Record-Setting "Blackbird" Pilot to be Honored at March Air Museum

Record-setting pilot Ed Yeilding (l) and reconnaissance specialist, J.T. Vida (r) hold certificates commemorating their one-hour and four-minute cross-country flight in an SR-71 Blackbird in 1990.

By JERRY SOIFER

Ed Yeilding was debating his father, Bill, in 1969. Ed was beginning work toward a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering at Auburn University in Alabama with the intent of a career in military aviation. Dad urged his son to choose the U.S. Navy, which he had served during World War II.

But son Ed joined the Air Force ROTC (Reserve Officers' Training Corps) at Auburn, hoping to one day fly the SR-71. Nicknamed the "Blackbird," the triple-sonic spy plane, placed into service three years earlier, remains today the fastest (Mach 3.2) and highest flying (85 thousand feet) level flight aircraft ever built.

Entering active duty upon graduation from Auburn in 1972, Yeilding initially flew RF-4 Phantom

Jets, then the F-4E. His excellence led to the cherished goal of piloting the legendary Blackbird Fast-forward to March 6, 1990. Yeilding's father, Bill, and mother, Carolyn, were among thousands crowding the grounds at Dulles International Airport in northern Virginia, awaiting their son's landing on a record-setting transcontinental flight.

In less time than it can take to collect baggage at LAX, Lt. Col. Ed Yeilding and Lt. Col. Joseph "J.T." Vida flew the 2,404 miles from Palmdale to Dulles ("Radar fixes" timed from LAX to Dulles) in 64 minutes and 20 seconds, at an average speed of 2,124.5 miles per hour. It was that Blackbird's final flight, before retirement in the Smithsonian.

"The chances of me having that opportunity were slim to none," Yeilding said. "It really is amazing how that happened. I feel so blessed."

His achievements have not been forgotten. Next Friday, October 25, U.S. Air Force Lt Col (ret) Ed Yeilding will be honored at the March Air Museum's Champions of Flight Annual Dinner.

In honoring Yeilding, the museum states, "The Champions of Flight award recognizes the extraordinary men and women who have pushed the boundaries of aviation, challenging the limits of human achievement and inspiring generations to reach for the skies. Lt. Col. Ed Yeilding exemplifies the spirit of innovation and courage that this award represents."

LOWRIDING IS MORE THAN JUST CARS. IT'S ABOUT FAMILY AND CULTURE FOR MEXICAN-AMERICANS

CHICAGO (AP) — For Luis Martinez, competing in lowriding bike and car competitions is about more than glory and bragging rights. The lowrider clubs in the Chicago area have become like one big family and a source of mutual support

"It just starts with the metal," said Martinez, who got his introduction to lowrider culture when his mother took him to a flea market. He had his first bike when he was 12.

"To me, it's about expressing my art and what I can do with my own hands," Martinez told The Associated Press as he polished a shiny red bike at his home in Mishawaka, Indiana.

A movement of expression with origins in Mexican American and Chicano communities, lowriding is an aspect of Latino history in the U.S. in which people show their pride, honor family and uplift culture. But misrepresentation of the culture in entertainment and media has often associated the lowriding's "low and slow" motto with gang culture.

Still, decades since its emergence, and as the Hispanic U.S. population increases, lowriding has experienced a boom, as evidenced by an increase in car shows and conventions nationwide.

Lowriding involves the customization of a vehicle — from the tires to the sound system — with vivid designs and colors. Unlike hot rods or muscle cars, which are often modified to have big tires and move at high speeds, the lowrider community modified the cars and bikes to go "low and slow," said Alberto Pulido, the chair of the Ethnic Studies department at the University of San Diego.

Two Brothers Suspected of Multiple Weapon Violations Arrested

PERRIS (CNS) - Two brothers in their 20s suspected of multiple weapon violations in Perris were taken into custody in that city authorities announced Tuesday.

Perris Sheriff's Station deputies were sent to the 1600 block of Alberhill Street on Monday to execute an arrest warrant for 24-year-old Raymond Martinez, according to the Riverside County Sheriff's Department.

Deputies located Raymond and his 22-year-old brother, Ulyses Martinez, both residents of Perris, at the residence. Raymond attempted to elude law enforcement but was eventually found inside the garage and taken into custody.

While taking Raymond into custody, deputies saw ballistic vests, an assault rifle, and ammunition in the garage," sheriff's officials said in a statement.

Investigators obtained a search warrant for the residence and seized 10 firearms, several ballistic vests and plates, 24 rifle and pistol magazines, hundreds of live rounds in different calibers, miscellaneous gun parts and items indicative of weapons manufacturing, 60 pounds of processed marijuana, and 1,115 grams of concentrated cannabis.

Riverside Sheriff's Marijuana Eradication Team personnel assisted with the investigation due to the large quantity of cannabis at the scene.

A search warrant was executed for the marijuana products, and the MET seized approximately $73,000 worth of items.

The brothers were booked into the Cois Byrd Detention Center on suspicion of multiple weapon violations.

Anyone with information regarding the case was urged to call Deputy Hartert of the Perris Sheriff's Station at 951-210-1000.

Regional Inflation Held in Check Since August

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Inflation throughout the Riverside metropolitan area was unchanged over the previous two months as rising price levels in some sectors of the regional economy were offset by drops elsewhere, according to data released Thursday by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The agency's bimonthly report, which covers northwestern Riverside County, as well as the cities of Ontario and San Bernardino, indicated that the Inland Empire's Consumer Price Index was flat compared to the summer season, when the CPI measured a modest uptick.

BLS officials said the energy sector accounted for the sharpest decline, registering a 1.9% drop in the months of August and September thanks to lower costs at the gas pump. Property rents, reflected in the index's "shelter costs," also fell, by about a half-percentage point, while prices on recreational activity, such as admission to entertainment venues, were down 2.7% over the two-month period, according to data.

However, trending higher were grocery prices, which climbed 1.2%, along with healthcare expenses and apparel costs, which rose 1.6% and 5.2%, respectively, according to federal officials.

