CALIFORNIA HOSPITALS KEEP CLOSING THEIR LABOR WARDS. CAN LAWMAKERS DO ANYTHING ABOUT IT?

BY KRISTEN HWANG,
CalMatters

In just the first few months of 2024, four California hospitals have closed or announced plans to close their maternity wards.

THE closures are part of an accelerating trend unfolding across the state, creating maternity care deserts and decreasing access to prenatal care. In the past three years, 29 hospitals stopped delivering babies, according to a CalMatters investigation on maternity ward closures. Nearly 50 obstetrics departments have closed over the past decade.

ARRESTS DURING FIRST WEEKEND OF COACHELLA MUSIC FEST LESS THAN LAST YEAR

INDIO (CNS) - Despite the big crowds, snarled traffic and other challenges, the number of arrests during the first weekend of the 2024 Coachella Valley Music & Arts Festival were down 20% compared to last year's starting weekend, authorities said Wednesday.

The Indio Police Department's detention and citation figures for Friday morning to Sunday night at the fest showed a total 81 arrests. That compares to 102 during the event's first weekend in 2023.

The number of attendees booked on suspicion of public intoxication or being under the influence of controlled substances was 28, which was equal the number taken into custody for alleged possession of drugs for sale, according to police.

As for the number of citations issued for unauthorized use of handicap placards or parking stalls, there were 47, which represented a 43% decline from the fest's first weekend last year, when 83 citations were written, police said. None of the parties taken into custody or cited were

Improvements Planned Around National Monument in Palm Desert for Earth Day

PALM DESERT (CNS) - U.S. Forest Service rangers are inviting anyone with a desire to contribute to improving the San Bernardino National Forest for Earth Day to join volunteers on Saturday for trail upgrades around the Santa Rosa & San Jacinto Mountains National Monument in Palm Desert.

THE USFS is partnering with the nonprofit Friends of the Desert Mountains, monument staff and the U.S. Bureau of Land Management to carry out a series of Earth Day-oriented activities, all of which will begin and end at the Santa Rosa & San Jacinto Mountains National Monument Visitor Center, 51-55 Highway 74. Anyone interested in lending a hand can join the effort, which will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday, rangers said.

"Volunteers can participate in removing invasive plants and dead vegetation, watering plants, stabilizing trail run-off, removing unauthorized bike trails, updating trail signage and posts and planting native species," according to a USFS statement.

Earth Day will be officially observed on April 22, but the Forest Service and nonprofit organizations are organizing the Palm Desert event and a number of similar outings elsewhere for the weekend, when people have more time.

Earth Day started in 1970 as a nationwide effort to promote environmental awareness and encourage the preservation of natural resources for future generations.

Internet Providers Must Now Be More Transparent About Fees, Pricing, FCC Says

By CORA LEWIS
Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Much like nutritional labels on food products, "broadband labels" for internet packages will soon tell you just what is going into the pricing of your service, thanks to new rules adopted by the Federal Communications Commission this week.

"If you've ever shopped for home or mobile internet, you can understand how hard it can be to understand what you're actually paying for," said Jon Donenberg, Deputy Director of the White House National Economic Council, on a call with reporters. "The broadband nutrition label is a tool that can help consumers make sure they have a clear, straightforward explanation of home and mobile services before signing up for anything."

Following the design of FDA food labels, these broadband labels will provide easy-to-understand, accurate information about the cost and performance of high-speed internet service to help consumers avoid junk fees, price hikes, and other unexpected costs.

Internet service providers selling home access or mobile broadband plans will be required to have a label for each plan beginning April 10.

The labels will be mandated to appear at any point of sale, including online and in stores, and they will be required to disclose all pricing information — including introductory rates, data allowances, and speeds. The labels will also include links to information about network management practices and privacy policies.

Here's what you need to know.

WHAT'S BEHIND THE NEW LABELING?

Hidden fees and unexpected rate hikes have dogged consumers shopping for internet service for years, and the Biden administration has been cracking down on "junk fees" (opaque and misleading fee structures) across industries — including banking, hotel and airline pricing, and utility and phone services — for the past several years.

On a call Tuesday, a spokesperson for the FCC clarified that the labels "cannot be buried in multiple clicks" or hidden in a way that a consumer might miss.

"Fees can make it hard to understand the true cost of an internet plan," said Donenberg, adding that the agency is "committed to rooting out surprise junk fees that some companies pile on to your bills."

WHAT INFORMATION WILL EACH LABEL CONTAIN?

1. Monthly price and contract length
2. Whether that price will change after a certain period and what it will change to
3. Complete list of monthly and one-time fees, and early termination fee
4. Whether the company participates in the Affordable Connectivity Program and link to check if one qualifies
5. "Typical" download and upload speeds, and latency

6. Data cap and price beyond that cap

7. Links to network management (e.g., zero rating and content blocking) and privacy policies

WHAT IF I DON'T UNDERSTAND SOMETHING ON THE LABELS?

