

California Supreme Court Decisions Could Impact DECADES OF GANG-RELATED Sentencing Enhancements

The California Supreme Court handed down two decisions last week that could impact decades of sentencing for gang-related offenses and allow thousands of people to petition courts to reexamine their cases.

Both rulings turned on a 2021 law that raised the standard of evidence for proving that someone broke a law as part of “criminal street gang activity.” In different ways, the Supreme Court chose to apply the new standard to past convictions.

One decision took an incarcerated person off Death Row; the other sided with two incarcerated people who contested past “strikes” on their records that set them on course for lengthy sentences.

It’s uncertain how far-reaching the two rulings will be. Both of them came in split decisions, reflecting disagreements about how to apply the 2021 law retroactively.

In one case, a 4-3 majority determined that prior gang-related charges did not hold up under new legal standards and thus could not be used as strikes.

Larry Fletcher and Eric Anthony Taylor Jr. argued that 2015 gang enhancement convictions could not be applied as “strikes” toward a three-strikes sentence for a 2020 attempted murder, as their convictions were still under appeal when the 2021 law went into effect.

Judge Rules Trump Administration BROKE LAW in Deploying National Guard Soldiers to California

By OLGA R. RODRIGUEZ
Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge ruled Tuesday that President Donald Trump’s administration “willfully” broke federal law by sending National Guard troops to the Los Angeles area in early June after days of protests over immigration raids.

In the 52-page ruling, U.S. District Judge Charles Breyer in San Francisco noted Trump and Defense Secretary Pete Hegseth have stated their intention to deploy National Guard troops to other cities across the country, including Oakland and San Francisco, and that raises concerns they are “creating a national police force with the President as its chief.”

Breyer did not require the 300 remaining soldiers to leave but pointed out they received improper training and ordered the administration to stop using them “to execute the laws.” The order that applies only to California will take effect Sept. 12.

The White House indicated the government plans to appeal.

“Once again, a rogue judge is trying to usurp the authority of the Commander-in-Chief to protect American cities from violence and destruction,” White House spokeswoman Anna Kelly said in a statement.

It was unclear if the order could set a precedent that could impact plans by Trump, who has discussed National Guard deployments in Democratic-led cities like Chicago, Baltimore and New York. Trump has already deployed the guard as part of his unprecedented law enforcement takeover targeting crime, immigration and homelessness in Washington, where he has direct legal control over the District of Columbia National Guard.

Corona Residents Plead Guilty to Participating in Apple Fraud Scheme

CORONA (CNS) - Two Chinese nationals living in Riverside County pleaded guilty Wednesday to participating in a scheme in which counterfeit iPhones and iPads were imported from China, then exchanged at Apple stores across the Southland.

Yushan Lin, 31, and Shuyi Xing, 35, both of Corona, pleaded guilty in Los Angeles federal court to one count of conspiracy to commit wire fraud and mail fraud. Xing also pleaded guilty to an additional count of conspiracy to commit money laundering in connection with a separate money laundering scheme involving the laundering of more than $1 million in funds from various elder fraud schemes, according to the U.S. Attorney's Office.

The real identification numbers and serial numbers on the counterfeit devices that the defendants returned were designed to impersonate genuine Apple devices owned by customers throughout the United States -- and therefore deceived Apple into replacing the counterfeit devices with real devices under Apple's warranty programs, court papers show.

As part of the scheme, prosecutors say, the defendants visited multiple Apple stores throughout Southern California, including stores in Beverly Hills, Sherman Oaks, Pasadena, Irvine, Northridge, Manhattan Beach, Brea, Rancho Cucamonga, Cerritos and at shopping malls such as The Grove in Los Angeles, South Coast Plaza in Costa Mesa, Fashion Island in Newport Beach, and The Americana at Brand in Glendale.

After successfully returning the counterfeit Apple devices for genuine ones, the defendants shipped the genuine devices to co-conspirators both in the United States and abroad, primarily in China, where the genuine Apple devices were resold at a substantial profit.

Four other defendants also pleaded guilty to federal charges and await sentencing.

Cupertino-based Apple said the scheme caused the company at least $16.2 million in losses.

U.S. District Judge André Birotte Jr. scheduled Dec. 10 sentencing hearings in downtown Los Angeles for Lin, who faces up to 20 years in federal prison, and Xing, who faces up to 40 years, prosecutors said.

OpenAI and Meta Say They're FIXING AI Chatbots Following OC Teen's Suicide

FAMILY ATTORNEY CALLS ANNOUNCEMENTS "VAGUE PROMISES"

By MATT O'BRIEN AP Technology Writer

Artificial intelligence chatbot makers OpenAI and Meta say they are adjusting how their chatbots respond to teenagers asking questions about suicide or showing signs of mental and emotional distress.

OpenAI, maker of ChatGPT, said Tuesday it is preparing to roll out new controls enabling parents to link their accounts to their teen's account.

Parents can choose which features to disable and "rethe most distressing conversations to more capable AI models that can provide a better response.

EDITOR'S NOTE — This story includes discussion of suicide. If you or someone you know needs help, the national suicide and crisis lifeline in the U.S. is available by calling or texting 988.

