By MIA ROTELL

Small cities, towns, and rural communities nationwide have formed a powerful opposition bloc fighting the prospect of data centers being located in their communities. Data Center Watch, which assesses the depth of local pushback, reports that last year alone, 156 billion dollars' worth of data centers were either blocked or delayed across the country, according to the Associated Press.

Riverside County locales are in the fight, and the City of Perris prepares to take its own key vote next week.

At Perris' City Council meeting June 9, Perris Principal Planner Rafael Garcia presented the council the possible impacts of implementing a large-scale AI data center in Perris, both pro and con.

Garcia said building an AI data center would bring more high-paying jobs to the area and increase property tax revenue.

In the well-attended council meeting, the Inland Valley Alliance (IVA), Mead Valley Cleaner Coalition (MVCC), Perris Neighbors in Action (PNA) and Democratic Socialists of America (DSA) rallied together and encouraged dozens of residents to attend the meeting and express their disapproval of Perris hosting an AI data center.

OB-GYN Group Makes Vaccine Recommendations for THE FIRST TIME

By LAURA UNGAR AP Medical Writer

A prominent OB-GYN group announced vaccine recommendations on Wednesday that differ from what the U.S. government advises.

The immunization schedule is specifically for pregnant, postpartum and breastfeeding women. It aligns with prior recommendations from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, before changes were made under the Trump administration and Health Secretary Robert F. Kennedy Jr.

Earlier this year, the American College of Obstetricians & Gynecologists withdrew from a CDC advisory committee on vaccines because of those changes, which have spawned legal challenges.

"So now for the first time, ACOG has made the decision to formally release its own immunization schedule to provide and communicate clear evidence-based guidance and to address the growing vaccine misinformation that is circulating," said Dr. Christopher Zahn, the OB-GYN group's chief of clinical practice.

The new schedule has been endorsed by 13 other professional and medical societies. Some other groups, such as the American Academy of Pediatrics, have also put out vaccine schedules this year that differ from the CDC's.

MILVET VOLUNTEERS HELP HUNDREDS at Military Packing Event at Lake Elsinore Storm Stadium

By MIA ROTELL

Rows of foldable tables were lined up outside Storm Stadium's Taproom. The tables were piled high with dozens of boxes of cookies, mounds of candy, and nuts. The hygiene and nonfood table even featured playing cards, toothbrushes, and notebooks.

Dozens of volunteers gathered to listen to live music and pack boxes full of snacks and toiletries for deployed service members. Some volunteers also wrote letters to include in the care packages.

Last Saturday, Lake Elsinore's Storm Stadium hosted one of MilVet's biggest events of the year: its military care package packing event.

"MilVet sends more than 200 boxes to our deployed service members," said Raven Hilden, founder of MilVet, about the organization's largest military packing event of the year. "Some boxes are shared by an entire unit."

Hilden said some boxes are sent both to individual service members, and military units where multiple men and women share the contents.

The event included sandwiches and pizza for all volunteers. A raffle also gave attendees the chance to win game tickets and various gift baskets filled with dog toys, summer water toys and other prizes.

"I was in the Marine Corps for 30 years," Felix Mala said. It was the first time he and his wife, Michelle Mala, had helped set up the MilVet event.

Felix said he and his wife have volunteered with MilVet for the past two years, but this was their first time participating in the Storm Stadium event.

Riverside Firefighters to Host Hands-On Training Camp for Kids

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Riverside youths with an interest in pursuing public safety careers will gather next week for a Junior Firefighter Camp hosted by the Riverside Fire Department, whose personnel will provide hands-on learning opportunities that include instruction on first aid and how to utilize fire suppression devices.

"The Junior Firefighter Camp gives young people a unique opportunity to learn about the fire service while building practical skills that can help them respond confidently in emergency situations," RFD Chief Steve McKinster said. "We appreciate our ongoing partnership with the Riverside City Firefighters Association Local 1067 and the Riverside City Firefighters Foundation, whose support helps make this valuable program available to Riverside families."

The camp is slated for June 22-26 at various locations in the city. Dozens of youths ages 10-13 are slated to participate, according to camp coordinator fire Capt. Joshua Fudge. He said the first camp was held last week, and the one on tap for next week will be the last for 2026.