A glossary is available to help consumers better understand the information displayed on the label.

WHAT IF A PROVIDER DOESN'T DISPLAY THE LABEL?

If a provider does not display their labels or posts inaccurate information about its fees or service plans, consumers can file a complaint with the FCC Consumer Complaint Center.

WHEN DO THESE RULES TAKE EFFECT?

While many providers will begin displaying their labels in April, some firms with less than 100,000 subscribers will have until Oct. 10, 2024, to comply with the FCC rules.

How to Erase Negative Self-Talk and Feel Better

It's been four years since the collective trauma of the pandemic created widespread grief, anxiety and isolation, but the psychological wounds of this period have not fully healed.

THE American Psychological Association reports continued elevated rates of anxiety and depression among Americans, and mental health experts say that negative self-talk plays a large role in these conditions and other psychological issues. The good news? Individuals can work on subtracting a harmful inner monologue from the equation.

"Simple tools can help people break the cycle of negative self-talk and find some inner peace," says Elizabeth Scott, PhD, a wellness coach, health educator and author of "8 Keys to Stress Management."

That's why Pilot Corporation of America (Pilot Pen) is supporting the Erase Self-Negativity Initiative in partnership with key mental health and wellness experts, including Dr. Scott, and with guidance from America's largest grassroots mental health organization, the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI).

As part of the initiative, Dr. Scott and NAMI have created a guided exercise to help individuals begin their journey toward erasing the disempowering influence that negative self-talk has on their lives. The exercises include writing down the negative beliefs one holds about themselves and then destroying or erasing the writing, a practice that has been found by research to be helpful in minimizing those beliefs.

"Simply externalizing these negative thoughts empowers us to rewrite our narrative and opens the door to giving ourselves more grace," says Dr. Scott.

Dr. Scott stresses that similar to maintaining physical health, consistency is key with mental health. This is why every April 10 will be recognized as National Erase Self-Negativity Day and the initiative will use the 10th of each month, as a day to start or revisit the writing exercise and reflect on personal progress.

Here's what's needed to get started:

1. A quiet, restful location,
2. A desire to create change
3. Paper

4. A FriXion erasable pen, which offers more than just the ability to write and erase completely; but also symbolizes the power individuals have to change things and write more positivity into their story.

The Erase Self-Negativity Worksheet can be found by visiting eraseselfnegativity.com. For additional resources to understand how common, and treatable mental health issues can be, visit nami.org.

"While we can't control the negative messages we might receive from the outside world, we can work on what we tell ourselves. With just a few minutes of quiet time, we can harness the transformative power of writing in a way that will challenge the damaging assumptions we hold about ourselves and foster more self-compassion," says Dr. Scott. Maternity Wards

Now, California lawmakers are trying to slow the trend.

Assemblymember Akilah Weber and Sen. Dave Cortese are pursuing legislation to increase transparency around planned maternity ward closures, potentially giving counties and the state time to intervene.

Weber, a Democrat from La Mesa, wants hospitals to notify the state a year in advance if labor and delivery services are at risk of ending. The measure would also require the state to conduct a community impact report when a hospital indicates that it may lose maternity care.

Cortese, a Democrat from Campbell, wants to increase the public notification requirement of an impending closure from 90 days to 120 days and require the hospital to conduct an analysis of how a closure could increase costs for the county health system, where the next closest maternity wards are located and who is most likely to be affected.

Cortese's bill would also require increased notification for planned closures of inpatient psychiatric services.

"We cannot continue to just discuss these issues and not implement policies to prevent or mitigate the harms and the continued disparities," Weber said during an Assembly Health Committee hearing Tuesday.

Groups representing doctors and reproductive health advocates support the measure. Cortese's bill is supported by nurses and consumer health advocates.

Why are California maternity wards closing?

Ryan Spencer, a lobbyist for the regional chapter of American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists who testified in support of Weber's measure, said there are often situations during birth where "every minute can be the difference between life and death."

"What if you are a patient like this and literally had nowhere to go who had to drive hours upon hours to get care? We have to find a way to end this crisis," Spencer said during his testimony.

Maternity wards are closing for a number of reasons, according to hospital administrators. They cite labor shortages, increasing costs, low reimbursements and declining birth rates.

The California Hospital Association opposes Cortese's bill and has registered "concerns" about Weber's. The group argues that neither bill will address the underlying reasons for maternity ward closures and may cause hospitals to terminate services sooner as employees leave and patients look elsewhere for care, said Kirsten Barlow, vice president of policy with the hospital association during a Senate hearing earlier this month.

