

Corona FD at the Vanguard of New Life-Saving Blood Treatment

BY JIM FORBES, PUBLISHER

It has long been established and understood that minutes, and even seconds, are critical in the emergency response to patient trauma. Advances in response time and treatment protocols have dramatically improved mortality rates.

But when in-field trauma patients are suffering hemorrhagic shock, a severe loss of blood, in an out-of-hospital setting, the loss of life is significant. An August report in "The Journal of Trauma and Acute Care Surgery" concludes in part, "Preventable death due to pre-hospital hemorrhage is substantial and impacts all persons across the country."

Since the 80's trauma patients have been given transfusions in medivac helicopters and ambulances transporting them between hospitals.

But until recently, the report states, "One essential battlefield tool that has yet to be widely adopted in civilian practice is the early use of blood transfusions by 9-1-1 ground emergency medical services (EMS)." It cites, "...estimates that annually between 54,000 and 900,000 patients" may benefit from Pre-Hospital Blood Transfusions

ATHLETE, POLICEMAN, PHILANTHROPIST Roy VanderKallen Laid to Rest

Thousands braved the chill of a winter night in 1982 to see Corona police officer Roy VanderKallen lead his team to a victory over a team of Corona firefighters in a tackle football game at Corona High School.

On Monday hundreds of mourners radiated warmth for VanderKallen at a memorial service for the late police captain who died on Oct.

4. The Civic Center auditorium, which used to be Corona High, was nearly full.

VanderKallen was 70.

Dutch by birth, VanderKallen was born in Papua, New Guinea while his father, Wilhelmus, served in the Netherlands Royal Army. His mother was Gertruda VanderKallen.

Man Suspected of Sexually Assaulting Minor Arrested

CORONA (CNS) - A 24-year-old man suspected of soliciting a minor through social media and committing lewd acts against the juvenile victim in Corona was taken into custody, authorities announced Thursday.

Corona resident Joel Rikardo Medina was taken into custody in the 100 block of McKinley Street, near Magnolia Avenue, on Nov. 5 and booked into the Robert Presley Detention Center on suspicion of several violations of lewd acts against a minor and sexual assault of a minor, according to the Riverside County Sheriff's Department.

Lake Mathews Sheriff's Station deputies began investigating allegations of lewd acts against a minor in October when investigators discovered that two men were sexually exploiting a boy.

Further into their investigation, deputies learned that the victim was being solicited through social media and met with two unknown men.

Investigators later identified Medina as one of the suspects and continued an ongoing investigation into locating the second suspect Thursday evening.

Anyone with information regarding the alleged assault or the location of the second suspect was urged to call 951-272-5600.

Corona Church Volunteer Convicted of Molesting 5 Girls

SANTA ANA (CNS) - A 60-year-old man was convicted Wednesday of sex assaults on five girls in Orange County, including victims he met as a church volunteer.

Jesus Heras Garcia was convicted of 16 felony counts of sexual assaults of minors as young as 7-years-old. The charges date back to 1986, according to court records.

Garcia was a volunteer at the Case de Vida Church in Corona and became a close family friend of the victims, police said. Investigators later tracked down two more girls who reported they were abused, police said.

Three sisters when they were in their late teens and mid-20s reported to police in December 2018 that the defendant who they met through a church had molested them, police said.

One 16-year-old victim reported to Placentia police in 2010 she had been abused by the defendant, police said.

In 2018, another victim, who was 21, said Garcia sexually abused her multiple times when she was 7 at his home at the time in Riverside, police said. Garcia met that family through the church as well, police said.

Medina Adds 285 Votes to Lead Over Roth in Supervisor Race

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Former Assemblyman Jose Medina added 285 votes to his lead over Sen. Richard Roth in Wednesday's count of previously unprocessed ballots to move 2,076 votes ahead in the race to fill the soon-to-be-vacant seat on the Riverside County Board of Supervisors.

Medina leads, 68,150-66,742, 50.77%-49.23%, according to figures released Wednesday by the Office of the Registrar of Voters. He led by 1,791 votes entering Wednesday's resumption of counting.

The Riverside Democrats are vying for the District 1 seat, which is being vacated by Supervisor Kevin Jeffries who announced in 2021 he would not seek a fourth term on the nonpartisan board.

Medina was trailing by a 10% margin on election night but took the lead early last week.

An estimated 33,600 vote-by-mail and provisional ballots have yet to be tabulated. For the latest results, visit voteinfo.net.

REPORT:

Riverside County's Jobless Rate Unchanged in October

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Modest payroll gains throughout the regional economy were not enough to lower the unemployment rate in Riverside County last month, which held at the same level, according to figures released Friday by the California Employment Development Department.

The countywide jobless rate in October, based on preliminary EDD estimates, was 5.6% -- the same as September.

