hikes beginning last summer, leaving the rate at roughly 5.5% on the belief that the pace of inflation had slowed satisfactorily.

The hikes were an attempt to soak up excess liquidity and slow spending. The upturn in inflationary pressure reflected in the latest BLS report for the nation might push FOMC decision-makers to reconsider earlier announcements regarding expectations for rate cuts, according to financial analysts.

Department of Waste Resources Seeks Volunteers for Programs

MORENO VALLEY (CNS) - Riverside County residents who want to make a hands-on difference promoting and demonstrating the benefits of recycling can sign up to volunteer for the Department of Waste Resources' composting and recycling programs, which will be introduced during an orientation Saturday.

"Outreach volunteers assist with classes or events by interacting with the public, answering questions on outreach programs and distributing materials," according to an agency statement. "The ideal volunteer enjoys meeting people, likes to learn new things and is passionate about the environment."

The orientation for prospective volunteers is slated for 8 a.m. to noon Saturday at the department's headquarters, 14310 Frederick St. in Moreno Valley.

Volunteer opportunities

Department of Waste Resources include participation in classes countywide that can ultimately lead to certification and hosting seminars in schools and community gardens, officials said.

"Outreach volunteers can choose to attend extra training and volunteer more hours to become a master composter," the DWR said. "Outreach volunteers are integral to the success of recycling and composting programs and are recognized by the county annually for their dedication and hours worked."

Volunteers can choose the dates and times that are best for them to help the agency with events.

Here's How To Protect Yourself From Common Scams This Tax Season

NEW YORK (AP) — Tax season can come with several headaches, from gathering documents to finding the time to sit down and file. But one pain that you want to avoid is falling for a tax scam.

YEAR-round, scammers look for ways to trick people into giving them money or personal information. There are several common types of scams during tax season, so people should be on the lookout for red flags, said Amy Nofziger, director of victim support at the AARP Fraud Watch Network.

One of the most common types of scams is related to identity theft. Taxpayers usually know their identity has been stolen when they try to file their tax returns and the IRS says they've already done so. This usually means someone else filed in their name in order to receive a refund.

In 2023, the IRS received 294,138 identity theft complaints. The IRS says taxpayers who are victims of tax-related identity theft wait an average of 19 months for the IRS to process their returns and send their refunds.

Here are some expert recommendations to protect yourself from scams during tax season:

Know scammers' tactics

Three common tactics used by scammers are based on fear, urgency and money, said security expert Petros Efstathopoulos. Here's how they work:

— Fear

When a scammer contacts you via phone or email, they use language that makes it seem like there is a problem that you need to solve. For example, a scammer contacts you over email telling you that your tax return has an error and if you don't fix it you'll get in trouble.

— Urgency

Because scammers are good at creating a sense of urgency, people tend to rush, which makes them vulnerable. Scammers often tell people they need to act right away, which can lead to them sharing private information such as their Social Security numbers.

"When people are under pressure and under anxiety, they might do something with the speed that they're not thinking through it and not doing their research," Nofziger said.

— Money

Scammers use money as bait, Efstathopoulos said. They might impersonate tax professionals or the IRS saying you will get a bigger refund than you expect if you pay them for their services or share your personal information.

Check if it's really the IRS contacting you

It's very important to know that the IRS never reaches out via unconventional means, said Dr. Zufikar Ramzan, chief scientist at Aura, a digital security company. The IRS usually contacts taxpayers via physical mail through the U.S. Postal Service.

"Typically, they're going to ask you to contact them either via their website or by sending correspondence directly to their main address, which is easy to verify," Ramzan said.

A common impersonation scam is when someone calls you claiming they work for the IRS and demanding an immediate payment, Nofziger said.

You can find out more about how the IRS contacts people here.

Research tax professionals

If you need help from a tax professional, research them to make sure they are not imposters, Nofziger said.

"You'll see advertisements for low-cost tax preparers that can get you more money than anybody else," Nofziger said. "They will advertise on social media or set up shops in strip malls."