Current law requires hospitals to notify the public 90 days before a proposed service cut, but doesn't require additional notification to be given to the state. Weber said that 90 days is "clearly not sufficient for the state to be able to intervene."

Maternity care deserts emerge

CalMatters found that 12 counties have no hospital delivering babies, including Madera County where the sudden closure of the county's only hospital in 2022 spurred a flurry of emergency legislation supporting distressed hospitals.

Madera Community Hospital now is on track to reopen, but without a maternity ward. The company reopening the hospital, American Advanced Management, has indicated that low insurance reimbursement rates factored into its decision to open without labor and delivery.

"Reopening maternity would be like reopening two hospitals at the same time," Matthew Beehler, chief strategy officer at American Advanced Management, previously told CalMatters.

Still, the bill authors and advocates are adamant that access to maternity care is a necessity. National studies indicate that rates of preterm birth increase and women receive less prenatal care when labor and delivery units shut down, particularly in rural areas. CalMatters found that maternity closures in California disproportionately impact low-income and Latino communities.

"This is really a very simple bill. It doesn't do much. It creates a public hearing opportunity at the local level to deal with issues that are... absolutely vital to the survival of our constituents," Cortese said during a Senate Health Committee hearing on his measure.

Only 26% of Americans say they get at least eight hours of sleep, new Gallup poll says

By DEEPTI HAJELA
and LINLEY SANDERS
Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP)

— If you're feeling —
YAWN — sleepy or tired while you read this and wish you could get some more shut-eye, you're not alone. A majority of Americans say they would feel better if they could have more sleep, according to a new poll.

BUT in the U.S., the ethos of grinding and pulling yourself up by your own bootstraps is ubiquitous, both in the country's beginnings and our current environment of always-on technology and work hours. And getting enough sleep can seem like a dream.

The Gallup poll, released Monday, found 57% of Americans say they would feel better if they could get more sleep, while only 42% say they are getting as much sleep as they need. That's a first in Gallup polling since 2001; in 2013, when Americans were last asked, it was just about the reverse — 56% saying they got the needed sleep and 43% saying they didn't.

Younger women, under the age of 50, were especially likely to report they aren't getting enough rest.

The poll also asked respondents to report how many hours of sleep they usually get per night: Only 26% said they got eight or more hours, which is around the amount that sleep experts say is recommended for health and mental well-being. Just over half, 53%, reported getting six to seven hours. And 20% said they got five hours or less, a jump from the 14% who reported getting the least amount of sleep in 2013.

(And just to make you feel even more tired, in 1942, the vast majority of Americans were sleeping more. Some 59% said they slept eight or more hours, while 33% said they slept six to seven hours. What even IS that?)

THE REASONS AREN'T EXACTLY CLEAR

The poll doesn't get into reasons WHY Americans aren't getting the sleep they need, and since Gallup last asked the question in 2013, there's no data breaking down the particular impact of the last four years and the pandemic era.

But what's notable, says Sarah Fioroni, senior researcher at Gallup, is the shift in the last decade toward more Americans thinking they would benefit from more sleep and particularly the jump in the number of those saying they get five or less hours.

"That five hours or less category ... was almost not really heard of in 1942," Fioroni said. "There's almost nobody that said they slept five hours or less."

In modern American life, there also has been "this pervasive belief about how sleep was unnecessary — that it was this period of inactivity where little to nothing was actually happening and that took up time that could have been better used," said Joseph Dzierzewski, vice president for research and scientific affairs at the National Sleep Foundation.

It's only relatively recently that the importance of sleep to physical, mental and emotional health has started to percolate more in the general population, he said.

And there's still a long way to go. For some Americans, like Justine Broughal, 31, a self-employed event planner with two small children, there simply aren't enough hours in the day. So even though she recognizes the importance of sleep, it often comes in below other priorities like her 4-month-old son, who still wakes up throughout the night, or her 3-year-old daughter.

"I really treasure being able to spend time with (my children)," Broughal says. "Part of the benefit of being self-employed is that I get a more flexible schedule, but it's definitely often at the expense of my own care."

THERE'S A CULTURAL BACKDROP TO ALL THIS, TOO

So why are we awake all the time? One likely reason for Americans' sleeplessness is cultural — a longstanding emphasis on industriousness and productivity.

Some of the context is much older than the shift documented in the poll. It includes the Protestants from European countries who colonized the country, said Claude Fischer, a professor of sociology at the graduate school of the University of California, Berkeley. Their belief system included the idea that working hard and being rewarded with success was evidence of divine favor.

"It has been a core part of American culture for centuries," he said. "You could make the argument that it ... in the secularized form over the centuries becomes just a general principle that the morally correct person is somebody who doesn't waste their time."