The announcement comes a week after the parents of 16-year-old Adam Raine sued OpenAI and its CEO Sam Altman, alleging that ChatGPT coached the Cal-subject."

Altman "should either unequivocally say that he believes ChatGPT is safe or immediately pull it from the market," Edelson said.

Meta, the parent company of Instagram, Facebook and WhatsApp, also said it is now blocking its chatbots from talking with teens about self-harm, suicide, disordered eating and inappropriate romantic conversations, and instead directs them to expert resources. Meta already offers parental controls on teen accounts.

A study published last week in the medical journal Psychiatric Services found inconsistencies in how three popular artificial intelligence chatbots responded to queries about suicide.

The study by researchers at the RAND Corporation found a need for "further refinement" in ChatGPT, Google's Gemini and Anthropic's Claude. The researchers did not study Meta's chatbots.

The study's lead author, Ryan McBain, said Tuesday that "it's encouraging to see OpenAI and Meta introducing features like parental controls and routing sensitive conversations to more capable models, but these are incremental steps."

"Without independent safety benchmarks, clinical testing, and enforceable standards, we're still relying on companies to self-regulate in a space where the risks for teenagers are uniquely high," said McBain, a senior policy researcher at RAND and assistant professor at Harvard University's medical school.

Regardless of a user's age, the company says its chatbots will attempt to redirect

Jay Edelson, the family's attorney, on Tuesday described the OpenAI announcement as "vague promises to do better" and "nothing more than OpenAI's crisis management team trying to change the

California Lawmakers Kill Plans to Curb Ai-Manipulated Prices

BY KHARI JOHNSON, CalMatters

A crackdown on predictive software that sets prices and can rip you off seemed to be brewing in the California Legislature earlier this year, but today lawmakers eased up, voting to kill bills that would have kept software from setting the price of apartment rentals and other goods and services. Another bill, which sought to bar the use of personal information to set prices, was reined in to apply only to grocery stores.

Lawmakers also killed a bill that aimed to protect electric utility customers from bearing higher costs associated with data center proliferation, which has been driven in part by energy-hungry artificial intelligence systems like ChatGPT. The measure would have required data centers to publicly disclose how much energy they use.

The author of the legislation, Democratic San Ramon Assemblymember Rebecca Bauer-Kahan, wrote in a statement she was disappointed to see the bill stall and that, without it becoming law, state regulators would be unable to "accurately forecast demand in this rapidly growing sector, leaving California ratepayers to unfairly shoulder the costs.

Legislators also delayed to next year decisions on bills that would require independent AI auditors to register with the state and mandate human oversight of AI used at places deemed critical infrastructure, like dams and wastewater systems.

The legislative cullings came with the completion of the secretive suspense file process in the appropriations committees in both houses of the California Legislature, during which the fiscal impact of bills is considered before many are summarily killed without explanation. As part of that process, the fate of hundreds of bills were determined today, including more than 30 related to how tech and AI can impact kids, workers, patients and society.

A fair deal of tech regulation survived the suspense file, including a bill that would outlaw pricing software algorithm use in any contract, which will now advance to the Senate floor for a final vote. Some data center regulation also made it through the appropriations process, including an effort in the state Senate to limit the ability of utility companies to pass on growing data center demand costs to ratepayers and a bill that requires data centers to report how much water they use.

The Senate Appropriations Committee also voted to approve a bill that would require developers of advanced artificial intelligence models to assess the potential of catastrophic risk in their technology and give the public and employees an easy way to report to

Pair to Stand Trial for Allegedly Perpetrating El Cerrito Home Invasion

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A pair of convicted felons accused of breaking into an El Cerrito home, pistol-whipping and robbing the occupants, must stand trial for armed robbery and other offenses, a judge ruled last Thursday.

Ricardo Jose Gonzalez, 41, of Riverside and Megan Alice Schuchman, 40, of Corona were arrested in January following a Riverside County Sheriff's Department investigation into the home invasion.

At the end of a preliminary hearing Thursday, Superior Court Judge Gail O'Rane found there was sufficient evidence to bound both defendants over for trial on the robbery count, burglary and being a felon in possession of a loaded gun, as well as a sentence-enhancing allegation of using a firearm during a felony. Gonzalez alone was held to answer on a firearm assault charge, and Schuchman was separately held for possession of controlled substances, possession of drug paraphernalia and witness intimidation.

The judge scheduled a post-preliminary hearing arraignment for Sept. 18 at the Riverside Hall of Justice.

Gonzalez is being held on $135,000 bail at the Byrd Detention Center in Murrieta. His co-defendant is free on a $30,000 bond.

According to sheriff's Lt. Albert Martinez, the pair allegedly forced their way into a house in the 19000

Gang Sentences

The California Supreme Court ultimately agreed and vacated the 2015 prior convictions as gang-related and therefore offenses that no longer counted as a "strike" — remanding the trial court to potentially retry them under the new law's redefined elements of gang offenses and enhancements.

It remains unclear exactly how far the Fletcher and Taylor decision will set precedent for other individuals looking to reverse life sentences under the "three strikes" law.

