Essayli Leaves Assembly, Sworn in as U.S. Attorney for Central District

NORCO (CNS) - Ex-Riverside Assemblyman Bill Essayli was sworn in Wednesday as the U.S. Attorney for the Central District of California following his appointment Tuesday by Attorney General Pam Bondi.

Essayli, 39, was sworn in during a private ceremony by Chief U.S. District Judge Dolly Gee in downtown Los Angeles. Essayli now oversees the largest U.S. Attorney's Office outside of Washington, D.C.

The office, which employs more than 250 lawyers, serves almost 20 million residents in the counties of Riverside, San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Orange, Ventura, Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo.

"It is the honor of a lifetime to lead the U.S. Attorney's Office and serve the people of the district that I have called home for so many years," Essayli said. "As our district's chief federal prosecutor, I will work diligently and tirelessly with our federal and local law enforcement partners to implement the priorities of the president and the attorney general and to protect our communities from criminals. Our citizens deserve no less."

Essayli returns to the office after serving as a twice-elected member of the state Assembly, representing California's 63rd State Assembly District from December 2022 until Tuesday. The 63rd District comprises communities including parts of Riverside and Corona, and the cities of Menifee and Norco.

In October 2019, he founded and was a partner at the Newport Beach-based law firm Essayli & Brown LLP.

Authorities Enforce Distraction-Free Driving During Driving Awareness Month

PALM SPRINGS (CNS) - In an effort to help keep motorists safe on the road during National Distracted Driving Awareness Month, authorities throughout Riverside County in April will be actively seeking drivers who might be in violation of the state's hands-free cell phone law or other restrictions.

"Staying focused behind the wheel is something we can all do," Sgt. Kevin Lu of the Palm Springs Police Department said in a statement. "Distracted Driving Awareness Month is an important reminder that even a quick glance at the phone can lead to serious consequences. Distracted driving is not only risky; it is deadly. Stay focused, stay alert and help us keep our roads safe."

According to the 2024 California Statewide Public Opinion Survey, about 74% of drivers surveyed said texting was their biggest safety concern on the road. In 2022, 148 people were killed in California due to distracted driving.

The use of a hand-held cell phone while driving is punishable by a fine for a driver's first-time offense, and a points will be added to a driver's record if convicted within 36 months of the same offense, according to the Palm Springs Police Department.

Sheriff's deputies from stations throughout Riverside County -- including Eastvale, Jurupa Valley, Norco, Lake Elsinore, Wildomar, Canyon Lake and San Jacinto -- will also participate in distracted driving awareness month by seeking violators.

Funding for the distracted driving enforcement was provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

County's Jobless Rate Falls in February

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Amid a mix of payroll gains and losses throughout the regional economy, Riverside County's unemployment rate dropped slightly last month, according to figures released Friday by the California Employment Development Department.

The countywide jobless rate in February, based on preliminary EDD estimates, was 5.2%, compared to 5.3% in January.

According to figures, the February rate was four-tenths of a percentage point below the year-ago level, when countywide unemployment stood at 5.6%.

EDD posted the data outside of its usual schedule due to an annual statistical revision process done in concert with the U.S. Department of Labor known as "benchmarking," which is intended to improve accuracy of results. The process is slated to wrap up presently, and the April jobless numbers will be released on schedule.

The combined unemployment rate for Riverside and San Bernardino counties -- the Inland Empire -- was 5.1%, down from 5.3% in January, the EDD said.

Bi-county data indicated that payrolls shrank by the widest margin in the trade, transportation and utilities sector, which shed an estimated 8,200 jobs, mainly in retail, as outlets and suppliers continued cutting back following the Holiday Season shopping blitz.

Additional loses were recorded in the agricultural, construction, financial services, manufacturing and public sectors, which lost an aggregate 1,700 positions, according to figures.

The health services and professional business services sectors expanded by 2,900 jobs, while miscellaneous unclassified industries increased by 300, data showed.

The information technology, leisure and mining sectors were unchanged.

The statewide non-seasonally adjusted unemployment rate in February was 5.5%.

Corona Man Pleads Guilty to Cockfighting Charge

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A Riverside County man pleaded guilty Monday in downtown Los Angeles to a federal charge for hosting illegal cockfights in which owners paid $1,000 to register roosters expected to fight to the death while spectators gambled on the bloody results.

Isidro Chaparro Sanchez, 59, of Corona, entered a plea to one count of conspiracy to sponsor and exhibit roosters in an animal fighting venture, a felony carrying a possible sentence of up to five years imprisonment, according to the U.S. Attorney's Office.

U.S. District Judge R. Gary Klausner set sentencing for July 17.

