

CA DOJ Opens Investigation into Deadly Corona PD Officer-Involved Shooting

CORONA (CNS) - California state prosecutors Wednesday announced the start of an investigation into a deadly officer-involved shooting that occurred in downtown Corona, where patrol personnel opened fire on a man allegedly wielding a tire iron that he was using to bash vehicles.

"Once aware of the incident, the Department of Justice's California Police Shooting Investigation Team initiated an investigation in accordance with Assembly Bill 1506 mandates," according to a statement released by Attorney General Rob Bonta's office. "Upon completion of the investigation, it will be turned over to DOJ's Special Prosecutions Section within the Criminal Law Division for independent review."

Investigations can span anywhere from a few months to a year.

AB 1506 took effect in 2021 and requires independent investigations of "incidents where an officer-involved shooting resulted in the death of an unarmed civilian."

"AB 1506 provides DOJ with an important tool to directly help build and maintain trust between law enforcement and the communities they serve by creating a mandate for an independent statewide prosecutor ... to investigate and review officer-involved shootings of unarmed civilians," according to an agency statement.

The Riverside County Sheriff's Department's Force Investigations Detail is also conducting a probe, at the request of the Corona Police Department.

The shooting occurred shortly after midnight Tuesday at McKinley Street and Promenade Avenue, according to police.

Sgt. Robert Montanez said officers were called to the location after receiving reports of vandalism by a motorist armed with a "crowbar," which turned out to be a tire iron used for removing lug nuts.

Data Centers ARE PUTTING NEW STRAIN ON CALIFORNIA'S GRID. A New Report Estimates the Impacts

BY ALEJANDRO LAZO, CalMatters

California is a major hub for data centers — the facilities that store and transmit much of the internet. But just how much these power-hungry operations affect the state's energy use, climate and public health remains an open question for researchers.

A new report released this week by the environmental think tank Next 10 and a UC Riverside researcher attempts to quantify that impact — but its authors say the report is only an estimate without harder data from the centers themselves.

"We are just making these reports pretty much in the dark — since there's almost zero information," said Shaolei Ren, an AI researcher at UC Riverside and co-author of the report. "We have extremely little information about data centers in California."

Ren and his coauthors conclude that between 2019 and 2023, electricity use and carbon emissions by California data centers nearly doubled, while on-site water consumption slightly more than doubled. Much of the increases were attributable to the electricity required to run artificial intelligence computations. But many of the report's estimates, including its health impacts, are based on limited data — a key issue researchers said they encountered repeatedly when crafting the report.

A new report estimates that California's data centers are driving increases in electricity use, water demand and pollution even as lawmakers stall on oversight.

consensus on just how sharply electricity demand will climb.

"In very simple terms, a lot of the uncertainty comes from: what is our life going to look like with AI in the next five years, 10 years, 20 years — how integrated is it going to become?" said Maia Leroy, a Sacramento-based advocate who focuses on clean energy and the grid. "Are we reaching a point where the use is going to plateau, or is it going to continue?"

Man, 61, Suspected of Attempting to Kidnap Minors Arrested

CORONA (CNS) - A 61-year-old man suspected of attempting to kidnap a 12-year-old girl by allegedly grabbing her and trying to place her in his vehicle in Corona has been taken into custody, authorities announced Friday.

Deputies from the Lake Mathews Sheriff's Station were dispatched around 4:13 p.m. Tuesday regarding a kidnapping in the 25000 block of Santiago Canyon Road, according to the Riverside County Sheriff's Office.

Responding deputies learned the victim had escaped and sought help from a nearby adult witness after a person attempted to allegedly place her inside his vehicle.

Investigators obtained a detailed description of the suspect vehicle and later located a suspect identified as Delory Sinclair of Corona. They were taken into custody in the 11000 block of De Palma Road in an unincorporated area of Temescal Valley in Corona.

Police said Sinclair is also suspected of trying to kidnap another girl who was 14-years-old.

Sheriff's official said that both victims did not sustain any reported injuries, and that the investigation was being handled by Lake Mathew Station detectives.

A search warrant was executed Wednesday at Sinclair's residence in the 26000 block of Blackhorse Circle, in an unincorporated area of Horsethief Canyon in Corona, Investigators seized evidence related to the alleged kidnapping, along with large quantities of illegal narcotics, sheriff's officials said.

Sinclair was booked into the Robert Presley Detention Center on suspicion of kidnapping, attempted kidnapping, annoying or molesting a minor, and possession of illegal narcotics. He was being held on $1 million bail.

Anyone with information about the alleged kidnapping incidents was urged to contact the Lake Mathews Sheriff's Station at 951-272-5600.

Animal Services Chief: Goal to 'SAVE AS MANY PETS' LIVES AS POSSIBLE'

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Riverside County is continuing for the disposal of pets who either die in the shelters, or are recovered dead by animal control officers while on patrol.

The carcasses are taken to landfills for burial.

One speaker, a Nuevo woman, appeared before the board to suggest the Department of Animal

The agency director acknowledged that not all impounded pets "can be seen by the public," but she denied there was anything sinister about the practice.

"Some of them are housed separately for quarantine or due to cruelty investigations," Martin said.

She used her time at the podium to call on residents this holiday season to consider participating in foster programs, which involve taking home a dog or cat for short- or long-term periods to free up shelters' space, as well as to formally adopt lost, abandoned or abused animals permanently.

"Progress has been made toward the 'no kill' goal," Martin told the county Board of Supervisors during its meeting Tuesday. "We're doing everything in our power to find homes for these animals ... trying to save as many pets' lives as possible."

Home Sales Continue RISING Across Riverside County

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Home sales rose across the Inland Empire and the state as a whole last month, with statewide sales figures reaching the highest level since February, the California Association of Realtors announced Tuesday.

In Riverside County, closed escrow sales of existing, single-family detached homes rose 6.6% in October over September's numbers, and were up 9.6% year-over-year.