To avoid getting scammed by fake tax preparers, Nofziger recommends that you look for reputable lists. Options include the IRS directory of tax professionals and the AARP Foundation tax-aid locator.

Don't pick up if you don't know who is calling

Scammers often reach out by phone and Efstathopoulos recommends that you don't share information on incoming calls.

"If my bank calls me and says 'Hi, I need some information,' I say 'Thank you very much, I'll call you back on the number I know is yours,'" Efstathopoulos said.

That makes it easier to know for sure that you're not talking to a scammer. As a general rule of thumb, banks don't often call unless there is suspicious activity on your account or if you previously contacted them about a problem with your account.

If you receive many unknown calls that end up being scammers or robocalls, Nofziger recommends using tools available on your phone to block spam. Check here for how to do this on you iPhone and here for Android.

Use all of the technology at your disposal

Filing your taxes early is always recommended in case someone else tries to file for you, Efstathopoulos said. But if that is not an option, you can take other steps that make you less vulnerable to scams. These include using the IRS pin system, having a password manager and checking that your computer doesn't have a virus.

— Identity protection PIN

The IRS offers an identity protection PIN, which is a six-digit number, to protect taxpayers from someone else filing for them. This number helps the IRS verify your identity when you're filing.

"Every time you see an opportunity to turn on two-factor authentication, take it and make sure it's turned on," Efstathopoulos recommended.

— Password manager

Efstathopoulos also recommends using a password manager on your devices to ensure you're utilizing a complex password that scammers can't guess.

— Credit report check

Regularly checking your credit report and bank statements is a good practice since it can help you identify if someone has been using your bank account without your knowledge, Ramzan said. If your bank lets you set alerts for big transactions you should take advantage of that extra security measure, he added.

— Clean your computer

If you're filing your tax returns online, you want to make sure your computer is free of viruses, Ramzan said. Even if the tax filing software you're using is safe, if your computer has a virus, someone could steal your personal information.

Share what you know with loved ones

If you've taken all the necessary steps to protect yourself, you might want to help those around you, Nofziger said. Whether you're helping your grandparents to block unknown callers on their phones or sharing tips with your neighbors, talking with others about how to protect themselves from scams can be very effective.

Scams don't end with tax season

Even when you've already filed your taxes, there are other scams that you should keep an eye out for. Scams surrounding refunds and tax corrections are some of the most common.

"We know that wherever the money is, the criminals are going to be there," Nofziger said. "And that includes this time when there is money being sent to people."

Today in History

Today's Highlight in History: On April 12, 1861, at 4:30 am, the U.S. Civil War began as Confederate forces opened fire on Fort Sumter in South Carolina. Located at the entrance of Charleston Harbor, nearly depleted of ammunition and provisions, surrounded, on fire, and having endured three thousand rounds, Maj. Robert Anderson surrendered the fort the following day, at 2:30 pm. There were no deaths on either side until a spark ignited munitions during an agreed-upon 100-gun salute to the American flag, killing two Union soldiers.

The event, commemorating Ford's life occurred at Eisenhower Health's Anenberg Health Sciences Building, 39-000 Bob Hope Drive.

Her birthday was Monday, April 8.

The stamp design was unveiled at the White House last month, in a ceremony attended by Ford's daughter, Susan Ford Bales.

"Mom would be humbled and grateful beyond words for the extraordinary tribute of her commemorative stamp," Bales said. "To Mom, the stamp would be a heartwarming reminder of joys of millions of breast cancer and substance use disorder survivors who have overcome their diseases and individually added to her legacy of candor and courage."

Ford was an alcoholic and prescription drug addict until she ultimately beat the habits after being diagnosed with breast cancer, as chronicled in her 1978 autobiography, "The Times of My Life."

Her experiences led her to found the Betty Ford Clinic, focusing on treating substance abuse disorders in a residential setting. The first of the nonprofits was established in Rancho Mirage more than 40 years ago. Now there are multiple clinics nationwide.

Former President Gerald Ford and his wife resided in the Coachella Valley. Both died in Rancho Mirage.

