CDC STOPS RECOMMENDING COVID-19 SHOTS FOR ALL, LEAVES DECISION TO PATIENTS

NEW YORK (AP) — The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has adopted recommendations by a recommended annual COVID-19 boosters for all Americans ages 6 months and older. The idea was to update protection against the coronavirus as it continues to evolve.

But Kennedy, who has questioned the safety of COVID-19 vaccines, abruptly announced in May that COVID-19 vaccines were no longer recommended for healthy children and pregnant women. He also dismissed the CDC's Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices and replaced them with a handpicked group.

Newsom Just VETOED a Bill to Regulate License Plate Readers — EVEN AS FRESH EVIDENCE OF MISUSE EMERGES

BY KHARI JOHNSON AND MOHAMED AL ELEW, CalMatters

Gov. Gavin Newsom vetoed a bill that would have tightened rules on how police in California use automated license plate readers, saying the regulations would impede criminal investigations.

The Legislature approved the proposal last month amid reports police were misusing the data, including a CalMatters story in June showing that officers on more than 100 occasions violated a state law against sharing the data with federal authorities and others outside the state.

The veto comes as new CalMatters reporting shows Riverside County Sheriff's deputies appear to have violated internal policy by not documenting why they tracked certain license plates.

In his veto message this week, Newsom cited examples of how the proposed restrictions, which would have required police to better document their searches and delete some of their data within two months, could stymie police work.

"For example," he wrote, "it may not be apparent, particularly with respect to cold cases, that license plate data is needed to solve a crime until after the 60-day retention period has elapsed."

But evidence is growing that the technology is being misused.

Records newly reviewed by CalMatters indicate that Riverside County Sheriff's deputies are misusing 'hotlists' that allow them to automatically monitor for certain cars.

Records newly reviewed by CalMatters indicate that Riverside County Sheriff's deputies are misusing "hotlists" that allow them to automatically monitor for certain cars.

The measure vetoed by the governor, Senate Bill 274, would have limited the kinds of license plate monitoring lists agencies can use to those related to missing persons or license plate lists maintained by the National Crime Information Center or California Department of Justice. It also would have required data security and privacy training for officers who use the tech and force them to document which specific case or task force work a search is related to.

Man Arrested for Alleged Murder of Girlfriend in Corona

CORONA (CNS) - A Corona woman who was allegedly assaulted by her boyfriend but declined to press charges or seek medical help has died, authorities said.

The suspect was arrested anyway and is being held on suspicion of murder and other charges, according to the Corona Police Department.

Officers responded to the 1700 block of Wren Avenue at 11:50 p.m. on Sept. 25 regarding an assault inside a residence.

Officers forced their way inside after multiple attempts to make contact and to “ensure the victim’s safety,” where they found

Avery King, 52, suffering from “multiple visible injuries,” the department said.

King declined medical treatment at the scene and chose not to pursue prosecution toward Rivera, who was suspected of causing her injuries, police said.

Manuel Angel Rivera, 55, of Corona, was nonetheless arrested on suspicion of domestic violence and booked into Robert Presley Detention Center in Riverside on Sept. 26, with bail initially set at $500,000. An Emergency Protective Order was issued for King’s protection.

After no one was able to make contact with King several hours later, her family conducted a welfare check at her residence where they found her dead in her home, police said.

“Due to the suspicious circumstances of the death, it is being investigated as a homicide,” the department said.

A potential first-degree murder charge was added against Rivera, and his bail was upped to $1 million.

Anyone with information about the case was urged to contact Detective Jason Goudy at Jason.Goudy@CoronaCA.gov, or 951-739-4880.

USDA Warns That Hello Fresh Subscription Meals May Contain Listeria-Tainted Spinach

This image provided by U.S. Agriculture Department shows Hello Fresh Ready Made Meals Unstuffed Peppers with Ground Turkey, where Federal health officials late Monday, Oct. 6, 2025, warned people not to eat certain subscription meal kits containing spinach that may be contaminated with listeria and identified with Est. By JONEL ALECCIA AP Health Writer

Federal health officials late Monday warned people not to eat certain Hello Fresh subscription meals containing spinach that may be contaminated with listeria.

