The Care Project

A Tragedy Turned Into a Charity

By MIA ROTELL

What started as a stage three breast cancer diagnosis turned into a county-wide nonprofit that's helped hundreds of people affected by breast cancer — including men, women, and young people of all ages.

Carrie Madrid was diagnosed with breast cancer in 2012. She surmounted treatment through chemotherapy and other medical treatments. She came out the other side with a whole new perspective on life and an intense passion for helping others affected by breast cancer.

"It started as a big bright idea to help others," Madrid said. She founded the nonprofit, The Care Project, Inc., in Riverside in 2013. "I didn't want to compete with any other nonprofits — I just wanted to fill in the gaps."

Over the years, their care has turned to helping families affected by breast cancer, providing medical equipment to patients, like wheelchairs and crutches, and even paying patients' bills.

"They shouldn't have to decide between feeding their children or paying for treatment," Madrid said about the financial care that The CARE Project, Inc., offers. "Everyday necessities become luxuries when you're not working full-time because of your treatment."

The original goal for The CARE Project, Inc. was to help people pay their bills. It then grew into offering an array of assistance, including emotional and mental support to patients and families, providing lymphedema arm sleeves, donating vegan cosmetics, and much more.

They've expanded all across the nation since opening in 2013. Their "Men 2" program, started in 2017, provides support and raises awareness for men who are overcoming breast cancer. They often partner with "Man Up to Cancer," which helps men with different kinds of cancer. The Young Survivor Coalition specializes in young people who are battling cancer.

"Come to us for support, but you should also have the support of as many programs that you can have," Madrid said when talking about the different support programs The CARE Project Inc. recommends people to go to.

The most recent addition to her nonprofit is the Adam's Angels program, where grants are given to children who have lost parents to breast cancer. The first grant the program presented was in 2024 — the grants are $5,000 each.

California Restaurants Will Have to Disclose FOOD ALLERGENS on Their Menus Under New Law

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California will become the first state in the nation requiring restaurants to list major food allergens on their menus starting in 2026 under a new law.

The law Gov. Gavin Newsom signed Monday applies to businesses with at least 20 locations. They will have to disclose ingredients including milk, eggs, shellfish and tree nuts when they know or "reasonably should know" that they are in their products.

California state Sen. Caroline

Menjivar, a Democrat, said the bill was inspired in part by her own experiences living with severe allergies to many nuts and fruits.

"Soon, the millions of Californians with food allergies, many of whom are young children, will be able to fully enjoy dining out without fear or apprehension at these qualifying restaurants," she said when the bill passed in the Legislature. "In turn, these businesses will be able to offer allergen families a unique additional assurance that will drive customers to their establishments."

LARGE CROWDS GATHER COUNTYWIDE TO PROTEST TRUMP

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - More than a dozen organized protests took place throughout Riverside County Saturday under the "No Kings" banner, continuing a movement that began earlier this year to denounce the Trump administration's policies.

Organizers encouraged demonstrators to make their voices heard with signs, slogans and recruitment drives, but not by way of violent confrontations or other law breaking.

Similar rallies in June, which like Saturday coincided with larger demonstrations nationwide, drew several thousand people to Riverside, Moreno Valley and multiple other communities countywide, none of which spawned mass arrests or widespread vandalism.

"A core principle behind all No

Kings events is a commitment to nonviolent action," according to a statement posted to NoKings.org. "We expect all participants to seek to de-escalate any potential confrontation with those who disagree with our values."

U.S. House Speaker Mike Johnson, R-Louisiana, framed the protests as a "Hate America rally."

"Let's see who shows up for that," he said publicly. "I bet you see the Marxists in full display. The people who don't want to stand and defend the foundational truths of this republic, and that's what we're here doing every single day."

No Kings organizers countered in a statement that the speaker and House Republicans were "running out of excuses for keeping the government shut down."

Frontier Airlines to Halt Services at Palm Springs Airport

PALM SPRINGS (CNS) - Frontier Airlines will halt operations at Palm Springs International Airport at the end of next month, citing market demand.

"We are pausing our service at PSP at the end of next month in response to current market demand, but will continue to monitor conditions for opportunities to resume services. We greatly appreciate our partnership with the airport and the greater Palm Springs community," a Frontier spokesperson told City News Service.

"Palm Springs International Airport is not losing any nonstop destinations following Frontier's decision to cease operations at PSP effective Nov. 29," a spokesperson at the airport told CNS. "Denver and San Francisco, the two routes Frontier served, remain offered year-round by other carriers: United and Southwest to DEN and United and Alaska to SFO. PSP continues to see record passenger growth, up nearly 5% year-to-date compared to last year, and we remain optimistic about continued strong air service in our market."

Last year, Frontier returned to PSP after a temporary pause in services, with nonstop services to Denver and San Francisco airports.

Trial Set in Corona Planet Fitness Hatchet Attack

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A Feb. 24 trial date was confirmed Monday for a 32-year-old man accused of attacking a Corona fitness club patron with a hatchet and knife, injuring the victim until he was able to overpower the defendant.

Ronald Vikash Chand of Santa Ana allegedly perpetrated the attack in 2023 inside the Planet Fitness at 3685 Grand Oaks, near Cajalco Road.

Chand is charged with attempted murder, assault with a deadly weapon resulting in great bodily injury, mayhem and vandalism.

For most of the last year, the defendant has undergone a series of psychiatric evaluations to determine whether he is mentally competent to stand trial. The doctors assigned to the case evidently did not find any indications of psychological disorders.

During a status hearing at the Riverside Hall of Justice Monday, Riverside County Superior Court Judge Melissa Hale conferred with the prosecution and defense regarding scheduling, and both sides agreed to be prepared to move forward with trial proceedings at the end of February.

The defendant is being held on $1 million bail at the Robert Presley Jail.

According to the Corona Police Department,

a 41-year-old Riverside man, whose name was not released, was in the fitness club parking lot when Chand confronted him shortly after 9 a.m. March 14, 2023, wielding a hatchet and knife.

Without provocation, the defendant allegedly struck the victim with the hatchet and stabbed him with the knife, resulting in "stab wounds to the upper body," prompting the man to retreat into the Planet Fitness, Sgt. Jason Waldon said.