San Bernardino County's sales numbers were up 4.5% month-over-month, and 3.8% year-over-year.

Statewide, October sales were up 1.9% from the previous month, and 4.1% year-over-year.

"Housing demand in California has been steadily improving, with home sales rising for the third month in a row. Even though mortgage rates have inched up since late October, the market remains active, and buyers still have solid opportunities," said CAR President Tamara Suminski, a Southern California broker and Realtor. "Home prices are growing at a manageable pace, and we're seeing a healthier balance between buyers and sellers. As we head into 2026, these trends point to a promising moment for anyone considering a move in the California real estate market."

The sales numbers reported by CAR are on a seasonally adjusted annualized rate, adjusted to account for seasonal factors that typically influence home sales.

The median selling price of an existing, single-family home in Riverside County was $634,990 last month, up 1.8% from September but virtually unchanged from $635,000 last year.

San Bernardino County's average price was $491,970 in October, down 1.6% from last month and 1.4% from last year.

Statewide, the average price was $886,960, 0.4% higher than in September, but 0.2% lower than at this time last year.

The highest median home price in California in October was San Mateo County's $2,189,500. The lowest was Trinity County's $250,000.

will make it an objective to preserve the lives of a minimum of 90% of all cats and dogs impounded at the county's four shelters.

The policy entails greater emphasis on free or low-cost spay and neuter clinics, enhanced "return-to-owner" programs that unite lost pets with their loved ones, adoption campaigns with full fee waivers and expedited "trap- neuter-return-to-field" programs that were inaugurated in March 2024.

More Rainy Weather Forecasted to Hit Riverside County

According to the National Weather Service. "The next Pacific low pressure system, will bring another round of more widespread showers Friday with decreasing chances for showers into the weekend."

"Yet another winter storm system will move closer to the region later on Thursday through at least Friday night, bringing another round of rainfall and higher elevation snow, according to the NWS. "Things look to dryout sometime early next week."

Over the weekend, at the height of the first storm that hit the region on Saturday, multiple roads were flooded including Temescal Canyon Road in Temescal Valley, 29 Palms Highway in Palm Springs, North Indian Canyon Road at the wash, E. Vista Chino at the wash and North Gene Autry Trail at the

PROSECUTOR: Ex-Deputy Abducted Ex-Girlfriend, Stored Child Porn on Phone

By PAUL YOUNG

City News Service

INDIO (CNS) - An ex-Riverside County sheriff's deputy abused his authority and committed felonies while off-duty, fixating on a former girlfriend to the point he abducted her, a prosecutor said Tuesday, while the defense argued the man engaged in behavior that may have been questionable, but not criminal.

"All deputies should embody the sheriff's motto 'Service Above Self,' but the defendant was about self-service over everything else," Deputy District Attorney Jess Walsh told jurors during his opening statement Tuesday in the trial of Alexander Ravy Vanny at the Larson Justice Center in Indio.

Vanny, 34, of Hemet, was arrested last year. He's charged with kidnapping, stalking, possession of child porn, unauthorized use of protected electronic data, maliciously destroying a wireless device, witness intimidation, illicit eavesdropping, using a concealed camera to invade a person's privacy, illegal use of a tracking device, interference with a traffic control device and possession of a firearm in violation of a protective order, with a sentence-enhancing allegation of perpetrating a felony while on bail.

He's being held without bail at the Smith Correctional Facility.

Walsh recounted the alleged offenses involving the two principal victims, a former sheriff's Explorer scout identified only as "Leslie," and the defendant's one-time live-in girlfriend, a mother of two identified as "Madeline."

In the latter case, Vanny became obsessive, the prosecutor alleged, unable to cope with their breakup in the summer of 2024.

After she went out on a date, the then-lawman secretly followed her and the man, whose identity wasn't disclosed, waiting until they were inside her Menifee residence, then allegedly setting up an audio device outside her bedroom window to record the sounds of her and the other party engaging in intercourse. After waiting a few moments, Vanny allegedly forced his way into the apartment and challenged the man to a fight, according to the prosecution.

Court papers alleged that when Madeline attempted to use her mobile phone to call 911, the defendant physically took it from her and damaged it.

Walsh said Vanny carried around an unlicensed infrared device in his Ford Explorer that enabled him to trigger changes to traffic lights, while tailing his ex-girlfriend or her beaux.

The prosecutor also alleged Vanny installed hidden cameras throughout Madeline's apartment, operated wirelessly, enabling him to record the victim's roommate, identified only as "Michelle," going in and out of the shower nude.

There were instances of Vanny allegedly using the FLOCK law enforcement camera system deployed by the sheriff's department and other agencies to procure license plate information from vehicles belonging to men visiting the victim, particularly one of her closest friends, identified only as "Ace," according to the prosecution.

Among the most serious allegations was Vanny's following Madeline to Chappies Bar in Hemet and demanding that she "leave and come home with him," the prosecution said. When the woman rejected him, Vanny "forcibly threw her into his truck," according to court documents.

"The defendant then drove her, without her consent, to his home ... some 17 miles and 30 minutes," the prosecution stated.

She was ultimately able to get away from him unharmed, filing a restraining order against him. In defiance of that order, Vanny continued to carry around his own personal firearm wherever he went, Walsh alleged.

He further alleged the deputy stuck "tracking devices" onto her car so he could monitor her travels at all times.

The defendant became sexually involved with 18-year-old Leslie, who apparently looked upon him as a mentor, exchanging text messages with him on a regular basis, according to the prosecution.

Vanny procured video images of two teenagers engaging in sexual activity during a visit to an Orange County theme park and kept the matter, which was part of an investigation, on his personal mobile phone, Walsh alleged, intending to show it to Leslie.

However, when she was called to testify Tuesday, the young woman denied seeing anything.

Vanny's attorney, Quinton Swanson, told jurors that most of his client's troubles stemmed from a difficult relationship with Madeline.

"People live together without being married," he said. "Sometimes they cheat on each other. Life is complicated."