Chief Justice Patricia Guerrero dissented from the decision. She warned that applying the gang enhancement law to past strikes would set a legal standard that would be "virtually impossible to meet".

She admonished her fellow justices for invoking "the authority to change the Three Strikes law under the guise of interpreting it."

Overtaking a death sentence

A second case, ruled on Thursday, upended a defendant's death sentence and remanded his case back to trial court.

The case was decided 5-2, upholding Jason Aguirre's 2009 murder and attempted murder convictions, but sending it back to trial court in Orange County for what the court described as "further proceedings." Both the majority and dissenting opinions said they would have reversed the defendant's gang enhancements.

Aguirre was a late-20s white man who prosecutors allege hung out with a Vietnamese youth gang called the Dragon Family Junior in Orange County.

One night in 2003, he and a few younger accomplices chased a group of people from a restaurant to a cul-de-sac where members of the group crashed their car. Aguirre shot three of them, and one, 13-year-old Minh Tran, died.

At trial, a detective testified that Aguirre shot three people for the reputational benefit of the gang. At the time, that was a valid reason for a prosecutor to pursue gang enhancements to a defendant's sentence.

But the 2021 law changed that. Now, the law says that gang enhancements have to show that any benefit the gang received from criminal activity has to be "more than reputational."

"Understandably, given when the trial below took place, defendant's jury was not given instructions that track the revised language of (the 2021 law)," Guerrero wrote in the majority opinion.

"With the relevant aspects of Assembly Bill 333 (the 2021 law) applying retroactively, this disconnect with the law as it has since been amended constitutes error affecting defendant's conviction for active participation in a criminal street gang."

Gang enhancements in tough-on-crime era

Gang enhancements and so-called three-strike sentences date back decades, to when California's crime numbers were peaking in the late 1980s and early 1990s.

State legislators in 1988 enacted the Street Terrorism Enforcement and Prevention (STEP) Act in response to rising gang crime and violence, notably most visible in Los Angeles neighborhoods.

Participation or association with an alleged gang or gang members became highly subjective criminal acts that added sentencing enhancements for felonies committed "to benefit a criminal street gang."

Then, during the era of the so-called "super predator," voters in 2000 approved Proposition 21, which expanded the provisions of the STEP Act and increased mandatory sentencing for gang-related crimes.

Over the next two decades, local prosecutors in California pursued allegations of criminal street gang activity for both violent and nonviolent felony charges.

Critics, activists and reform advocates argued that gang allegations and gang enhancements disproportionately and unfairly targeted defendants from minority and low-income communities — and that low thresholds of evidence led to prejudiced juries, resulting in disproportionately severe sentences, primarily for people of color.

In 2021, the STEP Forward Act — legislation authored by then-Assembly member Sydney Kamlager-Dove of Los Angeles — attempted to address the inequities and excessive punitive impact of the original STEP Act and its amendments. The STEP Forward Act is the law at the center of the two new California Supreme Court rulings.

It substantially changed the criteria by which convicted felonies could be categorized as gang-related or established as a "pattern" of gang activity, and further required courts to honor a defense request for separate proceedings to determine such gang allegations.

"Current gang enhancement statutes criminalize entire neighborhoods historically impacted by poverty, racial inequality, and mass incarceration as they punish people based on their cultural identity, who they know, and where they live," the bill stated.

Manslaughter Plea Entered in Norco Parking Lot Killing

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A 32-year-old woman who ran over and killed a man during a dispute in a Norco parking lot was sentenced Friday to 12 years in state prison.

Aubrey McGee of Riverside in June admitted one count of voluntary manslaughter under a plea agreement with the Riverside County District Attorney's Office. In exchange for her admission, prosecutors dropped a murder charge against McGee.

During a hearing at the Riverside Hall of Justice Friday, Superior Court Judge Jennifer Gerard certified the terms and conditions of the plea deal and imposed the sentence stipulated by the prosecution and defense.

McGee killed 57-year-old

Bahman Nowrozi of Norco on July 16, 2024.

According to sheriff's Sgt. Jarred Bishop, shortly after midnight, the felon was involved in an unspecified conflict with Nowrozi in the parking lot of a strip mall near the intersection of Hamner and Mountain avenues.

Bishop said during the confrontation, McGee ran over the victim, but made no attempt to flee the scene.

Patrol deputies reached the location within minutes and found Nowrozi gravely injured. He was taken to a Riverside hospital, where he died a short time later.

McGee was taken into custody without incident.

A motive for the attack was unclear at the time, but the

Corona Murder Case With Victim Remains Left on Church Property Heading for Trial

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A probationer accused of killing a man and dumping his body outside a Corona church must stand trial for first-degree murder and other offenses, a judge ruled last Thursday.

Javier Lopez Martinez, 47, of Corona allegedly took the life of Eduardo Jesus Cortez, also of Corona, in 2022.

Following a two-day preliminary hearing that concluded Thursday, Riverside County Superior Court Judge Sam Shouka found there was sufficient evidence to bound Martinez over for trial on the murder count, along with felony evading and a special circumstance allegation of lying in wait.