All costs for participants are waived, thanks to grants by the firefighters' union and the foundation, officials said.

Some of the activities planned daily include "stop-the-bleed" training, proper use of extinguishers, how to handle a live fire hose, demonstrations on deployment of the "jaws of life," search-and-rescue missions and team coordination during emergencies.

There will be fire engines and trucks on display, talks by veteran firefighters and station tours.

The two camps combined are set to serve about 100 youths, Fudge said.

"Now in its third year, the Junior Firefighter Camp continues to grow in popularity, introducing Riverside youth to fire service careers, emergency preparedness and the importance of community service," he said.

Details on future camps can be obtained by contacting the captain directly at jfudge@riversideca.gov.

YOUNG AND UNEMPLOYED? Remote Work, Not AI, May Be the Problem, Study Finds

By CHRISTOPHER RUGABER AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise of remote work since the pandemic has made businesses more reluctant to hire young, inexperienced workers and is the key driver of higher unemployment rates for recent college graduates, a study released Monday has found.

The study, by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, compared occupations that can be done remotely — such as software development — with those that are done in person, such as nursing. The study finds that the unemployment rate among young college grad-finds. A similar pattern exists for those without college degrees, the New York Fed said.

The study, led by New York Fed research economist Natalia Emanuel, concludes that businesses are reluctant to hire new college grads into remote work because it is harder to train and mentor them if they work outside of the office. The authors of the study calculate that remote work is responsible for nearly two-thirds of the rise in the unemployment rate for young college graduates since the pandemic.

“Remote work has weakened incentives to hire young workers by impeding on-the-job training,” the study said.

uates in “remotable” jobs rose by about 1 percentage point from 2017-2019 to 2022-2024.

Yet for older workers in those fields — those aged 29 and over — the jobless rate declined slightly, leading to a notably higher unemployment rate for younger college graduates in remotable occupations compared with older workers.

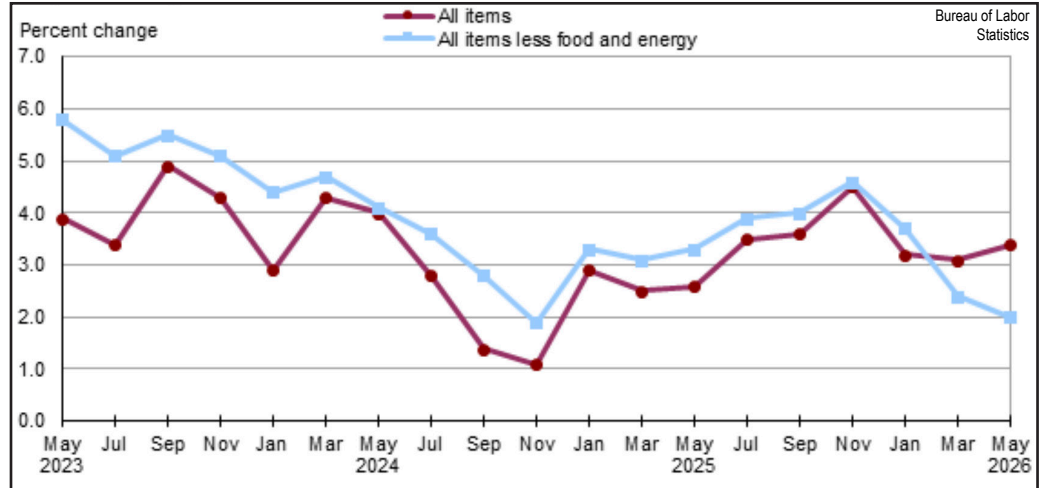

Yet in non-remotable jobs, there has been little gap in the unemployment rates between older and younger college grads, the study is more difficult to teach them the requisite skills from afar.”

The study lands amid widespread concern over the employment prospects of college graduates as artificial intelligence makes inroads into a variety of white-collar jobs, including finance, law, entertainment, and media. This spring, college graduates have been booing references to AI during commencement speeches.