Longer term, the regional CPI was 1.4% higher over the previous 12 months, with healthcare increasing the most at 7.7%, followed by rents at 3.6% and grocery prices at 3.1%, figures showed.

Energy costs were down 14.4% over the yearlong period, with prices on miscellaneous "goods and services" down 4.9% and household furnishings expenses registering a 3.3% slide on the year-over-year CPI.

The report showed inflation was up .2% nationwide last month, and 3.3% from September 2023 to September 2024.

The current rate of inflation reflects the elevated price trajectory impacting most sectors of the economy.

Accelerating consumer price hikes have been blamed by the Biden administration on the war in Ukraine and consequent energy supply disruptions, but critics have pointed to the administration's restrictive domestic energy policies, as well as excessive spending, including the flood of dollars contained in relief packages, as root causes.

The national debt is $35.3 trillion, after passing $33 trillion a year ago, according to the U.S. Treasury Department. Estimated annualized interest rate payments on the country's debt passed the $1 trillion mark in November 2023, according to Bloomberg News. That same month, Moody's Investors Service lowered its outlook on the U.S.'s credit rating from "stable" to "negative."

The Federal Reserve's Open Market Committee gradually increased its benchmark, or target, lending rate in the spring of 2022 to soak up excess liquidity, though the FOMC suspended hikes last fall, and during its meeting last month, the committee announced a half-percentage point reduction, bringing the rate down to roughly 5% on the belief that inflation had been tamed.

WHAT TO KNOW About This Year's Social Security Cost-of-Living Adjustment

By ADRIANA MORGA AND CORA LEWIS Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Tens of millions of older Americans will see an increase in benefits this January when a new cost-of-living adjustment is added to Social Security payments.

The 2.5% raise is intended to help meet higher prices for food, fuel, and other goods and services. The average recipient will see an increase of about $50 per month, according to agency officials. Social Security recipients received a 3.2% increase in their benefits in 2024, and some retirees are concerned that this year's increase is not big enough to meet their needs.

The Social Security Administration will begin notifying recipients about their new benefit amount by mail starting in early December. Adjusted payments to nearly 7.5 million people receiving Supplemental Security Income will begin on December 31. Supplemental Security Income provides monthly payments to adults and children who have income below specific financial limits and qualify to receive Social Security benefits.

Here's what to keep in mind: How does Social Security work?

About 72.5 million people, including retirees, disabled people and children, get Social Security benefits.

The program is funded by taxes on income subject to Social Security payroll taxes. The government uses taxes from working people to pay benefits to people who have already retired, people who are disabled, the survivors of workers who have died, and dependents of beneficiaries. In 2025, the Social Security payroll tax will be assessed on the first $176,100 of income, up from $168,600 this year

While the money is used to pay people currently receiving benefits, any unused money goes to the Social Security trust fund. Some of the money in the trust, together with the Social Security contributions of people in the workforce, pays for future benefits.

To determine what amount of Social Security you'll receive, the government calculates a percentage of your highest wages from your top 35 years of earning, factoring in when you choose to start receiving benefits.

How is the cost of living adjustment calculated?

The COLA is calculated according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Consumer Price Index, but there are calls to use a different index — one that measures price changes based on the spending patterns of the elderly — like healthcare, food and medicine costs.

The smaller increase for 2025 is because inflation is slowing. That means prices aren't increasing as fast as they were at the height of the COVID pandemic. Recipients got a historically large 8.7% benefit increase in 2023 because of record high inflation.

Is the trust running out of money?

Future problems with the fund have long been predicted, largely because of demographic shifts. As birthrates decline, fewer people become workers, which results in fewer payments of payroll taxes. Meanwhile, more Baby Boomers are retiring and collecting Social Security.

The annual Social Security and Medicare trustees report released in May said the program's trust fund will be unable to pay full benefits beginning in 2035. If the trust fund is depleted, the government will be able to pay only 83% of scheduled benefits, the report said.

Fall Back into a Healthy Routine with These 3 Easy Tips

The fall season is upon us and it's the perfect time to reset and renew. Simple and small modifications to your daily exercise and nutrition routines can make a huge difference—and these three easy tips will help you “fall” back into a good routine.

Sneak in Extra Steps

Fall is a refreshing time of year to get moving, especially as we welcome a break from the summer heat. Engaging in simple cardiovascular exercise weekly is key. It can help maintain healthy cholesterol and blood pressure levels. If working out regularly is daunting, instead, find simple ways to be active in your daily life. Use a smaller cup for your water, allowing you to get up more often to refill it, take the stairs instead of the elevator or park a bit farther from your destination—all these habits will encourage you to take more steps per day.

Make Healthy Swaps

Looking to eat healthier? The fall season offers an abundance of delicious vegetables and fruits for an easy swap out. Start small by trading out a bag of chips for an apple or fries for sweet potatoes. You are what you eat, and your gut microbiome plays a major role in your health. Ultra-processed diets negatively impact gut health and throw off the omega-6 to omega-3 ratio, which can lead to chronic inflammation. Inflammation lessens your ability to function properly at the cellular level and increases your vulnerability to lifestyle diseases.

Focus on Whole Body Health

A fall reset should focus on whole body health and that starts with your cells. Your body is made up of trillions of cells that help keep you functioning and thriving and supporting them is crucial.

Krill oil is an effective supplement for keeping your cells and whole body healthy. What distinguishes krill oil from other marine oils, is that it is a natural multi nutrient. Meaning, that from the source, krill oil already contains several essential and cellular nutrients all in one, including omega-3s, phospholipids, choline and astaxanthin. The body's cells need to get these nutrients from the diet on a consistent basis.

In krill oil, the omega-3s are bound to phospholipids, making them more easily absorbed by the body. This means you get more of the beneficial omega-3s in a form that your body can use efficiently.