The U.S. Agriculture Department issued a public health alert for the meals, which were produced by FreshRealm, the San Clemente, California-based company linked to an expanding listeria outbreak tied to heat-and-eat pasta meals.

The products include 10.1-ounce containers of Hello Fresh Ready Made Meals Cheesy Pulled Pork Pepper Pasta and 10-ounce containers of Hello Fresh Ready Made Meals Unstuffed Peppers with Ground Turkey. Both were shipped directly to consumers.

The pork pepper pasta is identified with establishment number Est. 47718 and lot code 49107 or Est. 2937 and lot code 48840. The unstuffed peppers with ground turkey is identified with Est. P-47718 and lot codes 50069, 50073 or 50698.

The problem was discovered when FreshRealm notified the USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service that the quick-frozen spinach used in the products tested positive for listeria. The spinach was provided by Sno Pac Foods of Caledonia, Minnesota, through their supplier, Del Mar Foods of Watsonville, California. The strain of listeria detected did not match any known outbreak and no illnesses have been reported, FreshRealm officials said in a statement.

Last month, FreshRealm said that tests confirmed that pasta used in linguine dishes sold at Walmart contained the same strain of listeria linked to an outbreak in June. That outbreak, originally tied to chicken fettucine Alfredo, has killed at least four people and sickened 20, with the most recent illness reported Sept. 11.

FreshRealm officials said genetic testing found the outbreak strain of listeria in samples of pasta made and supplied by Nate's Fine Foods of Roseville, California.

Several additional companies including Kroger, Giant Eagle and Albertson's have recalled pasta salads and other dishes made with products from Nate's Fine Foods for potential listeria contamination.

Listeria infections can cause serious illness, particularly in older adults, people with weakened immune systems and those who are pregnant or their newborns. Symptoms include fever, muscle aches, headache, stiff neck, confusion, loss of balance and convulsions.

About 1,600 people get sick each year from listeria infections and about 260 die, the CDC says. Federal officials in December said they were revamping protocols to prevent listeria infections after several high-profile outbreaks, including one linked to Boar's Head deli meats that led to 10 deaths and more than 60 illnesses last year.

Community Water Fluoridation is a Popular and Proven Dental Health Benefit

In a May 2025 national poll by the Consumer Healthcare Products Association in cooperation with the American Dental Association (ADA), more than 4 out of 5 survey takers said they are familiar with fluoride's role in oral health and that fluoride is particularly important for children, while more than 2 out of 3 said they are comfortable with fluoride in their tap water.

Fluoride, a mineral that naturally occurs in water sources such as rivers, lakes and oceans, helps prevent tooth decay by making the surface of teeth stronger and more cavity-resistant. It's often the "active ingredient" in cavity-fighting toothpastes. Adding fluoride to tap water is like adding vitamins and minerals to foods and drinks, helping people access important nutrients for their oral and overall health. So why has it become such a focus of conversation lately?

Misleading data from countries with fluoride levels that can reach 30 times the amount in U.S. public water systems have created a flurry of misinformation, yet still, this survey shows that people know and trust in fluoride's power to help prevent tooth decay at optimal levels. If community water fluoridation is being debated in your hometown, here's what America's dentists want you to know.

Fluoride in water saves you pain and money: Cavities are the most common chronic childhood disease, and community water fluoridation is proven to do two important things: reduce tooth decay by 25% in children and adults and reduce the costs and complications of severe cavities. The ADA Health Policy Institute estimates removing fluoride from all U.S. community water systems would cost $46 billion over five years because of increased dental care costs.

Estimates aside, present-day proof exists. When Calgary, Alberta; Windsor, Ontario; and Juneau, Alaska stopped adding fluoride to their water, dental disease and its associated costs rose in children and adults. Five years after the ban in Windsor was implemented, a dental health report found that the rate of children with tooth decay and/or requiring urgent care for untreated dental health issues increased by 51%. Windsor and Calgary have since resumed community water fluoridation.