Swanson emphasized that Leslie was not underage, and said though the relationship between her and Vanny might have been inappropriate, it wasn't illegal. The attorney acknowledged the defendant "cut corners" in doing his job, noting the video of the two youths having sex represented such an instance.

Swanson said the entire episode surrounding Madeline being taken from the bar was misconstrued.

The defendant was accustomed to being her "designated driver" when she went out for drinks, and on the November night in question, he was acting in that vein, not kidnapping her, according to the defense.

Vanny was first arrested on June 22, 2024, and booked into the Banning jail but posted a $1 million bond and was released. He was initially placed on paid administrative leave, but within a few months he was fired from the department, according to sheriff's officials.

While on bail, Vanny was separately charged in connection with a slate of new alleged offenses.

He had been a sworn peace officer since he was hired by the sheriff's department in 2016.

Montanez said the suspect, whose identity was not immediately released, had been involved in a possible road rage-related confrontation with another driver, allegedly resulting in him crashing into that person's car, injuring the victim.

"Officers responded and located the subject armed with the tire iron," the sergeant said. "The subject refused multiple commands to drop his weapon, and an officer-involved shooting subsequently occurred. The subject was struck by gunfire, and despite life-saving measures, he was pronounced deceased at the scene."

The driver injured in the crash, also not identified by police, was taken to a regional trauma center for treatment of moderate injuries.

Online Gambling Is Everywhere. SO ARE THE RISKS

By CORA LEWIS Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Online betting is more accessible than ever, with 14% of U.S. adults saying they bet on professional or college sports online either frequently or occasionally, according to a February poll by The Associated Press-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research. It's also in the news, with a growing list of sports betting scandals making headlines.

Public health advocates and personal finance advisers say it's important to know the risks if you're going to gamble online.

"Gambling and 'responsibly' seem to be oxymoronic, because if you're gambling it's all about risk," said Caleb Silver, editor in chief of personal finance site Investopedia. "But people still do it. Online gambling and sports betting are only becoming more popular."

Since the Supreme Court struck down a ban on sports betting in 2018, 38 states and Washington, D.C., have legalized gambling, according to the American Gaming Association.

For those new to online gambling, it can be helpful to set limits in advance on how much you're willing to lose and how much time you're willing to spend. Many of the platforms and apps that offer gambling, such as FanDuel and DraftKings, include optional safeguards to limit time or losses. Other apps can block access to the platforms for set amounts of time.

Here's what to know:

Online gambling can be riskier than gambling in person

The potential losses of digital betting can occur more quickly than in a physical casino, according to Heather Eshleman, director of operations at the Maryland Center for Excellence on Problem Gambling, since people can bet so much so easily and quickly on the internet or apps, with less friction.

The new prevalence of prediction markets, such as PredictIt and Kalshi, has also created new opportunities to place wagers online on everything from election outcomes to celebrity news to the weather.

How to tell if you have a problem with online gambling

According to public health advocates, the biggest warning sign of a problem is if you're devoting time to online betting that's taking away from other things in your life — especially your relationships with friends, family, and work. If you're spending money on gambling that could instead go towards unmet basic needs, that's also a warning sign.

"We encourage people to only use money they would use for fun and entertainment, not money that should be used to pay the mortgage or the rent or to pay for food," said Eshleman.

Silver echoed this.

"You have to know before you do it how much you can afford to lose," he said. "What is your 'tap out point?' Those rules have to be firmly established."

Ways to limit online gambling

Most sports betting platforms offer "responsible gambling tools," according to Eshleman.

"You can set limits on time, money, deposits, wins, and losses," she said. "The goal is to set those limits before you start, because if you don't set them in advance, they're not really going to work for you. Once you're into the excitement of it, you're not going to stop and use those tools."

Eshleman recommends apps such as GambBan and BetBlocker, which limit access to gambling sites externally. She also directs those who suspect they may have a problem to use the 1-800-GAMBLER hotline or contact Gamblers Anonymous.

Know the risks and downsides

Silver, the head of Investopedia, said he started adding definitions of online betting and gambling terms to the personal finance site when he saw an increasingly "closer connection between sports betting, day trading, options trading, and cryptocurrency trading." He encourages those who are interested in digital betting to make sure they know what they're getting into.

willing to lose, how much are you willing to lose?"

Cory Fox, senior vice president of public policy and sustainability at FanDuel, who handles the site's responsible gambling initiatives, compares using the safeguards to wearing a seatbelt when driving in a car and said FanDuel is committed to setting standards for being a responsible operator in the online gambling space.

Lori Kalani, chief responsible gaming officer at DraftKings, said the site is committed to the same goal and compared using the limit-setting tools to taking Ubers instead of driving on a night when you know you'll be drinking.

Fox added that responsible gambling tools are important to help allow FanDuel to maintain its social license. He said that it's in the interest of the site to make sure its users can be on the site and play for a long time to come.

Make sure it's not a coping mechanism

"If you're taking care of your mental health, you're less likely to have a problem with gambling," Eshleman said.

Rather than turning to the thrill of placing online bets, Eshleman encourages people to find positive ways to cope with stress — listening to music, taking walks, getting more sleep and exercise, and spending more time socializing. Social gambling is safer than hidden, private gambling, she said.

"If you're doing it alone, that's a red flag that it's not an activity that's healthy for you," said Eshleman. "It all ties in to our basic wellness. I think if people focus on wellness, it will prevent a lot of gambling."

"Before anyone even gets an online (gambling) account, they should be required to know the fundamental terms and rules about the way sports betting works," he said. "What's the 'money line' or 'parlay?' How do odds work? What is the maximum I could lose on this bet?"

The other thing to do is to "play with no expectation of a return," he said. "The likelihood is that you will lose. So, if you're

A Closer Look at the Unapproved Peptide Injections Promoted by Influencers and Celebrities

By MATTHEW PERRONE
AP Health Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unapproved peptide drugs have become a trendy new hack among wellness influencers, fitness coaches and celebrities, pitched as a way to build muscle, shed pounds and look younger.