"While inside, Chand held the victim at knifepoint for a short period before being taken to the ground by the victim and was disarmed and detained with the assistance of bystanders," Waldon said.

He said gym staff called 911, and patrol officers reached the location minutes later, taking Chand

Board Provisionally Approves Regulating Sales of Kratom-Based Products

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The Riverside County Board of Supervisors Tuesday tentatively approved an ordinance intended to curb the use of synthetic pain-relieving products that the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration may add to the nationwide list of controlled substances.

The Riverside County Executive Office, following consultations with the District Attorney's Office, Sheriff's Department and other agencies, submitted a formal request for the board to consider implementing a set of regulations aimed at deterring sales and marketing of kratom derivatives, mainly to minors.

"I had never heard of kratom before this came to us earlier this year," county Chief Executive Officer Jeff Van Wagenen told the board ahead of its unanimous vote. "Kratom is becoming more widely used. Is there an opportunity to act now before it becomes more widely abused? We've tried to identify the most dangerous aspect of this ... 'gateway drug.' This is an opportunity to limit the exposure of folks to it."

The main emphasis is on so-called "7-OH" products, which contain alkaloids produced using biosynthetic methods. The 7-OH derivatives are based on kratom leaf or kratom leaf extracts originating from a tropical plant native to Southeast Asia, officials said. Their properties have pain-relieving influences similar to morphine and heroin.

"The victim was transported to a local hospital for treatment of non-

"The 7-OH concentrated synthetic products are often promoted as dietary supplements," Sacramento-based California Narcotics Officers' Association Legislative Advocate Ryan Sherman told the board. "These products come in various forms, like concentrated liquid extract, and can significantly increase adverse potential life-threatening effects, especially when 7-OH is combined with alcohol and sedatives. Unknown concentrations of these synthetics bear an increased risk of unintentional overdose. There is no approved medical use."

In July, the U.S. Food & Drug Administration requested that the DEA formally review kratom derivatives and consider placing them on the federal list of controlled substances, which would result in stringent regulations. The DEA is still in the review stage.

"Highly concentrated and synthetic kratom-based products -- marketed in the form of powders, capsules, gummies and 'energy shots' -- have proliferated in the U.S," the Executive Office said in a statement. "These products are commonly sold online, in smoke shops and at convenience stores, often with no quality control or labeling standards."

The Legislature is in the process of sorting out possible statewide restrictions on 7-OH sales, after a similar proposal in the previous legislative session died in the state Senate. In the meantime, localities have taken regulatory steps of their own.

The Orange County Board of Supervisors approved a measure in August, following related actions in the cities of Jurupa Valley, Newport Beach, Oceanside, San Diego and Solano Beach, all of which now have ordinances in place that prohibit some 7-OH marketing and sales.

The proposed Riverside County regulatory scheme, which requires a second public hearing in the next two weeks before it can be formally approved, would bar the sale of any kratom-based products that contain more than 2% of alkaloids to anyone under 21 years old. The county would further outlaw any marketing of the derivatives to youths via advertisements or brand packaging.

Violations would result in potential misdemeanor criminal charges and fines.

Supporters Are Way Ahead in Fundraising for Newsom's Prop. 50, but the Race Remains Close

BY MAYA C. MILLER AND JEANNE KUANG,
CalMatters

California, listen up: Former President Barack Obama wants you to know that the whole nation is counting on you this November.

"Democracy is on the ballot," the 44th president says straight to camera in the latest advertisement from Gov. Gavin Newsom's campaign for Proposition 50, the ballot question that asks voters to temporarily gerrymander California's congressional districts to favor Democrats.

"Republicans want to steal enough seats in Congress to rig the next election and wield unchecked power for two more years," Obama continues in the seven-figure ad buy airing across California, referring to GOP-led redistricting efforts President Donald Trump has backed in other states like Texas. "With Prop. 50, you can stop Republicans in their tracks." Still, recent polling shows drawing their own districts, supporters of the measure are doubling down on anti-Trump rhetoric. And both campaigns are trying to turn out Latino voters, a key constituency that could swing the election.

A survey from the nonpartisan Cook Political Report earlier this month found that although 50% of registered voters said they would support Prop. 50 and 35% said they would oppose it, nearly half of those surveyed indicated they were undecided or only softly committed to their vote. The poll included 918 registered voters with a sampling error margin of plus or minus 3.6 percentage points.

There's still plenty of time to sway voters, especially those who are just now tuning into the fact that an election is happening. If voters approve Prop. 50, California would temporarily adopt gerrymandered maps drawn by Democrats through 2030 and suspend the ones drawn by an independent citizens mid-decade.

As voters face a Nov. 4 deadline to turn in their ballots, California's redistricting fight has reached a pinnacle as both sides pour tens of millions of dollars on their final push to persuade and mobilize voters. The Yes side has largely outraised and outspent its opponents, pulling in nearly $97 million — more than double the No side's haul of $42 million — and garnered far more big names to appear in its ads.

And when it comes to persuasion, money is critical.

More than 68,000 people have given money in support of the Yes on Prop. 50 campaign since July, according to campaign finance data analyzed by CalMatters, with the biggest contributions coming from the House Majority PAC controlled by congressional Democrats and the Fund for Policy Reform controlled by Democratic megadonor George Soros. That doesn't include the nearly $13 million that billionaire investor Tom Steyer spent separately to run his own ads supporting the measure.

By contrast, only 200 contributors have given to the two separate No campaigns, including a massive $30 million from wealthy Republican physicist Charles Munger Jr., who funded the 2008 trying hard to capitalize on that discomfort in their recent advertising.

"Prop. 50 takes us backwards and rips power away from the people," an unidentified woman tells viewers in a recent No on 50 advertisement. Then the and 2010 efforts to establish the state's independent redistricting commission.

"No' has the steeper hill to climb, there's no doubt about that," said Amy Walter, publisher and editor-in-chief of the Cook Political Report. She explained that opponents of Prop. 50 would not only need to solidify their tentative supporters and ensure they vote, but also persuade all undecided voters and also convert some of the tentative "yes" voters.