Bans don't help fight dental disease: Community water fluoridation is simply the adjustment of naturally occurring fluoride in drinking water to an optimal level to prevent tooth decay. Almost all U.S. water sources naturally contain fluoride, but often not enough to be effective in preventing cavities.

When a state bans fluoridation — as Utah and Florida did recently — communities that were adding fluoride to their water lose access to a proven dental health benefit, while others lose the opportunity to start. While someone who lives in an area with fluoridated public water can easily access water without fluoride if they choose — through purified bottled water or at-home water filtration — someone who wants fluoridated water where it's been banned has had their choice taken away without valid alternatives offered. This is especially harmful to rural and low-income communities and those who lack regular access to dental care.

"Fluoridated water is a simple, inexpensive way to strengthen teeth and prevent cavities," said ADA dentist, Scott L. Tomar, D.M.D., Dr.P.H. "Take away that access, and we know the risk for cavities increases."

The bottom line is that fluoride is popular and good for your dental health. For more information about fluoride in water, visit MouthHealthy.org/fluoridation and ADA.org/ fluoride.

"The freedom to access optimally fluoridated public water and receive its dental health benefits should not be denied because of misinformed policy decisions that ignore community needs and majority support for fluoride," said Dr. Tomar. "Community water fluoridation is the popular and proven choice." (State-Point)

Two Rescued Coyote Cubs Sent to Virginia Sanctuary

RIVERSIDE - Two orphaned coyote pups rescued from Riverside and Los Angeles counties earlier this year are now living at the Virginia Living Museum in Newport News, VA after San Diego Humane Society staff determined they could not safely return to the wild.

The pups were taken in this spring at the Humane Society's Ramona Wildlife Center.

The first pup, a female, was found under a deck in Palm Desert when she was just two days old. A well-intentioned rescuer bottle-fed her for two weeks before bringing her to the Humane Society in April. By then, she had already bonded too closely with humans, officials said.

The second pup, a male, was rescued from the Long Beach area in May. He arrived with his eyes still closed and required bottle feeding from Project Wildlife staff until he was large enough to be placed with other coyote pups, a Humane Society statement read. As the pup grew, staff "noticed how frequently he approached caretakers and would run up to the fence-line for attention after moving to the outdoor habitat."

When wild animals lose their natural fear of humans, they cannot safely survive on their own in the wild. Project Wildlife's animal care team attempted to "wild up" the animals, but it was too late to change the imprint humans had on the pups.

"Helping orphaned wild animals return to nature is always our goal, but sometimes the kindest outcome is providing them with a permanent home where they can thrive," said Autumn Welch, wildlife operations manager at San Diego Humane Society. "These two pups will continue to inspire people to respect and protect wildlife."

After care at the San Diego Humane Society's Ramona Wildlife Center, it became clear the pups could not be released into the wild. The California Department of Fish and Wildlife found placement at the Virginia Living Museum to "ensure they will have lifelong care in a safe and enriching environment, while also serving as ambassadors to teach the

Covid Vaccine

The new group voted last month to say all Americans should make their own decisions. But the CDC also says vaccine decisions, especially for seniors, should involve checking with a doctor, nurse or pharmacist.

The recommendation was endorsed by Deputy Secretary of Health and Human Services Jim O'Neill, who is serving as the CDC's acting director. O'Neill signed off on it last week, but HHS officials announced it Monday.

The panel also urged the CDC to adopt stronger language around claims of vaccine risks, despite pushback from outside medical groups who said the shots had a proven safety record from the billions of doses administered worldwide.

In a statement Monday, O'Neill celebrated the change, saying past guidance "deterred health care providers from talking about the risks and benefits of vaccination."

"Informed consent is back," O'Neill said in a statement some doctors objected to.

Doctors routinely discuss vaccines with patients and parents, and share printed information about the risks and benefits of each shot, said Dr. Jesse Hackell, a retired New York physician who has coauthored several American Academy of Pediatrics policy statements on vaccinations.

"To make a statement that informed consent is back implies that it had gone away. In no way has it gone away," he said.

Major medical societies continue to recommend shots for younger children, pregnant women and others at higher risk of severe illness. They say the Trump administration's discussion of risk overemphasizes rare side effects and doesn't account for the dangers of coronavirus infection itself.