The judge scheduled a post-preliminary hearing arraignment for Oct. 10 at the Riverside Hall of Justice.

Martinez is being held on $1 million bail at the Robert Presley Jail.

His co-defendant, 40-year-old Marena Nicolas, pleaded guilty in December 2022 to being an accessory after the fact and was sentenced to 24 months of mandatory supervision.

According to the Corona Police Department, the victim's remains were discovered in the parking lot of the Corona Church of Christ in the 800 block of Sherman Avenue, near West Sixth Street, in the downtown area on the evening of Aug. 17, 2022.

The nature of the man's injuries were not disclosed.

Homicide detectives initially had no leads, but in the ensuing days, they were able to confirm the vehicle allegedly involved in transporting the body and the two people inside it -- Martinez and Nicolas -- police said.

Late on the afternoon of Aug. 24, the car was spotted by patrol officers in the 1500 block of Via Santiago, prompting them to initiate a traffic stop. However, Martinez allegedly floored the sedan, leading to a brief pursuit until he plowed into vehicles parked in the 1200 block of West 10th Street, authorities said.

He bailed out of the car and tried to run away but was apprehended moments later, police alleged.

reducing the size of the label, eliminating the ability of private citizens to sue over violations, and delaying the implementation of the rules.

Classic Cars Will Still Need a Smog Test in California After Lawmakers Reject Jay Leno Bill

By BY RYAN SABALOW, CalMatters

Jay Leno's star power wasn't enough to persuade a California legislative committee to pass a measure to allow owners of classic cars like him to be exempted from the state's rigorous smog-check requirements.

The Assembly Appropriations Committee on Friday blocked Bakersfield Republican Sen. Shannon Grove's Senate Bill 712 from advancing for a full vote. Leno had testified in support of the measure in Sacramento earlier this year.

The committee's members and its powerful Democratic chairperson, Assemblymember Buffy Wicks of Oakland, did not provide a reason for killing the bill during Friday's hearing, which quickly and with little fanfare announced the fate of 260 other bills that had been placed on the committee's so-called "suspense file." Seventy other bills also were killed without explanation.

The Senate and Assembly's appropriations committees, which both met Friday and rejected hundreds of bills, are supposed to be the gatekeepers for bills proposing to spend taxpayer money. But the committees' suspense files are where hundreds of politically touchy bills die quietly each year with only a few insiders knowing the real reasons.

State officials did, however, warn the committee that the proposal could potentially cost the state money, and the state's influential environmental organizations opposed it.

Asked why the committee killed the measure, Wicks told reporters after the hearing, "I'll have to go back and look. I can't remember."

Grove said she was "deeply disappointed that once again, the California state Legislature did not prioritize California's classic car culture and the enthusiasts who were relying on this measure to pass."

"Sadly, today California said 'no' to helping preserve these rolling pieces of history and let down classic car clubs across the state from lowriders, to hot rods and every American classic in between," she said in a statement.

The proposal, which Grove dubbed "Leno's Law" after the former late-night talk show host and comedian, would have exempted owners of classic cars manufactured before 1981 from having to pay to have them emissions tested every two years at a certified auto shop. Classic cars also would have been exempted from passing smog tests at the time of purchase.

The exemptions would have only applied to vehicles with special "historical vehicle" license plates and would have needed to be insured as a "collector motor vehicle."

Jay Leno testified this spring Leno, the owner of nearly 200 classic cars, told the Senate Transportation Committee in April that smogging a classic car built before modern emissions standards is a major barrier to owning one in California.

With a modern car, it's "plug in, get your money – boom – get out. It's very quick to get a smog check with a modern car," Leno said. "It's not impossible in an older car, but it's tricky. It takes time and often causes charges four, five, six times more than a regular car." Leno said classic car owners struggle to even find a shop with the equipment needed to test them.

Before Friday, the bill, which had 19 Republican and four Democratic coauthors, had passed the full Senate and its only other Assembly committee with only a handful of progressive Democratic lawmakers voting against it.

Supporters included a host of California car clubs and the California Automotive Wholesalers' Association. But clean air and environmental groups as well as the Bay Area Air Quality Management District and California Air Pollution Control Officers Association opposed it, according to the CalMatters Digital Democracy database.

State regulators also warned the measure could cost the Bureau of Automotive Repair, which oversees the state's smog testing program, and the Department of Motor Vehicles hundreds of thousands of dollars each year. Officials cited concerns it would reduce revenue from smog check and vehicle license fees.

It also could have potentially cost the California Air Resources Board $1.2 million to hire new staff to collect updated data for air quality models and to revise California's federally required pollution-reduction plans, according to the appropriations committee's analysis.

Wicks, in her introductory remarks at the start of Friday's hearing, said the state needed to rein in costs.

"Obviously, we have an enormous amount of budget constraints still," Wicks said. "We have to ensure that we are serving our most vulnerable folks in our communities and making sure that we are doing everything we can to put our best foot forward for a strong social safety net."