According to data, the October rate was roughly a quarter percentage point above the year-ago level, when countywide unemployment stood at 5.4%.

Mecca had the highest unemployment rate countywide in October at 13.6%, followed by Coachella at 13%, Cherry Valley at 10.1%, Desert Hot Springs at 8.4% and Rancho Mirage at 8%.

The combined unemployment rate for Riverside and San Bernardino counties -- the Inland Empire -- was 5.5%, up from 5.4% in September, the EDD said.

Bi-county data indicated payrolls expanded by the widest margin in the trade and transportation sector, which added 5,500 positions.

The agricultural, construction, financial services, health services, hospitality, professional business services and public sectors grew by an aggregate 13,700 positions, according to figures.

Payrolls shrank in the manufacturing sector, which shed about 1,000 jobs. Miscellaneous unclassified industries, the mining and information technology sectors were unchanged, figures showed.

The statewide non-seasonally adjusted unemployment rate last month was 5.4%.

Riverside Church to Serve Thousands for Thanksgiving

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A Riverside church that provides meals to thousands of Riverside County residents on Thanksgiving each year is sending out a call Friday for volunteers to help with distribution.

"This is a meal for the homeless, senior citizens, families in need and those who will be home alone," Central Community Christian Fellowship said in a statement. "We need volunteers each year to help serve and deliver the dinners to our community."

This Thanksgiving will mark the 37th year that the church has made meal deliveries available as part of its Thanksgiving Day Outreach.

In previous years, over 4,000 meals have been dished out, largely to Meals-on-Wheels recipients. However, during the 2020 COVID lockdowns, the church expanded service to many people who were out of work during the holiday period.

Delivery service generally begins the morning of Thanksgiving and concludes by early afternoon.

Volunteers retrieve hot plates from the church kitchen on Arlington Avenue and fan out into Riverside and surrounding communities.

On-site meal service is also planned at the church, where upwards of 500 people typically gather to enjoy traditional dinners. The only exception was in 2020, when restrictions on public gatherings prevented volunteers from opening the house of worship.

Turkeys, along with stuffing, mashed potatoes and other trappings are made in the church kitchen, typically with help from a Riverside-based catering service.

"Everyone is invited to join in sharing Thanksgiving dinners together with our families from Central Community," according to the church.

Anyone interested in lending a hand this year -- or may know of someone who needs a meal delivered -- was asked to contact the church at 951- 689-5806, or online at office@central-community.com.

Agency's Debatable Weather Modification Project on Hold for Winter Season

By PAUL J. YOUNG
City News Service

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A weather modification program that utilizes "cloud seeding" to, ideally, increase precipitation and generate more water for the Santa Ana River Watershed will not be restarted until a year from Friday, though the debate over whether the program has value, or potentially negative impacts, will likely continue.

The Santa Ana Watershed Project Authority, a multi-agency cooperative that focuses on groundwater management in the Inland Empire and elsewhere, initiated its "Cloud Seeding Pilot Project" last November, deploying dispersal units in select locations to pump out streams of silver iodide when storms arrive, with the goal of producing up to 15% more precipitation than might otherwise fall in the region.

"The water supply benefits in recharging groundwater occurs in both wet and dry years," SAWPA General Manager Jeff Mosher told City News Service. "Additional precipitation benefits soil moisture in forested areas and habitats due to additional stream flows."

The $1.2 million program, paid for in part by a California Department of Water Resources grant, was inau-

NO RAISE FOR CALIFORNIA'S MINIMUM WAGE WORKERS. VOTERS REJECT PROP. 32

BY JEANNE KUANG,
CalMatters

A ballot proposition to raise California's minimum wage to $18 an hour has been rejected by voters, even as the state continues to grapple with its high cost of living.

The Associated Press called the race Tuesday after two weeks of ballot counting. Nearly 51% of voters said "no" in a rejection that opponents on Monday called "historic."

Proposition 32 would have raised the state minimum wage to $17 for the rest of the year, and then $18 in January for large employers. Smaller employers — those with 25 or fewer workers — would have been required to pay at least $17 in January and at least $18 in January 2026.

The state's minimum wage is already tied to inflation:

The lowest-paid workers will still get a 50-cent raise to $16.50 in January. For a full-time worker, that's a little more than $34,000 a year.

The measure would have given California the highest state minimum wage in the nation. Supporters estimated it could give raises to about two million Californians who work in such industries as warehousing, restaurants, agriculture and childcare.

But with a quieter than usual campaign in support and widespread voter frustration over inflation this election, the measure was doomed after business groups pushed back by claiming the wage hike would drive restaurant and grocery price increases. Prop. 32's fate could signal how liberal California's electorate remains on economics policies as the cost of living continues rising.