The former First Lady's stamp will be issued in panes of 20, according to the Postal Service.

Millennial Money: The Evolution of Retirement-And What it Might Mean for You

By KATE ASHFORD
of NerdWallet

Now that retirement spans more years than ever, you might need to rethink how you're envisioning that stage of your life. Although Americans are retiring a little later than they did 30 years ago, they're also living longer. Retirement isn't a blip on the life radar — it's a significant chunk of time.

WHILE your parents may have retired and never worked another day in their lives, you may find that part-time work when you get older fulfills your mental needs and helps your retirement savings last. You may have to be more aggressive with your investments than you expected. And staying healthy is crucial.

"The questions I'm being asked are different, and the conversations clients are bringing to me are different," says John McGlothlin III, a certified financial planner in Austin, Texas.

Here are the ways retirement might be shaping up for you.

YOU'LL KEEP MORE MONEY IN STOCKS

People used to enter retirement with a conservative-leaning portfolio that held a solid chunk in bonds and cash alternatives. Although advisers aren't suggesting clients throw caution to the wind, they're tweaking the investing plan at this life stage.

"We may just stay a little more aggressive, because the day you retire, you don't need all this money," says Jonathan Swanburg, a CFP in Houston. "Some of this money is for 30 years from now, some of it is for your kids and grandkids because you're never going to touch it."

McGlothlin encourages his clients to exit target date funds at retirement because he thinks they get too conservative. "The moment you hit that retirement date, they all of a sudden go to 50% bonds, and within a few years you're at 60% and 70% bonds," he says. "While bond yields are much better than they were a few years ago, I don't necessarily think I can get clients 20 to 30 years of sustainable withdrawals if I'm that bond heavy."

YOU MAY CHOOSE TO KEEP WORKING

The number of adults age 65 and older who are working is almost twice the number who were working 35 years ago, according to a 2023 Pew Research report. Consulting or part-time work in retirement allows you to withdraw less from your savings and potentially delay taking Social Security, and your investments have more time to grow.

"It gives us flexibility in our asset spend-down picture," says Catherine Valega, a CFP in Winchester, Massachusetts.

"The thought of moving to no more income coming in — that's really stress provoking."

Valega also encourages clients to pursue work and other activities so they don't go stir-crazy. "You're going to have 10 hours in the day that you didn't have before," she says. "You can exercise, and that's great and you should, but beyond that you need some amount of mental stimulation."

YOU MAY WANT TO SAVE FOR IN-HOME CARE

Most adults age 55 and older want to age in place, according to a 2023 survey from the McKinsey Health Institute. Eighty percent wish to live in their own home, and 71% of older adults who aren't living in their own home wish they could.

With home health aides having a national median cost of $27 an hour, according to Genworth's 2021 Cost of Care data, planning for in-home care may require working longer to build the nest egg to pay for it, or even relocating to a city where home services are cheaper. Renovations to make a home more accessible or single-story livable are also helpful.

"I think the generation that's retiring right now, they've seen their parents or their family members go into nursing facilities or assisted living facilities and are pretty much unanimously like, 'I really don't want that,'" McGlothlin says.

YOU'LL (REALLY) WANT TO STAY HEALTHY

The average 35-year-old woman today can expect to live to about age 81 — which means many will live even longer. David Foster, a CFP in St. Louis, now includes articles related to physical fitness and health alongside financial tidbits in his email newsletters to clients.

"That probably just wouldn't have been on top of people's minds 30 or 40 years ago because they weren't likely to live until they were 90," Foster says. "Exercise is good for avoiding cognitive decline and helping with your heart."

Although it may feel a long way off, safeguarding your health now can lower medical costs later, plus help ensure you can work (and play) as long as you're able. That means exercising regularly, eating reasonably healthy foods and getting enough sleep, among other things.

"You can't do anything else if you don't have your health," Foster says.

Landscaping

- Choose the right size plants for the space. Bear in mind that what you're planting today is much smaller than what it will be once it's matured. Always read a plant's care label to understand its optimal growing conditions and size at maturity.