“By adding a supplement like krill oil to our lives, we are helping ourselves in a big way,” says Thomas Repstad, nutritionist and global technical marketing manager at Aker BioMarine, a biotech innovator and supplier of Superba Krill. “The real X factor in krill oil is its phospholipid advantage. Around each cell and membrane, we have phospholipids that help maintain the cell's strength, flexibility, and integrity. Phospholipids are also naturally found in krill oil, delivering total body benefits at a cellular level.”

WHAT “TRAINING TO FAILURE” MEANS AND HOW TO INCORPORATE INTO YOUR WORKOUT

By MARIA CHENG AP Medical Writer

LONDON — No pain, no gain, as the old exercise adage goes. But just how much pain do you have to endure to benefit from weight training? That depends on what you're trying to accomplish, fitness experts say.

For years, some trainers have instructed gym-goers that to get the best results, they need to train “until failure,” meaning until you cannot physically do one more repetition or exercise. Some recent studies, however, suggest this extreme regimen, when applied to weight training, may only benefit certain people.

“If somebody wants to increase muscle mass as much as they possibly can, then training to failure is something to consider,” said Michael Zourdos, chair of exercise science and health promotion at Florida Atlantic University, who co-authored a review of 55 research papers on the subject in the journal, Sports Medicine.

Zourdos and colleagues found that lifting weights “until failure” may build bigger muscles, but isn't needed to increase strength. He said people who work out hard, but don't push themselves to exhaustion, will still likely improve their health and fitness. “There is a difference between training for health and training for elite performance benefits,” he said.

For the average person simply looking to increase their fitness levels, Zourdos said it's much easier to get results. He said people who work out regularly would benefit from an intense session that comes within five to 10 repetitions of failure, rather than training to complete exhaustion.

He also said “failure training” often comes at a cost, since people working to that standard might be so tired and sore that they skip their next gym session or two.

In extremely rare instances, overdoing it can be harmful, leading to a potentially fatal condition called rhabdomyolysis, where damaged muscles begin to break down, possibly causing kidney damage.

James Fisher, a sport science expert and consultant in Southampton, England, said the idea of working until complete

He flew 93 overseas reconnaissance missions in the SR-71, an aircraft capable of outracing surface-to-air missiles.

In 1986, during the Cold War, Yeilding was flying when he saw a Soviet MiG attempt a zoom climb, no closer than eight miles, then fell away, out of airspeed. Yeilding stayed on track and captured the target images for the mission.

Yeilding reveals, "The SR-71 simulator training was extremely valuable! It had no outside visual screens and no motion as modern simulators have.

Yeilding and J.T. Vida were later the senior pilot and RSO (reconnaissance systems officer) at the test facility in Palmdale. Vida died two years after the record flight.

Yeilding reached the pinnacle of aviation because of his ambition and engineering know-how, said retired Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas Fuhrman, an RSO who flew with Yeilding for two years.

"I had supreme confidence in Ed," said Fuhrman. "He definitely has the 'Right Stuff' and this is why he was chosen from the operational crew force to

After his SR-71 days ended, Yeilding became a pilot at Andrews AFB, shuttling federal government officials to various assignments. Retiring after 23 years of service, he became a commercial airline pilot for Northwest Airlines, retiring again in 2009 when the airline merged with Delta.

After the flight to Dulles in 1990, that SR-71, tail number 61-7972, was retired and is now on exhibit at the Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum in Chantilly, Virginia.

Lowriders

"It was a way to speak to an identity, a presence and it was done with few resources," said Pulido, who also directed the award-winning documentary, "Lowriding: Everything Comes From the Streets."

"We call that Chicano ingenuity."

"Our community didn't have a lot of money," he said. "They might have had a little bit expendable income to buy a car but then they were kind of on their own to create their vehicles. We call that Chicano ingenuity."

Lowriding blends Latino and American culture

According to Pulido, lowriding originated in the Southwest, although there are disputes about where exactly it first appeared. Pulido said lowriders in Los Angeles would like to make the claim they were the first, while those in San Diego want their undeniable influence in the culture acknowledged.

The culture can be traced to post-World War II, when veterans were coming home with an expendable income. And with the growth of highways and freeways in California, people wanted to modify their vehicles, Pulido said.

Today, conventions attract enthusiasts from all over the U.S. Last month, what was once a small showcase with only 40 lowriders at Lincoln Park in El Paso, Texas, grew to over 300 lowriders from clubs across the U.S.

Hector Gonzalez, of the Lincoln Park Conservation Committee, said the car clubs help members travel to all the showcases in the nation. In the '70s and '80s, lowrider clubs became a representation of the community and offered mutual aid such as ride-sharing and food donations when the local government could not or would not, Gonzalez said.

"It is something that gets passed on from generation to generation," said Gonzalez, who, like most lowriders, was introduced to the community with a bike at the young age of 13. He has passed on his love for lowriding to his own children, nephews and cousins

"Kids grow up seeing the cars, they pick it up and they carry on the tradition," Gonzalez said.

Lauren Pacheco, co-founder and co-curator of the Slow and Low Chicago Low Rider Festival, described lowriding as a global, multibillion-dollar phenomenon of self-expression and innovation.

"It's a marvel of mechanical innovation," Pacheco said. "It is the beautiful artistry in the creative practice of muralism, storytelling and upholstery."

Within the last decade, lowrider conventions have grown so much that they've made their way to Japan. In Nagoya, Japanese lowriders have modified their cars, created clubs and even come to events at Chicano Park in San Diego.

Lowrider community sheds gang culture stereotype

Appreciation for lowriding has increased in recent years, enthusiasts say. But that was not always the case.

In the beginning, lowriding was associated with harmful stereotypes about Latinos as gangsters, Pulido said. Because the culture involved predominantly Latino participants, lowriding became racialized and that overshadowed the artistic and community service aspects of the movement.

thriller-drama "Boulevard Nights" also helped to perpetuate the lowriders as gangsters trope. The film's main character, Raymond Avila, played by Richard Yñiguez tried to avoid getting lured into the violent street gangs of East Los Angeles. Lowriding vehicles and the lowrider "cholo" aesthetic was featured throughout the film.

While the perception of lowriding has since gotten better, Pulido said he has been to lowriding car shows where police immediately show up.