But working in the opposition's favor is widespread unease with the idea of elected officials influencing the shape of their districts. About 56% of the Cook poll's respondents who indicated they would probably vote "Yes" said they agreed that politicians shouldn't draw their own district lines.

"If you're the 'No' campaign, it is the one place where you can see you can get some traction," Walter said.

declaration "Politicians Can Rig Elections" flashes across the screen in bold red and black text.

Jessica Millan Patterson, the former state GOP chairperson who is leading the No on 50 campaign backed by House Republicans, said she's targeting independents and Democrats who are dissatisfied with the party. That means focusing on a limited, simple good-governance message to turn out undecided voters.

Millan Patterson isn't concerned about mobilizing the Republican base, she said, adding that the Yes campaign is already doing that for her by demonizing Trump and deifying Newsom, whom conservatives despise. In a small nod to the party faithful, the campaign is running one advertisement criticizing the governor. It hammers him on affordability.

California Mpox Cases Raise Concerns. But Health Officials Say the Risk Remains Low

By MIKE STOBBE AP Medical Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Californians diagnosed with mpox may be the first U.S. cases resulting from the local spread of a different version of the virus, health officials said.

The Long Beach Department of Health and Human Services this week confirmed the first case through testing at a state lab. Los nor have they confirmed additional cases. A few of the person's close contacts have been given a vaccine, said Nora Balanji, the Long Beach department's communicable disease coordinator.

"We don't have any proof that there has been ongoing community transmission," she said. "It's something we're looking into. That's something we're concerned about."

Vials of the Jynneos vaccine for monkeypox are taken from a cooler at a vaccinations site, Aug. 29, 2022, in the Brooklyn borough of New York.

Angeles County health officials on Thursday reported a second, similar case.

The risk to the public is low, officials say.

These are not the U.S. first cases of what is known as clade I mpox. But all six previous cases were among international travelers who were believed to have been infected abroad.

Both infected people in California were hospitalized, and they are now recovering at home. Officials declined to give other details. But "at this point in our investigations, we have not identified any association between the two cases," Long Beach health department acting public affairs officer Jennifer Ann Gonzalez said.

Long Beach is located in Los Angeles County but has its own city health department. Investigators there say they have not found a close contact who traveled abroad, family as the one that causes smallpox. It is endemic in parts of Africa.

Milder symptoms can include fever, chills and body aches. In more serious cases, people can develop lesions on the face, hands, chest and genitals.

One version of the virus — called clade II — was the source of an international health crisis in 2022, when infections escalated in dozens of countries, mostly among men who have sex with men. At one point, the U.S. was averaging close to 500 cases per day.

The infections were rarely fatal, but many people suffered painful skin lesions for weeks. Those outbreaks waned later that year, thanks in part to the Jynneos vaccine made by Bavarian Nordic.

The other version — known as clade I — likewise can

... that the conversation is happening with them," Millan Patterson said. "They know that giving this power to politicians, it will not serve anyone but those politicians, and they just need some permission to vote no on this."

That mirrors the message of the other No campaign paid for by Munger.

"If you look at all the polling since the beginning, voters don't like gerrymandering, full stop," said Amy Thoma Tan, spokesperson for that campaign. "So we're just reminding people that this is gerrymandering."

California unions settle on Trump message

By contrast, their opponents on the Yes side are investing heavily in an anti-Trump message, a move that Walter said was smart given that the president is "the special catalyst" that helps the Yes side overcome California voters' traditional preference for rejecting ballot measures.

In digital ads, the powerful California Labor Federation is reminding its 2 million members that Trump has terminated federal workers' contracts and cut infrastructure spending, which paid for many trades workers' projects.

But in phone-banking operations, its president Lorena Gonzalez said the catch-all framing of Prop. 50 as a way to "fight back against Trump" works best to motivate voters, who all "know what they're not happy about."

"Do we want to talk about ICE? Do we want to talk about LGBTQ (issues)? Do we want to say, 'fight fascism?'" Gonzalez said of discussion among labor organizers working to turn out students on University of California campuses.

The Service Employees International Union of California is taking an all-of-the-above approach, said Tia Orr, the union's executive director. A digital advertisement urges viewers to fight back against the Trump administration's "inhumane immigration policies" by supporting Prop. 50. And a recent mailer sent to SEIU's 800,000 California members, many of whom work in health care, reminded them that the Republican-controlled Congress approved Trump's megabill that would take health insurance coverage from an estimated 10 million Americans.

"I urge all registered nurses to volunteer, vote, and share the message with your friends and family," reads the mailer, written in the first person and signed by Monique Hernandez, vice president of an SEIU local that represents nurses.

In Asian American immigrant communities, pro-Prop. 50 organizers are emphasizing cuts to health care programs and how Trump policies destabilize local economies — a nod to tariffs. For Latino voters, the Yes campaign is airing ads in English and Spanish featuring New York Rep. Alexandria Ocasio Cortez and Democratic Sen. Alex Padilla of California, who was forced to the ground by federal agents in Los Angeles this summer during the height of the immigration raids that jolted the city.

Latino voters "the most undecided"

Latino voters, the state's largest racial group and about 30% of likely voters, are a key constituency that could swing the election.

Affordability remains a top priority for Latino voters, a survey by the Latino Community Foundation of 1,200 Latino registered voters in California in September shows. But they also disapproved of the president by wide margins, and felt pessimistic about their personal economic prospects in higher shares than ever, vice president of policy Christian Arana said. By a three-to-one margin they said they felt Trump had betrayed them on immigration.

"There's a lot of people that say if you really want to talk to Latino voters, you only have to talk about the economy," said Yes on 50 consultant Juan Rodriguez. "It's a false choice. You can't just talk about kitchen-table issues when they're burning down your house."

The campaign has spent more than $10 million specifically on Latino outreach, Rodriguez said, including broadcast, digital, print and radio ads in Spanish and English, and phone banking operations with Latino community groups.

Still, Arana called Latinos "the most undecided voter." Latino approval for Prop. 50 is just under 50% in the Inland Empire and Central Valley, according to the group's survey, which has a sampling error margin of plus or minus 2.8 percentage points.