But the study notes that the worsening employ-

REPORT: Inflation Rises 1 Percent Across Inland Region

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Spurred largely by energy price spikes, inflation throughout the Riverside metropolitan area jumped a full percentage point over the previous two months, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The agency’s bimonthly report, based on metrics for western Riverside County and the cities of Ontario and San Bernardino, indicated that the Inland Empire’s Consumer Price Index was up exactly 1%.

BLS officials said Wednesday the principal driver behind the increase was retail gasoline prices, which jumped 11.6% between the beginning of April and the end of May. That in turn pushed the energy component of the CPI up 8.6% for the entire two-month period.

Prices went stratospheric as a result of the Mideast war.

Other contributors to the index’s upward trajectory were food prices and apparel costs, which advanced 1.5% and 3.3%, respectively.

Conversely, shelter costs -- or property rents -- trended marginally downward throughout the region in April and May, slipping 0.1%, and costs in the household furnishings category fell by 2.3%, according to the BLS.

Nationwide, the overall CPI registered a .5% increase for the month of May. The impetus, again, was energy costs. For the one-year period ending May 31, the national CPI was 4.2%.

In the Inland Empire, the year-over-year CPI was 3.4%, measuring a host of economic inputs from May 2025 to May 2026, data showed.

The most notable upward pressures in the annualized CPI were reflected in the energy and healthcare components of the regional index, moving up 20.9% and 5%, respectively.

The current rate of inflation reflects the price trajectory impacting most sectors of the economy.

Energy price shocks that began at the end of February are directly connected to commodities markets and oil trading, which turned bullish immediately after the joint Israel-U.S. military operations against Iran, beginning with a missile had little impact on youth unemployment.

The unemployment rate for college grads under 29 rose 20% from before the pandemic to 3.7%, on average, in 2022-2025, the New York attack on a girls’ school, where almost 200 Iranians were killed. The nation’s supreme leader and multiple members of his family were also assassinated. Hostilities abated amid peace overtures in April and May but have recently resumed with intensity.

Iran declared a quasi closure of the Strait of Hormuz, where tankers carrying nearly one-fifth of the world’s energy supplies must pass. The U.S. Energy Information Administration has characterized the narrow Persian Gulf sea lane as a “chokepoint.”

Accelerating consumer price hikes have also been blamed on loose monetary policy and excessive federal spending, decaying the dollar’s purchasing power.

The national debt is now $39.2 trillion, according to the congressional Joint Economic Committee’s “Debt Dashboard.” Some projections indicate the debt load will almost double in 10 years or less.

Fortune magazine reported in April that federal payments just to cover interest on the debt total $88 billion a month.

Fed said. For college grads aged 22 through 27, unemployment reached 5.8% last year, the highest outside the pandemic since 2012.

The study’s findings are

The US Infant Mortality Rate Fell to an All-Time Low, Though It Still Trails Other Similar Nations

By MIKE STOBBE AP Medical Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Infant mortality in the U.S. dropped to a new all-time low in 2025, according to preliminary government data.

There were slightly fewer than 5.4 infant deaths per 1,000 live births in 2025, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

While that appears to be a small decline from about 5.5 in 2024 and 5.6 in the two years preceding, researchers say it is statistically meaningful and translates to hundreds of fewer infant deaths per year.

It's difficult to pinpoint what's driving the recent developments, but "this is an encouraging data point, and we hope that this trend will continue," said Dr. Michael Warren, chief medical and health officer for the March of Dimes.

Infant mortality is the measure of how many babies die before reaching their first birthday. Because the number of babies born in the U.S. varies year to year, researchers calculate rates to compare infant mortality over time.

The overall numbers, too, have been going down. U.S. infant deaths fell to about 19,350 last year, according to provisional CDC data that may rise a little as additional analysis is completed. The final tally is still expected to be down from about 20,050 in 2024 and about 20,160 in 2023, according to the agency.

The U.S. rate has inched down over the decades — it was at 7.5 per 1,000 three decades ago — thanks to medical advances and public health efforts.

But it has remained worse than other high-income countries, which experts have attributed to poverty, inadequate prenatal care and other problems. A study published last year found the U.S. infant mortality rate in 2022 — when the rate rose — was nearly twice as high as what was seen in several other high-income democratic nations, including Italy, Japan, Spain and Sweden.