"Voters know who pays for wage mandates like Proposition 32 — they do," Jot Condie, president of the California Restaurant Association, said in a statement. "They're sick of the high cost of living and they are clearly associating California's laws and mandates as significant contributors."

While the state has boosted pay for hundreds of thousands of low-wage workers in recent years and likely voters indicated last year that they support raising the state minimum wage to $18, recent polling showed Californians split on the measure.

SUPPORTERS SAID THEY WOULD KEEP TRYING TO RAISE THE WAGE.

"We'll continue until every California worker earns enough to live and thrive," proponent Joe Sanberg, a startup investor and anti-poverty advocate, said in a statement. "While today's outcome was not what we expected, we are hopeful for the work ahead."

But labor unions, which in 2016 pushed heavily for the increases that led the state to a $15 minimum wage in 2022, are taking a different approach.

"Although we always support raising wages, this wasn't Labor's initiative and we played no role in the campaign," said Lorena Gonzalez, leader of the California Labor Federation. "Our current focus is to help unionized workers collectively bargain wage increases and to provide a path to unionization for those workers who don't currently have one."

WHAT DO SUPPORTERS SAY?

The ballot proposition was sponsored by Sanberg and backed by labor unions, progressive groups and the California Democratic Party. Supporters argued the state's lowest earners needed a boost to afford housing and other basic needs.

As the measure trailed after Election Day, supporters doubled down on arguing that raising the minimum wage is a form of economic populism.

"Of all the ballot measures that progressives were organized around, I have the most hope for Prop. 32," said California Working Families Party leader Jane Kim. "This is our opportunity to actually provide real solutions to the economic

Among the barriers to the implementation of these programs nationwide, has been a reliable supply of blood products. In a released statement, Corona

FD notes, “LifeStream's expertise and resources ensure a reliable supply of life-saving blood products, and the department will host regular blood drives to support this initiative. Community members can contribute by donating at LifeStream's site. In addition to LifeStream this program is also supported by the American Red Cross who provides blood products to local region trauma centers.”

While not citing Corona specifically, The Journal of

According to Corona FD Fire Apparatus Engineer and PIO, Daniel Yonan, the blood product will be carried on Medic Squad 1, based at Fire Station 1, 540 Magnolia Ave and Medic Squad 3, based at Fire Station 3, 790 S Smith Ave.

Pediatricians Say Sharing Books With Children is the BEST HOLIDAY GIFT OF ALL

A book can inspire joy and stir the imagination, and even better this holiday season is the gift of sharing that book with your child.

“Turning the pages of a high-quality, print book filled with colorful pictures and rich, expressive language is best,” said Dr. Dipesh Navsaria, a pediatrician. “While touchscreens and other electronic devices may be popular, they are typically passive or solitary experiences for children and do not offer the same benefits of interpersonal connection and relationship building.”

Starting from infancy, reading aloud helps build the foundation for healthy social-emotional, cognitive, language and literacy development. Sharing books helps with language development and vocabulary, and gets them ready to listen and learn in school. And over the past decade, research has found that reading together helps foster positive interactions, strengthening the safe, stable and nurturing relationships young children must have to thrive.

The American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) recommends reading with your child every day, even if only for a few minutes, and making it part of the bedtime routine. Each evening, set aside 20 to 30 minutes with screens off for sharing books.

Remember that the experience should be fun. You don't have to finish a story if your child loses interest. Let your child choose the book, even if it means reading the same book over and over. You can invite your child to “read” to you from a familiar book that they have memorized. Dr. Navsaria suggests asking about the illustrations or what your child thinks will happen next. You can say: “Can you find all the blue things?” or “Show me all the things that can fly.” Point out colors, shapes, numbers and letters and respond with enthusiasm to your child's questions and comments.

Local libraries offer a wide variety of children's literature, including fairy tales, poetry and nursery rhymes, as well as non-fiction books on subjects children love, such as the ocean or dogs. Follow your child's interests in choosing books. Children's librarians can help you with high-quality book selections on a wide range of topics. And during the holidays, consider building your home library and reinforcing the value of great books by giving them as gifts.

By age 4, a child can typically tell you which books they want to share with you; pretend to read a favorite book aloud to you; and tell you how a story is like things they have seen or done. They may ask you questions about books you are enjoying together or “correct” you if you skip a word or page in a favorite book. As children grow older, reading can help develop character and values that are important to your family. In fact, a really great book has the power to counterbalance negative outside influences and teach children important lessons as they grow.

“It might be a book on kindness after your child experienced or witnessed cruelty,” Dr. Navsaria said. “It might be a book on expressing emotions after your child saw or heard scary news coverage, or maybe a book on understanding differences after your child saw someone who looked different than they expected.”