The decision clears the government's Vaccines for Children program to ship COVID-19 vaccine doses. The program provides routine vaccinations at no cost to children whose families qualify.

O'Neill also signed off on a panel recommendation that children under 4 get their first vaccine dose for varicella — also known as chickenpox — as a standalone shot rather than in combination shot with measles, mumps and rubella.

There is a single shot that contains all four, but it carries a higher risk of fevers and fever-related seizures. Since 2009, the CDC had said it prefers separate shots for initial doses of those vaccines and 85% of toddlers already get the chickenpox vaccine separately.

public about wildlife," the statement read.

Humane Society staff brought the coyotes to Los Angeles International Airport, where they were met by an escort from the museum, who accompanied them aboard a FedEx flight to Virginia.

"The Virginia Living Museum is thrilled to be working with the California Department of Fish and Wildlife and San Diego Humane Society's Project Wildlife program to provide these two young coyotes a forever home," a statement from the museum read. "As ambassadors for coyotes in the wild, these pups will play an important role in educating our guests about coexisting with wildlife in their state, their community and their own backyard."

The bill also would have required agencies to delete some collected data within 60 days and instructed the state Department of Justice to perform random audits of how license plate technology is used.

The proposal drew opposition from nearly 30 law enforcement agencies and associations, including the Riverside County Sheriff's Office and the California Police Chiefs Association. The Riverside County Sheriff's Office opposed the bill because a requirement to delete data after two months could "mean the difference between solving a murder and letting a killer walk free," according to a letter written by sheriff Chad Bianco, a Republican candidate for governor.

Automated license plate readers can assist criminal investigations or help find stolen cars or missing people, but they can also make errors that lead to false arrests, or enable misuse for personal reasons.

A database of license plate lists from July to August reviewed by CalMatters shows that the Riverside County Sheriff's Department, which has a network of more than 500 cameras, maintained hundreds of custom license plate lists from July to August, adding more than 700 plates to the lists in that time. Close to 100 of the plates tracked in lists were added using vague justifications, which makes it difficult to verify if deputies complied with laws and policies around use of the technology. Under department policy, tracking lists must include, among other things,

"specific incident details."

It's not clear if deputies properly shared all hotlists with supervisors. Some have names that contain words like "personal" or "private." A total of 32 of them have access permissions limiting alerts of a plate sighting to a single user. Riverside County Sheriff's office automated license plate reader policy states that "no user shall create a custom hot list accessible only to themselves."

A spokesperson for the Riverside County Sheriff's Office wrote in an email that it is common practice for deputies to create personal hotlists tracking license plates and that all deputies are able to create such lists. Asked about vague justifications attached to some lists, they wrote, "These entries are related to criminal investigations." The Riverside County Sheriff's Office did not respond to questions about whether some deputy hotlists violated policy.

The database shows that deputies have several practices that would have been outlawed had Newsom signed the bill to further regulate license plate readers.

In the Riverside license plate hotlist data examined by CalMatters, over 90% of the license plate entries added to tracking in July and August left the case field blank, which would have been prohibited under the bill.

Last month, Briana Ortega filed a lawsuit against the Riverside County Sheriff's Office, Sheriff Chad Bianco, and Deputy Eric Piscatella. Ortega alleges that after she met Piscatella at a festival in Coachella in September

2023, he stalked her in order to pursue a romantic relationship with her by illegally obtaining her phone number and address through a sheriff's office database, then repeatedly running her license plate through Riverside County Sheriff's Office and state license plate readers to stalk his estranged wife.

Police and sheriff's departments have a history of violating other laws by using license plate readers. A CalMatters investigation in June found that roughly a dozen law enforcement agencies

Law enforcement agencies across Southern California violated state law more than 100 times last month by sharing information from automated license plate readers with federal agents.

database without legal cause. Piscatella pled guilty to seven counts of misusing sheriff's department databases in July.

It's unclear whether automated license plate readers played a role in deputy Piscatella's misconduct.

When asked if Deputy Piscatella used ALPR to track Ortega's whereabouts before the misconduct came to light, a department spokesperson told CalMatters "This information is part of an ongoing investigation."