According to federal prosecutors, Sanchez conspired with four others to produce cockfighting events on Sundays at a home on Duffy Street in San Bernardino for four months last year. The location included a cockfighting ring with seating and bars serving tacos and alcoholic drinks.

Prosecutors say attendees parked -- at the cost of $20 -- at a different location nearly 1 mile away from the event location. They were then shuttled to the cockfighting location, where they paid $40 to enter the arena where the fights took place. Attendees could also place bets on the cockfights and participate in a raffle.

A team registering four roosters would pay an entry fee of $1,000. One of the co-defendants would collect the money, register the team's roosters for battle, and record the weights of the roosters, papers filed in Los Angeles federal court show.

Attendees, including those who had registered their roosters, would place bets with bookmakers who collected the cash, Sanchez's plea agreement filed in Los Angeles federal court says.

The blood sport on Duffy Street ended on Aug. 4, 2024, shortly after the arrival of almost 60 patrons, some carrying roosters. Before the first bout, special agents with the FBI armed with a search warrant raided the place.

Items seized included roughly $9,000 in cash, 50 to 100 sharp instruments or "gaffs" -- curved metal spurs or blades that are attached to a rooster's leg prior to a fight -- and various types of steroids. In addition, about 200 birds, of which more than 150 were deemed to be fighting roosters by a local animal control agency, were recovered, according to the U.S. Attorney's Office.

The four co-defendants face trial in June.

Cockfighting is a contest in which a person attaches a knife, gaff or other sharp instrument to the leg of a "gamecock" or rooster and then places the bird a few inches away from a similarly armed rooster. This results in a violent fight during which the roosters flap their wings and jump while stabbing each other with the weapons that are fastened to their legs. A cockfight ends when one rooster is dead or refuses to continue to fight. Usually, one or both roosters die after a fight, according to the U.S. Department of Justice.

What Parents Need to Know About Protecting Their Children From Measles

Ongoing measles outbreaks across the country have many families, pediatricians and public health experts concerned. Most of the people who have gotten sick, including a child who died in Texas, were not vaccinated against measles.

The best way to protect your family is by choosing to have your child immunized against measles. The MMR vaccine—which protects against measles, mumps and rubella—is the only way to prevent measles. Vitamin A, cod liver oil and other alternatives have been discussed as ways to lessen the severity of measles. However, none of these alternatives will prevent measles. Too much vitamin A can also cause severe illness. Always talk with your pediatrician first.

“The reason many parents in the United States have not had to worry about measles in decades is because of widespread immunization with this safe and effective vaccine,” said AAP president and pediatrician, Susan Kressly. “However, when immunization rates drop in a community, the disease can spread, putting everyone—especially young children—at risk.”

Before the measles vaccine was available in the United States, an average of 450 people died from measles every year, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Most of them were previously healthy children. Children who contract measles are at higher risk for developing more serious conditions such as pneumonia or a brain infection called encephalitis.

These complications can become deadly. Additionally, a rare but universally fatal form of brain swelling called subacute sclerosing panencephalitis can occur in healthy children years after they have recovered from measles infection.

Measles is highly contagious. The virus can live for up to two hours in the air where infected people have coughed or sneezed. Nine out of 10 people exposed to the virus who don't have immunity from the vaccine will also become infected, according to the CDC. To prevent the virus from spreading and potentially causing an outbreak, creating community immunity by reaching a high level of vaccination rate is crucial to protect those who cannot be vaccinated.

The vast majority of parents get their children vaccinated. But because measles is so infectious, if a community's rate of vaccination dips below 95% of the population, the disease can easily spread, impacting individuals and groups of people. Check with your pediatrician today if you're unsure about your child's protection. Learn more at HealthyChildren.org.

“No parent should have to experience the loss of a child to a preventable disease. Vaccines save lives,” said Dr. Kressly. “Pediatricians are here to talk with families about their children's health, including how they can access vaccines. We must support immunization programs so that children in every community get the opportunity to grow up healthy and strong.” (StatePoint)

Riverside County Supervisors OK Range of Public Health Fee Revisions

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The Board of Supervisors Tuesday approved a slate of fee hikes tied to Riverside County Department of Public Health services, under a fee schedule revised to reflect inflation-driven impacts to the agency.

In a 3-0 vote -- with Supervisors Yxstian Gutierrez and Chuck Washington absent -- the board formally signed off on the adjustments, vaccine via a mobile clinic will cost $50, where there was no charge before. Any mobile vaccination clinic service will additionally include administration fees -- ranging from $2 to $90, depending on economic hardship -- which haven't been charged in the past.

To obtain a “dog importation health certificate,” the department will in the future charge $26 for the

which will take effect on May 1.