That was the year of the first statistically significant jump in the U.S. rate in about two decades. Experts attributed that rise to a rebound in RSV and flu infections.

In 2023, U.S. health officials began recommending two new measures to prevent the toll on infants: one was a lab-made antibody shot for infants that helps the immune system fight off the virus, and the other was giving an RSV vaccine to women between 32 weeks and 36 weeks of pregnancy. A March of Dimes expert last year said the effort likely contributed to the improvement in 2024.

Meanwhile, a decline in sudden infant death syndrome could be connected to an increase in education around safe sleeping for infants, Warren said in a statement.

The CDC posted the 2025 provisional data in late May. On Tuesday, the agency released a more in-depth analysis of 2024 infant mortality data, offering details not yet available for 2025. Among that report's highlights:

— Death rates declined both for the youngest infants, less than 28 days old, and for older infants. Those declines continued last year, the 2025 provisional data indicate.

— In 2024, infant mortality continued to differ by race, sometimes dramatically. Death rates for infants born to Black women were more than twice as high as those for the infants of Hispanic,

Vaccines

Here's what you need to know about the OB-GYN group's advice.

What does the OB-GYN group advise?

Four immunizations are routinely recommended during pregnancy:

— The flu vaccine, which can be taken any trimester, at any time of year, although it's best to get it in early fall.

— The COVID-19 shot, which can be taken during any trimester at any time of year, although it's best to receive it as soon as possible during pregnancy.

— A tetanus, diphtheria, and pertussis (Tdap) shot, preferably as early as possible between 27 and 36 weeks.

— A respiratory syncytial virus (RSV) vaccine, between 32 and 36 weeks of pregnancy in your first pregnancy, during September through January in most parts of the U.S. If you had the RSV vaccine during a previous pregnancy, you do not need to get it again, the group says, but your baby should get an antibody shot after birth. Your baby can also get that shot instead of you receiving the maternal vaccine.

Other vaccines

-- pneumococcal, meningococcal, hepatitis A and hepatitis B -- may be needed for women with certain risk factors. The group recommends talking with your doctor about them.

Three others are recommended before pregnancy or after birth, protecting against human papillomavirus; measles, mumps and rubella; and chickenpox.

How do these recommendations differ from CDC advice?

The biggest difference involves the COVID-19 vaccine.

Last May, Kennedy

announced that COVID-19 vaccines are no longer recommended for healthy pregnant women and children — a move immediately questioned by several public health experts.

Spokespeople from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

Are health care providers seeing pushback on vaccines?

Yes. Several spoke at an event announcing the new guidelines.

"Vaccine hesitancy is huge in this country right now," said Carol Hayes of the American College of Nurse Midwives. "Patients come in all the time saying I've done my own research, and sadly, they're doing research and they're getting information that is not scientifically based."

Sarah Vaillancourt of the National Association of Nurse Practitioners in Women's Health said her organization's members are seeing much the same. Some of the confusion is being fueled by social media, she said.

In such a landscape, she said, it's "really useful" for the OB-GYN group to provide accurate information for patients.

consistent with the low-hire, low-fire state of the job market, where layoffs are low and the unemployment rate is mostly stable, but those out of work are struggling to find new jobs. The New York Fed study also looked at detailed data from an unnamed Fortune 500 tech company and found that its hiring patterns mirrored what they had seen in the broader data.

When the company's offices were closed and staff worked remotely, "the firm hired fewer inexperienced workers and more experienced workers, who might need less mentorship to do their jobs well," the study said.

"Once its offices reopened, the company shifted back to hiring younger workers," the study said. But even after the reopening, the company favored more experienced workers for teams that included remote work.

Perris Principal Planner Garcia pointed out that data centers support cloud services, such as the extra storage many people purchase on their iPhones and other electronic devices. He said they also support high-speed internet and communications networks, allowing calls and texts to move quickly while helping streaming services and other high-traffic websites operate smoothly.

But, due to the heavy use of water and power, homes near newly built data centers can face higher utility bills. Garcia cited Virginia as an example, noting that the state has more than 600 data centers.