Arana is most concerned that fears of immigration or other federal agents showing up to polling places could depress turnout, particularly as immigration raids in California and elsewhere have ensnared U.S. citizens. The survey showed two-thirds of Latino voters statewide are concerned about immigration enforcement this election.

Democratic organizers emphasized in a recent Zoom call for volunteers that they were pushing for early voting by mail instead.

Music Could Help Ease Pain From Surgery or Illness.

SCIENTISTS ARE LISTENING

By CHRISTINA LARSON
AP Science Writer

Nurse Rod Salaysay works with all kinds of instruments in the hospital: a thermometer, a stethoscope and sometimes his guitar and ukulele.

In the recovery unit of UC San Diego Health, Salaysay helps patients manage pain after surgery. Along with medications, he offers tunes on request and sometimes sings. His repertoire ranges from folk songs in English and Spanish to Minuet in G Major and movie favorites like “Somewhere Over the Rainbow.”

Patients often smile or nod along. Salaysay even sees changes in their vital signs like lower heart rate and blood pressure, and some may request fewer pain-killers.

“There’s often a cycle of worry, pain, anxiety in a hospital,” he said, “but you can help break that cycle with music.”

Salaysay is a one-man band, but he’s not alone. Over the past two decades, live performances and recorded music have flowed into hospitals and doctors’ offices as research grows on how songs can help ease pain.

Scientists explore how music affects pain perception

The healing power of song may sound intuitive given music’s deep roots in human culture. But the science of whether and how music dulls acute and chronic pain — technically called music-induced analgesia — is just catching up.

No one suggests that a catchy song can fully eliminate serious pain. But several recent studies, including in the journals Pain and Scientific Reports, have suggested that listening to music can either reduce the perception of pain or enhance a person’s ability to tolerate it.

What seems to matter most is that patients — or their families — choose the music selections themselves and listen intently, not just as background noise.

How music can affect pain levels

“Pain is a really complex experience,” said Adam Hanley, a psychologist at Florida State University. “It’s created by a physical sensation, and by our thoughts about that sensation and emotional reaction to it.”

Two people with the same condition or injury may feel vastly different levels of acute or chronic pain. Or the same person might experience pain differently from one day to the next.

Acute pain is felt when pain receptors in a specific part of the body — like a hand touching a hot stove — send signals to the brain, which processes the short-term pain. Chronic pain usually involves long-term structural or other changes to the brain, which heighten overall sensitivity to pain signals. Researchers are still investigating how this occurs.

“Pain is interpreted and translated by the brain,” which may ratchet the signal up or down, said Dr. Gilbert Chan-dlar, a specialist in chronic spinal pain at the Tallahassee Orthopedic Clinic.

Researchers know music can draw attention away from pain, lessening the sensation. But studies also suggest that listening to preferred music helps dull pain more than listening to podcasts.

“Music is a distractor. It draws your focus away from the pain. But it’s doing more than that,” said Caroline Palmer, a psychologist at McGill University who studies music and pain.

Scientists are still tracing the various neural pathways at work, said Palmer.

“We know that almost all of the brain becomes active when we engage in music,” said Kate Richards Geller, a registered music therapist in Los Angeles. “That changes the perception and experience of pain — and the isolation and anxiety of pain.”

Music genres and active listening

The idea of using recorded music to lessen pain associated with dental surgery began in the late 19th century before local anesthetics were available. Today researchers are studying what conditions make music most effective.

Researchers at Erasmus University Rotterdam in the Netherlands conducted a study on 548 participants to see how listening to five genres of music — classical, rock, pop, urban and electronic — extended their ability to withstand acute pain, as measured by exposure to very cold temperatures.

All music helped, but there was no single winning genre.

“The more people listened to a favorite genre, the more they could endure pain,” said co-author Dr. Emy van der Valk Bouman. “A lot of people thought that classical music would help them more. Actually, we are finding more evidence that what’s best is just the music you like.”

The exact reasons are still unclear, but it may be because familiar songs activate more memories and emotions, she said.

The simple act of choosing is itself powerful, said Claire Howlin, director of the Music and Health Psychology Lab at Trinity College Dublin, who co-authored a study that suggested allowing patients to select songs improved their pain tolerance.

“It’s one thing that people can have control over if they have a chronic condition — it gives them agency,” she said.

Active, focused listening also seems to matter.

Hanley, the Florida State psychologist, co-authored a preliminary study suggesting daily attentive listening might reduce chronic pain.

“Music has a way of lighting up different parts of the brain,” he said, “so you’re giving people this positive emotional bump that takes their mind away from the pain.”

It’s a simple prescription with no side effects, some doctors now say.

Cecily Gardner, a jazz singer in Culver City, California, said she used music to help get through a serious illness and has sung to friends battling pain.

“Music reduces stress, fosters community,” she said, “and just transports you to a better place.”

I heard something on the radio about bone broths. The conversation was about comparing the similarities and differences between stocks and broths. I guess there are even sipping bone broths. And I thought, “like how you sip a wine or something?” Anyway, it had me really confused about the state of things.

To be clear, stocks and broths are basically the same thing. The difference lies in that a stock has mirepoix veggies simmered with the bones. Bone broths are more focused on the bones and do not have the mirepoix veggies. Mirepoix veggies are carrots, celery, and onion.

Bone broths are in my mind the heart and soul of many soups. Deep and rich, but a little bit lighter than a stock, that allows the noodles to shine alongside the broth. When I made this stock, I made it into a turkey meatball soup with long grain wild rice. You can also use broth to cook rice, replacing the water.

If you made bone-in steaks, pork chops, whole chicken, lamb or goat and have bones leftover, throw them in a pot and make some broth. It's rather easy to do. So, let's make broth!

Ingredients

- Leftover Bones
- Water to cover
- 2 bay leaves
- 2 tbsp salt
- 6 cloves of garlic, whole

To Make

In a stock pot add in the leftover bones, bay leaves, salt, and garlic. Fill with water until the bones are fully covered. Simmer for 2-3 hours. Strain out the bones. EAT!