The AAP and Reach Out and Read have compiled a list of books—organized by age and topic—to help you raise children who are curious, brave, kind, thoughtful and aware of the world around them. You can find the list at healthychildren.org.

“Books are great conversation starters,” Dr. Navsaria said. “They're also just a lot of fun and can help create wonderful memories, particularly during the holidays when you're spending extra time together. A shared reading experience, as a tender, magical and loving time spent with your child, is truly a gift. It speaks to the heart of what parenting is.” (StatePoint)

HOLIDAY GIFT IDEAS FOR STUDENTS

Want to brighten the holiday season for the students in your life? Consider gifts that will ease the transition into the spring semester. Here are few to consider:

1. Support a musical journey: With 44 mini keys, the SA-81 from Casio is a great keyboard for both first-time players just embarking on their musical education and accomplished instrumentalists. A built-in metronome makes practice sessions a breeze, and features such as scale tuning, octave shift and transpose help introduce musical concepts. One-hundred high-quality built-in tones covering a range of instruments, including piano, wind, percussion and acoustic instruments, along with 50 rhythm patterns in a variety of genres like pop, ballad, dance, and more, offer budding musicians a chance to experiment and express themselves creatively right away. All housed in a compact frame, it's a great choice for young students, students on-the-go, and dorm dwellers.

2. Lighten their load: If you remember lugging around heavy textbooks during your own student days, consider lightening the load of your gift recipient with a high-quality e-reader. Look for a model with note-taking features, adjustable lighting to protect eyes and portability. A color screen is also a good idea, as it will make diagrams and charts easier to examine if your student will be reading textbooks on the device.

3. Bring the world of STEM within reach: With the advanced features of a next-generation graphing calculator, the fx-CG50 PRIZM can support students through middle school, high school and into college. With Natural Textbook Display and an intuitive icon menu, students will find the calculator incredibly easy to use. Its 3D graphing and improved catalog functions allow for greater engagement and real-life application in the mathematics classroom, and a host of compatible resources available at casioeducation.com can set

CONSUMER GROUP: Unsafe Toys from Overseas Flood Market in Holiday Season

By FRED SHUSTER

City News Service

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - Parents in the Southland know the dangers of recalled and counterfeit toys for children as the holiday season fast approaches, but gift items shipped from overseas can be equally hazardous, a consumer advocate group warned Tuesday.

That's because when a toy or other product is purchased online from another country and shipped directly to a consumer in the United States, it generally does not get inspected before it's delivered, according to the California Public Interest Research Group.

"Once the products arrive at your home or in the warehouse of an online seller, if regulators find out about any dangers -- from consumers, retailers or their own investigators -- they often are powerless to stop the online sales or take the sellers to court to pursue recalls," CALPIRG's annual Trouble in Toyland report says.

The 2024 survey, issued Tuesday, concludes that the growing problem of unregulated overseas shipments of toys and other items are made possible by aggressive marketing from international sellers, incomplete domestic laws and the popularity of online shopping that surged during the coronavirus pandemic.

Officials often have no idea what's coming into the country because of legal loopholes and the sheer volume of shipments, according to CALPIRG legislative advocate Fiona Hines.

The consumer group said that direct-to-consumer items from another country -- while inexpensive and easy to find -- can put families at risk. Online retailers, which don't have to follow the same laws as brick-and-mortar stores, and lower-tier physical stores that may not vet sellers as well as larger chains, may also market items that can be hazards, CALPIRG said.

Among toys that were the subject of violation notices by U.S. authorities are games, infant busy boards, educational toys, children's jewelry, blocks, plastic ride-on toys, baby teethingers and stuffed animals, consumer advocates said.

The proliferation of toys from overseas manufacturers that are often sold under the radar online is a recent phenomenon, CALPIRG's report stated.

The Trouble in Toyland survey also focused on concerns about water beads, smart toys that invade children's privacy, high-powered magnets, button cell batteries and the ease with which consumers can still buy recalled toys, even though it's illegal to sell them.

The group warned that because water beads -- tiny, squishy balls that look like candy and are marketed as a "sensory toy" -- can expand many times their original size when exposed to water, they present special dangers to children.

"If it's swallowed or inserted into an ear canal, the water beads absorb bodily fluids and expand," CALPIRG said in the report. "This can and has led to a blocked airway, intestinal or bowel blockage, lung or ear damage and other life-altering injuries."

The report said that about 7,800 children were treated in emergency rooms from 2016 through 2022 for injuries or illnesses caused by water beads, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

As for so-called "smart" toys, the group advised

In 2006 The Gilbert U-238 Atomic Energy Lab was named one of the top 10 most dangerous toys ever by Radar Magazine. In 2020 the professional journal IEEE Spectrum declared it was a perfectly safe toy as long as the radioactive material was not removed from its protective containers as warned in the user manual. Though kids are not known to generally read or follow instructions listed in the owners manuals of toys.