Turn Your Garden Harvest Into a Peck of Pickled Peppers. Or Cukes. Even Watermelon Rinds

By JESSICA DAMIANO Associated Press

It's September, and I still haven't harvested a single red tomato. The beets are still grape-size and, so far, my four plants have produced only two zucchini. But the green beans? They're suddenly coming in faster than I can eat them.

I've blanched and frozen several bags for fall and winter, and, in the interest of variety, have just pickled a batch.

As a lifelong gardener, I'm no longer surprised by annual harvest fluctuations. A few years back, my plants yielded a single bean, which I comically steamed, salted and cut four ways to split with my family. It was delicious, but not worthy of pickling, unfortunately.

This year, however, my tomato deficiency is offset by an embarrassment of bean riches.

Since I don't have the patience for pressure canning, I do all my pickling the quick-and-easy way -- in the refrigerator.

(Besides pickling, I preserve most of my herbs and vegetables by drying or freezing them.)

How to pickle your harvest

The easiest way to do this is to reuse the brining liquid from a just-finished jar of purchased pickles. I simply wash and pat-dry the beans, then place them in the pickle "juice" and return the jar to

Celebrate WITH THIS CORN AND POTATO SALAD

By KATIE WORKMAN
Associated Press

There's still a sliver of summer left. And we should not waste these last days telling each other how quickly the season has flown by.

Let's spend the rest of summer and early fall eating all of the ripe, rainbow-hued produce that is spilling over at the farmer's markets and (if we're lucky) in our gardens. Tomatoes, eggplants, zucchini, herbs, string beans and — to some folks' minds — the pick of the season: fresh sweet corn.

Do you have an avid corn lover in your world? The kind of person who will eat three ears of corn without blinking? A friend who will call you up in the fall, sounding panicked, to share the news that the corn stand has closed and the season is over?

I have several such people in my life. And I made this potato salad for them.

This corn and potato salad is at once comfortingly creamy and bracingly bright. Tender chunks of potato mingle with sweet corn (at other times of year, you can think about using frozen or canned corn, but not just yet), crispy bacon and a tangy lemon-butter-milk dressing. It's the kind of crowd-pleasing summer side dish that works for cookouts and backyard gatherings.

You can prep this salad ahead and serve it at room temperature. If you love corn, add as much as you like. You could even make it into a corn salad punctuated with potatoes if you're so inclined.

A couple tips

If you are a regular potato-salad maker, you know that potatoes can absorb dressing pretty significantly. This might seem like quite a bit of dressing at first, but the salad will thicken up on standing. And if you refrigerate it, even more.

If you are thinking of bringing this corn and potato salad to a picnic or other potluck event, remember to pack the extra crumbled bacon in a separate baggie or container and sprinkle it on at the end to preserve the crunchiness. But if you don't remember? Eh. You brought potato salad ... you're awesome.

Double or triple this recipe at will.

CORN AND POTATO SALAD

Serves 6

Ingredients:

- 1 ½ pounds Yukon Gold or waxy potatoes, peeled
- Kosher or coarse salt to taste
- 2 cups fresh corn kernels
- ½ onion, finely minced
- 1/3 cup plain Greek yogurt
- 1/3 cup buttermilk
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice

½ teaspoon finely grated lemon zest

1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
Freshly ground pepper to taste

2 tablespoons chopped fresh basil leaves

½ cup crumbled cooked bacon

Directions:

1. Cut the potatoes into ½-inch dice. Bring a medium pot of salted water to a boil over high heat, add the potatoes, partially cover the pot and simmer for about 10 minutes until the potatoes are almost fork-tender. Add the corn and simmer for another 2 minutes, until the potatoes are tender and the corn kernels crisp and just cooked through. Drain the potatoes and the corn; let them cool for about 10 minutes in the colander.

2. Meanwhile, in a small bowl, mix together the onion, yogurt, buttermilk, lemon juice, lemon zest, mustard, and salt and pepper.

3. Place the warm potatoes and corn, basil and half the bacon in a large bowl. Pour the dressing over it and toss to mix well. Turn into a serving bowl and top with the remainder of the crumbled bacon.

SUN-DRIED TOMATO CRUSTED SALMON

By CONNOR FORBES

I love a good salmon. Tender, juicy, flaky, soft, and full of rich flavor. To take the umami up a couple of notches I decided to see how a sun-dried tomato crust would taste. And oh boy, it was yummy. The sweet tangy goodness of sun-dried tomatoes different kicked this recipe up a notch. And the bonus is it was incredibly easy and you can have this meal done within 20 minutes.

Feeds 4 - 6

Ingredients

- 2 pounds salmon
- 1 cup sun-dried tomatoes in olive oil

• 1 tbsp honey

To Make

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Blend sun-dried tomatoes until mostly smooth. Line a baking sheet with foil and place salmon on top. Coat the top of the salmon with the blended sun-dried tomatoes. Drizzle the honey over the sun-dried tomatoes. Bake for 12 minutes or until the internal temperature is at least 125 degrees. Let rest for 5 minutes and serve! I paired this with jasmine rice and Brussels sprouts. ENJOY!