According to the Environmental and Energy Study Institute (EESI), a private non-profit formed by a bipartisan congressional panel in the 1980s, Virginia residents' utility bills have increased 267% over the past five years.

Before opening the floor for public comment, Councilwoman Marisela Nava voiced her support for a ban.

"I'm reading the room, I am ready to jump in and make a motion," Nava said, "... to direct staff to move forward with the ban of data centers citywide and then schedule the item before the planning commission."

The council will take up the matter again at its next meeting at City Hall on Tuesday, June 23, at 6:30 p.m.

How Parents Can Talk to Their Kids About Vaping as FDA Authorizes Some Flavored E-Cigarettes

By LAURA UNGAR AP Medical Writer

Ricky Resendez first tried e-cigarettes in eighth grade. By the time he got to high school, he was vaping daily. “It was just kind of normal,” said Ricky, a 17-year-old recent graduate in Superior, Wisconsin. “Kids were vaping in class, in the bathrooms, wherever.”

Nationally, nearly 6% of middle and high school students — amounting to 1.63 million kids — reported using electronic cigarettes in 2024, federal figures show. Although that is down from previous years, e-cigarettes remain the most commonly used tobacco products among teens, and nearly 9 out of 10 of kids choose flavored products.

Some doctors are concerned that youth vaping rates may rise again. The Food and Drug Administration recently announced its first authorization of fruit-flavored vapes intended for adults interested in quitting or cutting back on more harmful traditional cigarettes. The policy shift came after months of appeals to President Donald Trump from the vaping industry. An FDA memo released this week said these fruit-flavored e-cigarettes are not significantly better at helping smokers quit than tobacco-flavored e-cigarettes.

“I understand the goal of giving adult smokers a less harmful off-ramp, but fruit and sweet flavors are precisely what draw young people in,” said Dr. Scott Hadland at Mass General Brigham for Children and Harvard Medical School. “I worry this could erode the hard-won progress that brought teen vaping to its lowest level in roughly a decade.”

Experts say there are ways parents can counteract the allure of e-cigarettes, teach kids about the dangers of vaping and help them quit.

Vaping poses many dangers to kids

Dr. Devika Rao sees lots of kids with respiratory problems caused by vaping, including coughing, worsening asthma, bronchitis and more severe types of lung disease.

Studies show teens who vape report higher rates of wheezing, shortness of breath and a reduced ability to tolerate exercise. Gaby Cuadra of Miami, who vaped for nine years starting at age 15, remembers how it hurt her high school track and field performance.

“As the years kept going on and I would keep vaping, the distances that I used to be able to run, I, like, couldn’t do them anymore,” said Cuadra, 25. “I would run out of breath.”

While an e-cigarette’s aerosol doesn’t contain most of the 7,000 chemicals in tobacco smoke, most vapes “emit numerous potentially toxic substances,” according to a comprehensive 2018 consensus report from the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering and Medicine. Researchers said the long-term health effects of e-cigarettes are not yet clear.

One of the biggest dangers of vaping is nicotine addiction, which can disrupt the developing brain and affect attention, learning and mood.

“The addiction factor cannot be overstated enough,” said Rao at Children’s Health in Dallas. “Adolescent brains are primed for addiction.”

How to talk to your child about vaping

Start by asking questions, experts advise. You can raise the issue by, for example, pointing out a new vape shop.

“Start open-ended conversations,” Rao said.

Ask what your child knows about vaping and its harms, whether they’ve seen e-cigarettes and if their friends are using them.

Even if your kid is already vaping, Rao said, take a deep breath and don’t yell. Be nonjudgmental.

Consider what your child may see on social media, where some influencers call nicotine a “hack” for stress relief. Some studies show that many people misinterpret the curbing of nicotine withdrawal symptoms as stress or anxiety relief and that quitting reduces stress. A 2025 study in the journal Tobacco Control said vaping may be linked to adverse mental health outcomes and that those who quit “experience fewer urges to vape, reduced anxiety, and stabilized mood.”