Online stores will offer injectable vials for $300 to $600 each. Longevity and wellness clinics offer in-office evaluations and injections, sometimes with membership fees of thousands of dollars per month.

But many of the products have never been extensively studied in humans, raising concerns that they could cagon-like peptides — are based on a hormone found in the intestines that helps regulate blood sugar.

The Food and Drug Administration has approved both substances as drugs. But there are many more peptides that have never been approved by regulators as safe and effective, though some have shown interesting study results in rodents and other animals.

Why are peptides so popular right now?

Synthesized peptides are not new. Some doctors have prescribed them for decades off-label, or for unapproved uses, in patients with gastric ulcers, nervous system dis-

Experts who have studied the field are particularly concerned that some people are combining multiple peptides.

“These influencers are often advocating taking a stack of peptides each month, so it could be two, three, four different peptides,” said Dr. Eric Topol of Scripps Research Translational Institute. “This is really what I consider dangerous.”

Interest in the trend is being amplified by celebrities.

Joe Rogan has repeatedly talked about using BPC-157 to recover from injuries. Jennifer Aniston has talked about using weekly peptide injections to improve her skin and currently serves as a paid spokesperson for a company selling peptide-enriched supplements.

“If any

celebrity is using a peptide, and they’re saying this is what worked for me, then of course it’s going to be more mainstream and people are going to be looking into it,” said Kay Robins, a clinical nurse and operator of Pure Alchemy Wellness, a clinic outside of San Diego that sells peptide infusions and injections.

Robins says she no longer offers BPC-157 and other peptides that have been targeted by the FDA.

AQMD Approves $782.M to Replace Polluting School Buses

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The South Coast Air Quality Management District Governing Board has approved $78.2 million that will be distributed to school districts in four Southern California counties to replace 286 high-polluting school buses with zero-emission models, the agency announced Thursday.

The funds will pay for 124 zero-emission buses for Los Angeles County districts, along with 50 buses in Orange County, 60 in Riverside County and 52 in San Bernardino County.

A total of 35 school districts in the four counties will benefit from the funds. In Riverside County, the Moreno Valley Unified School District will receive the most new buses, with 24. Jurupa Unified will receive 17. Other districts receiving new buses will be Banning Unified, Menifee Union, Murrieta Valley Unified and Nuvview Union.

“The new buses are expected to reduce harmful emissions by about 46.3 tons of smog-forming nitrogen oxides and 3.5 tons of particulate matter each year, significantly improving air quality, particularly for students,” according to an AQMD statement. “More than 87 percent of the new buses will serve overburdened communities, ensuring that cleaner air reaches those who need it most.”

The new buses are expected to begin arriving by the middle of 2026.

AQMD began the bus-replacement program in 2001, awarding a total of nearly $372 million in funds from various sources, replacing more than 1,900 diesel school buses with alternative-fuel or zero-emission models, according to the agency.

Most of the unproven peptides promoted online are technically being sold illegally.

Any substance that is injected to produce a health benefit or prevent a medical condition is classified as a drug, which cannot be sold without FDA approval.

The agency considers many peptides to be biologics, the most complicated and potentially high-risk type of drugs, requiring extra precautions in their manufacture and storage. In recent years, the agency has added more than two dozen peptides to a list of substances that should not be produced by pharmacies due to safety risks.

Some companies market their peptides as dietary supplements, particularly those sold as pills, gummies or powders.

cause allergic reactions, metabolic problems and other dangerous side effects. Here’s a closer look at the science, the hype and the potential risks surrounding the trend.

What are peptides?

Within the human body, peptides are short chains of amino acids that perform essential functions.

Insulin, for example, controls blood sugar levels and helps break down foods into energy. Likewise the popular weight loss drugs, GLP-1s — short for glu-orders and other conditions.

In recent years, peptides have become a focus for wellness gurus and other public figures with large online followings. That’s driven interest in using obscure peptides for unsubstantiated uses like healing injuries, improving complexion and even extending life. Peptides in this group include an alphabet soup of injectable compounds, including BPC-157, thymosin alpha, GHK-Copper and many more. Some are banned by sports regulators as doping substances.

Thanksgiving Salad with Pears, Parmesan and Pomegranate Seeds, Starring Puff Pastry Croutons

By KATIE WORKMAN
Associated Press

If you want a salad that shouts “holiday,” then you have landed in a very good spot.

First of all, anytime you want to make a salad feel very festive and holiday-ish, you can't go wrong with pomegranate seeds. That's just a fact. Bright ruby little arils, kind of glowing and translucent, with their sweet-tart flavor instantly make a salad feel like a holiday salad. You can remove them from a whole pomegranate, or purchase them in little containers, and save yourself the hassle of dismantling a full pomegranate.

Then we get to the pears, which have a lovely holiday vibe. Fruit in salad; it always feels special. And sophisticated.

And cheese! In this salad, we welcome shavings of Parmesan, one of the finest cheeses in the world, with its nutty taste and firm texture.

But finally — what makes this salad so special — is puff pastry croutons. I cannot stand packaged croutons. I feel sad when I see them, like they have downgraded my salad, and I will pick them out as quickly as possible. But I love fresh croutons. And I love puff pastry. And boy, do I love this combo.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY SALAD

Serves: 6

Parmesan Puff Pastry Croutons

- 1 package puff pastry dough, defrosted and chilled
- About 4 tablespoons mayonnaise, or more as needed
- About 3 tablespoons finely grated Parmesan cheese, or more as needed
- Kosher salt to taste
- Vinaigrette
- 1 large shallot, minced
- 2 tablespoons white wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 teaspoons honey
- Kosher or coarse salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

Salad

- 4 cups baby arugula
- 4 cups thinly sliced romaine
- 2 pears, halved, cored, and thinly sliced
- 1/2 cup shaved Parmesan (see Note above)
- 1 cup pomegranate seeds, divided

Directions

Make the Puff Pastry Croutons: Unfold or unroll the puff pastry directly onto a baking sheet lined with parchment paper. Either cut the pastry into squares or diamond shapes, or any other shape you like, or use cookie cutters to cut the pastry into the desired shapes. You can pull up the dough around the shapes, and toss it, and then you will have croutons that are lightly browned on the sides as well as the top, or you can leave the whole sheet of pastry in place, and pop out the croutons once the whole thing has baked. If you have cut the pastry into diamonds, just leave everything in place.