Jennifer Sherman has seen that in action. In her research in rural American communities over the years, the sociology professor at Washington State University says a common theme among people she interviewed was the importance of having a solid work ethic. That applied not only to paid labor but unpaid labor as well, like making sure the house was clean.

A through line of American cultural mythology is the idea of being "individually responsible for creating our own destinies," she said. "And that does suggest that if you're wasting too much of your time ... that you are responsible for your own failure."

"The other side of the coin is a massive amount of disdain for people considered lazy," she added.

Broughal says she thinks that as parents, her generation is able to let go of some of those expectations. "I prioritize ... spending time with my kids, over keeping my house pristine," she said.

But with two little ones to care for, she said, making peace with a messier house doesn't mean more time to rest: "We're spending family time until, you know, (my 3-year-old) goes to bed at eight and then we're resetting the house, right?"

THE TRADEOFFS OF MORE SLEEP

While the poll only shows a broad shift over the past decade, living through the COVID-19 pandemic may have affected people's sleep patterns. Also discussed in post-COVID life is "revenge bedtime procrastination," in which people put off sleeping and instead scroll on social media or binge a show as a way of trying to handle stress.

Liz Meshel is familiar with that. The 30-year-old American is temporarily living in Bulgaria on a research grant, but also works a part-time job on U.S. hours to make ends meet.

On the nights when her work schedule stretches to 10 p.m., Meshel finds herself in a "revenge procrastination" cycle. She wants some time to herself to decompress before going to sleep and ends up sacrificing sleeping hours to make it happen.

"That applies to bedtime as well, where I'm like, 'Well, I didn't have any me time during the day, and it is now 10 p.m., so I am going to feel totally fine and justified watching X number of episodes of TV, spending this much time on Instagram, as my way to decompress,' she said. "Which obviously will always make the problem worse."

Today in History

Today's Highlight in History: On April 19, 1993, the 51-day siege at the Branch Davidian compound near Waco, Texas, ended as fire destroyed the structure after federal agents began smashing their way in; about 80 people, including two dozen children and sect leader David Koresh, were killed. Then on the same date in 1995, Timothy McVeigh, seeking to strike at the government he blamed for the Waco deaths, destroyed the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City, killing 168 people. (McVeigh was convicted of federal murder charges and executed in 2001.)

ON THIS DATE:

In 1775, the American Revolutionary War began with the battles of Lexington and Concord.

In 1865, a funeral was held at the White House for President Abraham Lincoln, assassinated five days earlier; his coffin was then taken to the U.S. Capitol for a private memorial service in the Rotunda.

In 1897, the first Boston Marathon was held; winner John J. McDermott ran the course in two hours, 55 minutes and 10 seconds.

In 1912, a special subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Committee opened hearings in New York into the Titanic disaster.

In 1943, during World War II, tens of thousands of Jews in the Warsaw Ghetto began a valiant but ultimately futile uprising against Nazi forces.

In 1977, the Supreme Court, in Ingraham v. Wright, ruled 5-4 that even severe spanking of schoolchildren by faculty members did not violate the Eighth Amendment ban against cruel and unusual punishment.

In 1989, 47 sailors were killed when a gun turret exploded aboard the USS Iowa in the Caribbean.

In 2005, Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger of Germany was elected pope in the first conclave of the new millennium; he took the name Benedict XVI.

In 2012, Levon Helm, drummer and singer for The Band, died in New York City at age 71.

In 2013, Dzhokhar Tsarnaev (joh-HAHR' tsahr-NEYE'-ehv), a 19-year-old college student wanted in the Boston Marathon bombings, was taken into custody after a manhunt that had left the city virtually paralyzed; his older brother and alleged accomplice, 26-year-old Tamerlan (TAM'-ehr-luhn), was killed earlier in a furious attempt to escape police.

In 2015, Freddie Gray, a 25-year-old Black man, died a week after suffering a spinal

Retirement Could Come Sooner Than You Think — How to Plan for It

By KATE ASHFORD
of NerdWallet

NEW YORK (AP) — American workers expect to retire at a median age of 65, according to a 2023 survey from the Employee Benefit Research Institute, or EBRI. But the actual median age for retirement is 62, the survey found.

THAT may not seem like a big gap, but if you retire three years earlier than planned, that's three fewer years of savings and three more years of retirement to fund.

This could happen for all sorts of reasons: You (or your partner or your parents) could get sick or disabled, there could be changes at your company, or you could simply burn out on the job. Forty-six percent of retirees exit the workforce sooner than they had planned, according to the EBRI survey, and of those, 35% say they did so due to a hardship (like health issues or disability).

Liz Windisch, a certified financial planner in Denver, has two clients who were laid off in their early 60s and who both ended up retiring. "They looked for a couple of years and finally just gave up," Windisch says. "It is more likely than not that you won't get to work as long as you're planning."