Martinez, the Indiana lowrider, said lowriding misconceptions grew in the Chicago area because the community members were tattooed in ways often associated with gang affiliation. Pacheco said the Chicago festival works to dispel those misconceptions.

"It's really a celebration of creativity and innovation and family."

"We really try not to create a space that glamorizes or romanticizes gang culture," she said. "It's really a celebration of creativity and innovation and family."

Lowriding culture becomes a booming industry

Gonzalez, the Texas lowriding showcase organizer, said the culture's focus on wheels, hydraulic systems and accessories, has helped lowriding become a booming industry.

In El Paso,

opened small businesses orientated to the lowriding community. In the last couple of years, at least 25 new businesses opened, including body shops, upholstery shops and apparel shops, Gonzalez said.

"It has become a mainstream business," he said. "Back in the 70s and 80s, it was more of a local thing. Everybody helping each other do things on their own. Now there's just all kinds of opportunities to purchase things and have things done to your vehicle."

Originally from Dallas, Texas, Martinez said he would buy the parts he needed from a man in his neighborhood, who would buy in bulk from Lowrider magazine. He said the unfortunate thing about lowriding becoming so big is parts are now mass produced from China instead of being Mexican made.

Lowriding carries family legacy

But lowriding is not just about the often pricey task of modifying cars, Pulido said. It is about building a community that is always there for each other, throughout generations, he said.

"We have grandparents that are lowriders and then their kids and their grandkids are in tune already," Pulido said.

It's a legacy that Sonia Gomez wants for her 8-year-old son, Daniel Marquez. His late father, Alberto Marquez, had been a member of a Chicago area lowrider club. Too young to drive the car left to him by his father, Daniel has a lowriding bike that is more of a memorial to his dad.

"The bike is what he's doing to build it up," Gomez said.

The family will do an ofrenda, a display often associated with Mexican Dia de los Muertos celebrations, when local lowriding festivals are held. As part of the ofrenda, Daniel takes an image he has with his father on a lowriding bike and places it next to his actual bike, which he named "Wishing on a Star."

"We would either go on a (lowriding) cruise with my uncle, or we would go to actual car shows," Daniel recently recalled, while sitting at the driver's seat of his dad's lowriding car parked in the driveway of their home in Frankfort, Illinois.

"My mom would be there," he said pointing to the passenger seat. "And I'd be back there all squished."

As I wrote a couple of weeks ago, I am out the ears on basil. I made a giant batch of pesto a few weeks ago and am still working my way through it. (For that pesto recipe visit www.zapinin.com/food.) So in the spirit of not wasting it, I have been thinking of some novel ways to get through it. Along comes pesto roasted vegetables. I roasted carrots and beets from my garden, so this is a garden-fresh meal. My favorite.

I'm writing this specifically for carrots but you can roast any vegetable your heart desires.

INGREDIENTS

Growing up in Southern Thailand, Nok Suntaranon spent most days after school helping her mother sell homemade curry pastes in the local market.

Dealing with customers. Pushing the heavy cart with her two brothers. Staining her fingers yellow as she peeled turmeric root by the kilo, enough for the 110 pounds of curry paste her mother sold every day.

Her mother needed the help. Suntaranon's grandfather, who was helping to support the family, and her aunt were killed in a motorbike accident when she was just 4. Her mother was forced to become breadwinner overnight.

"We grew up poor, but when it comes to food, we never skimped," Suntaranon said. "We always had the best food on our table."

That her hardworking mother informed her cooking is apparent in the Philadelphia restaurant she named after her, Kalaya, and in her new book, "Kalaya's Southern Thai Kitchen."

But Suntaranon's mother didn't teach her how to cook. Rather, the children would experiment with ingredients they bought at the market, earning money by selling banana leaves cut from the plantation in front of the family house.

"We learned how to light the fire on our own in the clay stove," said Suntaranon, winner of a James Beard Award for best chef, Mid-Atlantic, in 2023. "We just liked to play cooking."

Not until decades later did Suntaranon go to culinary school, after she had worked for 20 years as a flight attendant and met the husband who brought her to Philadelphia.

The more she learned about cooking, the more curious she became about her own cuisine, a study in contrasts suffused with the history of the spice trade. In her home region of Trang, fiery curries, springy noodles and soothing soups all can come laced with the warming flavors of cinnamon and star anise. Even jasmine rice is spiced with white pepper.

She recreated lost recipes from her grandmother and great-grandmother from memory, experimenting until the flavors reached the right balance between spicy and sweet, fragrant and bold. And of course, she documented all the dishes her mother used to make for her.

Such as her chicken soup. When Suntaranon was sick as a young girl, her mother made her an herbaceous soup that's heavy on aromatics, vibrant yellow from earthy turmeric and freshened with a handful of cilantro. The homemade broth, which takes only as long as the chicken to cook, comes brightly spiced with lime and a full tablespoon of black and white peppers.

The turmeric, she said, boosts your immune system, and smashing the aromatics is great for releasing tension — "another way to heal your heart and restore your soul."

From "Kalaya's Southern Thai Kitchen" by Nok Suntaranon, with Natalie Jessionka

Serves: 4 to 6

Time: About 45 minutes

INGREDIENTS

Handful of fresh cilantro stems and leaves

1 large shallot, peeled and cut into small wedges

1/4 cup garlic cloves, smashed

1/2 tablespoon freshly ground black pepper

1/2 tablespoon ground white pepper

1 1/2 tablespoons kosher salt

2 bone-in, skin-on chicken thighs

2 chicken legs

1 tablespoon ground turmeric

3 tablespoons fish sauce

2 tablespoons sugar

FOR SERVING

Glass noodles (cooked according to the package directions) or Jasmine rice

Fresh cilantro leaves

Fried shallots, homemade or store-bought

Thinly sliced Thai chilies or red long hot chilies

Thinly sliced scallions

Lime wedges, for squeezing

DIRECTIONS

In a large pot, combine 12 cups water, the cilantro, shallot, garlic, lemongrass, scallions, black pepper, white pepper, turmeric, salt and chicken. Bring to a boil over high, then reduce heat to medium-low and simmer until the chicken is tender, about 30 minutes.