Brush the tops of the pastry shapes with a very light wash of mayonnaise. Lightly sprinkle on some Parmesan, and then some salt.

Bake for 12 to 16 minutes (it depends on size of the pastry shapes, and whether or not you removed the extra pastry from around the cut out shapes.) When the dough is puffed up and a rich golden brown on top, it is done. Place the baking sheet on a wire rack and allow the croutons to cool. If you need to pop the shapes out from the rest of the dough do that once the dough has cooled somewhat.

While the croutons are baking, make the vinaigrette. In a small container, combine the shallots, white wine vinegar, lemon juice, olive oil, honey, and salt and pepper. Shake to blend.

Place the arugula and romaine in a large serving bowl. Add the pears, Parmesan, and half of the pomegranate seeds to the bowl. Pour the dressing on the salad, and toss to combine. Scatter the remaining pomegranate seeds over the top, distribute the puff pastry croutons over the salad, and serve. You may also choose to serve the salads on individual plates, and then top with the remaining pomegranate seeds, and the croutons.

We have an incredible bakery nearby and I can eat a loaf of their sourdough all on its own. I grab a piece, rip it off, and stuff it in my mouth. However, as fresh sourdough is not laced with preservatives, it will start to get a little crusty within a day or two. When that happens, it is toast time. Slice a thick piece, throw it in the toaster, and you will breathe new life into the bread. A light toast will give you some softness, and a longer toast a soft inside with crispy outside. Throw on some yummys and you have a decadent snack.

Ingredients

- Thick slice of bread
- Balsamic glaze
- Olive oil

- Tomato
- Garlic

To Make

Toast the bread until it is a bit crunchy on the outside. Take a clove of garlic and rub it over the toast. Cut the tomato in half and do the same. Drizzle with olive oil and balsamic glaze. Eat!

"NOW YOU SEE ME: NOW YOU DON'T"

By BOB GARVER

It was all the way back in 2013 that audiences were first introduced to the Four Horsemen of Magic – J. Daniel Atlas (Jesse Eisenberg), Merritt McKinney (Woody Harrelson), Jack Wilder (Dave Franco), and Henley Reeves (Isla Fisher). The quartet blurred the line between “magic tricks” and “heists,” in that they would make the money and valuables of rich evildoers disappear and then reappear in the hands of their audiences. The film spawned a 2016 sequel (called “Now You See Me 2,” which raised the question of why they didn’t use the obvious “Now You Don’t” subtitle for that movie) that did so poorly that I didn’t review or even see it. The franchise looked to be dead. But, as we know from the person-sawed-in-half trick, death is much less common in magic than its practitioners would have you believe.

The new film promises a reunion of the Four Horsemen at a show in Brooklyn. They rip off a crooked crypto bro, but something’s off. The members use cheap special effects to “disappear” into the body of an audience member (Dominic Sessa), who does third-rate impressions of them while two friends in the crowd do the trickier stuff.

Once the show is over, we learn that the Horsemen we saw were just holograms. Or at least the movie tells us they were holograms. My guess is that the movie used the real actors for the scenes that weren’t dominated by special effects. That’s a big problem with these movies – they can use shortcuts like editing and off-camera resources to deceive audiences. It robs the scenes of the splendor of stage magic, where the performers can’t rely on the luxury of movie magic.

The show’s three magicians – Bosco (Sessa), June (Ariana Greenblatt), and Charlie (Justice Smith) have never even met the Four Horsemen... until Atlas shows up in their home. He’s mildly impressed by their chutzpah, but tells them that The Eye has a greater purpose for them. Remember The Eye? The magical organization pulling the strings on the heists? The one that turned out to be run by Mark Ruffalo’s Interpol agent in the first movie in a twist that stretched plausibility even for a series this goofy? Then again, the Horsemen themselves have already been impersonated in this movie, maybe someone is impersonating The Eye too.

The rest of the movie is Horsemen both old and new on a globe-trotting adventure to take down dirty diamond dealer Veronica Vanderberg (Rosamund Pike). Based on the film’s advertising, it’s not much of a secret that the other three Horsemen will show up eventually, as well as enemy-turned ally Thaddeus Bradley (Morgan Freeman). They may even pull in another member. I don’t think they need the extra help against Vanderberg. She has an amateurish scheme to out-magic at least seven world-class magicians, one that involves the “leaving them to their slow demise without watching” trope that I can’t believe movies are still doing in 2025. I know I’m not supposed to spoil the endings of these movies, but all the suspenseful aspects of the film are little more than a countdown to her “probably” getting busted.

I think it’s funny how I have so many complaints about “Now You See Me: Now You Don’t” – the predictable story, the lame villain and lamer danger, and the reliance on special effects that any proper magician would surely denounce – and yet I recommend the film. The movie is saved for me based almost entirely on the charm of the cast, who have great banter and chemistry. Which is precisely why it’s a good idea to come out with a new movie now, nearly a decade after the last installment. Did this franchise “need” a third movie? No. But is it ever a bad time to give us a movie with this group of charismatic actors doing amusing magic? Also no.

Grade: B-

“Now You See Me: Now You Don’t” is rated PG-13 for some language, violence, and suggestive references. Its running time is 113 minutes.