- From a design perspective, think in terms of texture, layers and drifts. When addressing the overall texture of your planting beds, choose plants that vary in form, size, color and leaf structure. This will create greater interest, and a space that's more visually appealing and enjoyable to spend time in.

For a lush look, think in terms of layers when considering composition. Much like in a painting, you should have background, middle ground, and foreground layers. Your background layer should consist of taller evergreen shrubs to provide something alive and green to look at all year long, no matter what's happening in front of them. Your middle ground layer should be lower than the background layer to create interest, and is where you can add a contrasting evergreen shrub or pop of color with a perennial plant. Finally, your foreground layer should help transition the planting beds to your lawn space. You can accomplish this with smaller perennials, evergreens, annuals or creeping ground covers.

When addressing drifts, read the plant labels to know how large they'll grow. This can help ensure plants grow in together as they mature, but are not overcrowded.

Installing Them

1. Dig a hole that's about two times the diameter of the pot your plant's being transplanted from, and about the depth of the pot.

2. Mend in compost or soil conditioner to give your plant the organic material it needs to thrive. If you'd like, add slow-release fertilizer, and mix well.

3. Place your plant in the hole, making sure that it sits at, or just above, the level it did in the pot.

4. Backfill with soil, stopping to add water when the hole is about halfway full.

5. Fill the rest of the hole with soil, then firmly press down.

6. Soak your plant with more water.

7. Finish by adding mulch, making sure it's pulled away from the base of your plant.

Scott offers more insights in "How to Choose Plants for Landscaping," a recent episode of "Done-in-a-Weekend Projects," an original series from Exmark. To watch the video, visit Backyard Life, which is part of a unique multimedia destination with a focus on helping homeowners make the most of outdoor spaces.

"Now that you have the inspiration and know-how needed to choose and install plant material, you can create landscaping that reflects who you are and how you'd like to live outside," says Scott. (StatePoint)

What Parents Need to Know About Climate Change and Children's Health

Excessive heat.

Emerging diseases.

Severe storms and off-season illnesses. The environmental hazards associated with climate change threaten the physical and mental health of children and families — and can be a source of anxiety.

IT'S not just speculation. Communities are already impacted by such climate change effects as heat illness from dangerous temperatures, asthma hospitalizations from earlier and more severe pollen seasons, and trauma from severe wildfires and storms.

"When we talk with parents about what's good for their kids, part of our job is connecting the dots between our changing climate and their children's health," said Dr. Samantha Ahdoot, a pediatrician. "All children need exercise, nutritious food and stable communities to thrive. But climate change poses new challenges for our patients, from struggling to breathe due to wildfire smoke to flooded homes from extreme rainfall events to extreme heat. When we talk about the need to heal the planet, we are also talking about protecting our children's ability to grow up in a safe, healthy world."

Clouds blanketed most of Texas as the total solar eclipse began its diagonal dash across land, starting along Mexico's mostly clear Pacific coast and aiming for Texas and 14 other U.S. states, before exiting into the North Atlantic near Newfoundland.

In Georgetown, Texas, the skies cleared just in time to give spectators a clear view. In other spots, the eclipse played peek-a-boo with the clouds.

"We are really lucky," said Georgetown resident Susan Robertson. "Even with the clouds it is kind of nice, because when it clears up, it is like, Wow!"

"I will never unsee this," said Ahmed Hussein of Austin, who had the eclipse on his calendar for a year.

Just east of Dallas, the hundreds gathered at Mesquite's downtown area cheered and whistled as the clouds parted in the final minutes before totality. As the sun finally became cloaked, the crowd grew louder, whipping off their eclipse glasses to soak in the unforgettable view of the sun's corona, or spiky outer atmosphere, and Venus shining brilliantly off to the right.

Going into Monday's spectacle, northern New England into Canada had the best chances of clear skies, drawing in spectators. The ideal conditions resulted in massive, hourslong traffic jams as visitors headed home.