Remove from the heat and stir in the fish sauce and sugar. You can remove the chicken and pull it off the bone into shreds, stirring it back into the broth, or serve it bone in.

Serve hot on its own or with glass noodles or rice, topped with cilantro, fried shallots, chiles, scallions and lime wedges.

"TERRIFIER 3"

By BOB GARVER

Here's a movie that certainly surpassed expectations. The low-budget "Terrifier" franchise is not usually one that makes big bucks. The first film from 2016 made less than $1 million. The second, in the glorious year for horror that was 2022, was lucky to pass $10 million. Now comes a third entry that not only made more than the other two movies combined in its opening weekend with $18 million, it took the #1 spot at the domestic box office.

It's not hard to see what happened here: "Terrifier 3" was sent out to capitalize on the evil clown momentum started last weekend by "Joker: Folie à Deux." It wasn't supposed to beat the huge blockbuster, just ride its coattails to a decent, maybe second-place showing. But audiences kicked that giant letdown to the curb (all the way to #3, behind the third weekend of "The Wild Robot") and decided that they wanted a movie that does evil clowns right. Well, maybe "right" is the wrong word, but the villainous Art the Clown (David Howard Thornton) is closer to what I expect from an evil clown than the mopey Arthur Fleck.

The new film sees the previously-killed Art resurrected via literal rebirth courtesy of his disciple, Final Girl of the first movie Vic (Samantha Scaffidi). The two slip into a suicide-induced hibernation for five years, with their awakening coinciding with the release from a mental hospital of Sienna Shaw (Lauren LaVera), the Final Girl of the second movie. All poor Sienna wants to do is live a peaceful life with her uncle (Bryce Johnson), aunt (Margaret Anne Florence), and cousin (Antonella Rose), as well as keep in healthy contact with her brother Jonathan (Elliot Fullam), away at college. But she and Art are destined to keep fighting until one slays the other for good, so peacefulness is out the window.

The film actually spends quite a bit of time on Sienna and her mental health, and I have mixed feelings on this aspect. On one hand, it's admirable that the film wants to have some substance related to its protagonist to prove that this series is about more than a clown and his creative kills. On the other hand, it maybe overcorrects and gives Sienna too much healthy time before things inevitably fall apart. It's a perfectly fine performance by LaVera, but she's not the one people are here to see.

Indeed it is Art the Clown and his joyful streak of terror that are selling the tickets. And oh does this movie deliver on the gore it promises and more. Art has never met a weapon he doesn't love or a person he's not eager to kill. He even breaks the unwritten slasher rule of not using guns or explosives - as long as people can die from it, he'll use it. Unique to this movie is that it takes place around Christmas, so he dons a Santa suit and pulls weapons out of a sack of "toys." He's particularly fond of a tank of liquid nitrogen. Because it isn't enough that he has to outdo The Joker, he also has to make a better Mr. Freeze.

"Terrifier 3" is strictly for people that already know they like slasher movies. It takes a sick sense of humor to appreciate a movie like this, and frankly it also requires knowledge of the first two movies. I recommend the "Kill Count" videos on the "Dead Meat" YouTube channel as pre-film tutorials, and even those may prove to be too much for some people (including my mom... long story). My favorite moment at my screening was when the audience sat in a stunned silence after a scene of staggering violence, and someone broke said silence with a well-timed obscenity. I appreciate the plucky underdog charm of these movies to a degree, but I'm not ready to say that they actually count as good movies.

Grade: C

"Terrifier 3" is not rated by the MPAA, likely because it is too violent to qualify for an R rating. Its running time is 125 minutes.

'TERRIFIER 3' OPENS WITH $18.2 MILLION TO LEAD BOX OFFICE

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - The gory horror film "Terrifier 3" opened atop the box office this weekend as audiences got into the spirit of Halloween, taking in $18.2 million, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

The latest installment tracking the murderous doings of Art the Clown, written and directed by Damien Leone, beat out "The Wild Robot," which grossed $13.4 million in its third weekend in North American theaters, Comscore reported.

"Joker: Folie à Deux" slipped to $7.055 million in its second weekend and is shaping up to be a major financial disappointment for Warner Bros.

"Beetlejuice Beetlejuice" was fourth with $7.05 million Friday through Sunday in its sixth week.

"Piece By Piece," a biography of musician Pharrell Williams' animated with Lego imagery, which opened with $3.8 million.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic re-

Fifth place went to leases were "Transformers One" ($3.6 million), "Saturday Night" ($3.4 million), "My Hero Academia: You're Next" ($3 million), a re-release of 1993's "The Nightmare Before Christmas" ($2.3 million) and "The Apprentice" ($1.5 million).

NASA's Europa Clipper Spacecraft Will Scour Jupiter Moon for the Ingredients for Life

NASA/JPL-Caltech via AP

By MARCIA DUNN AP
Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A NASA spacecraft has set sail for Jupiter and its moon Europa, one of the best bets for finding life beyond Earth.

Europa Clipper will peer beneath the moon's icy crust where an ocean is thought to be sloshing fairly close to the surface. It won't search for life, but rather determine whether conditions there could support it. Another mission would be needed to flush out any microorganisms lurking there.

"It's a chance for us to explore not a world that might have been habitable billions of years ago, but a world that might be habitable today — right now," said program scientist Curt Niebur.

Its massive solar panels make Clipper the biggest craft built by NASA to investigate another planet. It will take 5 1/2 years to reach Jupiter and will sneak within 16 miles (25 kilometers) of Europa's surface — considerably closer than any other spacecraft.

Halloween Season Fright Night Tours Return to Downtown Riverside Next Week

RIVERSIDE - The annual Ghost Walk Riverside will return next week, featuring traditional spine-tingling tours of downtown, as well as new additions that combine story-telling and dancing to make the most of the city's haunted past.