Joe Haupt

parents to find out whether the item is collecting information about the child, or transferring such information to another company besides the manufacturer.

"Best to find manufacturers and toys that don't share any data at all," according to the report.

Dr. Helen Arbogast, manager of the Injury Prevention Program at Children's Hospital Los Angeles, said choke hazards for children are an ever-present danger when buying toys. She called out button batteries -- those flat cell batteries that look like air tags -- as being of particular concern this season, especially for children under 5 years old.

Arbogast suggested a sure test of an item to determine its danger of causing choking. If an item falls through a toilet paper roll, "it is a choke hazard," she said.

Water Beads can expand to many times their original size when exposed to moisture, potentially leading to health issues if ingested or stuck in orifices.

I did do some pre planning, but you don't have to to get this meal on the table quickly. If you do want to start early, pre marinate your pork for best results. But if you do not have time beforehand, don't stress it, your meal will be alright.

Let's make a quick dinner!

- 1.5 lbs pork chops
- 1 tsp salt
- 1 tsp powdered onion
- 1 tbsp lemon pepper seasoning

TOMATO-FORWARD CHICKEN FRICASSEE IS WARM AND HEARTY

By CHRISTOPHER KIMBALL Christopher Kimball's Milk Street

It may have a French-sounding name, but this homely, hearty, tomato-forward chicken braise, made with sofrito as its base and with golden rum as part of the cooking liquid, is Caribbean in essence and flavor.

In this recipe from our cookbook "Milk Street 365: The All-Purpose Cookbook for Every Day of the Year," we adapted San Juan chef Jose Santaella's recipe from his book "Cocina Tropical." Instead of a whole cut-up chicken, we use only bone-in thighs, as dark meat stands up better to braising than more delicate breast meat.

We also simmer the potatoes and carrots for about 10 minutes in a little water, giving the root vegetables a head start on cooking before the tomatoes, wine and rum are introduced. If added raw to an acidic liquid, the vegetables require extended cooking to fully 5 minutes. Slice and serve.

I made sandwiches out of mine with cucumber salad, chimichurri, and mayo on a baguette. Other serving ideas are over rice with a side salad, or if you have more time you can stir fry some vegetables to serve alongside the pork chop.

tenderize. You will need 1 cup of sofrito for this recipe, so be sure to cook up a batch in advance.

The braising liquid is quite acidic. Be sure to use a non-reactive pot, such as stainless steel or enamel-coated cast iron, so the metal does not react to the acidity and cause "off" flavors. After returning the browned chicken to the Dutch oven, cover the pot only partially. A little evaporation is desirable so the braise isn't too watery. Serve with rice and, if you're so inclined, with fried sweet plantains.

Chicken Fricassee with Tomatoes, Potatoes and Carrots

Start to finish: 1 ¼ hours (30 minutes active) Servings: 4 to 6

Ingredients: 1 tablespoon dried oregano Kosher salt and ground black pepper 2½ pounds bone-in, skin-on chicken thighs, trimmed 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil 1 cup sofrito ½ cup pitted green olives 4 bay leaves 1 pound Yukon Gold potatoes, peeled and cut into ½-inch pieces 1 pound carrots, peeled and sliced ¼ inch thick on the diagonal 14½-ounce can crushed tomatoes (1½ cups) 6-ounce can tomato paste 1 cup dry white wine ½ cup golden rum Chopped fresh cilantro, to serve

Directions:

In a small bowl,

stir together the oregano and ½ teaspoon each salt and pepper. Season the chicken on all sides with the mixture. In a large Dutch oven over medium-high, heat the oil until shimmering. Add the chicken and cook, turning once or twice, until browned on both sides, 8 to 10 minutes. Transfer the chicken to a large plate; set aside.

Add the sofrito to the pot along with the olives and bay; cook, stirring, until fragrant, 1 to 2 minutes. Stir in the potatoes, carrots, 2 cups water and ½ teaspoon each salt and pepper. Bring to a simmer, then cover and simmer until the vegetables are tender-crisp, about 10 minutes. Add the crushed tomatoes to the pot along with the tomato paste, wine and rum; stir to combine. Return the chicken to the pot, nestling the pieces into the mixture, then add the accumulated juices. Return to a simmer, cover partially and cook, stirring once or twice, until the vegetables are tender and a skewer inserted into the chicken meets no resistance, 40 to 45 minutes.

Remove the pot from the heat, then remove and discard the bay. Taste and season with salt and pepper. Serve sprinkled with cilantro.