TIPS

For Fueling An ON-THE-GO Lifestyle

Our modern lives involve non-stop activity -- from school carpools to back-to-back meetings to workouts to everything in between. When you find the right fuel to keep you going, eating well and the daily grind can go hand-in-hand.

As part of the Fuel for the Modern Hustle campaign, StarKist is teaming up with actress, best-selling cookbook author and mom, Tiffani Thiessen, to celebrate everyday routines and share her top hacks for staying fueled amid the frenzy:

1. Recharge: It's easier than ever to prioritize protein at mealtimes, even when you're multitasking. With 10 or more grams of lean protein per serving, StarKist's ready-to-eat Tuna, Chicken and Salmon Creations Pouches and Smart Bowls come in more than 20 flavors like Lemon Pepper, Buffalo Style and Sweet & Spicy, making a midday recharge easy.

2. Pack an on-the-go boost: When the schedule is full, pack grab-and-go snacks full of lean protein for a quick bite between meetings or errands. To support nonstop routines, anytime and anywhere, try cutting up veggies like carrot sticks to eat with hummus packs or cottage cheese. Or grab StarKist's Lunch-To-Go, Snack-To-Go and classic tuna salad kits, which come complete with crackers and a spoon for easy portability. “Life is busy so I try to keep snacks simple, without giving up on flavor or nutrition,” says Thiessen.

3. Beat boredom: Giving routine sandwiches, salads and wraps a flavorful twist doesn't have to be complicated. Thiessen likes to turn everyday meals into something that feels new, delicious, and nourishing by incorporating fresh herbs such as dill and chives, crunchy veggies like celery sticks and sweet peppers, with delicious flavors of already seasoned and ready-to-eat tuna, chicken or salmon from StarKist.

To inspire you to stay fueled on hectic days, Thiessen is sharing this easy, on-the-go recipe for Chicken Salad Parfait, which can be made in 15 minutes or less and packs a nutritional punch, offering 20 grams of protein, 3 grams of fiber, along with significant amounts of calcium, iron and potassium.

Ingredients:

- 1 pouch (2.6 ounce) StarKist Premium White Chicken
- 1/2 cup cooked orzo
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced red onion
- 1/2 orange bell pepper, diced
- 1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil

- 1/2 lemon, juiced
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 2 cups arugula
- 1 tablespoon shaved Parmesan cheese

Directions:

1. Place cooked orzo in a 12-16-ounce glass jar.
2. Add a layer of red onions, followed by the orange pepper. Drizzle lemon juice and olive oil over top. Sprinkle with black pepper.
3. Open the chicken pouch and add on top of the vegetables. Place arugula on top of the chicken and finish with the shaved parmesan cheese.
4. Seal and place in the refrigerator until you are ready to enjoy.

'Frankenstein'

By LINDSEY BAHR AP
Film Writer

Guillermo del Toro has been telling monster stories for as long as he's been making films. A romantic with keen appreciation for the macabre, his creations are things of strange beauty, haunting, poetic and unforgettable. It's no wonder his earliest love was "Frankenstein," first the Boris Karloff film, then the novel, which set him on a path to becoming a filmmaker.

Don't expect a by-the-letter adaptation of Mary Shelley's immortal story, however. This "Frankenstein," in theaters for a limited release and streaming on Netflix on Nov. 7, is an interpretation, a reading of that tale of the brilliant scientist and his creation, from one of our most visionary filmmakers who has made it very much his own. Is it his best? No, but it overcomes the handicap of the dreaded passion project that has befuddled more than a few greats before him.

It is a story about stories, about fathers and sons, innocents and monsters, and the madness of creation. And while del Toro lets both Victor Frankenstein (Oscar Isaac) and the creation (Jacob Elordi) tell their sides of the tale, this is not exactly neutral. Del Toro has always loved the "monster" and, perhaps because of that love, has stripped him of the complexities that made Shelley's character so fascinating. Here, the creation is an innocent, subject to the same impulses of rage as a toddler. But, thankfully for parents everywhere, toddlers can, generally, be contained. This creature's strength is superhuman, which is unfortunate for anyone who happens to provoke him. He doesn't just kill — he skins, he tears jaws off, he tosses grown men with a velocity that suggests they weigh little more than a baseball. It's all quite grisly.

But neither he nor Victor is without reason — all men are products and victims of their own fathers, whose mothers and mother figures (in both cases, Mia Goth, a metaphor that is perhaps a little too on the nose) cannot protect them, del Toro tells us, and these two are particularly doomed.

Isaac is delightful as Victor, brilliant, egotistical and with a flair for the theatrical, a defiant outsider consumed with the idea of making life from death. He's obsessed with surpassing his father (a menacing Charles Dance), intellectually and scientifically, and the idea that he might have been able to save his late mother. He's relegated himself to being a mad loner, a proud exile who has softness only for his brother William (Felix Kammerer) and William's fiancée, Elizabeth (Goth), an excellent foil for Victor's hubris. While Elizabeth might embody something of a feminine cliché whose instinct is to nurture and protect the creation, rather than mold and control him, Goth imbues her with sharp wit and wisdom. She's the kind who might even be able to save Victor from himself (or at least that's what he thinks), if only she weren't marrying his brother.

And then, of course, there is the creature. There are no bolts in this head: Victor's design is that of an artist attempting to make a marble Adonis, but whose stitches never quite disappear and whose scraggly hair suggests the eerie undead. In Elordi's hands, the creature is a sensitive soul tortured by his own existence. His default is gentleness, but his survival instincts are very real, and very violent. Victor quickly comes to hate his creation because he believes it dumb and he leaves it to fend for itself.

If the first half the film is a symphony of crazed creation, the second is one of discovery, a coming-of-age story for a monster who just wants a companion but who is only met with hatred, disgust and violence — save for an old, blind man (David Bradley) who, like Elizabeth, sees a gentle soul. The creature is also quick to learn under a kinder tutor, which proves to be a double-edged sword as he comes to understand the nature of his being and the curse of eternal life. It's all very spelled out on our behalf.