The California Riverside Ballet produces the Ghost Walk events annually to raise money for the nonprofit. This year's walking tours are scheduled on a rotating basis during the nights of Friday, Oct. 25, and Saturday, Oct. 26.

As has been the case since 2022, the tours will be centered at White Park but will encompass the immediate surroundings.

"We are thrilled to partner with exceptional local dance organizations, adding an extra layer of artistry to Ghost Walk Riverside," California Riverside Ballet President

Susan Anderson said. "Their captivating performances will transport guests to another realm, offering a truly unique experience that merges storytelling, dance and Riverside's haunted history."

The nonprofit Dance We Do and the Norco-based California School of Classical Ballet will host "hauntingly beautiful dance performances" that blend "classical elegance with spooky, otherworldly themes," inspired by the works of Edgar Allan Poe, to entertain tour participants, Anderson said.

High school students perform re-enactments and take on the roles of goblins, apparitions, victims, malefactors and other Halloweenish figures who populate the tours. This year's event will include "flash mobs" to surprise attendees.

Along with narratives on hauntings in the oldest parts of the city, there will be lighter fare, including a kids' carnival, musical entertainment provided by DJ Richter Scale and a range of food vendors on hand, serving traditional sweets and treats.

Proceeds from ticket sales directly benefit the ballet.

More information regarding ticket and tour times is available at

Europa, the superstar among Jupiter's many moons

One of Jupiter's 95 known moons, Europa is almost the size of our own moon. It's encased in an ice sheet estimated to be 10 miles to 15 miles or more (15 kilometers to 24 kilometers) thick. Scientists believe this frozen crust hides an ocean that could be 80 miles (120 kilometers) or more deep. The Hubble Space Telescope has spotted what appear to be geysers erupting from the surface. Discovered by Galileo in 1610, Europa is one of the four so-called Galilean moons of Jupiter, along with Ganymede, Io and Callisto.

Seeking conditions that support life

What type of life might Europa harbor? Besides water, organic compounds are needed for life as we know it, plus an energy source. In Europa's case that could be thermal vents on the ocean floor. Deputy project scientist Bonnie Buratti imagines any life would be primitive like the bacterial life that originated in Earth's deep ocean vents. "We will not know from this mission because we can't see that deep," she said. Unlike missions to Mars where habitability is one of many questions, Clipper's sole job is to establish whether the moon could support life in its ocean or possibly in any pockets of water in the ice.

Supersized spacecraft

When its solar wings and antennas are unfurled, Clipper is about the size of a basketball court — more than 100 feet (30 meters) end to end — and weighs nearly 13,000 pounds

(6,000 kilograms). The supersized solar panels are needed because of Jupiter's distance from the sun. The main body — about the size of a camper — is packed with nine science instruments, including radar that will penetrate the ice, cameras that will map virtually the entire moon and tools to tease out the contents of Europa's surface and tenuous atmosphere. The name harkens to the swift sailing ships of centuries past.

Circling Jupiter to fly by Europa

The roundabout trip to Jupiter will span 1.8 billion miles (3 billion kilometers). For extra oomph, the spacecraft will swing past Mars early next year and then Earth in late 2026. It arrives at Jupiter in 2030 and begins science work the next year. While orbiting Jupiter, it will cross paths with Europa 49 times. The mission ends in 2034 with a planned crash into Ganymede — Jupiter's biggest moon and the solar system's too.

Europa flybys pose huge radiation risk

There's more radiation around Jupiter than anywhere else in our solar system, besides the sun. Europa passes through Jupiter's bands of radiation as it orbits the gas giant, making it especially menacing for spacecraft. That's why Clipper's electronics are inside a vault with dense aluminum and zinc walls. All this radiation would nix any life on Europa's surface. But it could break down water molecules and, perhaps, release oxygen all the way down into the ocean that could possibly fuel sea life.

Earlier this year, NASA was in a panic that the spacecraft's many transistors might not withstand the intense radiation. But after months of analysis, engineers concluded the mission could proceed as planned.

Other visitors to Jupiter and Europa

NASA's twin Pioneer spacecraft and then two Voyagers swept past Jupiter in the 1970s. The Voyagers provided the first detailed photos of Europa but from quite a distance. NASA's Galileo spacecraft had repeated flybys of the moon during the 1990s, passing as close as 124 miles (200 kilometers). Still in action around Jupiter, NASA's Juno spacecraft has added to Europa's photo album. Arriving at Jupiter a year after Clipper will be the European Space Agency's Juice spacecraft, launched last year.

Ganymede and other possible ocean worlds

Like Europa, Jupiter's jumbo moon Ganymede is thought to host an underground ocean. But its frozen shell is much thicker — possibly 100 miles (160 kilometers) thick — making it tougher to probe the environment below. Callisto's ice sheet may be even thicker, possibly hiding an ocean. Saturn's moon Enceladus has geysers shooting up, but it's much farther than Jupiter. Ditto for Saturn's moon Titan, also suspected of having a subterranean sea. While no ocean worlds have been confirmed beyond our solar system, scientists believe they're out there — and may even be relatively common.

Messages in a cosmic bottle

Like many robotic explorers before it, Clipper bears messages from Earth. Attached to the electronics vault is a triangular metal plate. On one side is a design labeled "water words" with representations of the word for water in 104 languages. On the opposite side: a poem about the moon by U.S. poet laureate Ada Limon and a silicon chip containing the names of 2.6 million people who signed up to vicariously ride along.

Building an App Can Help You Grow Your Business. Here's How to Do It

In today's world, apps are crucial for business growth and customer experience. They enable shopping, appointment setting and customer service interactions. In fact, around three-quarters of U.S. adults say they buy things online using a smartphone, according to Pew Research, which means if you don't have an app for your business, you're leaving money on the table. However, if building one sounds daunting, experts say there is good news -- artificial intelligence can help.

"AI enhances app development through code generation, chatbots, process optimization, content creation, user stories and prototype generation. Anyone, even with little to no experience, can quickly and cost-effectively develop an app using AI," says Sachin Dev Duggal, founder and chief wizard at Builder.ai, an AI-powered composable software platform that allows every business and entrepreneur to become digitally powered.