Holly Randall, who watched from Colebrook, New Hampshire, said experiencing the eclipse was beyond her expectations.

"I didn't expect to cry when I saw it," she said, as tears ran down her face.

The show got underway in the Pacific before noon EDT. As the darkness of totality reached the Mexican resort city of Mazatlán, the faces of spectators were illuminated only by the screens of their cellphones.

The cliff-hanging uncertainty of the weather added to the drama. But the morning's overcast skies in Mesquite didn't rattle Erin Froneberger, who was in town for business and brought along her eclipse glasses.

"We are always just rushing, rushing, rushing," she said. "But this is an event that we can just take a moment, a few seconds that it's going to happen and embrace it."

A festival outside Austin wrapped up early on Monday because of the threat of afternoon storms. Festival organizers urged everyone to pack up and leave.

Eclipse spectators at Niagara Falls State Park had to settle for darkness, but no stunning corona views. As people made their way out of the park a little more than an hour later, the sun broke through.

"I'd give it a 6 out of 10," said Haleigh Thibodeau, who traveled from Buxton, Maine, with her mother.

In Rushville, Indiana, the street lights lit up as darkness fell, drawing cheers and applause from residents gathered on porches and sidewalks.

For some, eclipse day was also their wedding day. Couples exchanged vows in a mass ceremony at a park in Trenton, Ohio.

St. Louis was just outside totality, but that didn't stop residents from taking in the scene from the Mississippi River aboard the Tom Sawyer, a paddlewheel riverboat.

"I almost enjoyed it a little bit more because it didn't go black," said passenger Jeff Smith of St. Louis.

During Monday's full eclipse, the moon slipped right in front of the sun, entirely blocking it. The resulting twilight, with only the sun's outer atmosphere or corona visible, was long enough for birds and other animals to fall silent, and for planets and stars to pop out.

At the Fort Worth Zoo, Adam Hartstone-Rose, a researcher from North Carolina State University, said most animals remained relatively calm. One gorilla climbed atop a pole and stood there for several seconds, likely a sign of vigilance.

"Nobody was doing sort of bonkers behavior," he said.

The out-of-sync darkness lasted up to 4 minutes, 28 seconds. That's almost twice as long as it was during the U.S. coast-to-coast eclipse seven years ago because the moon was closer to Earth.

It took just 1 hour, 40 minutes for the moon's shadow to race more than 4,000 miles (6,500 kilometers) across the continent.

The path of totality — approximately 115 miles (185 kilometers) wide — encompassed several major cities this time, including Dallas; Indianapolis; Cleveland; Buffalo, New York; and Montreal. An estimated 44 million people live within the track, with a couple hundred million more within 200 miles (320 kilometers).

"This may be the most viewed astronomical event in history," said National Air and Space Museum curator Teasel Muir-Harmony, standing outside the museum in Washington, awaiting a partial eclipse.

Experts from NASA and scores of universities were posted along the route, launching research rockets and weather balloons, and conducting experiments.

Monday's celestial sensation held special meaning for Fallon Vahani, who followed the action from the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Blind from birth, the 44-year-old Indianapolis resident moved her fingertips over a Braille table reader, feeling the small plastic bumps pulsing as they traced the moon's path. She'd listened to a radio broadcast of the 2017 eclipse and was eager to try this new method.

"I was very excited when I could finally understand what everyone else was talking about," she said.

While on vacation to Joshua Tree that I wrote about briefly last week, my sister-in-law made potato wedges. And boy were they a hit with everyone. My kids loved them, as did everyone else

AND what's not to like? Crispy edges and a soft middle. Plus, a little salt to meld it all together. I'm hungry just thinking about them.

When I got home, I knew I just had to make them too. So, let's make some potato wedges!