Department of Public Health Director Kim Saruwatari said the Auditor-Controller's Office had scrutinized the proposal and determined the new rates were “equitable and reasonable to recover the cost of providing services.”

“These new and revised public health program fees are necessary to meet the on-going operational and maintenance costs of providing public health program services to Riverside County residents,” according to an agency statement posted to the board's agenda.

In a few instances, fees have been put forward where none existed previously. For the department's “mobile team vaccines” service, the cost of administering a Gardasil human papillomavirus 9 variant inoculation will go from zero to $330. Similarly, to receive the Boostrix TDAP service. There was previously no cost attached to the certificate.

A number of laboratory processing fees will be increased. A tuberculosis culture analysis will go from $20 to $50, while a basic “culture for identification” will jump from $17 to $50. An HIV antibody screening will go from $28 to $36.12, and the cost of an HIV-1 and HIV-2 genus confirmation will be raised from $46 to $58.06.

The new up-front cost for procuring any medical documents loaded onto a CD, such as images of X-rays and CT scans, will be $25. In the past, this was a complimentary service provided by the department.

Health insurance providers, including government-subsidized Medi-Cal, will likely pick up many of the new expenses, though co-pay costs were unknown.

What to do if you can't pay the Taxes You Owe

By CORA LEWIS Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — If you know or suspect you can't pay the taxes you owe this tax season, you should still file a return with that information or file for an extension. That's the top piece of advice that tax professionals want you to know.

"The IRS wants to work with you," said Tom O'Saben, director of tax content and government relations at the National Association of Tax Professionals. "But if you're asking the IRS for some help, they have to know something about you. So the first thing is to have that return filed. The number one takeaway is that owing money is not a reason not to file."

If you don't file a return or ask for an extension, then interest and penalties begin to accrue immediately. Those costs are largely avoidable if you share the information about your circumstances with the IRS in a timely way. Filing a return without paying taxes owed in full is preferable to not filing.

To be clear, if you don't pay all the taxes you owe by the April 15 filing deadline, interest will accrue even if you've been granted an extension to October, but that interest will be more manageable than fees that add up when you pay no taxes at all.

"The worst case scenario is that you don't file and end up being liable for penalties later on," said Emily DiVito, senior advisor for economic policy at the nonprofit Groundwork Collaborative and former U.S. Treasury advisor. "That's not good for anyone. But there are opportunities to ask for extensions and to go on payment plans."

Here's what to know:

What happens if I don't pay my taxes?

In addition to tacking on interest and penalties, the IRS can eventually garnish your wages, place a lien on your property, or even place a hold on your passport. But if you file for an extension, or if you file your return with your financial information, you can avoid these consequences. Even if you don't have the money to pay what you owe in full by April 15, paying just a small part when you file.

Are there free tools to help me manage filing for an extension or making a payment plan?

Yes. Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) sites across the country are staffed with volunteers who will help you file a return or arrange for an extension for free. These volunteers can help you set up an installment payment plan of as many as 72 months to pay off any owed taxes. The IRS Direct File program is also free to use.

"While the question mark when you go to click the button to pay can be intimidating, we want to make sure that taxpayers get the money you're owed,

NO NEED TO APPLY: Cal State Is Automatically Admitting High School Students With Good Grades

BY MIKHAIL ZINSHTEYN, CalMatters

More than 17,400 high school seniors last fall got the sweetest news any anxious student can get: Congratulations, because of your high school GPA, you're automatically admitted to one of 10 California State University campuses of your choice — and they're all relatively affordable.

Even with less than a week to go before the campuses wrap their final decisions about whom to admit, a pilot program focusing on Riverside County is already showing that more students have been admitted from the county than last year, about 10,600 so far in 2025 compared to last year's roughly 9,800.

The pilot builds on Cal State's efforts to enroll more students and works like this: High school seniors receive a notice in the mail that they're automatically admitted as long as they maintain their grades, finish the 15 mandatory courses necessary for admission to a Cal State, and complete an admissions form to claim their spot at a campus. Cal State was able to mail the notices because it signed an agreement with the Riverside County Office of Education that gave the university eligible students' addresses.

Now in the program's first year, Cal State joins other public universities across the country in a growing national movement to automatically admit eligible students. From November through January, Cal State informed students they were accepted to the 10 campuses. To claim a spot, students needed to go online and pick at least one campus.

If past admissions and enrollment trends hold, Cal State as a system will educate hundreds of more students, all from Riverside, than they would have without the pilot. That'd be a boon for a system that prides itself on its affordability and motto that it's the people's university; Cal

State admits a far higher percentage of students than the University of California. It also could serve as a much-needed budget boost from the extra tuition revenue those students bring, especially at campuses with sinking enrollment.