The gothic grandeur on display is familiar territory for del Toro, though he's often had to stay within certain confines. Working with many of his regular collaborators on "Frankenstein," it seems no expense was spared in this elaborate, maximalist world-building (production designer Tamar Deverell), from Victor's lavish childhood estate to the abandoned irrigation plant that will become his laboratory. The romantic, beautiful, utterly impractical costumes, too, (overseen by Kate Hawley) could fill a museum, not to mention all the severed limbs. It all comes to electrifying life with Alexandre Desplat's appropriately epic score.

Everything about "Frankenstein" is larger than life, from the runtime to the emotions on display: The empathy, the anguish, the rage, the regret. And it can be a bit exhausting, too, a lifetime of dreaming jam packed into 149 minutes. Hopefully del Toro is at peace with his creation: It might not be masterpiece material, but it has a soul and is an undeniably beautiful, worthwhile addition to the canon.

"Frankenstein," a Netflix release in select theaters Friday and streaming on Nov. 7, is rated R by the Motion Picture Association for "bloody violence, grisly images." Running time: 149 minutes. Three and a half stars out of four.

'Black Phone 2' Opens with $26.5 Million to Lead Weekend Box Office

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - Blumhouse's horror film "Black Phone 2" took advantage of its Halloween-season release, grossing $26.5 million this weekend to lead all films in North America, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

The sequel to 2021's "The Black Phone," which like the new film starred Ethan Hawke as "The Grabber," beat out last weekend's top-grossing film, "Tron: Ares," which made $11.1 million in its second weekend, Comscore reported.

"Good Fortune," a comedy written and directed by Aziz

Ansari, who also stars with Keke Palmer, Seth Rogan and Keanu Reeves, opened in third place with $6.2 million.

"One Battle After Another" grossed $4 million Friday through Sunday in its fourth week, followed by "Roofman," which took in $3.7 million in its second weekend.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were "Truth & Treason" ($2.7 million), "Gabby's Dollhouse: The Movie" ($1.6 million), "The Conjuring: Last Rites" ($1.57 million), "After the Hunt" ($1.55 million) and "Demon Slayer: Kimetsu no Yaiba -- the Movie Infinity Castle" ($1.3 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $67.4 million. The year-to-date total is $6.866 billion -- up 3.6% from the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

TEAR GARLANDS: A New Homespun Holiday Tradition

BY MIA ROTELL

What makes the holidays so precious? Is it decorating the house, or spending time with loved ones? Or is it being able to stop and appreciate life a little more? The tear garland combines all the best parts of the season: fun crafts, cute decorations, and precious keepsakes that will last forever. To make a new decoration or bond with your family, it's perfect for not only Halloween and Christmas, but also great for Easter, the 4th of July, etc. It's great to make with kids, too!

What You'll Need:

- A strand of lights (any size and color)
- At least 4 different patterns of fabric (must be about a yard and a half long)

- Scissors

How to Make It:

Step 1: Buy a string of lights. It can be any color, variation, length, etc. A common light strand length is about 10 feet long — but make sure it fits the desired area.

Step 2: Tear your fabric into 1-by-6-inch strips. To do this, lay out the fabric and use a measuring tape along the fabric's end to measure out the strips. Cut into the fabric 1 inch apart.

Step 3: Measure the fabric again, 6 inches into the fabric from the same side already cut — cut across the fabric. There will be a long strip of fabric that is 6 inches wide and has small cuts along the edge.

Step 4: Tear the fabric where the cuts were made. You will end up with strips.

Step 5: Repeat steps 2-4 for every fabric chosen.

Step 6: After all the strips have been torn, get the string of the lights and tie a knot to one end with one of the strips. Make sure to knot it tight.

Step 7: Knot another strip from a different type of fabric and push it all the way down to be tight next to the first knot. Make sure all the fabric is tight — the wire for the lights shouldn't be visible.

Step 8: Repeat steps 6-7 for the entire strand, and it's done!

Tip: Buy a longer stand of lights to fold the stand in half, or in thirds, to make the garland really light up!

County Agricultural and Arts Heritage Celebrated at SoCal Fair

BY MIA ROTELL

Booths buzzed, visitors competed in games for prizes, mechanical rides thrilled, bright lights filled open spaces, all against the backdrop of continuous live music entertainment as crowds flooded onto the Lake Perris fairgrounds for the four-day Southern California Fair.

The fair encouraged attendee participation, hosting a variety of exhibits including niche collections of rocks, salt and pepper shakers, tea-cups, marbles, and the like.

Adults and juniors participated in homecraft competitions, including baking, jam-making, and crocheting, while others showed off personal talents in the studio arts, photography, and more.

Perris historian Katie Keyes helped organize and set up the inside portion of the event, sharing, "It helps teach these kids a sense of pride and responsibility."

Southern California Fair and Events organized the Lake Perris event to promote agricultural services, entertainment, county. The tent by the old schoolhouse on the fairgrounds housed booths ofer's daughter scholarship program where girls ages 16-18 compete in far-flung spread through sex, but also through other forms of contact. In Africa it has infected a broader range of people, including children.

A newer form of the clade I virus has been widely transmitted in eastern and central Africa. The World Health Organization declared the situation a public health emergency, but last month it said the problem had waned enough that it was no longer an international emergency.

Still, "it's concerning if this virus has come here and now is starting to be transmitted from person to person," said Dr. William Schaffner, an infectious diseases expert at Vanderbilt University.

The case report comes amid a federal government shutdown and the layoffs of hundreds of employees at the Atlanta-based Centers for Disease Control and Prevention — the agency that usually would be involved in responding.

Balanji said a few CDC experts have been available to talk to her department about the situation.

But Schaffner noted that "the longer the shutdown, the more impaired public health responses are to any outbreaks."

A U.S. Department of Health and Human Services spokesperson referred questions to local health officials.

The United States Needs MORE AFTERSCHOOL PROGRAMS, New Study Finds

Ninety-five percent of parents with a child enrolled in an afterschool program are satisfied with that program, and there is overwhelming support for more government funding for afterschool, according to a new study. But unmet demand for these programs is high in all 50 states, and majorities of middle- and low-income families who want afterschool programs are being shut out.