Ingredients

- 3 potatoes
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- Salt

TO MAKE

Preheat the oven to 425 degrees. Cut the potato into ½ inch thick wedges. I cut the potato in half, then starting on one side, I go up ½ an inch from the bottom and cut toward the middle point to make a wedge. Continue all the way through the potato. In a large boil soak your potato wedges in lukewarm water with salt for 15 minutes to 2 hours. Counterintuitively, this will help make the potatoes crispier by pulling out starches and moisture. Dry potatoes with a towel or set out to air dry. In a sheet pan lay out wedges and cover with oil, making sure the wedges are evenly coated. Add more oil if necessary. Salt. Place sheet pans with wedges into the oven and cook until crispy. Depending on the pan, the time will vary. I find a baking steel to be the fastest and sheet pans to be slower. This will take anywhere from 20 to 45 minutes. Pull out of oven and finish with a little more salt if you desire. EAT!

IN 'GIRLS STATE' MISSOURI TEENS STAGE A MOCK GOVERNMENT

By LINDSEY BAHR AP Film Writer

What would an all-female government look like in the U.S.? Or even a majority female government? It's something that remains a fantasy. But for the ambitious high school students in the Girls State program, given the spotlight in a new documentary arriving on Apple TV+ Friday, it's something they can play at for at least a week.

SIX years ago, documentary filmmakers Amanda McBaine and Jesse Moss brought their cameras to the Boys State camp in Texas in the aftermath of a historic and, according to that 2018 class, embarrassing stunt in which their

'GODZILLA X KONG' STILL TOPS AT BOX OFFICE

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - "Godzilla x Kong: The New Empire" kept its spot atop the North American box office this weekend, taking in $31.7 million one week after opening with $80 million, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

The latest mash-up of the long-running monster franchises beat out "Monkey Man," the directorial debut of actor Dev Patel, which opened with $10.1 million, Comscore reported.

"Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire" was third with $9 million Friday through Sunday in its third week in theaters.

"The First Omen" opened in fourth place with $8.3 million, followed by "Kung Fu Panda 4," which grossed $7.8 million in its fifth week.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were "Dune: Part Two" ($7.2 million), "Someone Like You" ($3 million), "Wicked Little Letters" ($1.55 million), "Arthur the King" ($1.54 million) and "Immaculate" ($1.4 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $86.1 million. The year-to-date total is $1.785 billion -- down 10% from the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

than anything else. And they eventually agree to disagree. Minds are not necessarily being changed through these talks, but all seem excited for the opportunity to be heard (and, sometimes, to hear what others have to say).

McBaine and Moss take pains to find a group of main characters with different backgrounds and viewpoints. There's the city girl from St. Louis who thinks she's probably the most liberal of the bunch. There's the reformed conservative who once followed her family but in recent years has started disagreeing. There's a moderate conservative who truly believes in bipartisanship. And there is one Black girl who wonders if she's the first Black person that some of the others have seen. The microaggressions, she says, have been few at least. She ends up being elected attorney general, while the others run for the highest office: governor.

Perhaps the most compelling turn of events is how a bit of camp gossip about Boys State, being held on the same campus for the first time ever, evolves into a movement. The girls are dispirited by rumors of more funding and less fluff for the boys. They also all cringe when time is taken to scold them for wearing shorts and tops that are too revealing and wonder if the boys are getting similar lectures. After the election, one girl takes it upon herself to do some investigative journalism about the rumored inequities.

Like "Boys State," this film presents a fascinating microcosm of American teenagers. Granted, it's a rather narrow, self-selecting group of kids who choose to spend a week of their summer vacation creating a mock government. You wonder whether four or eight years from now, when they are voting and entering the workforce, they'll have a similar interest in politics and policy and the ambition to do something about it. For the sake of democracy, let's hope so — these kids are really something.

"Girls State," an Apple TV+ release streaming Friday, has not been rated by the Motion Picture Association but should be appropriate for most audiences. Running time: 98 minutes. Three stars out of four.

WHAT DID THE AZTEC WARRIORS EAT FOR BREAKFAST?

CHIA SEED PUDDING

By Joanna Barajas

When you think about warriors, you'd think they'd stick to only eating meat.

BUT when we're talking about Aztec warriors one of their primary energy sources was chia seeds.