Sofrito

Start to finish: 30 minutes

2 medium yellow onions, finely chopped
10 medium garlic cloves, minced

8 ounces ripe tomatoes, cored and chopped
1 large cubanelle pepper or 1 medium red, yellow or orange bell pepper, stemmed, seeded and chopped
3 tablespoons drained capers
2 bay leaves
1 tablespoon dried oregano
1 tablespoon annatto oil (optional)

Directions: In a 12-inch skillet over medium-high, heat the olive oil until shimmering. Add the onions and cook, stirring often, until beginning to brown, 2 to 4 minutes.

Add the garlic and tomato paste; cook, stirring, until fragrant, about 1 minute. Add the ham and cook, stirring, for about 1 minute.

Add the tomatoes, pepper, capers, bay, oregano and annatto oil (if using). Cook, stirring often, until the mixture begins to stick to the pan, 6 to 8 minutes; reduce the heat if it begins to brown. Transfer to a small bowl.

"RED ONE"

By BOB GARVER

"Red One" desperately wants to be an "edgy" Christmas movie. Edgy Christmas movies throughout history have included everything from raunchy comedies ("Bad Santa," "The Ref") to intense action ("Fatman," "Violent Night") to straight-up horror ("Black Christmas," "Silent Night, Deadly Night"). When edgy movies turn Christmas on its head just right, they can become blockbusters and classics like "Home Alone" or "Die Hard." When they fail, well, they'll do whatever "Red One" is going to do at the box office because this movie is a big miss.

The heroes of "Red One" are security chief Callum Drift (Dwayne Johnson) and hacker Jack O'Malley (Chris Evans). Callum works for the one and only Santa Claus (J.K. Simmons), and both love delivering presents to the good people of the world. But Cal has become jaded and lost passion for his work. It's not that he doesn't love being around Santa and his positive energy, he just thinks that the world has become overrun by people like Jack. Jack is a deadbeat dad, an unscrupulous hacker, and – given that he literally steals candy from a baby in the film's opening moments – a total sociopath. I know the point is to show that this character needs the redemption that he'll earn through the rest of the movie, but after he does that, I wasn't rooting for him to earn anything besides a prison cell.

Despite Callum's best efforts, Santa gets kidnapped by evil witch Gryla (Kiernan Shipka). Callum's boss Harlow (Lucy Liu) learns that Jack did some hacking in relation to the abduction, and orders him brought in for questioning. The civilian gets a peek at the M.O.R.A. (Mythological Oversight and Restoration Authority), which hints at the start of a cinematic universe that I doubt will ever be expanded.

Jack doesn't know who exactly was paying him, but middleman Ted (Nick Kroll) might. Cal reluctantly escorts Jack to Aruba to follow the lead. The scenes in Aruba last about five minutes, yet I suspect that about $200 million of this film's reported $250 million cost was spent there. The money sure didn't go toward making the movie decent, I can assure you of that.

Jack and Cal eventually have to visit Santa's brother (Kristofer Hivju) for more information. The film builds suspense around the identity of the brother, and I was like, "Krampus, right?" The movie treats the answer like some kind of big reveal, but I was more shocked that Benedict Cumberbatch in "Star Trek Into Darkness" wasn't playing a guy named Harrison.

Jack and Cal make a pair of unlikely partners as they race to save Santa by Christmas. There are chases and fights and hustles and one-liners, barely any of which are funny and none of which are exciting. The action scenes are all murky and cheap, and Gryla is one of the most underwhelming villains in recent memory. Somewhere along the way, Jack gets the redemption he needs and Cal learns to see the good he needs to see – which means he's not watching this movie.

Since "Red One" is all about the season of giving, I'll give the movie a gift and boost it above a "D" rating. The reason is simple: J.K. Simmons. The Oscar-winner is primarily responsible for the one good scene in the movie, where Santa and Cal debate the necessity of generosity in an increasingly-cruel world. And I guess some of the tricks Santa uses to visit houses all over the world are cute – like wormholes, transformation technology, and military escorts ("Red One" refers to the sleigh, by the way). But the movie spends a good 90% of its runtime in "D" territory. The better edgy Christmas movie of 2024 was "Terrifier 3," and it'll be a Christmas miracle if that one stays in theaters much longer.

Grade: C-

"Red One" is rated PG-13 for action, some violence, and language. Its running time is 123 minutes.

'Red One' Opens Atop Box Office with $34 Million

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - "Red One," a Christmas-themed action comedy starring The Rock, grossed $34 million this weekend to lead all films in North America, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

It was a disappointing total for a film whose budget reportedly was well north of $200 million. The Amazon MGM Studios release also stars Chris Evans and features J.K. Simmons, Lucy Liu and Kiernan Shipka.

"Venom: The Last Dance," which spent its first three weeks atop the domestic box office chart, slipped to second place with $7.3 million, Comscore reported.

"The Best Christmas Pageant Ever" was third with $5.4 million Friday through Sunday at theaters in the United States and Canada.