With this in mind, it's helpful to prepare financially for an earlier retirement, even if you plan to work forever. Here are some moves that will help.

SAVE AGGRESSIVELY

The more you can save now, the less you'll be pressed if you can't work as long as you'd like. Be realistic about how much you'll need to maintain the lifestyle you

Ashley Folkes, a CFP in Hoover, Alabama, has clients test-drive living on less for a month or two to see what it might be like in retirement. "A lot of them realize that they really can't get by, or they don't want to have to lower their standard of living to that degree," he says. "It reinforces the fact that they need to save more money now."

Once you're 50 or older, you can make catch-up contributions to your retirement accounts. In 2024, you can contribute an extra $7,500 to your 401(k) and an extra $1,000 to a traditional or Roth IRA. If you're 55 or older, you can also put an extra $1,000 into a health savings account, or HSA, if you have access to one.

AVOID LIFESTYLE CREEP

If you bump up spending every time you get a raise, you're making it more expensive to maintain your lifestyle later. Rather than buying a bigger house, consider paying off your mortgage instead, says Michael Hausknost, a CFP in Long Beach, California.

"Don't think (that) just because you can afford to buy a $100,000 car that you have to buy a $100,000 car," Hausknost says. "Live below your means."

Folkes notes that clients expand their spending to match their new paycheck but don't boost their savings rate accordingly. "You've got to show them they've got to live off about 40% of this inflated lifestyle," he says.

INCLUDE HEALTH CARE IN YOUR SAVINGS GOAL

Unless you've got retirement health benefits or a spouse who's still working, retiring before 65 means paying for your own health insurance until you're eligible for Medicare. This can be done, but you should account for it in your savings plan.

Donnie LaGrange, a CFP in Dallas, estimates that a couple should expect to spend at least $15,000 a year on a health insurance policy that covers both of them before age 65. If someone retires early without taking this expense into account, he says, "it can really drain the portfolio."

PRIORITIZE RETIREMENT OVER COLLEGE

Don't skimp on retirement savings in favor of funding your child's education. You can finance college — but you're on your own for your golden years.

"We are so focused typically, as parents, to provide for our kids' education that we abandon all logic and common sense," Hausknost says. "You have to first be taking care of yourself."

Folkes has worked with clients who want to retire at a certain age but pull six-figure amounts out of their portfolios to pay for college for their children. "I've had to have those tough conversations with clients," he says. "That's a big chunk of money for a lot of people, plus the fact that it doesn't have the ability to compound over the years."

RUN THE NUMBERS

If you're guessing whether you'll have enough money if you have to leave the workforce earlier than planned, get a checkup from a financial professional to be sure. You might be OK saving 10% a year, or you might find that you should be putting away 20% (or more) a year, plus trimming expenses.

Some financial planners will charge by the hour or charge a flat fee for a snapshot financial plan or basic financial consultation. If your situation isn't overly complicated, you could expect to pay $500 to $1,500 for the service.

"It's better to find out early," Windisch says. "Spend that money and course-correct while you still have the opportunity. Investing in your future is worth it."

GARDEN VEGETABLES AND PASTA IN A creamy MARSALA SAUCE

By Connor Forbes

My vegetable garden had some produce remaining that needed to be harvest before I turn my attention to summer crops such as tomatoes. I had carrots, broccoli, and Brussels sprouts in abundance, and I knew I wanted to do something fun with them.

SEPARATELY, I have been messing around with cream sauces and marsala's. In a stroke of curiosity, I wondered what it would be like if I combined the 2 together. So, I set out to throw everything together and hope it worked out. And boy did it!

Ingredients

- 1 lb chicken, thinly sliced
- 2 oz Brussels sprouts, quartered
- 4 oz broccoli
- 6 ounce cherry tomato
- 6 ounce carrots
- 1 shallot, sliced
- 4 cloves garlic sliced

- ¼ cup marsala wine
- ¼ cup heavy whipping cream
- 16 oz pasta
- 2 tbsp oil, separated
- salt

To Make

Boil water and cook pasta to recommendation on bag.

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. On a sheet pan lay your carrots out and cover in 1 tbsp oil and sprinkle with salt. Roast in the oven for about 25 minutes flipping once mid-way.

Heat a large pan, on medium heat high heat. Add 1 tbsp of oil and add shallots and tomatoes. Blister for about 4 minutes mixing occasionally. Add the chicken, broccoli and Brussels sprouts and cook for 2 minutes. Add marsala wine and garlic and let simmer for 2 minutes. Turn heat down to medium low and add the heavy cream. Simmer for 2 more minutes. Add the roasted carrots and pasta. Mix all together. Salt to taste. Eat!