Why? Because this humble little seed is actually packed with energy.

In fact, the word "chia" means "strength" in Mayan. And when you eat it, it gives you so much energy and endurance.

If we look at the science behind chia seeds, they're full of fiber, antioxidants, and healthy omega-3s.

So, if you wanna wake up strong and full of energy, give these little guys a try.

Here's a simple recipe to get you started...

Matcha Chia Seed Pudding

Ingredients (Serves 4):

- 2 cups unsweetened soy, oat, or almond milk

- 2 Tablespoons agave nectar or maple syrup

- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 teaspoon matcha green tea powder
- 6 Tablespoons chia seeds
- 2 cups fresh fruit

1. Do this the night before: Whisk the milk, agave or syrup, vanilla extract, matcha and chia in a bowl. Wait 5 minutes and stir. Then 5 minutes later, stir again.

2. Let the mixture sit in the refrigerator for at least an hour, or overnight. Once you take it out of the fridge, stir pudding briefly to break up any clumps.

3. To serve, top with fresh fruit. The pudding will keep in the refrigerator for up to 5 days.

I hope you try this new recipe! Snap a picture and tag me @chefjoannas on instagram so I see how yours came out.

Inland Empire's Signature Music Fest Set To Start Friday

INDIO (CNS) - Thousands of celebrants will descend on the Empire Polo Club in Indio today for the start of the two-weekend ``2024 Coachella Valley Music & Arts Festival," replete with artists on the leading edge of contemporary sounds.

CAMPERS were able to check in as early as 9 a.m. Thursday.

The fest runs through Sunday, and again on April 19-21.

Lana Del Rey is set to perform both Fridays of the event, along with Peso Pluma, Lil Uzi Vert, Justice, Ken Carson and Ben Sterling.

Tyler, The Creator is set to be the main stage showcase on Saturdays. Other bands on the slate are Ice Spice, Blur, Jungle, Dom Dolla, Bleachers and Kevin Kaarl.

Doja Cat will close out each weekend on Sundays. She'll be preceded by J Balvin, Jhene Aiko, Ludmilla, Lil Yachty, John Summit and DJ Snake.

An additional stage was added this year, as well as extended three-hour sets, featuring Honey Dijon and Green Velvet on Friday, Michael Bibi on Saturday and Jamie XX, Floating Points and Daphni on Sunday, April 14.

The weekend of April 19-21 will feature Rufus Du Sol the first day, Eric Prydz and Anyma the second day and Diplo and Mau P for the closing number.

No Doubt's official social media page shared a video earlier this year confirming that the band will play together again, with a note now on their website reading ``We'll see you in the desert this April." The reuniting members -- Gwen Stefani, Tony Kanal, Tom Dumont and Adrian Young -- haven't played together since 2015.

Preparations for traffic impacts connected with the fest started last month.

Avenue 50, between Monroe Street and Madison Avenue, has been closed since March 25 and will remain shut down until May 6 for the dual-weekend entertainment and extensive post-fest cleanups required.

According to the city of Indio's traffic plan, beginning Friday, there will be no pedestrian access on Monroe, between Avenue 49 and Avenue 52, nor along Madison Street, between Avenues 50 and 52.

Police cautioned that travel delays will be heavy along Washington Street, between Interstate 10 and Avenue 52, as well as Jefferson Street and Avenues 48 and 50 going into the Empire Polo Club grounds.

Non-campers can start finding their parking spots in the general parking area as early as 11 a.m. Friday to Sunday, before the venue opens at around 1 p.m. each day. Shuttle services will depart from local hotels at 12:30 p.m. daily.

Along with Indio police, other law enforcement agencies will be lending support throughout the event, including the Riverside County Sheriff's Department and California Highway Patrol.

Arrests for various, usually misdemeanor, violations are common during the festival celebrations.

High desert winds, propelling dust clouds, have been known to disrupt the shows. According to the National Weather Service, ``another deep, cold trough (will be) barreling down the west coast and moving across Southern California Saturday or Sunday."