Eight campuses — Channel Islands, Chico, East Bay, Humboldt, Maritime Academy, Monterey Bay, San Francisco, and Sonoma — are so under-enrolled that Cal State is pulling some of their state revenues to send to campuses that are still growing. Cal Maritime is soon merging with another campus because of its perilous finances. The pilot also includes the two closest campuses to the county, San Bernardino student grades to Cal State — a key step in creating automatic admissions. Riverside is also “ethnically and economically representative of the diversity of California — many of the students the CSU is so proud to serve,” a spokesperson for the system, Amy Bentley Smith, wrote in an email.

At Heritage High School, a public school in Riverside County, the pilot encouraged students who previously didn’t even consider attending a public four-year university to submit the automatic admission forms to a Cal State.

Silvia Morales, a 17-year-old senior at Heritage, got an automatic admissions letter. “I was pretty set on going to community

It wasn’t until her counselor, Chris Tinajero, pulled her into a meeting an adult she trusted at the school to persuade her that the applications were worth the effort, she said.

Morales applied to three Cal State campuses in the pilot plus two outside the program that were still accepting late applications — Chico, Humboldt, Los 10 campuses. But the system’s chancellor’s office is already planning to replicate the pilot program in a Northern California county, which will be named sometime in April, Cal State officials said.

A bill by Christopher Cabaldon, a state senator and Democrat from Napa, would make automatic enrollment to Cal State for eligible students a state law. The bill hasn’t been heard in a committee yet.

A boost in application numbers

Of the 17,000 students who received an invitation to secure their automatic admissions, about 13,200 submitted the necessary forms. That’s about 3,000 more students who applied from the county than last year.

Those who otherwise wouldn’t have applied to a Cal State include students who were eyeing private colleges, said Melina Gonzalez, a counselor at Heritage who typically advises students who are already college-bound.

Nearby private colleges offer all students application fee waivers; at Cal State, typically only low-income students receive fee waivers. But the pilot provided each Cal State student one fee waiver worth $70, which was a draw to students and their parents who don’t qualify for the fee waiver but might struggle to pay.

Last year, 10 of the 100 senior students Gonzalez counseled didn’t apply to a Cal State. This application season, all her students submitted at least one Cal State application, she said.

“It was big, it was really

Her parents are “proud of me because I want to go to college,” Morales said. Neither went to college,

The system chose Riverside County because all of its public high school students were already loaded onto a state data platform that can directly transmit

Are there other possible outcomes?

If you've experienced unusual hardship, and you share that with the IRS, the IRS can sometimes put your account in "currently-not-collectible" status. To do that, you share information about your income and living expenses, and the IRS determines if you qualify.

"Let's say you've been ill, and you lost your job from illness, and you have serious medical bills. You've had all the bad luck, and things happened outside of your control, and you need some relief," said O'Saben. "Then the IRS can place you in uncollectable status. But all of this requires conversation and communication. No one wants to admit they're having economic problems, but the IRS will work with you if you do."

There are also rare circumstances in which the IRS will settle your tax debt for less than the amount owed, called an "offer in compromise." VITA tax professionals can also help you see if you're eligible, or you can use a free IRS tool online.

I didn't file my taxes last year. What now?

That's OK. Start now.

"I've been doing taxes for more than 35 years," said O'Saben. "The number one reason people don't file is that they have a feeling they may owe — which could be wrong — and they don't want to face it. But it's not a problem that's going to go away. So tell the IRS the truth of the situation. And they will work with you."

Miklos Ringbauer, a CPA and tax professional in California, echoed this.

"It's perfectly okay," he said. "The IRS deals with every single taxpayer. They have dealt with this before. There's nothing they haven't seen."

The kids are on spring break and we took a trip up to Morro Bay for a few days. And wow, what an incredible town and surrounding area. I did cook while there, but I didn't make anything I haven't made and written about before. This Birria chicken wing recipe from April 2023 still stands the test of time...

We went on a quick vacation last week and I had access to a grill. I like to cook even on vacation so I brought a few provisions with me. I had frozen chicken wings in the freezer and a birria seasoning I had made. So zip zap zoop I threw together some seasoned wings and threw them on the grill. I wasn't trying to do anything amazing here, but the flavors had other things in mind. Let's Cook!