The parents of 29.6 million children, more than half the school-age students in the United States, want afterschool programs for their children – but just 7 million children are currently enrolled. Another 22.6 million children would attend afterschool programs if they were available. That means three in four of the children (77%) whose parents want to enroll them in an afterschool program are being left behind. Cost, availability, and accessibility are the barriers families cannot overcome. Those are among the findings of “America After 3PM 2025,” a report released in October by the Afterschool Alliance. The survey of 30,515 U.S. parents of school-age children finds a wide, and widening, opportunity gap, with children in low- and middle-income families more likely to be without the afterschool programs their parents want for them than children in high-income families. Families in the highest income bracket now spend approximately nine times as much on out-of-school time activities as families in the lowest income bracket, up sharply from five years ago.

“Afterschool programs give students a safe place to go after the school day ends, boost their academic achievement, help address the youth mental health and chronic absenteeism crises, provide alternatives to screen time, give working parents peace of mind that their children are safe and supervised, and more,” said Afterschool Alliance executive director Jodi Grant. “But there aren’t nearly enough afterschool programs to meet the need.”

More than 8 in 10 parents agree that afterschool programs provide opportunities for children to learn life skills like interacting with peers and responsible decision making, and help them develop teamwork, critical thinking, and leadership skills. Eighty-four percent say afterschool programs allow working parents to keep their jobs or work more hours, and 92% of parents with a child in a program say they are less stressed knowing their child is safe. To learn more about the study, when all children can take advantage of what afterschool programs offer – but, sadly, this study shows we’re nowhere near reaching that goal,” Grant added. “We need greater support from federal, state and local governments, businesses, and philanthropy. Every child

No Kings

“Instead of reopening the government, preserving affordable healthcare, or lowering costs for working families, he’s attacking millions of Americans, who are peacefully coming together to say that America belongs to its people, not to kings,” the organization stated.

In Cathedral City, dozens of people gathered with signs such as “Keep the immigrants, deport the racists” and “Nobody voted for cruelty, corruption and incompetence.”

A few hundred people gathered in Hemet to protest, and dozens in Beaumont.

Temecula’s protest was large, with hundreds of people gathered on all four corners of the Ynez and Rancho California Roads intersection. As cars drove by honking, protesters waved upside-down U.S. flags and held signs reading “reject fascism.”

In Corona, a few hundred people gathered for multiple blocks of Ontario Avenue with signs reading “fight for those w/o your privilege” and “Yes on 50!”

The Palm Desert and

Menifee protests were also large with hundreds of people at each holding signs that read “release the Epstein files” and “‘Don’t make me repeat myself’ - history.”

No arrests or violent acts were reported as of Saturday afternoon.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF Casey Maureen Lukenbill Case No. PRR12502803

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Casey Maureen Lukenbill.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Kelly Patrick McCarthy in the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Kelly Patrick McCarthy be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 10/29/2025 at 8:30am in Department 12 located at 4050 Main St, Riverside, CA 92501.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE SALE UNDER DEED OF TRUST YOU ARE IN DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST DATED JULY 13, 2022. UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER. Affinia Default Services, LLC, as the duly appointed Trustee, under and pursuant to the power of sale contained in that certain Deed of Trust Recorded July 18, 2022 as Document No.: 2022-0317852 of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of Riverside County, California, executed by: Wael Nagui Abdo, a married man as his sole and separate property, as Trustor, will be sold AT PUBLIC AUCTION TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER for cash (payable in full at time of sale by cash, a cashier's check drawn by a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association, or savings bank specified in section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state). All right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said deed of trust in the property situated in said county and state, and as more fully described in the above referenced deed of trust. Sale Date: November 12, 2025 Sale Time: 1:00 PM Sale Location: In the courtyard, of the Historic Corona Civic Center 815 W Sixth St, Corona, CA 92882 2 File No.: 24-08901CA
The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 815 Johnny Cash Dr, Corona, CA 92881. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. Said sale will be made in an "AS IS" condition, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest thereon, as provided in said note(s), advances, if any, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, estimated fees, charges, and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust, to wit: $1,348,096.90 (Estimated). Accrued interest and additional advances, if any, will increase this figure prior to sale. It is possible that at the time of sale the opening bid may be less than the total indebtedness due. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call, (800) 280-2832 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this internet website, www.auction.com, for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, T.S.# 24-08901CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (800) 280-2832, or visit this internet website www.auction.com, using the file number assigned to this case 24-08901CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. 3 File No.:24-08901CA If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF

JEANINE VEJE
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA
CASE NO. PRR12503005
[California Probate Code § 8100]
Notice is hereby given to all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors and contingent creditors, and other persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate or both of the abovenamed decedent, that a petition has been filed by Christian Veje in the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside, requesting that Christian Veje be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of Jeanine Veje and for probate of the decedent's will, which is available for examination in the court file.
The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. This will avoid the need to obtain court approval for many actions taken in connection with the estate. However, before taking certain actions, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action. The petition will be granted unless good cause is shown why it should not be.
The petition is set for hearing in Dept. No. 11 at 4050 Main Street, Riverside, CA 92501 on November 18, 2025, at 8:30 am.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in subdivision (b) of Section 58 of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of delivery of the notice to you under Section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are interested in the estate, you may request special notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Section 1250 of the California Probate Code.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:
DON VAN
CASE NO. PRR12502626
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of DON VAN.
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by MICHELLE POE in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that MICHELLE POE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 12/16/25 at 8:30AM in Dept. 11 located at 4050 MAIN STREET, RIVERSIDE, CA 92501
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

CITY OF CORONA
OFFICE OF THE CITY CLERK
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council will conduct a public hearing in the City Council Chambers at 400 S. Vicentia Ave., on Wednesday, November 5, 2025, at 6:00 p.m. or thereafter upon the following:

GPA2025-0002: General Plan Amendment to update the Wildfire Hazard Severity Zone map in the Public Safety Element to be consistent with the fire hazard severity zones map issued by the Office of the State Fire Marshal.