"CIVIL WAR"

By Bob Garver

"Civil War" presents one of the most intriguing premises of the year, maybe of the last several years: what if Texas and California were to secede from the United States and join forces to wage war against their former home country? In short, everyone would lose. The economy would tank so badly that $300 would buy you a ham sandwich or cheese sandwich – but not both. There wouldn't be a sports stadium left for sports and not crisis centers. Violence and death would lurk around every corner. And needless to say, things would be a nightmare for the press.

KIRSTEN Dunst stars as Lee Smith, a hardened photographer. She's not without her compassionate side, giving her life-saving press jacket to stranger Jessie (Cailee Spaeny) during a riot in New York City. But otherwise, she is fearlessly committed to bringing America (whatever that means anymore) the truth about the war. She and her colleague Joel (Wagner Moura) set off to Washington D.C. to get what will likely be the final interview with the President (Nick Offerman) before advancing Western forces inevitably take him. The two are joined by occasionally-annoying tagalong Jessie and veteran reporter Sammy (Stephen McKinley Henderson, always a great scene-stealing presence, and here making the most of his most high-profile role to date).

Much of "Civil War" is a glorified road trip movie largely set in rural areas, which I suppose makes sense since the movie can't afford to show major cities getting torn to pieces in every scene. But the small-scale villains are even scarier than the large-scale ones, with fewer authorities than ever around to keep them in check. The team visit a gas station where thieves are tortured for as long as the captors can have fun torturing them. Even worse is a militia group filling a mass grave of civilians that were probably not killed as an act of war, but whose disappeared lazily blame

'CIVIL WAR' OPENS WITH $25.7 MILLION TO LEAD BOX OFFICE

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - "Civil War" toppled "Godzilla x Kong: The New Empire" from its perch atop the box office, opening with $25.7 million this weekend to lead all films in North America, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

Writer/director Alex Garland's drama stars Kirsten Dunst, and imagines a near future in which the United States is embroiled in sectarian conflict under an authoritarian president.

"Godzilla x Kong: The New Empire" grossed $15.4 million after spending its first two weeks in first place, Comscore reported.

"Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire" was third with $5.8 million Friday through Sunday in its fourth week in theaters.

"Kung Fu Panda 4" was in fourth place with $5.5 million in its sixth week, followed by "Dune: Part Two" with $4.3 million in its seventh week.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were "Monkey Man" ($4.1 million), "The First Omen" ($3.7 million), "The Long Game" ($1.39 million), "Shrek 2" ($1.35 million) and "SUGA - Agust D Tour 'D-DAY' The Movie," which opened Wednesday and grossed $990,881.

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $74.3 million. The year-to-date total is $1.887 billion -- down 16% from the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

growing budgets. Maybe there's a future for "Civil War" as a franchise. The sequels will need to spend more money, though, because the D.C.-set finale of this movie looks rushed and cheap.

"Civil War" might be onto something as a first chapter in a series that will have many sequels and prequels. On its own, however, I found it bland. There are certainly some powerful scenes, like one with an unbilled Jesse Plemons as a militia member chillingly doling out death sentences according to his whims. The stars of Moura, Spaeny, and Henderson are deservedly going to rise thanks to their performances here, though I can't be the only one who walked out of the theater thinking that Spaeny's character was responsible for too many deaths for her character to be likeable. I can't say the film lives up to the ambitiousness of its premise, but with more worldbuilding in future installments, there's potential here for a memorable dystopian future.

Grade: C

"Civil War" is rated R for strong violent content, bloody/disturbing images, and language throughout. Its running time is 109 minutes.

7 REASONS TO UPGRADE TO ELECTRIC AND INDUCTION COOKING APPLIANCES

Cooking with gas? Industry experts say there are many reasons to consider retiring your gas-powered appliances.

TO help you understand what your kitchen may be missing, Melissa Haber, the vice president of EuroChef USA, the exclusive importer of the Verona and Lofra brands of residential cooking appliances, offers seven reasons why your next home upgrade should include making the swap to electric or induction cooking.

1. You're health- and eco-conscious. Gas appliances at home are associated with an increased risk of asthma and other illnesses, particularly in children, as they emit harmful air pollutants like nitrogen dioxide and methane, even when they're not in use. The same pollutants are also harmful to the environment, contributing to air quality issues and climate change. In fact, national annual emissions from gas cooktops are equivalent to the emissions transmitted from half a million cars.

2. They're easy to maintain. Compared to the metal grates of a conventional gas stove, the flat surface of an electric or induction cooktop is nearly effortless to clean. A damp dish rag and soap works for most cleanup sessions. For more involved messes, a little vinegar goes a long way.