"CAUGHT STEALING"

By BOB GARVER

"Caught Stealing" is one of those twisty crime thrillers where it seems like the filmmakers cast as many interesting names as they could and then wrote the movie around using them all. For example, at no point did I feel it was necessary for the film to feature Matt Smith as a character with a 60's U.K. punk rock aesthetic in this film set in New York in 1998 (itself an inexplicable choice). All the film needed was a neighbor character who's mixed up with some bad people. But the movie got Smith for the role, and somebody, possibly Smith himself, wanted to see the character played with the crazy getup. The result is a character that is a scene-stealer to be sure, but is the story really helped by all his quirkiness? I don't think so. If anything, he's a distraction from the main character, whose journey is supposed to be the focus. Though maybe it's for the best, because I wasn't digging the main character and was welcoming all distractions.

Austin Butler stars as Hank Thompson, a disgraced former baseball prodigy barely scraping by as a bartender, and an alcoholic one at that. The one good thing in his life is his way-out-of-his-league girlfriend Yvonne (Zoë Kravitz). She's almost ready to start taking the relationship more seriously, which he wants, but first she needs him to start taking himself more seriously, which he isn't ready to do. Subconsciously, he'd rather just spend all his time moping around and thinking about how his life would have been better if he hadn't crashed his car while drunk, thus ending his baseball career.

Hank's neighbor Russ (the aforementioned Smith character) hurriedly puts him in charge of his cat Buddy while he leaves town for a few days. Hank's proximity to the shady Russ gets him into trouble with some Russian gangsters (Yuri Kolokolnikov and Nikita Kukulshkin), which also leads to trouble with a Puerto Rican gangster (Benito Martínez Ocasio aka rapper Bad Bunny), and eventually a pair of really dangerous Hasidic gangsters (Liev Schreiber and Vincent D'Onofrio). Hank tries with increasing desperation to stay out of trouble with all five gangsters, and at least he can expect some help from hardboiled detective Elise Roman (Regina King). But running from his problems hasn't worked out for Hank in the past, is it a good idea here, even though for once his predicament isn't his fault?

There's a good idea for a character arc here with Hank needing to learn to take responsibility for mistakes he's made in both the recent and distant past. But it was just too hard for me to respect the character after his incredibly stupid decision to go on an alcohol bender the night after losing a kidney, thanks to the Russians. I can understand straying from doctors' orders to a degree, I'm not exactly an angel myself in that department, and I know every movie hero isn't going to be strictly by-the-book. But for the character to make a decision that stupid that quickly, sorry, I was done rooting for him. Which was a shame, because the movie is without the delightful Kravitz for a long stretch, leaving the film without a likeable protagonist.

I'm giving "Caught Stealing" the mildest of recommendations, because the jokes are just funny enough, the action and suspense just exciting enough, and the overachieving cast just interesting enough for me to praise among an near-equal list of complaints. It's hard to believe a movie this middling came from usually-ambitious director Darren Aronofsky. Since this movie likes its baseball metaphors, I'll say that I associate Aronofsky with spectacular hits ("Requiem for a Dream," "The Wrestler," "Black Swan") and the occasional spectacular strikeout ("Noah"), but "Caught Stealing" is an unimpressive single – avoiding an "out," but just barely.

Grade: B-

"Caught Stealing" is rated R for strong violent content, pervasive language, some sexuality/nudity and brief drug use. Its running time is 107 minutes.

'Weapons' Back Atop Box Office with $10.2 Million; 'Jaws' in 2nd Place

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - "Weapons" recaptured the top spot at the box office this weekend after losing the crown to a Netflix movie, grossing $10.2 million to lead all films in North America, according to industry estimates Sunday.

After spending its first two weeks atop the chart, the Warner Bros. horror film

-- which stars Julia Garner and Josh Brolin -- slipped behind "KPop Demon Hunters" last weekend, when the streaming service released the popular animated musical to theaters for a special two-day engagement.

Second place this weekend went to a 50th anniversary re-release of "Jaws," which grossed $8.1 million Friday through Sunday, Comscore reported.

Director Darren Aronofsky's "Caught Stealing," a crime thriller starring Austin Butler and Zoe Kravitz, opened in third place with $7.8 million.

"Freakier Friday" was fourth with $6.5 million

Friday through Sunday in its fourth weekend in theaters, followed by "The Roses," starring Benedict Cumberbatch and Olivia Colman, which opened with $6.4 million.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were "Fantastic Four: First Steps" ($4.8 million), "The Bad Guys 2" ($4.7 million), "Superman" ($2.5 million), "Nobody 2" ($1.83 million) and "The Naked Gun" ($1.8 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $65.6 million. The year-to-date total is $5.978 billion -- up 4% from the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

Palm Springs Police Chief Urges Caution Around BIGHORN SHEEP

PALM SPRINGS (CNS) - Police Chief Andrew Mills Wednesday urged residents to avoid approaching bighorn sheep that may wander into Palm Springs during mating season.

The police department released a video on social media Wednesday featuring Mills and animal control officers Jeanette Guzman and Stephanie Anderson, who discussed the risks of approaching the animals.