'Now You See Me: Now You Don't' Opens with $21.3 Million to Lead Box Office

LOS ANGELES (CNS) – “Now You See Me: Now You Don’t” opened with $21.3 million this weekend to lead all films in North America, pulling off a surprise victory over the big-budget reboot of “The Running Man,” according to industry estimates released Sunday. The third entry in the light-hearted franchise about a group of illusionists comes almost a full decade after 2016’s “Now You See Me 2,” and stars series regulars Jesse Eisenberg, Woody Harrelson, Dave Franco, Isla Fisher, Lizzy Caplan and Morgan Freeman.

“The Running Man” stars Glen Powell in a role played by Arnold Schwarzenegger in 1987’s original. The new sci-fi thriller was directed by Edgar Wright and grossed a disappointing $17 million in its opening weekend, Comscore reported.

“Predator: Badlands” made $13 million Friday through Sunday in its second week in theaters.

The romantic drama “Regretting You” was fourth with $4 million in its fourth week, followed by “Black Phone 2” with $2.65 million in its fifth week.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were “Nuremberg” ($2.6 million), “Keeper” ($2.5 million), “Sarah’s Oil” ($2.34 million), “Bugonia” ($1.6 million) and “Chainsaw Man” ($1.6 million).

This weekend’s overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $75.5 million. The year-to-date total is $7.28 billion -- up 3% from the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

Fruity Organic Holiday Wreaths

Get in touch with the primitive way of enjoying the holidays and watch old traditions come back to life. Dried orange wreaths are the perfect combination of festive and homey — while being beautiful. Put thin orange slices in the oven for a few hours and watch the stained glass-like slices come to life, especially over a window or in front of a mirror.

What You'll Need:

4-5 naval oranges
1 sharp paring knife
2 sheets of parchment paper
2 baking sheets
6 paper towels
An oven
A hot glue gun
4 Glue Sticks
Twine or ribbon

How to Make It:

Step 1: Preheat the oven to 170 degrees.

Step 2: Cut the oranges into thin slivers — each slice should be about 1/16 to 1/8 of an inch. (lemons, blood oranges, grapefruit etc make a colorful variety).

Step 3: Lay out the oranges on the baking sheets (don't be afraid to snuggle them right next to each other).

Step 4: Tear off a strip of 3 paper towels. Lay the paper towels over the oranges on one of the baking sheets.

Step 5: Press the oranges to get excess moisture out.

Step 6: Fold the paper towel strip in half and press on the oranges on the left side.

Step 7: Move the paper towel to the right side and press.

Step 8: Repeat steps 4-7 on the other baking sheet.

Step 9: Put the baking sheets in the oven and set the timer to 6 hours.

Step 10: Flip the orange slices every half hour. If the orange slices aren't dry when the 6 hours are finished add more time in half hour increments. Smaller slices will be done sooner, so watch out!

Step 11: Take the orange slices out of the oven when they aren't wet or squishy to the touch (if they are wet they will mold).

Step 12: After the oranges are finished take 10 of the biggest orange slices and arrange in a circle (this is for layer 1).

Step 13: Hot glue where each of the oranges meet side by side.

Step 14: Lay out 10 more oranges on top, each one covering a hot glue seam.

Step 15: Hot glue over the seam made on the first layer and press an orange onto the glue for 15 seconds (repeat this step for the entire second layer).

Step 16: Place 10 small slices where the oranges for the second layer meet.

Step 17: Look at where the oranges on the third layer touch the second layer. Glue precisely where the oranges touch, especially if the slices are curled.

Step 18: After the glue has dried, flip the wreath over so the back is facing up, hot glue between the oranges

Step 19: Let the glue cool and set.

Step 20: Flip the wreath over and tie a ribbon, or piece of twine, around the top to make it hangable — and it's done!

Tip: Make the ribbon or twine visible by placing a curled orange slice at the top and pulling the ribbon or twine underneath the top orange. To add more greenery to the wreath hot glue fake pine needles between the layers and hot glue a small pinecone on top of the pine needles!

P.S. Put some orange slices to the side for next week!

Experts say more transparency is essential to better understand what resources data centers demand in California.

Liang Min, who manages the Bits and Watts Initiative at Stanford University, says the state should improve its forecasts for energy demand to support clean energy goals. Min, who investigates AI's growing strain on the electric grid, told CalMatters that demand at power centers rises in rapid, unpredictable phases and can shift quickly with each new generation of hardware.

The California Energy Commission, which plans for energy use and the growth in demand, "can play a pivotal role," in understanding and adapting to the demands of AI.

As demand grows, policy responses lag

In Sacramento, efforts to add transparency and guardrails around data centers have struggled this year. California lawmakers shelved most consumer and environmental proposals aimed at data centers, even as they approved a plan to regionalize California's power grid to help meet demand from the sector. They set aside two bills focused on curbing data centers' energy use — one requiring operators to disclose their electricity use and another that offered clean power incentives.

Gov. Gavin Newsom vetoed a separate proposal that would have required data center operators to report their water use, even after the bill was weakened. In the end, Newsom — who has often highlighted California's dominance in the artificial intelligence sector — signed only one measure, allowing regulators to determine whether data centers are driving up costs.

Mark Toney, who leads The Utility Reform Network and supported the transparency measure, has questioned whether data centers justify the costs they're pushing onto ratepayers.

He warned of the centers' "voracious consumption of energy and water, increased carbon emissions, and jacking up ratepayer bills."

Hard facts about data centers are tough to find in California because most rent out power, cooling and floor space to other companies, said Ren, the UC Riverside researcher.

Peptides

requires them to only contain ingredients found on a list of approved substances. Most peptides are not on that list and therefore are ineligible to be sold as supplements.

Experts generally agree that consuming peptides by mouth likely has little or no effect, since they will dissolve in the gut.

Who is making these peptides?

Most of the injectable peptides sold in the U.S. are produced by compounding pharmacies, which custom-mix medications that aren't available from drug manufacturers. Pharmacies are regulated at the state level and are generally not subject to the same scrutiny as companies overseen by FDA.

In recent years, compounding pharmacies have jumped into the market for blockbuster GLP-1 drugs. Under FDA regulations, compounding pharmacies can produce their own versions of a prescription drug when there's a shortage.