Police in other states have misused license plate readers. Earlier this year in Florida, a police officer was accused by police investigators of using automated license plate readers to stalk his girlfriend for seven months. Last year, a Kansas police chief resigned after a state commission said he used the tech to track an ex-girlfriend. Another Kansas police officer was arrested for allegedly using throughout Southern California shared data with federal immigration agencies like Immigration and Customs Enforcement and the Border Patrol, a violation of a California law that went into effect 10 years ago. That same log had tens of thousands of searches with no clear justification.

Records requests by groups including the American Civil Liberties Union and the Electronic Frontier Foundation in 2023 found that 71 law enforcement agencies violated the state law against sharing license plate reader data with out-of-state agencies and the federal government. In the wake of those findings, Attorney General Rob Bonta issued an advisory to police with specific guidance on how to comply with the law.

Since 2024, Bonta's office has sent letters to 18 law enforcement agencies across California for possible violations of state law, from sheriff's offices in Contra Costa and Sacramento County in Northern California to the Riverside County Sheriff's Office and the El Cajon Police Department in San Diego County. California Attorney General Rob Bonta filed a lawsuit against the city of El Cajon today alleging that the El Cajon Police Department repeatedly shared license plate reader data with law enforcement agencies in 26 states.

"This technology is ungovernable, given the number of agencies, interests, and impossibility of true compliance enforcement," said UC San Diego associate professor Lilly Irani in response to the veto.

Irani is part of the steering committee for TRUST SD Coalition, a group of more than 30 organizations that's pressuring the city of San Diego to end use of automated license plate readers.

The popularity of license plate readers among law enforcement agencies isn't keeping up with the necessary civil liberty and privacy protections, said Pedro Rios, director of the American Friends Service Committee's U.S.-Mexico Border Program, a group that opposes how surveillance tech impacts migrant communities in places like El Cajon. He thinks the governor missed an opportunity to have random audits of police departments to ensure compliance with existing law and protect against abuse of power.

"If there is any misuse, how can we be sure that that type of misuse or recent practices aren't repeated if the agencies that are using them aren't being held accountable?" he said.

The Valley-Wide Recreation and Park District hosts Dog Daze at Aldergate Park on the first Saturday of every October. It started as a fun festive event for the neighboring senior community, Oasis, and has grown over the years.

The festival has been primarily for dogs and their owners, but a new addition to the canine festival, the Haven Pet Center animal shelter, brings a new element to the event. Jose Farias feels Haven Pet Center’ appearance at community events, like Dog Daze, is crucial to encouraging rescues and adoptions.

“The more we’re out in the community, the more we let people know about our facility and the animals we care for,” Farias said. “It [exposure] helps a lot.”

The Park District’s Public Information Officer, Craig Shultz said, “It started in the senior community and it’s grown. We reached out to the community so we got vendors and resources. It’s just a fun way to kick off the Halloween season.”

County Changes Animal Shelters’ Operating Hours to Encourage Adoptions

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Three of Riverside County’s four public animal shelters expanded their hours of operation last Thursday and will maintain the longer schedules for the foreseeable future in an ongoing effort to encourage adoptions of dogs and cats.

“Every change we make is about making it easier to help people save lives,” Department of Animal Services Director Mary Martin said. “Extending our hours means more opportunities for pets to be seen, more connections with families and more dogs and cats leaving the shelter safely.”

The county’s Coachella Valley Animal Campus in Thousand Palms, San Jacinto Valley Animal Campus and Western Riverside County Animal Shelter in Jurupa Valley will now be open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday to Friday. The shelters’ previous weekday hours of operation were 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

“This is an important shift that we hope will make it easier for folks to meet Riverside County pets and ultimately save more lives,” Board of Supervisors Chairman Manuel Perez said.

The shelters are always closed on Mondays, but on Saturdays and Sundays, the facilities operate from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Blythe Animal Shelter, which is closed on weekends, has the least capacity and will not be included in the revised scheduling. That shelter will continue to be open Monday to Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., officials said.