Anderson said that from late summer through winter, the herd often roams into the city in search of food and water. While the sheep generally will not harm people unless provoked, officers warned residents to keep their distance.

"These protected animals are a vital part of our desert ecosystem, and keeping a safe distance helps ensure their health and survival," the department said.

More information about the Bighorn sheep can be found at bighorninstitute.org. The Palm Springs PD video can be seen here: <https://instagram.com/reel/DOJmquygbZH/>

SUNNYLANDS CENTER & GARDENS to Open Tree Photo Exhibit Next Week

RANCHO MIRAGE (CNS) - Sunnylands Center and Gardens will open a photography exhibit next week highlighting the estate's curated trees.

The exhibit, "Curating Canopy: Trees at Sunnylands," will run Sept. 10 through June 6, 2027, at 37977 Bob Hope Drive. Admission is free from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday.

"This exhibition invites you to see trees as more than landscape features. Here, they are art -- each with its own sculptural form and seasonal expression," Gardens Director Michaeleen Gallagher said in a statement. "They are gifts -- given by friends, by past caretakers, by those who envisioned a future of shade, growth and beauty."

The trees date back to the mid-1960s, when Sunnylands founders Walter and Leonore Annenberg and their landscape architects transformed the 200-acre site from desert into lush gardens, organizers said.

Photographer David Loftus captured species such as Jacaranda, Virginia Live Oak and Crepe Myrtle in floor-to-ceiling images featured in the exhibit.

Judge says administration is violating the law

Breyer said in his ruling that the Trump administration used troops for functions that were barred by their own training materials, refused to “meaningfully coordinate with state and local officials” and “coached” federal law enforcement agencies on the language to use when requesting the Guard’s assistance.

He said the government knew “they were ordering troops to execute domestic law beyond their usual authority” in using “armed soldiers (whose identity was often obscured by protective armor) and military vehicles to set up protective perimeters and traffic blockades, engage in crowd control, and otherwise demonstrate a military presence in and around Los Angeles.”

Breyer barred troops from such actions, including making arrests, searches, acting as informants and collecting evidence

Ruling follows California lawsuit

California sued over the deployment of troops, saying it violates the Posse Comitatus Act, a 1878 law that prohibits military enforcement of domestic laws. Lawyers for the Trump administration argued the Posse Comitatus Act doesn’t apply because the troops were protecting federal officers, not enforcing laws, and that the president had the authority to call on the troops. Trump federalized members of the California National Guard under section 12406 of Title 10, which allows the president to call the guard into federal service when the country “is invaded,” when “there is a rebellion or danger of a rebellion against the authority of the Government,” or when the president is otherwise unable “to execute the laws of the United States.”

The deployment appeared to be the first time in decades that a state’s national guard was activated without a request from its governor, a significant escalation against those who have sought to hinder the administration’s mass deportation efforts.

Thousands of protesters took to the streets in response, blocking off a major freeway and setting self-driving cars on fire as law enforcement used tear gas, rubber bullets and flash bangs to control the crowd.

Democratic Gov. Gavin Newsom said in a statement the court sided with democracy. “No president is a king — not even Trump — and no president can trample a state’s power to protect its people,” he said.

Trump administration has talked of more deployments

Trump has pushed the bounds of typical military activity on domestic soil, including through the creation of militarized zones along the U.S.-Mexico border.

Asked by reporters Tuesday in the Oval Office about sending National Guard troops to Chicago, Trump said, “We’re going in,” but added, “I didn’t say when.”

“I have an obligation,” the president added. “This isn’t a political thing.”

Democratic Illinois Gov. JB Pritzker and Chicago Mayor Brandon Johnson have pushed back, saying crime has fallen in Chicago. They are planning to sue if Trump moves forward with the plan.

Ret. Army Lt. Col. Daniel Maurer, an associate professor at Ohio Northern University College of Law, said presidents have federalized the National Guard to address widespread unrest and to desegregate schools but the Trump administration’s example is “certainly the most aggressive use of the military domestically when the facts to support them are extremely weak.”

He said the ruling could give a roadmap to other states.

Troops joined federal law enforcement in Southern California

Roughly 4,000 National Guard soldiers and 700 Marines were deployed to Los Angeles before all but 300 soldiers were withdrawn.

The soldiers marched at MacArthur Park in downtown Los Angeles, which was intended as a show of force. They also accompanied federal immigration officers on raids at two state-licensed marijuana nurseries in Ventura County, Army Maj. Gen. Scott Sherman testified.

Sherman, who initially commanded the troops, testified during the second day of the trial that he raised concerns the deployment could violate the Posse Comitatus Act.

He said soldiers were given materials that included a list of activities prohibited by the act.

Sherman said he was told by his superiors that there was a “constitutional exception” that permitted such activities when the troops are protecting federal property or personnel.

Pickling

the refrigerator.

With this shortcut, you’ll be enjoying tasty pickled green beans in just 24 hours, and they’ll remain crispy for up to a month. You can even use the brine one more time to make a second batch.

There are plenty of other uses for the tasty liquid, too, such as in pickle martinis, but I digress.