The Hugh Grant-starring horror film "Heretic" was fourth with $5.1 million in its second weekend, followed by "The Wild Robot" with $4.3 million in its eighth weekend.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were "Smile 2" ($2.9 million), "Conclave" ($2.8 million), "Hello, Love, Again" ($2.32 million), "A Real Pain" ($2.3 million) and "Anora"

($1.8 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $73.6 million. The year-to-date total is $7.079 billion -- down 11.1% from the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

Port of LA Touts Fourth Straight Month of Cargo Movement Growth

SAN PEDRO (CNS) - The Port of Los Angeles handled 905,026 twenty-foot equivalent units in October, a 25% increase over the same time last year, marking the fourth consecutive month that workers moved more than 900,000 containers through the facility, officials said Wednesday.

The port's loaded imports stood at 462,740 TEUs, which represented a 24% increase compared to October 2023, while loaded exports came in at 122,716 TEUs, a 1% increase over last year.

Dockworkers also processed 319,570 empty containers, which jumped 38% compared to 2023.

"These robust, sustained volumes will likely continue in the coming months with strong consumer spending, an early Lunar New Year, importer concerns about unresolved East Coast labor issues and the possibility of new tariffs next year that could drive up shipping costs," Gene Seroka, executive director for the port, said during an online briefing.

"I'm grateful to our dockworkers, truckers, terminal operators and others who handle these record levels of cargo every day," he added. "They have done it with speed, efficiency and without a single ship backed up at sea."

Mary Lovely, senior fellow at the Peterson Institute of International Economics, joined Seroka to discuss the potential impact of additional tariffs against products made in China and other countries that might be implemented by President-elect Donald Trump.

Seroka highlighted some of Trump's proposed trade policies, such as 10% tariffs on all $3 trillion of American imports, 60% tariffs on China, and an equally high tax on products coming out of Mexico.

"We'll definitely see an effect on trade flows, both imports and exports," Lovely said.

Lovely anticipates that consumers will turn toward domestic goods.

"Our exports will be hurt because we're going to see higher prices on the things that our producers use to produce in the United States," she said.

Minimum Wage

woes people are facing."

WHAT DO OPPONENTS SAY?

Prop. 32 was opposed by the state Chamber of Commerce and business groups representing the grocery, agricultural and restaurant industries.

Business owners argued mandating pay hikes would increase food prices and worsen inflation, seizing on those concerns during a year when American consumers have remained pessimistic about the economy, despite inflation falling steadily from a pandemic-era peak.

WHY IS IT ON THE BALLOT?

Prop. 32 had an unusual path to the ballot. It didn't come from the usual players in labor politics — the unions that dominate the California Democratic Party and command strong support in the Legislature. Unions were instrumental in 2016 in striking a deal with lawmakers and then-Gov. Jerry Brown to mandate a series of wage hikes that brought the state's minimum wage up to $15 in 2022.

Instead, Sanberg personally poured $10 million into qualifying the measure. When he announced the measure late in 2021, a hike to $18 appeared ambitious. But by the time the proposition made it to the 2024 ballot, California unions and lawmakers had already outpaced it.

A $20 minimum wage for fast food workers went into effect this April. The healthcare industry in October also began raising pay for a scheduled minimum wage hike to $25. Los Angeles hotel workers are seeking a $30 minimum wage by the 2028 Olympics.

For everyone else, the state minimum wage continued to rise with inflation, reaching $16 this year.

Supporters said those left behind still deserve to earn more. According to researchers at MIT, a single Californian with no children needs at least $27 an hour to be self-sufficient.

But with far fewer workers in line for a raise under Prop. 32, the campaign for the measure was met with less fanfare and public support than initially envisioned. Union leaders, while backing the measure, said $18 can hardly be considered a living wage in California today.

Sanberg and proponents have said the measure is simple and attractive enough to most voters that they did not need to blanket the state with ads or spend big on a formal campaign. But in the final weeks of the election, as polling showed its chances of passage falling, they said they're reaching out to working class voters and those in big cities, to turn out likely supporters.

Roy was the sixth of 12 children, the family emigrated to the United States in 1957. VanderKallen played football at Chaffey High School in Ontario, then in college and semi-pro football for the Orange Crush of Ontario. Brothers, Johnny, Francis, and Honnie were teammates.

The Corona Police Department hired him in 1978 and he climbed the ranks to captain before retiring in 2004.

In addition to his athletic ability, VanderKallen was best known for his charitable work through his membership in Kiwanis. He co-founded the Arc Angel Foundation which became Tommy's Angels, and he created the Roy and Melissa VanderKallen scholar-athlete scholarship.

Cloud Seeding

gured on Nov. 15, 2023, following feasibility studies and a California Environmental Quality Act report that found no significant threats posed by the silver iodide particles disseminated via propane-powered cloud nuclei generators. The inaugural year’s dispersals ended on April 15.