Until Oct. 15, the county will be taking part in the BISSELL Pet Foundation’s “Empty the Shelters” adoption bonanza, waiving almost all fees for taking home an impounded pet.

Prospective adopters can pick out a canine or feline without having to worry about paying the cost of vaccination, microchipping, spay/neuter and impoundment, or in the case of residents who have lost their pets but show up to reclaim them, no reclamation fees. Only canine licensing fees, which for altered dogs is generally $25 or less, are required based on where an adopter resides.

As of Thursday, roughly 1,200 canines and felines were available for adoption at county shelters. Not all of the impounded pets, however, are housed on-site. Some, especially kittens and younger cats, have been placed with “pet fosters,” who have agreed to keep them temporarily. The county is always seeking additional fosters to free up space under tight capacity constraints.

The Taste Of Fall — You Can Share With Your Dog

(NAPSI)—Now is the time for all things pumpkin: From pumpkin spice lattes and candles to pumpkin patches and carving, there's something pumpkin for everyone—including your four-legged friends. Now you can share your love of pumpkin with your pooch. Just like us, dogs go crazy over the taste of pumpkin," says Ronna Krahl, Vice President of Marketing—Companion Pet, Manna Pro Products, maker of Fruitables pet treats. "But what many people don't realize is that there are also a number of health benefits that come along with the tasty treat."

The Power of Pumpkin

Pumpkin isn't just a delicious treat. When fresh, it can be an excellent food for supporting digestive health and weight loss. Pumpkins are 90 percent water, which makes them naturally low-calorie. They're also rich in soluble and insoluble fiber, which helps promote satiety. The high fiber content coupled with the low calorie content makes pumpkin a terrific food to help your dog cut calories while feeling full.

Why is this so important? Well, according to the Association of Pet Obesity Prevention, 56% of dogs are overweight or obese. Since obesity leads to a decreased quality of life for pets, finding something as effective at supporting weight-loss as pumpkin can have exciting implications.

To that end, Fruitables has canned pumpkin digestive and weight-loss supplements that can help support your pet's digestive issues or weight-loss journey. The supplements feature fresh pumpkin and vitamins in an easy-to-feed format. Introducing your pets to the power of pumpkin can help them live their best lives.

Share the Love of Pumpkin

With the many benefits associated with feeding pumpkin, you can feel good about giving it to your dog. In fact, pumpkin is so beneficial for dogs that it's the first ingredient in 18 Fruitables pet products, including canned pumpkin supplements and a variety of dog treats.

"Our unique flavor combinations aren't just delicious for your dog, but for you and your family too," adds Krahl.

"You can experience the same bold flavors with the Pumpkin Spice Loft-house-Style Cookies with Yogurt Frosting recipe inspired by the classic Fruitables Greek Vanilla Yogurt baked treats."

PUMPKIN SPICE LOFT-HOUSE-STYLE COOKIES WITH YOGURT FROSTING

Recipe by Stacie Billis

Makes 2 dozen cookies

2 cups all-purpose flour

1 tablespoon cornstarch

1¼ teaspoon pumpkin pie spice

½ teaspoon baking powder

¼ teaspoon baking soda

¼ teaspoon salt

½ cup (8 tablespoons) unsalted butter, room temperature

1 cup granulated sugar

1 egg, room temperature

1 cup unsweetened canned pumpkin puree

1 tablespoon sour cream

½ teaspoon vanilla extract

¼ teaspoon almond extract (optional)

1 cup (16 tablespoons) unsalted butter, room temperature

½ cup plain Greek-style yogurt, room temperature

1 tablespoon milk

Scant 1½ cups confectioners sugar, plus more to taste as desired

In a medium bowl, whisk together flour, cornstarch, pumpkin pie spice, baking powder, baking soda, and salt; set aside. Add butter and sugar to bowl of stand mixer fitted with paddle attachment. Cream until light and fluffy, about 3 minutes. Add egg and mix for another minute. Add pumpkin, sour cream, vanilla and almond extracts. Mix until well combined.

Detach the bowl from the mixer. Using a silicone spatula, fold the dough once or twice so all ingredients are well combined and no flour streaks remain. Refrigerate dough for one hour up to overnight.