``Refinements on the timing and impacts will be forthcoming... but it will bring windy, cooler weather and a chance for showers (in parts of the Inland Empire)," the NWS said.

Festival information, including the entire list of musical acts set to take the stage, can be found at www.coachella.com/lineup.

County Investing Funds to Promote More Film Production Countywide

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The Board of Supervisors Tuesday approved $150,000 in allocations to support initiatives that promote on-location movie shoots throughout Riverside County.

In a 5-0 vote without comment, the board signed off on the county Office of Economic Development's proposed six-figure appropriation to fund activities by Rancho Mirage-based Visit Greater Palm Springs and Riverside-based Inland Empire Film Services to spotlight the various locations available for production houses to use.

"The positive economic benefit that a film production has the potential to bring to existing Riverside County businesses can be substantial," according to an OED statement. "When a film production chooses a location in Riverside County, the production crew and talent stay in local hotels, eat at local dining establishments and use various other local services. Additionally, production companies typically hire local actors for background or extra work."

The OED will maintain professional services agreements with the two entities until June 30, 2026.

Visit Greater Palm Springs will be responsible for organizing at least two "Film Location Scout Familiarization" tours encompassing the entire Coachella Valley and parts farther east in the desert communities. Inland Empire Film Services will be tasked with organizing at least one FLSF tour covering the western county region, including the mountain communities.

The tours will provide opportunities to promote the inland region's scenic potential, availability of resources and services and ease of processing countywide film shoot permits, which are handled by Inland Empire Film Services, according to officials.

"The program is expected to have a positive economic impact in Riverside County, including increase activity in every sector of the economy and contribution to sales tax revenues, jobs and income," the OED stated.

All the funds for the compacts and tours will be drawn from the county's remaining allotment of federal 2021 American Rescue Plan Act dispersals, which officials said was an allowed use under the economic recovery provisions of ARPA.

The county received $480 million in ARPA distributions and almost $500 million in 2020 Coronavirus Aid, Relief & Economic Security Act money.

Climate and Children

The American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP), which has long recognized the impact of climate change on children, recently announced a new strategic initiative on environmental health and disaster readiness as a priority outlined by its Board of Directors for 2024. The AAP is recommending steps not only for communities and policy makers, but for families. As we celebrate Earth Day on April 22, here are a few suggestions:

- Help your community adopt climate solutions. The AAP recommends a transition away from fossil fuels and toward clean, renewable energy like wind, solar and geothermal. Join forces with a local group to help bring clean energy to your school, town, state or even country. The AAP also recommends that communities incorporate healthy transportation systems, including public transit and walkable, bikeable pathways that allow children to be outdoors and active. Families can get involved at the local level to help create safe routes to walk and bike where you live.

- Let kids know that their voices and advocacy can be powerful. Kids may be inspired to know that some of our most effective and powerful climate advocates today are children and youth. Support their engagement in local, state and national climate solutions.

- Reduce your own energy consumption and waste. Walking, biking, taking public transit, carpooling, and adopting a more plant-forward diet are all ways to help promote health for kids and the planet.
 - Show them you care. Let kids know that their adult caregivers—parents and pediatricians included—are committed to climate action solutions that protect their health and their world.
- More information is available at HealthyChildren.org.

“What is healthy for the planet is also healthy for children,” Dr. Ahdoot said. “Pediatricians and parents share the same goal—to protect children’s health today, and ensure that they have a healthy future in adulthood. Protecting our planet helps preserve a healthy world that can provide all children the nutrition, play, and community stability that they need to thrive.” (StatePoint)

If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 714-730-2727 or visit this internet website www.ndscorp.com/sales, using the file number assigned to this case 23-02821-NACA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are a "representative of all eligible tenant buyers" you may be able to purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 888-264-4010, or visit this internet website www.ndscorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 23-02821-NACA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as a "representative of all eligible tenant buyers" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. *Pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code, the potential rights described herein shall apply only to public auctions taking place on or after January 1, 2021, through December 31, 2025, unless later extended.