Teens’ decisions are often based on their peers and what’s cool, said Anthony Alberg of the University of South Carolina, a member of the expert committee that produced the National Academies vaping report. Tell your teen they don’t have to succumb to peer pressure and that their friends should want to be friends whether they vape or not.

Younger children, Alberg said, may be more likely to listen to arguments about health effects, such as comparing vaping to “putting poison in your system.”

Arming kids with information is better than simply trying to limit access to vapes, experts said, since age restrictions often don’t keep them out of kids’ hands.

“Most teens get e-cigarettes from friends, older peers or online sellers rather than buying them in a store,” Hadland said.

A teen’s journey through vaping and quitting

When Ricky first tried e-cigarettes, he used an older cousin’s vape. Later, an older friend bought e-cigarettes for him and his friends. He particularly liked the flavors blue raspberry, strawberry, watermelon and kiwi.

In the early days, he thought vaping helped him with his ADHD.

“What I didn’t realize is that because I was addicted to nicotine, when I didn’t have it, I’d be anxious and really couldn’t focus,” he said. “Instead of being something that helped me, it just made things worse.”

Vaping also sapped his stamina, made it harder to sleep, worsened his asthma and compromised his performance as a football player and wrestler.

Eventually, he got into trouble with his school and parents for vaping and selling vapes to others. He began meeting with a school social worker and joined the American Lung Association’s Not On Tobacco program, which helps teens to quit.

The first couple of weeks were extremely difficult. But eventually, he stopped thinking about vaping as much. He quit for good in 2022.

Like Ricky, most middle and high school students who vape want to quit, researchers have found.

Parents can help them by first seeing their doctor, who can connect them with counseling or free text-message quit programs for young people.

For kids who vape heavily, Hadland said doctors may consider medications like Chantix or nicotine replacement therapy as part of a supervised quitting plan.

Cuadra quit after giving up e-cigarettes for Lent, assisted by a free program developed by Truth Initiative and Mayo Clinic called EX, which provides text message support, advice and encouragement.

“The best thing I ever did for myself was quit vaping,” said Cuadra, who has shared her story on social media.

Since Ricky gave up vaping, he’s also shared what he learned. Usually, he asks his peers what triggers their vaping and how they can avoid those situations, as he did.

“I tell them, like, ‘I’m not here to judge you,’” he said. “‘I’m here to help you.’”

GUACAMOLE

By CONNOR FORBES

I never need an excuse to make guacamole. Or eat chips and salsa. These are my desert island foods. As in, if I could only choose one thing to eat on a desert island, this is what it would be.

Thinking about that scenario too closely makes no sense though, so I wouldn't. Like would all the ingredients be growing on the island? Would a plane drop of your favorite food? But then why wouldn't they just save you? Shoot, I started thinking too closely about it. And I advised against it to start with. Ding Dang. Anyways, Guacamole!

Serves very few. Always make more than you think you will need especially if you are having guests.

Ingredients

- 3 avocados
- 1 serrano pepper

chopped

- 1 small Roma tomato diced
- ¼ small red onion diced
- 2 tbsp chopped cilantro
- 1 tsp salt

To Make

In a medium sized bowl add avocado and mush with a fork. Add in the rest of the ingredients and mix. Serve with chips, tacos, etc and EAT!

ONCE THE PRESERVE OF ELITE CHEFS, SUSHI-MAKING CAN BE FUN

By YURI KAGEYAMA
Associated Press

TOKYO (AP) — No food says Japan more than sushi. But few people make it themselves, even Japanese.

The art of making sushi traditionally meant decades-long training to become a master. But times are changing. Now, just about anyone can enjoy it.

"There is no sushi that tastes better than the ones you make yourself," said Tsuneo Suzuki, a chef and 45-year veteran.

He gives sushi-making demonstrations and courses at special events, and teaches at the Tokyo Sushi School in the city's downtown. The school's classes attract people from around the world, some of whom go on to open their own sushi restaurants.

Tuna sushi's got depth

Making sushi is not easy, but surprisingly not as hopeless as it might seem for students who followed Suzuki's step-by-step instructions in one recent class in Tokyo. Their resulting seafood sushi did not crumble to the touch. It looked quite professional, really, and tasted great.