The Seasoning

- 2 guajillo chilis
- 3 chili negro
- 10 morita chilis
- 1 inch cinnamon stick

The Chicken

- 6-7 chicken wings
- 1 teaspoon Lawry's Salt

To Make

Blend the chilis and cinnamon stick in a food processor or blender until it is a powder. Dowse the chicken wings in the birria seasoning and then add the salt. Mix thoroughly so that the chicken is coated evenly. Let marinate for an hour at room temperature. Preheat the grill to as hot as you can get it. The particular grill I was using reached up to about 600° based on the grill's temperature gauge.

Place chicken on the grill at hottest temperature and cook for about 5 minutes before flipping. Cook for another 5 minutes. I didn't have a meat thermometer, so I was looking for the juices to run clear when I poked the chicken. If the juice is still pink, the chicken is not fully cooked yet. Let cool for 5 minutes and EAT!

THE 'PAKISTAN' COOKBOOK SERVES UP RECIPES FOR

MUTTON PULAO AND GARLIC CHUTNEY

A mainstay at the Eid al-Fitr table of Maryam Jillani's grandmother, Kulsoom, was mutton pulao, an aromatic rice dish prepared in a gently spiced bone broth. It's both comforting and celebratory — and can be absolutely revelatory when paired with a sharp condiment like a garlic chutney.

Here are recipes from Jillani's cookbook, "Pakistan," for the mutton and chutney:

MUTTON PULAO (AROMATIC RICE WITH MUTTON)

Serves 6 to 8 as a main course

Ingredients:

About 3 pounds bone-in mutton, lamb or beef, cut into 1- to 1 1/2-inch pieces

4 medium yellow onions, halved and thinly sliced

4 whole cloves

2 black cardamom pods

One 2-inch cinnamon stick

1 tablespoon cumin seeds

2 tablespoons garlic paste

2 tablespoons salt, or to taste

1/3 cup vegetable oil

3 cups basmati rice, rinsed in several changes of water

Directions:

Fill a large pot with 8 to 10 cups water. Add the mutton, half of the onions, the whole cloves, cardamom pods, cinnamon stick, cumin seeds, 1 tablespoon of the garlic paste, and 1 tablespoon of the salt. Cover the pot with a tight-fitting lid. Bring to a boil over high heat, then lower the heat to maintain a gentle simmer. Cook the mutton for 1 to 2 hours, depending on the quality of the meat, until it is tender. With a slotted spoon, remove the meat. Strain the solids from the liquid, return the liquid to the pot, and place it by the stove. Discard the solids.

In a clean, heavy-bottomed pot, heat the oil until it begins to shimmer. Add the remaining onions and fry on medium-low heat for 12 to 15 minutes until they are a deep golden-brown color. Take care to not let them burn. Stir in the remaining garlic paste and cook for 30 seconds to 1 minute, until the mixture no longer smells raw.

Increase the heat to high and add the mutton and remaining 1 tablespoon salt. Sear the meat, 5 to 7 minutes, until it has browned slightly. Pour in 6 cups of the strained mutton broth (put any leftover broth in airtight containers and freeze for later use). Taste and add more salt as needed. Bring to a boil, then lower the heat to maintain a simmer. Carefully pour in the rice and let cook for about 10 minutes until the water completely evaporates.

Wrap a tight-fitting lid with a clean kitchen towel and place it securely on the pot. Turn the heat to the lowest possible setting and let the rice steam for at least 10 to 12 minutes until fluffy. Carefully transfer the pulao to a serving platter and fluff with a fork.

Lahsun ki Chutney (Garlic Chutney)

Aida Khan, a London-based entrepreneur and chef, shared her mother's recipe for this vibrant, punchy lahsun ki chutney. Its very spicy, so a little goes a long way. Refrigerate this chutney in an airtight container for up to two weeks.

Makes 1 cup

Ingredients:

4 heads garlic, cloves separated and peeled

1 1/2 small red onions, roughly chopped

1/4 cup red chile flakes

1 bird's eye chile (optional)

1/2 cup vegetable oil

1 teaspoon salt, or to taste

2 teaspoons lemon juice

Directions:

In a food processor, combine the garlic, onions, chile flakes, and bird's eye chile (if using), and blitz until you have a thick paste.

In a small saucepan, heat the oil over medium heat until it shimmers. Add the garlic and onion paste and salt. Bring it to a simmer, cover the pan, and reduce the heat to low. Cook the chutney for 35 to 40 minutes, stirring occasionally to make sure it doesn't stick to the pan, until the garlic and onions have caramelized and the chutney's color deepens.

Remove the pan from the heat. Stir in the lemon juice and serve.