3. They offer safety benefits. With no open flame, electric appliances lower the risk of burns or fires, particularly those with safety features such as "power on" lights and residual heat warnings that inform users when the surface is still hot. Induction cooking also has safety benefits, since only the cooking vessel is directly heated and the surface of the cooktop itself does not retain or give off heat.

4. You value precision. Induction cooking is faster and more efficient than cooking with gas. The high-end induction ranges offered by the Italian brand Lofra, which combine elegant design with modern cooking features, are a good example of how accurate temperature control allows you to prepare meals like a professional in the comfort of home.

5. Making changes can be feasible. Installing a gas hookup can be costly, time-consuming and involve inspections. The installation process for electric appliances on the other hand is easier and less expensive. Not able to replace your gas appliances with electric? Investing in a range hood is a sensible solution that can cut your appliance's air pollution by about half.

6. You'll be ahead of the curve. A growing number of cities and municipalities are banning new gas hookups for appliances to reduce air pollution and help fight climate change. Making the switch to electric or induction can help you get ahead of the regulatory curve.

7. New options are being introduced. With sales of electric appliances on the rise, a few select manufacturers have taken note, and to meet customer demand, have recently introduced additional options offering style and sought-after features. For example, the Italian brand Verona offers electric ranges in its Prestige and Designer Collections that deliver an upgraded look, with single and double oven options to suit varying needs and tastes. All are equipped with five burners that accommodate pots of any size, and a multi-tasking dual element that ranges from simmer to boil with the simple turn of a knob.

"As more consumers have come to realize the value and advantages of electric and induction cooking, it became important to us to offer them the same versatility and style they might expect with traditional gas-powered cooking appliances," says Haber.

Whether you want to prioritize your family's health and safety, or you simply want to embrace the convenience of modern cooking technology, electric and induction appliances can be a game changer in your kitchen. (StatePoint)

Censored on Final Approach is Debut Production for New Meniffee Stage Group

MENIFEE - It was a sign of the times, even during the extreme need for manpower during World War II. The idea that womanpower in the form of pilots, could also contribute to the Army Air Force wasn't a concept raging with popularity.

ONE thing for women to fill the manufacturing jobs vacated by the men who went off to the service, the women collectively known as "Rosie the Riveter." But taking to the air, as military pilots?

Barely two decades after women gained the right to vote, this was just too much for many, especially the men making the decisions. Even though no one was suggesting combat missions overseas. The idea was to provide support pilots to essential roles in the States.

Jacqueline Cochran, a famed pilot in the day wasn't waiting around for permission and left for England with a group of women to perform non-combat piloting services for the British Air Transport Auxiliary.

When she returned stateside to recruit a second group of female pilots, she learned that the Army Air Force had reconsidered to a degree, forming the Women's Auxiliary Ferrying Squadron, (WAFS) in September 1942. Initially, it was a group of just 25 female pilots ferrying military planes from the factory to domestic air bases.

Enlisting the aid of Gen. "Hap" Arnold of the Army Air Force, Cochran, and Arnold convinced the powers they could provide more women pilots flying more tasks and in August 1943 the WAFS and another group were merged to form the WASPs, Women Airforce Service Pilots.

According to the U.S. Army, "in the 16 months the WASPs existed, more than 25,000 women applied for training; only 1,879 candidates were accepted. Among them, 1,074 completed the grueling program - a better "wash-out" rate than 50 percent of male pilot cadets."

In addition to "ferrying, testing and delivering planes for repair, they also performed check flights, put flying time on new engines, towed targets for anti-aircraft gunnery practice, flew searchlight tracking missions, and instructed male pilot cadets."

And for the most part, it happened on the down low.

This weekend, the newly created Vagabond Theater Group of Meniffee debuts its initial production, "Censored on Final Approach," written by the late playwright Phylis Ravel. Based on true incidents, the play focuses on 4 WASP pilots and their struggles with sexual harassment, discrimination, and even sabotage.

"We want to enrich local communities with performing arts productions, top-tier classes, and unique outreach programs," Vagabond's Executive Director Sarah Gibbon relates. "We are also dedicated to Senior Outreach, to take the arts to senior communities - senior homes, centers, and facilities."

Board Member and the historical consultant for the show, Larry Sichter notes the subject holds particular interest to the IE, as some WASPs were stationed at March Field, while Gen. Arnold commanded the base in the 1930's.

The WASPs were short-lived and often forgotten, disbanded in December 1944, sent home with a grateful, but patronizing salute from Gen. Arnold.

"When we needed you, you came through and have served most commendably under very difficult circumstances, but now the war situation has changed and the time has come when your volunteer services are no longer needed. The situation is that if you continue in service, you will be replacing instead of releasing our young men. I know the WASP wouldn't want that. I want you to know that I appreciate your war service and the AAF will miss you..."