One eager learner was Daniel Nevins, a heavy equipment mechanic from Erlanger, Kentucky, who was turning out pretty perfect sushi, although he had never done it before.

"Very informative," he said, with a plate of several sushi he had just made. "It went very well."

His wife, Brittany, a cook, had dreamed of visiting Japan since she was 13. "Learning a different culture's food is really exciting," she said.

Asked what kind of sushi is most challenging to make, Suzuki answered thoughtfully, "Tuna. Tuna is deep."

Here are some general instructions for making seafood sushi yourself:

Ingredients

Cooked white rice, flavored with a bit of vinegar to give it a slight tang

A dash of sugar and salt

Sliced raw seafood, like tuna, squid, salmon, mackerel, yellowtail

Wasabi mustard

Soy sauce for dipping

Note: Although strictly speaking there is a special way to slice fish for sushi, it's OK to use the pieces cut for sashimi, available in some Japanese-style grocery. Or if you are brave, cut the fish into thumb-size, sushi-like slices yourself.

— Keeping the rice cuddled gently in your right hand, put a bit of seafood — a piece of shrimp or raw tuna or salmon — flat vertically on your left palm.

— With a finger, put a dab of wasabi mustard at the center of the seafood slice while still keeping the rice in your palm. Place the ball of rice on the seafood slice, and squish the rice slightly, but not too hard, using your fingers to keep the rice in shape so it sits nicely on the seafood.

— Then, turn the sushi gently so the seafood is on top and the rice on the bottom. You're allowed to use your fingers, cupping the concoction in your palm. Then, take your forefinger and softly tap the sushi a couple of times on top. That helps shape it.

Directions

— Take a bit of the cooked rice, flavored with a bit of vinegar, sugar and salt, in your hand, being careful to keep the rice fluffy. Shape it gently into a piece about the — Turn the sushi clockwise on your palm. Place it on a plate, leaving room to line up more sushi pieces.

— Serve with a separate small plate of soy sauce for dipping.

"DISCLOSURE DAY"

By BOB GARVER

All-time-great director Steven Spielberg is back with a film built around one of his most popular subjects: aliens. From the man that brought us "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and "E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial" comes "Disclosure Day," a film about a small group of people deciding that it is time to let the rest of humanity know that they are not alone in the universe. After deeply personal project "The Fabelmans," this is Spielberg's return to blockbuster filmmaking. And I do see this movie as a blockbuster, just not much of one.

The film essentially follows six characters: hacker Daniel Kellner (Josh O'Connor) and his girlfriend Jane (Eve Hewson), TV newswoman Margaret Fairchild (Emily Blunt) and her boyfriend Jackson (Wyatt Russell), organizer of key players Hugo (Colman Domingo), and shady coverup leader Scanlon (Colin Firth). Kellner has flash drives with evidence of alien activity on Earth dating back decades. Margaret suddenly has powers that are not of this world. Hugo has a full-sized replica of Margaret's childhood home for some reason. Scanlon has alien tech that he's ironically using against the aliens and their allies. Let the race to expose or bury the truth begin.

Following a botched drop to get back a kidnapped Jane from Scanlon, Kellner goes on the run with sketchy help from Hugo in a storyline reminiscent of recent Oscar winner "One Battle After Another." Jane is shocked to learn that her boyfriend knows the truth about aliens, and he's shocked to learn that she once aspired to be a nun. At first, she's a liability to Kellner because she's blissfully ignorant, then she's a liability because she doesn't agree with his cause, then she's a liability because Scanlon gets to her.

Kellner knows the score with the aliens, but Margaret doesn't. She doesn't know why she suddenly speaks every language or knows the personal life of everyone she sees or can't help but speak an alien tongue on air. All she knows is that some bad people are after her because of it, and the skeptical Jackson is reluctantly along for the ride. Could it have something to do with repressed childhood memories about unconvincing CGI forest animals? Kellner and Margaret meet up to have an action scene with a speeding train. We know from "The Fabelmans" that Spielberg loves speeding trains almost as much as he loves crashing them.