"A Working Man"

By BOB GARVER

Jason Statham has a new movie out. He plays with a guy who used to work in a violent profession, but he's sworn to leave that life behind. But now some bad people have messed with his employer (the only people to help him out when he was at a low point), and he's going to make the bad guys pay. Cue a series of investigations, interrogations, and of course, action sequences. He'll go through several tiers of bad guys, until he's contending with a huge crime empire that probably could have gone on unimpeded if a low-level employee hadn't caused problems for Statham. Oh, and the whole thing is directed by David Ayer. The movie is called "The Beekeeper 2." Okay, not really, it's called "A Working Man," but as similar as it is to that Statham vehicle from last year, it might as well be.

Statham plays Levon Cade, a former soldier now living out of his pickup truck and working construction under the kindly Garcia family. Daughter Jenny (Arianna Rivas) gets kidnapped by human traffickers, and father Joe (Michael Peña) offers Cade some much-needed money to get her back. Cade needs the money and stability to help in the custody battle for his daughter (Isla Gie) against his father-in-law, the Most Punchable Man in the World (Richard H'earp). With a little help and encouragement from his blind comrade Gunny (David Harbour), Cade sets out on a mission to rescue Jenny.

Cade's path of destruction will pit him against drug dealers, biker gangs, corrupt cops, and Russian gangsters, and all of that before the human traffickers. In an unusual move, Cade doesn't spend the whole movie working his way up to the highest-ranking Russian gangster (Jason Flemyng), rather, he spends about half the movie working up to the Big Bad and the other half working his way down, since the human trafficking is just a small part of the Russian mafia's operation. The villains he really wants are bumbling couple Viper (Emmett J. Scanlan) and Artemis (Eve Mauro), and they're so incompetent that a deus ex machina does half the work for him.

The movie doesn't work as straightforward excitement, the most entertainment I got was laughing at how stupid it is. There's the staggering idiocy by most of the bad guys – it's hard to believe they were ever smart enough to put together a criminal empire. And yes, this is the kind of movie where Cade has expert marksmanship and not a single bad guy can hit the broad side of a barn. Some of the characters just look ridiculous, especially the nephews of the Flemyng character, who are dressed like they're going to a costume party as 80's break dancers. There's an actual costume party in the last act and the partygoers there don't look half as gaudy as these schnooks.

My favorite way to pass the time during "A Working Man" was pretending that the Russian gangsters were connected to the goons from "Anora." Like maybe the Flemyng character and Anora's Russian boyfriend had the same interior decorator or something (both houses give off the same fancy-but-the-owners-don't-enjoy-it vibe). What I'm saying is that I checked out of this garbage movie and started thinking about a better one. That is, when I wasn't thinking about another crummy Statham/Ayer movie in "The Beekeeper," which this movie just lazily retreads. Sitting through "A Working Man" was real work.

Grade: C-

"A Working Man" is rated R for strong violence, language throughout, and drug content. Its running time is 116 minutes.

'A WORKING MAN' KNOCKS OFF 'SNOW WHITE' WITH $15.2M OPENING

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - The Jason Statham action picture "A Working Man" opened with $15.2 million this weekend to lead all films in North America, knocking "Snow White" from the top spot after just one week, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

The drama about a former black ops soldier called back into action when his boss' daughter is kidnapped was directed by David Ayer and written by Ayer and Sylvester Stallone.

"Snow White" slipped to second place with $14.2 million after opening with $43 million last weekend, a disastrous falloff for Disney's big-budget live action remake of its beloved 1937 classic. The film has been plagued by controversy for years preceding its release, including star Rachel Zegler igniting criticism in 2022 by assailing what she characterized as the original's dated depiction of gender roles.

Reviews have also been brutal, with critics and viewers slamming the film's special effects and the performance of Gal Gadot, who plays the Evil Queen.

Third place went to "The Chosen: The Last Supper -- Season 5, Part One," which grossed $11.4 million Friday through Sunday, Comscore reported. The multi-season television series about the life and ministry of Jesus of Nazareth has been hauling in better-than-expected grosses in its big-screen showings.

Universal's horror film "The Woman in the Yard" opened in fourth place with $9.4 million, followed by another horror film, A24's "Death of a Unicorn," which opened with $5.7 million.

A re-release of director Hayao Miyazaki's 1997 anime classic "Princess Mononoke" in 4K landed in sixth place with $4 million.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were "Captain America: Brave New World" ($2.8 million), "Black Bag" ($2.1 million), "Mickey 17" ($1.9 million) and "Novocaine" ($1.4 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $77.4 million. The year-to-date total is $1.441 billion -- down 10.94% from the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

cool, their eyes, they were so excited," she said of the automatically admitted students. "They would come in and show me their letters."

Parents called her asking if the pamphlet from Cal State was authentic. With guaranteed admission, some parents ultimately decided to pay for additional applications to campuses in the pilot, knowing it wasn't in vain.