Applicant: City of Corona Fire Department

California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA): This General Plan Amendment is exempted from the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) pursuant to Section 15061(b)(3) of the CEQA Guidelines, the "common sense" exemption. This exemption applies where it can be seen with certainty that there is no possibility the activity may have a significant effect on the environment. The proposed General Plan Amendment (GPA2025-0002) qualifies, as it merely replaces the existing fire hazard severity zones map (Figure PS-11 of the Corona General Plan) with the updated map issued by the Office of the State Fire Marshal on March 24, 2025, and adopted by the Corona City Council on June 4, 2025.

The public is invited to attend the City Council meeting and comment on the application described above. Due to time constraints and the number of persons wishing to give oral testimony, each speaker will be limited to three minutes. You may wish to make your comments in writing and submit them to the City Clerk for inclusion into the public record. If you challenge any portion of these projects in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered at, or prior to the public hearing.
Any person unable to attend the public hearing may submit written comments to the City Clerk, 400 S. Vicentia Ave., Corona, CA 92882. If you have questions regarding this notice or the applications to be heard, please call the Planning & Development

Department at (951) 736-2262.

CITY OF CORONA
NOTICE INVITING BIDS
The City of Corona invites qualified bids for:
City Of Corona Airport Mowing Services.
Parties interested in obtaining a copy of this NIB No. 26-012AG may do so by registering with PlanetBids as a City of Corona vendor by visiting the PlanetBids Vendor Portal: <https://www.planetbids.com/portal/portal.cfm?CompanyID=39497>. Registered vendors can download a copy of this NIB
No. 26-012AG and supporting documents at no cost and receive addenda and other notifications when issued.

Closing: Bids shall be submitted electronically before 10:00am, November 20, 2024 through the PlanetBids Vendor Portal. It is

Bidder's responsibility to allow sufficient time to complete and upload its bid, including all documentation required by this NIB, prior to the stated deadline. Electronic submission cannot be completed unless Bidder properly uploads all required documents.

The City will only consider electronic bids that have been transmitted successfully and issued a time stamped confirmation number from PlanetBids indicating the bid was successfully transmitted. Transmission of bids by any other means will not be accepted.
Bidders are solely responsible for informing themselves with respect to proper usage of the PlanetBids online bid management system, for ensuring the capability of their computer system to upload the required documents, and for the reliability of their internet service. Failure of Bidder to successfully transmit an electronic bid shall be at Bidder's sole risk and no relief will not be given for late or improperly submitted bids.

Bidders experiencing technical difficulties with the bid transmission process should contact PlanetBids Support at (818) 992-1771. Bidders that continue to experience difficulty with the PlanetBids system should contact the City of Corona Purchasing Division at (951) 736-2274. Neither the City nor PlanetBids make any guarantees or assurances as to the timely availability of assistance or resolution of any given issue prior to the bid submission date and time.

Before the Contract is awarded, the successful bidder or subcontractor shall be a licensed contractor pursuant to the Business and Professions Code and shall be licensed in one of the following appropriate classification(s) of contractor's license(s), for the work bid upon, and must maintain a valid California State Contractor's License throughout the duration of the Contract:
valid C-27 landscape contractor.

The work is subject to the payment of not less than prevailing wages pursuant to Chapter 1 (beginning at Section 1720 et seq.) of Part 7 of Division 2 of the California Labor Code, as well as Title 8, Section 16000 et seq. of the California Code of Regulations ("Prevailing Wage Laws"). The Director of the Department of Industrial Relations ("DIR") has determined the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which this work is to be performed for each craft or type of worker needed to execute the Agreement which will be awarded to the successful bidder, copies of which are on file and will be made available to any interested party upon request from the City or online at <http://www.dir.ca.gov/dlsr>. A copy of these rates shall be posted by the successful bidder at the job site.

Pursuant to SB 854, which amended the Prevailing Wage Laws, this contract subject to compliance monitoring and enforcement by the DIR. Beginning March 1, 2015, with very limited exceptions no contractor or sub-contractor may be listed on a bid proposal for this contract unless registered with the DIR pursuant to Labor Code section 1725.
5. Beginning April 1, 2015, no contractor or subcontractor may be awarded a contract unless registered with the DIR pursuant to Labor Code section 1725. 5. The DIR registration number for each contractor and subcontractor must be identified on the bid proposal - failure to identify this number could result in the bid being rejected as non-responsive. It is each bidder's responsibility to ensure that they have fully complied with SB 854. The City will report all necessary contracts to the DIR as required by the Prevailing Wage Laws.

The successful bidder and all subcontractor(s) under him, shall comply with all applicable Prevailing Wage Laws, which include, but are not limited to the payment of not less than the required prevailing rates to all workers employed by them in the execution of the Contract, the employment of apprentices, the hours of labor, the payment of overtime, and the debarcment of contractors and subcontractors. The successful bidder and all subcontractor(s) under him shall also be responsible for any and all violations and fines imposed on them pursuant to the Prevailing Wage Laws.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish the City with a Performance Bond equal to 100% of the successful bid, and a Payment (Labor and Materials) Bond equal to 100% of the successful bid, prior to execution of the Contract. All bonds are to be secured from a surety that meets all of the State of California bonding requirements, as defined in Code of Civil Procedure Section 995.120, and is admitted by the State of California.

Award of Contract: The City shall award
the Contract to the lowest responsive, responsible bidder as determined from the bid schedule. The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bids or in the bidding process.

No person, organization, or corporation is allowed to make, submit, or be interested in more than one bid unless in a subcontractual relationship with respect to the bid. A person, organization or corporation submitting subproposals or quoting prices on materials to Bidders is prevented from submitting a bid to the City as a primary Bidder.

Issuance of this NIB and/or receipt of bids does not commit City to award a contract.

as provided in subdivision section 17920, where it expires 40 days after any change in the facts set forth in the statement pursuant to section 17913 other than a change in residence address or registered owner. A new fictitious business name statement must be filed before the expiration. The filing of this statement does not of itself authorize the use in this state of a fictitious business name in violation of the rights of another under Federal, State, or Common Law (see section 14411 ET SEQ., Business and Professions Code).
THIS STATEMENT WAS FILED WITH THE COUNTY CLERK OF Riverside ON 9/24/2025.