Earlier this year the FDA determined that the shortage of GLP-1s had ended, meaning compounders were expected to halt production. But many have continued making custom versions of the drugs — adding extra ingredients like vitamin B, which they say benefits patients.

"There had never been the monetary incentive to push the envelope of what is legally permissible with compounding before," said Nathaniel Lacktman, a lawyer specializing in FDA-related issues. "The dollars weren't there."

Some of the industry's new production capacity has gone into producing unapproved peptides, such as BPC-157.

Tom Steyer, the billionaire climate activist and businessman who unsuccessfully ran for president in 2020, is the latest Democrat to jump into California's crowded gubernatorial field.

His two core promises — which could appear at odds — are to preserve the state's status as a hub for business and innovation while also lowering California's cost of living by making corporations pay "their fair share," he said in a video message.

The nearly two-minute campaign launch film, which intersperses sleek graphics with footage of line cooks, ranchers and manufacturing workers on the job, encapsulates those dueling themes.

"There's a reason everybody comes here to start businesses — because this is the place that invents the future," Steyer says near the start of the video. "I never want to lose that spark."

Steyer made his fortune as the founder of Farallon Capital, a hedge fund headquartered in San Francisco that currently manages about $42 billion in assets.

The trend recently caught the attention of the FDA, which has added more than two dozen peptides to an interim list of substances that should not be compounded due to safety concerns.

What's the connection between peptides and the MAHA movement?

After selling his stake in the company in 2012, Steyer started NextGen America, a liberal nonprofit that supports progressive positions on issues such as climate change, immigration, health care and education. The group also launched a labor-aligned super PAC to fund races nationwide.

His activism through NextGen America has elevated Steyer's profile in recent years from little-known hedge fund manager to global climate activist and Republican antagonist. He has spent millions to Health Secretary Robert F. Kennedy Jr. is among those who have touted the potential benefits of peptides. He has repeatedly vowed to end "FDA's war" on peptides, which have become popular among many followers of his Make America Healthy Again movement.

other Democrats are running to replace him, including former Rep. Katie Porter, former Health and Human Services Secretary Xavier Becerra and former Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa.

While a billionaire former financial executive might be at odds with a party base hungry for a more relatable fighter, he's attempting to appeal to everyday Californians by spotlighting the issue that most people say is their top priority — affordability.

"The Californians who make this state run are being run over by the cost of living,"

Some of Kennedy's friends and associates are also prominent marketers of peptides, including self-described "biohacker" Gary Brecka and functional medicine physician and author Dr. Mark Hyman.

Some in the peptide field expect Kennedy to roll back

Steyer also promises to "launch the largest drive to build homes that you can afford" in state history, rein in monopolistic utilities that have driven up costs and "drop our sky-high energy prices."

Steyer's nearly $13 million advertising blitz in support of Proposition 50, the congressional redistricting plan that voters approved earlier this month via special election, led many California political insiders to speculate that he would launch another bid for governor.

He alluded to his gubernatorial ambitions when he launched a controversial advertisement that, rather than amplify the Yes on Prop. 50 campaign's message of checking the Trump administration's power, touted his own calls to impeach and resist President Donald Trump.

Such colocation facilities don't run their own servers or technology, so they report less information publicly than data centers built by major tech companies in other states.

While estimates vary, California has the third-most data centers in the country, after Texas and Virginia. DataCenterMap, a commercial directory that tracks data centers worldwide, lists 321 sites across the state. More in California are expected in coming years.

The centers operate around the clock and often rely on diesel backup generators to maintain service during power failures — a practice that adds both greenhouse gases and local air pollutants. They also consume energy and water depending on their cooling methods.

Rising data-center demand, and rising questions

F. Noel Perry, the businessman and philanthropist who founded Next 10, said his organization's report shines light on what is fundamentally a black box. "To solve a problem, we have to understand what the problem is," he said.

"We've seen the proliferation of data centers in California, in the U.S. and across the world — and we also are seeing major implications for the environment," Perry told CalMatters. "The real issue has to do with transparency — and the ability of elected officials and regulators to create some rules that will govern reductions in emissions, water consumption."

The report estimated that data centers used 10.8 terawatt-hours of electricity in 2023, up from 5.5 terawatt-hours in 2019, accounting for 6% of the nation's total data center energy use. Unless growth is curbed or better managed, the report's authors project demand could rise to as high as 25 terawatt-hours by 2028, equal to the power use of roughly 2.4 million U.S. homes.

Carbon emissions from the sector nearly doubled during the same period, climbing from 1.2 million to 2.4 million tons, researchers estimated, while on site water use grew from 1,078 acre feet in 2019 to 2,302 acre feet in 2023. That's enough to meet the annual water needs of almost seven thousand California households.

The report's authors also estimated the public health costs from air pollution associated with data centers have potentially risen, from $45 million in 2019 to more than $155 million in 2023, with the burden expected to reach as high as $266 million by 2028.

Most of those costs stem from indirect pollution produced by fossil-fueled power plants that supply the grid. But authors pointed out that regions dense with data centers — particularly Santa Clara County, home to Silicon Valley — could face higher localized risks from diesel backup generators.

Dan Diorio, vice president of state policy for the Data Center Coalition, said the report exaggerates the impact of backup diesel generators, which are tightly regulated and rarely used in California, minimizing their contributions to air pollution. Data centers don't control the water used in electricity generation, said Diorio. Since those water impacts don't happen on site, it's not fair to blame that on the centers themselves.

"It paints a skewed picture of this critical 21st-century industry," Diorio said in a statement.

Diorio said the report also overlooks how cooling technology varies by region and has become more efficient in recent years.

But the authors say their findings underscore the need for uniform reporting standards for data centers' energy and water use. The report said California should establish ongoing local monitoring and review of data centers — and make the findings public.

Ren, the UC Riverside researcher, said that California's cleaner grid and stricter pollution rules are helping blunt some environmental impacts of data centers already.