Despite the relative ease of developing an app harnessing today's AI tech, it's nevertheless important to get your app right. With over 77% of users uninstalling an app within the first three days after download, according to WifiTalents, you'll want to ensure your app provides your users with real value.

So, before building your app, first consider how it will help customers, and how it will help you solve your short- and long-term business objectives. Asking yourself these questions can give you clarity on the type of app you need, how you will fund and maintain your app, and how it will function.

When you are ready to begin development, here are the benefits you can anticipate by using AI to meet your objectives:

- Rapid development: AI-driven platforms significantly reduce development time.
- Unlimited customizations: AI app development platforms offer pre-built, customizable modules.
- High performance: AI creates high-performance apps with fast load times and smooth user experiences.
- Cost efficiency: AI reduces the need for extensive developer hiring, lowering costs.
- Error reduction: Around 66% of software projects fail. The primary cause? Human error.
- Seamless articulation: New AI technology allows you to speak directly with the development platform, enabling you to convey your ideas and instructions effortlessly, making app development more intuitive and efficient.

So, how do you actually use AI to build your app? In the case of Builder.ai, it’s as simple as following these simple steps:

- 1. Choose and customize a base template.
- 2. Review and finalize features.
- 3. Identify the app’s platform (Android, iOS, desktop) and build a timeline.
- 4. Establish a payment plan.
- 5. Match with a product expert for guidance.
- 6. Review and monitor the app’s progress.

- 7. Launch your app.
 - 8. Leverage data from your app to optimize business.
- To learn more about developing your app with Builder.ai, visit <https://www.builder.ai/>.

“AI automates repetitive tasks, code generation, bug detection and testing, resulting in shorter development cycles and reduced costs while maintaining high quality. By giving everyone, regardless of their tech knowledge the power to build applications, we’re removing the barriers that have traditionally stopped individuals and business owners from unlocking their potential,” says Duggal. exhaustion can be a turn off for many people.

“What we’re really talking about is how hard you should work when you go to the gym,” he said, adding that the concept should be interpreted to mean that people can spend less time in the gym — if they work hard.

“If you’re short on time, then you can push yourself harder, and then you don’t need to work out as long,” he said.

Fisher explained that to boost strength, it’s critical to push your muscles to a certain threshold.

“If you lift a weight you can easily lift 10 times or more, you never really work hard enough,” he said. “Now, if we increase the weight so that on the ninth and 10th rep, it feels properly hard, that will benefit your muscle fibers.”

Still, Fisher said that the best workout is ultimately “one that people will actually do,” regardless of how hard they push themselves. He said that for improving overall health, strength training is probably the best single thing people can do for their health, quality of life and longevity.

Whatever your fitness goal, Fisher said the concept of failure training can be incorporated into your workout. People should then rest the muscle group they’ve trained for about two days, he said.

For people who have more experience, experts recommend saving the failure training for occasional workouts, or on the last set of exercises in your session.

“It’s not meant to be for every person, every time they work out,” Fisher said. “This is a tough way to exercise.”

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 916-939-0772 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-24-986965-SH. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction.

There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 916-939-0772, or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-24-986965-SH to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE OWNER/OCCUPANT: Any prospective owner/occupant as defined in Section 2924m of the California Civil Code who is the last and highest bidder at the trustee's sale shall provide the required affidavit or declaration of eligibility to the auctioneer at the trustee's sale or shall have it delivered to QUALITY LOAN SERVICE CORPORATION by 5 p.m. on the next business day following the trustee's sale at the address set forth in the below signature block. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (714) 730-2727 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site - www.ServiceLinkASAP.com - for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case: 176114. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (714) 730-2727 for information regarding the trustee's sale, or visit this internet website www.ServiceLinkASAP.com for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case 176114 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. Bids submitted after this date and time will not be accepted by the electronic bidding system. At said time, it will be bidder's responsibility to log into the PlanetBids system for the City of Corona to view the apparent low bidder for the project. Bids shall be valid for 90 calendar days after the close of bid. Bids must be submitted on the City's Bid Forms.

Prospective Bidders must visit the City's Bids and Requests for Proposals Vendor Portal at <https://www.planetbids.com/portal/portal.cfm?CompanyID=39497> and register as a new vendor in PlanetBids in order to download Contract Documents, including Instructions to Bidders, plans and specifications, and to receive addenda and notifications when issued. Bidders will also submit electronic bids through this website. The City will also make the Contract Documents available for review at one or more plan rooms.

Funding for this Project is expected to be provided in full or in part pursuant to the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021 (ARPA) and the U.S. Treasury's Interim and Final Rules. The successful Bidder and all subcontractors shall comply with all applicable federal and state laws, rules, and regulations, including but not limited to the ARPA funding requirements and Code of Federal Regulations Title 2, Procurement Standards, Part 200.317 through 200.327 (eCFR: 2 CFR Part 200 Subpart D - Procurement Standards) and Appendix II to Part 200 - Contract Provisions for NonFederal Entity Contracts Under Federal Awards, (<https://www.ecfr.gov/current/title-2/part-200/appendixAppendix%20II%20to%20Part%20200>), the federal DavisBacon and Related Acts and prohibition against contractors who are debarred from federal contracting. The funding requirements and federal forms are provided in Appendix A - Federal Requirements.

All electronic Bids must be accompanied by a bid security in an amount not less than 10% of the submitted Total Bid Price pursuant to Section 12 Bid Guarantee (Bond) of the Instructions to Bidders.

The City will contract with a thirdparty labor compliance firm to monitor and enforce the applicable provisions of the federal DavisBacon and Prevailing Wage Laws, including but not limited to the standard provisions requiring payment of prevailing wages, maintenance and submission of certified weekly payroll records, hiring of apprentices, and compliance and enforcement by the DIR pursuant to SB854. Contractor shall work with City staff and consultants to ensure full compliance with applicable Prevailing Wage Laws.