Just over a dozen units were activated for “flaring” during 13 storm systems, according to SAWPA’s 2023-24 report on the program. The ground- based devices were strategically placed along the boundary of the Cleveland National Forest, aimed toward Corona, Temescal Valley and Lake Elsinore, as well as at the foot of the San Jacinto Mountains in the Anza Valley, and the San Bernardino and San Gabriel Mountains to the north.

“Overall, the program ... worked well with the weather patterns observed during the season,” the report stated. “The sites appeared to be effective at targeting their seeding material properly.”

There was no estimate of how much difference the units made in ramping up precipitation.

The concept of pumping silver iodide into the lower atmosphere for weather modification is not new -- and not without debate. During the Vietnam War, the U.S. military implemented “geoengineering” as a weapon, according to Popular Science. Its expose on “Operation Popeye” detailed how airborne cloud seeding was used to invigorate monsoonal rains to hamstring North Vietnamese troop movements by saturating their logistics supply lines with mud and floods.

Seeding programs have been widely used in civilian operations worldwide since that time, from Idaho and Colorado to China and the United Arab Emirates, according to published reports. The activity is described by SAWPA and other agencies as “safe” and “reliable,” but longtime Bay Area meteorologist Brian Sussman, author of the recently released book “Climate Cult,” pointed out that silver iodide is defined by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency as a “hazardous substance.”

“It’s been deemed hazardous by the Clean Water Act, and numerous studies conclude repeated use in the same geographical area is not advisable,” Sussman told CNS. “What has changed in the Santa Ana River Watershed is not the climate, but the human population and its need for more water. Modifying the weather to yield more precipitation may be successful, but it is fraught with uncertainty.”

Riverside-area resident Colleen Strong voiced her concerns about the program during a Riverside County Board of Supervisors’ meeting earlier this year, saying she was “caught” in a storm during which seeding occurred in early March.

“There was a horrific hail and thunderstorm on the 215 freeway that caused several accidents,” Strong said. “I found out afterward that it had been a cloud-seeded event. They were trying to induce that on Easter Sunday, too, when we had a Sunrise Service, which is very alarming to me.”

Murrieta resident and environmental activist Catherine Fischer told CNS she is opposed to all forms of geoengineering.

“The impacts of this are too numerous to list,” she said. “I think that God did a wonderful job creating the weather, and we should just leave it alone.”

Mosher said SAWPA’s environmental impact report confirmed “the impacts of silver iodide ... are less than significant.”

“Silver iodide would not result in iodide or ions in the environment in sufficient quantities to harm sensitive ecological receptors,” he said. “Studies have shown that cloud seeding does not result in concentrations of silver iodide in the environment that would be toxic to humans or wildlife.”

According to SAWPA’s contractor for the project, North American Weather Consultants, conditions necessary for productive seeding include non- erratic winds, high moisture content and freezing or slightly subfreezing temperatures. Mosher said operations are suspended when seeding might contribute to “flooding and debris flows,” such as during “large storms and multiple storms occurring in a short time frame.”

He said the agency communicates with regional flood control districts to gauge whether landscape disturbances caused by wildfires could pose risks. The burn scars left by summer blazes in the San Bernardino National Forest and Cleveland National Forest prompted suspension of all seeding operations this season, resulting in the postponement to Nov. 15, 2025.

Sussman said the National Academy of Sciences published research 20 years ago raising doubts “regarding the effectiveness of cloud seeding.”

He noted that if Southern California slips back into substantial drought, seeding would be “generally ineffective” no matter how much silver iodide is pushed skyward.

them up for success. Because the model is approved for the SAT, PSAT, ACT and AP tests, your gift will be helping them prepare for a bright future.

4. Help them keep time: Is your student an athlete? Whether they run track, do swim team or tackle contact sports head-on, a durable, water-resistant sports watch can help them track their speed and progress throughout the season.

5. Expand their world: While many people today get their news by rapidly scanning headlines on apps, a deeper dive can improve literacy, expand knowledge and foster an understanding of the world. Consider gifting your student a subscription to a high-quality newspaper or news magazine.

This holiday season, give students thoughtful gifts that will ease their life and make their schoolwork and extracurriculars more enjoyable. (StatePoint)

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (855) 976-3916 or visit this internet website www.auction.com, using the file number assigned to this case 24-69304. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 976-3916, or visit this internet website tracker.auction.com/sb1079, using the file number assigned to this case 24-69304 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (855) 976-3916 or visit this internet website www.auction.com, using the file number assigned to this case 24-69499. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 976-3916, or visit this internet website tracker.auction.com/sb1079, using the file number assigned to this case 24-69499 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.