"California — versus the national average — is doing a better job due to the cleaner grid," he said.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE Trustee Sale No.: 00000010064376 Title Order No.: 240102347 FHA/VA/PMI No.: YOU ARE IN DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST, DATED 02/21/2007. UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER. BARRETT DAFFIN FRAPPIER TREDER & WEISS, LLP, as duly appointed Trustee under and pursuant to Deed of Trust Recorded on 03/02/2007 as Instrument No. 2007-0148624 of official records in the office of the County Recorder of RIVERSIDE County, State of CALIFORNIA. EXECUTED BY: RICHARD H. LINDSAY AND LAURA L. LINDSAY, HUSBAND AND WIFE AS JOINT TENANTS, WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION TO HIGHEST BIDDER FOR CASH, CASHIER'S CHECK/CASH EQUIVALENT or other form of payment authorized by California Civil Code 2924h(b), (payable at time of sale in lawful money of the United States). DATE OF SALE: 12/09/2025 TIME OF SALE: 9:00 AM PLACE OF SALE: AT THE BOTTOM OF THE STAIRWAY TO THE BUILDING LOCATED AT 849 W. SIXTH STREET, CORONA, CA 92882. STREET ADDRESS and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 13444 RUNNING DEER CIR, CORONA, CALIFORNIA 92880 APN#: 152-581-011 The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. Said sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest thereon, as provided in said note(s), advances, under the terms of said Deed of Trust, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust. The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation secured by the property to be sold and reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale is $648,823.65. The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. The undersigned caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 833-561-0243 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site WWW.SALES.BD-FGROUP.COM for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case 00000010064376. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 833-561-0243, or visit this internet website WWW.SALES.BDFGROUP.COM using the file number assigned to this case 00000010064376 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF

DALE ROGER CLIFTON
CASE NO. PRR12502656
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: DALE ROGER CLIFTON
A Petition for Probate has been filed by MONIKA LINGLE in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.
The Petition for Probate requests that MONIKA LINGLE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
The Petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A hearing on the petition will be held in this court on December 8, 2025 at 8:30 am in Dept. 11 located at 4050 Main Street, Riverside, CA 92501, Riverside Branch Probate. Appearing remotely at hearings is an efficient alternative creating time saving efficiencies for litigants and attorneys. It also enhances public access to court proceedings through technology to the courts. The Riverside Superior Court currently uses Zoom as its remote appearance platform. Zoom can be utilized through a computer, tablet, telephone, cellphone, or other electronic or communications device. Unless a local rule is adopted, CCP 367 .75 and California Rules of Court, rule 3 .672 govern the procedures in remote proceedings. In the panels below, you can find information for each case type and instructions when attending remotely at hearings. At least 20 minutes prior to your hearing start time, dial 1(833)568-8864 (toll free phone) OR 1(669) 254-5252 (phone). Enter the appropriate Zoom Meeting Number, when prompted (including "#"). Enter "#" as your Participant ID, when prompted. Once connected, mute your device upon entry to the hearing. Zoom link is https://riversidecourtsccagov.zoomgov.com/j/1614432070
If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Estimated amount of unpaid balance, reasonably estimated costs and other charges: $ 250,073.67

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

THE TRUSTEE WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION TO HIGHEST BIDDER FOR CASH, CASHIER'S CHECK DRAWN ON A STATE OR NATIONAL BANK, A CHECK DRAWN BY A STATE OR FEDERAL CREDIT UNION, OR A CHECK DRAWN BY A STATE OR FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION, A SAVINGS ASSOCIATION OR SAVINGS BANK SPECIFIED IN SECTION 5102 OF THE FINANCIAL CODE AND AUTHORIZED TO DO BUSINESS IN THIS STATE:

All right, title, and interest conveyed to and now held by the trustee in the hereinafter described property under and pursuant to a Deed of Trust described as:

More fully described in said Deed of Trust.

Street Address or other common designation of real property: 3100 ALTURA COURT # A204, CORONA, CA 92882
A.P.N.: 102361050

The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address or other common designation, if any, shown above.

The sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by the Deed of Trust with interest thereon, as provided in said note(s), advances, under the terms of said Deed of Trust, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust. The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation secured by the property to be sold and reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale is: $ 250,073.67.

Note: Because the Beneficiary reserves the right to bid less than the total debt owed, it is possible that at the time of the sale the opening bid may be less than the total debt.

If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse.

The beneficiary of the Deed of Trust has executed and delivered to the undersigned a written request to commence foreclosure, and the undersigned caused a Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site https://www.altisource.com/loginpage.aspx using the file number assigned to this case 2025-01091-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction, if conducted after January 1, 2021, pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855)-976-3916, or visit this internet website https://tracker.auction.com/sb1079, using the file number assigned to this case 2025-01091-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid, by remitting the funds and affidavit described in Section 2924m(c) of the Civil Code, so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER

ESTATE OF John William Lewandowski, Jr. Case No. PRR12502913
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of John William Lewandowski, Jr.,
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by John William Lewandowski in the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that John William Lewandowski be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 12/19/2025 at 8:30am in Department 8 located at 4050 Main St, Riverside, CA 92501.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

In the event that the deed of trust described in this Notice of Trustee's Sale is secured by real property containing from one to four singlefamily residences, the following notices are provided pursuant to the provisions of Civil Code section 2924f: NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee's sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 916-939-0772 or visit this internet website www.nationwide-posting.com, using the file number assigned to this case 2025-11550. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not be immediately reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 916-939-0772, or visit this internet website www.nationwideposting.com, using the file number assigned to this case 2025-11550 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid, by remitting the funds and affidavit or declaration described in Section 2924m(c) of the Civil Code, so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF William Edward Lindahl
Case No. PRRI2503303

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of William Edward Lindahl.
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Sheryl Lindahl in the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Sheryl Lindahl be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 12/15/2025 at 8:30am in Department 12 located at 4050 Main St, Riverside, CA 92501.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