It wasn't until 1977 that President Jimmy Carter signed into law a bill that recognized the active military service of the WASP.

Censored on Final Approach runs this weekend, April 19, 20 & 21, at the UCC Community Center (27070 Sun City Blvd, Meniffee). Ticket information is available at www.vagabondmeniffee.org.

Kawhi Leonard Selected For US Men's Olympic Basketball Team

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Former Martin Luther King High School standout Kawhi Leonard was among the 12-player U.S. Olympic men's basketball team announced Wednesday by USA Basketball.

The Los Angeles Clippers forward is among the five first-time Olympians on the team, along with Golden State Warriors guard Stephen Curry, Minnesota Timberwolves guard Anthony Edwards, Philadelphia 76ers center Joel Embiid and Indiana Pacers guard Tyrese Haliburton.

The team also includes five members of the gold medal-winning U.S. team from the Tokyo Olympics seeking a second consecutive gold medal -- Boston Celtics teammates Jrue Holiday and Jayson Tatum, Miami Heat center Bam Adebayo and Phoenix Suns teammates

Devin Booker and Kevin Durant, also a member of the 2012 and 2016 gold medal-winning teams.

Two other gold medal winners are also on the team -- LeBron James, a member of the U.S. gold medal-winning 2008 and 2012 teams and 2004 team that won the bronze medal, and his Los Angeles Laker teammate Anthony Davis, also a member of the 2012 team.

The U.S. will be coached by Warriors coach Steve Kerr. Clippers coach Tyronn Lue is among the assistant coaches, along with Gonzaga coach Mark Few and Heat coach Erik Spoelstra.

The U.S. will begin Olympic play July 28 against Serbia in Lille, France, where group play will be held. The knockout and medal rounds of the 5x5 Olympic tournament will be played in Paris.

The U.S. will begin exhibition play July 10 in Las Vegas against Canada.

The U.S. has won four consecutive Olympic gold medals in 5x5 men's basketball and seven of the eight since professionals were first allowed to play in the 1992 Barcelona Games.

The announcement came 100 days before the July 26 opening ceremony for the Paris Games.

Inaugural 'Cactus Cup' College Hockey Meet Announced for CV

PALM DESERT (CNS) - The first college hockey tournament series hosted in the Coachella Valley is slated for the start of 2025, it was announced Monday.

THE inaugural "Coachella Valley Cactus Cup" will pit four NCAA Division I Men's teams against each other on Jan. 3 and

Jan. 4 at Acrisure Arena, according to the venue Senior Vice President John Page.

"We are thrilled to host the inaugural Coachella Valley Cactus Cup 2025," Page said. "This tournament will feature some of the nation's most exciting ... hockey teams, providing fans with an unparalleled experience of high-stakes hockey action."

He said the sports entertainment is certain to be "intense, showcasing the competitive spirit of college hockey at its finest."

The arena is home to the Coachella Valley Firebirds, part of the American Hockey League and affiliated with the National Hockey League's Seattle Kraken.

The teams scheduled to compete for the cup are the Holy Cross College Crusaders, the University of Massachusetts-Lowell River Hawks, the Michigan Tech University Huskies and the Nebraska University Mavericks.

"We are excited to be headed to the Cactus Cup next winter," Holy Cross Coach Bill Riga said. "It will be a great opportunity to compete against three great college hockey programs in an unconventional setting that will allow us help to spread the Holy Cross hockey brand and the overall college hockey product all the way to the west coast."

Michigan Tech Coach Joe Shawhan hailed the Cactus Cup as a "great opportunity for our team to play high-quality non-conference opponents."

"We have a large alumni base in the area who are looking forward to watching the Huskies in their backyard," he said.

Ticket sales for the event will start Tuesday, reserved exclusively for students and alumni from each university, and sales to the general public will begin Thursday, according to Acrisure Arena.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 833-561-0243 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site WWW.SALES.BDFGROUP.COM for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case 00000009862939. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 833-561-0243, or visit this internet website WWW.SALES.BDFGROUP.COM using the file number assigned to this case 00000009862939 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:

FREDERICK LAWRENCE GREEN AKA FREDERICK L. GREEN AKA FREDERICK GREEN
CASE NO. PRRI2400744
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of FREDERICK LAWRENCE GREEN AKA FREDERICK L. GREEN AKA FREDERICK GREEN.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by FREDERICK LAWRENCE GREEN, JR. in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that FREDERICK LAWRENCE GREEN, JR. be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 05/01/24 at 8:30AM in Dept. 12 located at 4050 MAIN STREET, RIVERSIDE, CA 92501

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California

Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

(This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 5/8/2024 at 8:30 AM in Department 12 located at 4050 Main St, Riverside, CA 92501.
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