It shall be Bidder's responsibility to allow sufficient time to complete and submit its bid including all required documentation referred to in the Contract Documents prior to the stated deadline. Electronic bid submission cannot be completed unless bidder properly uploads all required documents. Each bid shall be accompanied by the security referred to in the Contract Documents, the NonCollusion Declaration, the list of proposed subcontractors, and all additional documentation required by the Instructions to Bidders.

Bidders are solely responsible for the "on time" submission of their electronic Bid. The City will only consider Bids from contractors that have transmitted successfully and have been issued a confirmation number with a time stamp from PlanetBids indicating that the Bid was submitted successfully. Transmission of Bids by any other means will not be accepted. Bidders shall be solely responsible for informing themselves with respect to the proper utilization of the online bid management system, for ensuring the capability of their computer system to upload the required documents, and for the stability of their internet service. Failure of the Bidder to successfully submit an electronic Bid shall be the Bidder's sole risk and no relief will be given for late and/or improperly submitted Bids. Bidders experiencing technical difficulties with the bid submission process may contact PlanetBids Support at 818-992-1771. If you continue to have difficulty, call City of Corona Purchasing Department at 951-736-2274. Neither the City, nor PlanetBids, make any guarantee as to the timely availability of assistance, or assurance that any given problem will be resolved by the bid submission date and/or time.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish the City with a Performance Bond equal to 100% of the successful bid, and a Payment (Labor and Materials) Bond equal to 100% of the successful bid, prior to execution of the Contract. All bonds are to be secured from a surety that meets all of the State of California bonding requirements, as defined in Code of Civil Procedure Section 995.120, and is admitted by the State of California.

Pursuant to Public Contract Code Section 22300, the successful bidder may substitute certain securities for funds withheld by City to ensure performance under the Contract.

The Work is subject to the payment of not less than prevailing wages pursuant to Chapter 1 (beginning at Section 1720 et seq.) of Part 7 of Division 2 of the California Labor Code, as well as Title 8, Section 16000 et seq. of the California Code of Regulations ("Prevailing Wage Laws"). The Director of the Department of Industrial Relations ("DIR") has determined the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which this work is to be performed for each craft or type of worker needed to execute the Contract which will be awarded to the successful bidder, copies of which are on file and will be made available to any interested party upon request at Owners office or online at <http://www.dir.ca.gov/dlsr>. A copy of these rates shall be posted by the successful bidder at the Project site.

Pursuant to SB 854, which amended the Prevailing Wage Laws, this Contract is subject to compliance monitoring and enforcement by the DIR. Beginning March 1, 2015, with very limited exceptions no contractor or subcontractor may be listed on a bid proposal for this Contract unless registered with the DIR pursuant to Labor Code section 1725.5. Beginning April 1, 2015, no contractor or subcontractor may be awarded this Contract unless registered with the DIR pursuant to Labor Code section 1725.5. The DIR registration number for each contractor and subcontractor must be identified on the bid proposal - failure to identify this number could result in the bid being rejected as nonresponsive. It is each bidder's responsibility to ensure that they have fully complied with SB 854. The City will report all necessary contracts to the DIR as required by the Prevailing Wage Laws.

The successful bidder and their subcontractor(s) shall comply with all applicable Prevailing Wage Laws, which include, but are not limited to the payment of not less than the required prevailing rates to all workers employed by them in the execution of the Contract, the employment of apprentices, the hours of labor, the payment of overtime, and the debarment of contractors and subcontractors. The successful bidder and all subcontractor(s) under him shall also be responsible for any and all violations and fines imposed on them pursuant to the Prevailing Wage Laws. If the Work involves federal funds or otherwise requires compliance with the DavisBacon Fair Labor Standards Act, the Contractor and all its subcontractors shall comply with the higher of the state or federal prevailing wage rates.

Before the Contract is awarded, the successful bidder shall be a licensed contractor pursuant to the Business and Professions Code and shall be licensed in the following appropriate classification(s) of contractor's license(s), for the work bid upon, and must maintain the license(s) throughout the duration of the Contract: a valid Class 'A' General Engineering Contractor.

The successful bidder must fully comply with all applicable laws, rules and regulations in furnishing or using equipment and/or providing services, including, but not limited to, emissions limits and permitting requirements imposed by the South Coast Air Quality Management District (SCAQMD) and/or California Air Resources Board (CARB). Although the SCAQMD and CARB limits and requirements are broader, the successful bidder shall specifically be aware of their application to "portable equipment", which definition is considered by SCAQMD and CARB to include any item of equipment with a fuelpowered engine. The successful bidder will be required to indemnify City against any fines or penalties imposed by SCAQMD, CARB, or any other governmental or regulatory agency for violations of applicable laws, rules and/or regulations by the successful bidder, its subcontractors, or others for whom the successful bidder is responsible under its indemnity obligations.

CARB implemented amendments to the InUse OffRoad DieselFueled Fleets Regulations ("Regulation") which are effective on January 1, 2024 and apply broadly to all selfpropelled off road diesel vehicles 25 horsepower or greater and other forms of equipment used in California. A copy of the Regulation is available at: <https://ww2.arb.ca.gov/sites/default/files/barcu/regact/2022/offroaddiesel/appa-1.pdf>. Bidders are required to comply with all CARB and Regulation requirements, including, without limitation, all applicable sections of the Regulation, as codified in Title 13 of the California Code of Regulations section 2449 et seq. throughout the duration of the Project. Bidders must provide, with their Bid, copies of Bidder's and all listed subcontractors' most recent, valid Certificate of Reported Compliance ("CRC") issued by CARB. Failure to provide valid CRCs as required herein may render the Bid nonresponsive.

Pursuant to Public Contract Code Section 3400(b), the City may make a finding designating certain materials, products, things, or services by specific brand or trade name, such findings and the materials, products, things, or services and their specific brand or trade names will be set forth in the Special Provisions Section 700 - Materials.

Award of Contract: The City shall award the Contract for the Project to the lowest responsive, responsible bidder as determined from the lowest total for the summation of all bid schedules combined.