Prepare the frosting: In the bowl of a stand mixer fitted with paddle attachment, combine butter, yogurt, milk, and confectioners sugar. Beat until creamy and soft. Refrigerate.

Preheat oven to 350°. Line cookie sheet with parchment. Set it next to work area dusted with flour. Remove chilled cookie dough from refrigerator. With a medium (1½ tablespoon) scoop, divide dough into 24 even portions, rolling each in flour to keep it from sticking. Dust off excess flour. Place as many cookie dough balls on cookie sheet, about 2½ inches apart.

Flour the bottom of a glass and press each ball flat, to about ¾" thickness. Bake for 12 minutes. Let cookies rest on cookie sheet 2 minutes. Transfer to wire rack to cool. Repeat with remaining cookie dough balls. Remove frosting from refrigerator about 10-15 minutes before using.

Once cookies have cooled completely, frost each and cover with sprinkles. Serve immediately or store, with wax paper between each cookie, in an airtight container at room temperature for up to 3 days.

I love pizza night. It is so fun to fire up the regular oven or pizza oven and have delicious homemade pizzas. In the past I have bought pizza sauce and dough from the store. However, the last time I made pizza, I made the dough and sauce from scratch. And boy did they deliver. It made the pizza that much better knowing I had made that much more of the pizza on my own. I was saying I need to learn how to make mozzarella next to have a totally from scratch pizza. Anyways, this tomato sauce recipe is pretty straight forward but you will need about an hour and a half before you make the pizza to get it done. Or you can make it a day or two before pizza night and refrigerate it until you are ready. It should last about a week refrigerated.

Ingredients

6 Roma tomatoes cut in half

1 head of garlic, whole

½ brown onion, cut into 1/3s

1 tbsp salt, split in half

1 tsp oregano

1 tsp thyme

To Make

Preheat the oven to 475°. On a baking pan lay the tomatoes, whole garlic head, and onions. Salt them with half the salt. Bake for 45 minutes to an hour. In a blender, add the tomatoes, onions, and squeeze out the garlic from the cloves. Add the oregano, thyme, and rest of the salt. Blend until your desired texture. I like it smooth. Refrigerate for half an hour or until ready to use. Enjoy on your next

"THE SMASHING MACHINE"

By BOB GARVER

A popular criticism I've heard about "The Smashing Machine" is that it tries too hard to subvert expectations. I assume that this is a reference to the way the film follows mixed martial artist Mark Kerr (Dwayne Johnson) on his journey not to a major win, but to his first professional loss. The film is building to a milestone in Kerr's life that may not be pleasant, but is undeniably important. But I came out of the film more concerned about another expectation the film subverted: the expectation that it not put me to sleep.

The film opens in 1997 with Kerr's professional debut in a tournament in Brazil. College prodigy Kerr is a hulking, polished beast who makes short work of his shlubby opponents to win the tournament. He goes on to enjoy success in the early days of the Ultimate Fighting Championship before finding steady work in Japan's Pride promotion. And he never experiences a loss. He tells an interviewer that he can't even wrap his head around the concept of a loss. The easy joke would be to say that he can't wrap his head around a lot of things, but I'll be nice and say that he means this as a motivational tactic.

In between fights, we learn about Kerr's personal life.

He has a girlfriend named Dawn (Emily Blunt) and a best friend in fellow fighter Mark Coleman (Ryan Bader). He also has a drug problem, with an addiction to prescription painkillers. Perhaps more alarmingly, he has emotional and psychological issues. He's liable to break things when angry, as one might expect, but he's also likely to break down crying, which might be another one of those expectations that the film subverts. When it seems he's lost a fight midway through the film, he undignifiedly (though not without a legitimate point) complains about the officiating until the loss is taken off his record.