At Heritage, high school counselors reviewed Cal State's provisional list of students eligible for the pilot to add more seniors, such as those who hadn't yet completed the mandatory courses but were on track to do so.

Tinajero was also able to persuade some students who hadn't completed all the required courses for Cal State entry to take those, including online classes. Still, others with qualifying grades didn't apply because they weren't persuaded that a four-year university was for them. Tinajero sees program growth in the coming years, assuming Cal State continues with the pilot. Younger high school students who witnessed the fanfare of automatic admissions may take more seriously the need to pass the 15 required courses to be eligible for a Cal State or University of California campus, he said.

That's part of Cal State's vision for this pilot, said April Grommo, the system's assistant vice chancellor of strategic enrollment management: Begin encouraging students to take the required courses in ninth grade so that by 11th and 12th grade they're more receptive to applying to Cal State.

Pilot leads to more applications

The automatic admissions pilot is likely what explains the jump in overall applicants, said Grommo. "If you look at the historical numbers of Riverside County students that have applied to the CSU, it's very consistent at 10,000, so there's no other accelerator or explanation for the significant increase in the applications," she said.

Some campuses in the pilot are probably going to see more students from Riverside County than others. The eight under-enrolled Cal State campuses each enrolled fewer than 100 Riverside students as freshmen, a CalMatters review of 2024 admissions data show. Two enrolled fewer than 10 Riverside students as freshmen.

Cal State isn't solely relying on past trends to enroll more students. Grommo cited research that suggests direct admissions programs are associated with increases in student enrollment, but not among low-income students, who are less familiar with the college-going process or have additional economic and family demands, like work and child care.

Even after students are admitted, some don't complete key steps in the enrollment process, such as maintaining their grades in the second semester, completing registration forms to enroll, and paying deposits. Others, especially low-income students, have a change of heart over summer about attending college, which scholars call "summer melt." Then there are the students who

Beckman Wins 300th Funny Car Race for John Force Racing at Winternationals

By TIM HADDOCK

City News Service

POMONA (CNS) -

After winning the 300th NHRA Funny Car race for John Force Racing, Corona's Jack Beckman is headed back to work as an elevator repairman Monday.

Beckman was the winner in Funny Car in the Lucas Oil NHRA Winternationals at the In-N-Out Burger Pomona Dragstrip Sunday, giving his team 300 career wins in Funny Car.

Beckman has three of those wins. John Force, the team owner and one-time driver from Yorba Linda, won 157 Funny Car races.

"It felt good to be able to pedal the thing and take it down there and have the car not blow up. It's pretty cool when they hand you a trophy, your car still intact, and get John Force Racing its 300th Funny car win," Beckman said.

Beckman, who has won 38 NHRA races in his career, was out of drag racing for almost four years. When Force crashed in a race at Richmond, Virginia in June, and was recovering from his injuries, Beckman was called and asked to finish the season for the team.

Beckman competed in eight races for John Force Racing in 2024, winning two, including the NHRA Auto Club Finals at Pomona in November. In the four years he was out of NHRA drag racing, Beckman worked as an elevator repairman, a job he still has. He said he was scheduled to work on Monday, the day after winning the Winternationals Funny Car race.

"The car was amazing all weekend. We qualified fourth, but we got qualifying points every single round and ran 3.80s every round of eliminations until the final when the flawless part fell off a couple of hundred feet out and car shook the tires and knocked them loose," Beckman said. "That's where, as a driver, you've got to be ready to give one back to the team because they'd given me everything all weekend long."

Beckman won the NHRA Mission Foods Drag Racing Series Winternationals race on Sunday, defeating Daniel Wilkerson in the final round, and is the leader in the NHRA Funny Car standings after three races.

The next race for NHRA Mission Foods Drag Racing Series is April 11-13 at the 25th annual NHRA 4-Wide Nationals at The Strip at Las Vegas Motor Speedway.

got into typically more selective campuses, such as at elite private schools and the University of California, and choose instead to go to those.

To prompt more students to actually enroll, Cal State officials in early March hosted two college fairs in Riverside County for students admitted through the pilot. About 2,600 students signed up to be bussed from their high schools to large venues, including the Riverside Convention Center, where they met with staff, alumni and current students from all 10 Cal State campuses participating in the program. Those were followed by receptions with students and parents.