If you don’t have leftover brine, it’s easy to make your own: Boil 1 1/2 cups each of water and distilled white vinegar with 1 1/2 tablespoons of kosher salt and 1 tablespoon of pickling spices in a nonre-active pot (stainless steel is best). Sugar is optional; I don’t use it, but feel free to include some if you like sweeter pickles. Turn off the heat when the salt and sugar, if using, are fully dissolved.

Next, add 5-10 sprigs of dill, 3-4 crushed garlic cloves and a pinch of red pepper (if desired) to a clean, sterilized, quart-sized Mason jar.

Pack the jar tightly with the whole, trimmed beans, then pour in the vinegar solution, leaving 1 inch of headspace at the top of the jar. Allow it to cool at room temperature before covering and refrigerating.

Fresh-made brine can be re-used twice, for a total of three batches.

Cucumbers and beyond!

Of course, if you’re a purist, these methods can also be used to make refrigerator-pickled cucumbers: Slice cucumbers into wedges or quarter-inch rounds, or use whole pickling cucumbers, such as kirbys, and proceed as above (if using whole cukes, cut off their blossom ends but leave their stem ends intact).

If you’re feeling adventurous, you can pickle all sorts of other fruits and vegetables in the refrigerator.

Try it with asparagus, beets, end-of-season green tomatoes (cut into wedges), or sweet or hot peppers, as Peter Piper did.

You can even pickle cherries, peach slices and watermelon rinds, a southern delicacy that recently made a surprisingly tasty snack for this northerner. Keep the salt, vinegar and water, but feel free to adjust the seasonings and spices as you wish.

For instance, I include sugar when pickling fruit and swap the pickling spices for ginger, cinnamon or cloves.

All sorts of pickle-inspired foods — from chips to gummy candies — have been gaining popularity lately, but there’s nothing better than the real thing. And with so many flavor variations to experiment with, all you have to do is follow your taste buds.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. All checks payable to Prestige Default Services, LLC.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866) 539-4173 or visit this Internet Website <https://www.servicelink.auction.com>, using the file number assigned to this case 25-15307. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (866) 539-4173, or visit this internet website <https://www.servicelink.auction.com>, using the file number assigned to this case 25-15307 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.

gent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of EMMANUEL VILLA YNGENTE.
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by KATARINA NOELLE YNGENTE in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that KATARINA NOELLE YNGENTE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 09/17/25 at 8:30AM in Dept. 8 located at 4050 MAIN STREET,
RIVERSIDE, CA 92501
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing.
Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the

the City Council will hear the testimony of all interested persons for or against the annexation of said territory to CFD 2016-3 or the levying of special taxes within such territory to pay the costs of providing certain services which are necessary to meet increased demands placed upon the City as a result of the development of said real property.

The text of Resolution No.
2025-029, including exhibits thereto, is on file with the City Clerk of the City of Corona located at 400 South Vicentia Avenue, Corona, California and reference is made thereto for the particular provisions thereof. The text of Resolution No. 2025-029 is summarized as follows:

for the annexation to CFD 2016-3 of the territory described in Exhibit "A" to Resolution
No. 2025-029. The territory proposed to be

2. The types of sweeping, within and in the area of CFD 2016-3, as well as the costs associated with the determination of the amount of and the levy and collection of special taxes which are levied to provide such services and costs otherwise incurred in order to carry out the authorized purposes of CFD 2016-3 (the "Special Tax A Services"); and (b) The cost of any services permitted under the MelloRoos Community Facilities Act of 1982 including, without limitation, those services authorized to be funded by CFD No. 2016-3 as set forth in the documents adopted by the City Council at the time the CFD was formed shall be annually levied within CFD No.

2016-3. All parcels of taxable property in the territory of CFD No. 2016-3 shall be subject to the annual levy of Special Taxes.

taxable property to finance the Special Tax A Services and the Special Tax B (Contingent)

the City, with each voter having one vote for each taxable acre, or portion of a taxable acre, owned.

4. The officers of the City who are responsible for providing the Special Tax A Services and the Special Tax B (Contingent) Services are directed to, at or before the time of said hearing, file or cause to be filed a report with the City Council containing a brief description of the services by type and an estimate of the cost of providing those services and the incidental expenses to be all persons interested for or against the annexation of said territory to CFD 2016-3 annexed to CFD 2016-3 will be heard. At written protests shall be filed with the City Clerk prior to the time fixed for the hearing.

in the form or content of any written protests and at the hearing may correct minor defects in the proceedings. Written protests may be withdrawn in writing at any time before the conclusion of the hearing.

If the owners of onehalf or more of the area of land in the territory included in CFD 2016-3, or if the owners of onehalf or more of the area of land in the territory proposed to be annexed to CFD 2016-3 file written protests against the proposed annexation of such territory to CFD 2016-3, and protests are not withdrawn so as to reduce the protest to less than a majority, no further proceedings shall be undertaken for a period of one year from the date of decision of the City Council on the issues discussed at the hearing.

The hearing may be continued from time to time, but shall be completed within 30 days. At the conclusion of the hearing, the City Council may abandon the proceedings or may, after passing upon