The film builds to the biggest tournament of Kerr's life at the 2000 Pride Grand Prix. Will he earn yet another win and the all-important first loss will come later? Will he lose to his opponent from the controversial earlier fight? Will he lose to Coleman, who has been on a hot streak lately? Or will he lose to some presumed jobber in the first round? It's possible, given how distracted he is over a fight with Dawn. It was an incredibly stupid fight and I've never been more sure that a character holding a gun isn't going to fire it, Johnson's performance, which has been built up as Oscar-worthy. It's... fine. He's obviously put a lot of discipline into the physical aspects of the role (he's more buff here than

But I don't see an Oscar in Johnson's future here, for two reasons. 1) the movie has been a disappointment at the box office, whether or not it's fair to blame that Taylor Swift "launch party" for stealing its audience, and 2) the movie is incredibly boring.

How did a movie that takes place in the bone-crunching world of MMA, starring an actor as exciting as Dwayne Johnson, and directed by Benny Safdie, one half of the team that brought us the 135-minute anxiety attack that was "Uncut Gems" get to be so boring? That's the subversion of expectations that kills this movie, not anything it does with the story, but just the insistence that Mark Kerr is so inherently interesting that it's a treat to see him so much as get groceries. "The Smashing Machine" was clearly made by people with a lot of reverence for Kerr, but the movie doesn't make me see why I should have the same reverence.

but it wouldn't be the first time someone had a serious breakdown over something stupid.

Taylor Swift's Music Film Hauls in $33M to Lead Weekend Box Office

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - Taylor Swift's unusual music film "The Official Release Party of a Showgirl" is the top-grossing draw at the box office this weekend, taking in $33 million to lead all films in North America, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

Not a traditional concert film, the 89-minute release features behind-the-scenes footage and the music video for "The Fate of Ophelia," a single from the star's just-released album, "The Life of a Showgirl." Swift put the film together quickly with little advance marketing and offered it to theaters for three days only, Friday through Sunday.

Last weekend's top-grossing film, writer/director Paul Thomas Anderson's "One Battle After Another," made $11.1 million in its second week, Comscore reported.

"The Smashing Machine," a biopic of MMA star Mark Kerr starring Dwayne Johnson and Emily Blunt and directed by Benny Safdie, opened in third place with $6 million.

DreamWorks' "Gabby's Dollhouse: The Movie" claimed fourth place with $5.2 million in its second weekend, followed by "The Conjuring: Last Rites," which grossed $4 million in its fifth weekend.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were "Demon Slayer: Kimetsu no Yaiba -- the Movie Infinity Castle" ($3.5 million), a re-release of 2022's "Avatar: The Way of Water" ($3.19 million), "The Strangers: Chapter 2" ($2.8 million), "Good Boy" ($2.2 million) and "Kantara A Legend: Chapter 1" ($1.7 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $82.3 million. The year-to-date total is $6.67 billion -- up 4% from the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call, (916) 939-0772 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this internet website, www.nationwideposting.com, for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, T.S.# 25-09380CA. NOTICE TO RESPONDENT: DOLORES MYRIE.
NOTICE OF PETITION TO SUSPEND AND REMOVE SUCCESSOR TRUSTEE

AND APPOINT SUCCESSOR TRUSTEE, FOR DAMAGES, AND FOR AN ACCOUNTING ESTATE OF The Family Trust of James Dolores Jaimez Case No. 25STPB00292
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of The Family Trust of James Dolores Jaimez.
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Edward White in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Dolores Myrie be removed as successor Trustee and Edward White be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held on 1/6/2026 at 8:30am in Department 5 located at Stanley Mosk Courthouse 111 North Hill Street, Los Angeles, CA 90012
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDER(S): If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself.
Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER(S): The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to leave whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (1-866-539-4173) or visit the website http://www .

servicelinkauction.com, using the file number assigned to this case 25-269518.
Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.
NOTICE TO TENANT(S): Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction
pursuant to California Civil Code Section 2924m. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48-hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (1-866-539-4173) or visit the website http://www.
servicelinkauction.com, using the file number assigned to this case 25-269518 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee.
Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15-days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45-days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder", you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. Robertson,

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will

or estate, or both, of GABRIEL DAVIS, aka GABRIEL PASCU.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by GEORGETA GEOR- GESCU in the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that GEORGETA GEORGESCU be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 10/31/2025 at 8:30am in Department 8 located at 4050 Main St, Riverside, CA 92501.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