CSU Admissions, see page 11

CSU Admissions

Grommo said they maxed out capacity at both venues for the student events. While it’s common for individual campuses to host events for admitted students, it was a first for Cal State’s central office. The event costs, physical mailers to students about their admissions guarantee, invitation to the college fairs and another flyer about the relative affordability of a Cal State cost the system’s central office around $300,000, Grommo estimates. But if the event moves the needle on students agreeing to attend a Cal State, the tuition revenue at the largely under-enrolled campuses alone would be a huge return on investment. The effort is a far more targeted approach than another admissions outreach effort Cal State rolled out last fall to inform students who started but didn’t finish their college applications that they’re provisionally accepted, as long as they complete and send their forms. The notification went to 106,000 students and was the result of a $750,000 grant Cal State won from the Lumina Foundation, a major higher education philanthropy. The system will know by fall if this notification resulted in more students attending a Cal State. But that was aimed at students who already applied. The Riverside pilot brings in students, like Morales, who wouldn’t have applied without the mailers and entreaties from counselors. She’s leaning toward picking Cal State San Bernardino for next fall. It’s close to home and an older cousin recently graduated who had a good experience there, she said. Her next task? Working with her parents to complete the federal application for financial aid by April 2, the deadline for guaranteed tuition waivers for low- and middle-income students. It’s possible that Cal State may take the direct admissions pilot statewide. All counties are required by state law to join the state-funded data system that Riverside is already a part of to electronically transmit students’ high school grades to Cal States and UCs. Doing so removes the need for schools to send campuses paper transcripts. The deadline for all counties to join the state data system is summer of 2026.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (855) 313-3319 or visit this Internet website www.clearrecon-corp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 129803-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 129803-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that TODD HAYDEN be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 118 N COTA ST., CORONA, CA 92882 The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. Said sale will be held, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, condition, or encumbrances, including fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust, to pay the remaining principal sums of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust. The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (855) 313-3319 or visit this Internet website www.clearrecon-corp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 127466-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 127466-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT(S): Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to California Civil Code Section 2924m. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48-hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 866-684-2727 or visit the website <http://www.servicelinkasap.com>, using the file number assigned to this case 24-228576 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15-days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45-days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. PALM SPRINGS (CNS) - The Palm Springs International Film Society Friday confirmed the dates for the 2026 Palm Springs International Film Festival.

The 37th annual iteration of the event will begin Jan. 2 with a film awards presentation, with the festival running through Jan. 12, organizers said.

The Opening Night will take place Jan. 3, with the Best of Fest and special programming scheduled for Jan. 12-13.

This past January, three feature-length films screened at the festival that went on to win at least one Academy Award, as well as one short.

All four Oscar-winning actors at last year's Academy Awards -- Adrien Brody (Desert Palm Achievement

Award, Actor), Kieran Culkin (Breakthrough Performance Award, Actor), Mikey Madison (Breakthrough Performance Award, Actress) and Zoe Saldana (Vanguard Award) -- were also recognized at the festival.

Dennis McDougal, Noted Reporter, Biographer, Dies in Desert Center Crash

PALM SPRINGS (CNS) - The family of former Los Angeles Times and Riverside Press Enterprise reporter and celebrity biographer Dennis McDougal and his wife Sharon McDougal were mourning their deaths Sunday after both were fatally injured in a multi-vehicle crash in Desert Center earlier this month.

The four-vehicle crash was reported at about 4 p.m. March 21 on westbound Interstate 10 near Red Cloud Mine Road, according to the Riverside County coroner.

The couple were rushed to Desert Regional Medical Center in Palm Springs, where they succumbed to their injuries. Dennis McDougal died the next day while Sharon McDougal died on March 24, according to the coroner's office.

Born in Pasadena, Dennis McDougal worked for the Press Enterprise, the Long Beach Press-Telegram and the LA Times. He authored biographies of show business titans Lew Wasserman, Bob Dylan and Jack Nicholson, along with "Privileged Son," a critically acclaimed biography of former LA Times publisher Otis Chandler.

Dennis' sister, Colleen McDougal, posted on Facebook that the couple was on an extended visit to California from their home in Tennessee to visit family, project partners and old friends when the accident occurred.

According to his sister, the couple had successfully avoided crashing into the pile-up, but a car behind them didn't break on time and sandwiched them into the crash, causing major injuries.

"He and Sharon were in adjacent ER rooms, so that when they rolled Den past her door to an MRI test, he serenaded her with a sweet little made-up ditty about loving his little red-haired girl. He was remarkably lucid, joking and completely himself, never feeling the devastating physical pain his body was experiencing, due to a separated spinal cord at his neck level," Colleen McDougal shared.

"Dennis was not only a dogged and brilliant reporter, but he was also unceasingly generous with his time and expertise," former LA Times reporter Steve Weinstein told the newspaper.

McDougal is survived by his children -- Jennifer Dominguez, Kate Vokoun, Fitz Dearmore and Andrea Adkins -- and 15 grandchildren.