For a movie called "Disclosure Day," there's a lot of suspense around whether or not the truth will be disclosed. Spoiler Alert: it will be, so don't worry about it. If you want to worry about something, worry about the individual characters making it to the end alive, which isn't a lock. Though these characters are so dull that I couldn't get too invested in their survival.

Spielberg usually makes good decisions about the way this film looks and sounds (Yes, frequent collaborator John Williams is doing the score), but I don't agree with how he has the story unfold. Instead of exploring the rich potential for how humanity will respond to this mindblowing news about aliens, he focuses on the buildup to the news, which isn't that interesting. There's a brief mention of how people will react if their deeply-held religious beliefs are shaken, but it's brushed aside in favor of chase antics. I would have put the disclosure at the beginning of this film and given the bulk of the runtime to the fallout.

Grade: C

"Disclosure Day" is rated PG-13 for action/violence, some bloody images and strong language. Its running time is 145 minutes.

'Disclosure Day' Opens with $44 Million to Lead Box Office

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - "Disclosure Day," director Steven Spielberg's return to the subject of extraterrestrial life, opened with $44 million this weekend to lead all films in North America, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

It was a good but not spectacular opening for the big-budget film, which stars Emily Blunt and Josh O'Connor as a TV weather reporter and a cybersecurity expert who investigate the government's cover-up of alien life.

Spielberg scored two of his biggest critical and commercial hits with similar subject matter early in his career -- 1977's "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and 1982's "E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial."

"Obsession," 26-year-old YouTube comedian Curry Barker's phenomenally successful low-budget horror film, claimed second place with $19 million in its fifth weekend in theaters and has now generated over $188 million, Rentrak reported.

"Scary Movie" was third with $14.5 million Friday through Sunday, one week after opening in first place with about $55 million.

"Backrooms" was fourth with $11.2 million in its third week, followed by

"Masters of the Universe," which grossed $8.6 million in its second weekend.

Sixth place went to "Star Wars: Mandalorian & Grogu," which took in $4.7 million in its fourth weekend and has grossed $165 million domestically so far -- an impressive total for most films but significantly below expectations for an installment of the "Star Wars" franchise.

Rounding out the top 10 releases were "Michael" ($4.1 million), "The Furious" ($2.7 million), "STOP! THAT! TRAIN!" ($2 million) and "The Amazing Digital Circus: The Last Act" ($1.7 million).

This weekend's overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $120 million. The year-to-date total is $4.166 billion -- up 13% from the figure at this time last year, according to Rentrak.

Flower Gardens Endure Hot, Dry Summers Better if You Choose These Plants

By JESSICA DAMIANO
Associated Press

When summer temperatures soar, we humans can take shelter indoors. Our garden plants, however, have no such respite.

Some may droop, wilt or get crispy, while others may simply refuse to bloom. Although there's not much we can do to counter extreme weather, we can equip our gardens to stand up to it better by choosing flowers that will shine through hot, dry stretches under a scorching sun.

Plants growing in containers will always need more attention than their in-ground counterparts. That's because their water and nutrient needs are completely dependent on us. Sometimes, after watering my pots in the morning, they're bowing humbly by sunset.

But well-established heat- and drought-tolerant garden plants have more modest needs and, if necessary, can stretch their roots to access water farther away.

Lots of pretty options to choose from Coneflower (Echinacea; hardy in zones 3-9) is the superstar of my garden. After watering throughout their first season to establish a healthy root system, I can neglect them and still enjoy a floriferous season. Black-eyed Susans (Rudbeckia), their bedmates, are no slack-ers, either.

Blanket flowers (Gaillardia) get their name from their spreading habit, as they blanket beds with yellow, orange and red blossoms. If you ask me, they should be called electric blanket flower for the heat they can take.

Zinnias also flourish in the heat, although they can be susceptible to powdery mildew in high humidity.

Moss rose (Portulaca) produces small, self-seeding flowers in various colors on semi-succulent groundcover plants that store water in their leaves like camels. Other succulents to consider include prickly pear cactus (Opuntia) and stonecrop (Sedum). Also, ice plant (Delosperma), though avoid it in California, Baja California and other locales where it has been deemed invasive.

Lantanas provide sweet bi- and tri-colored clusters of small blooms on mounded plants, attracting bees, butterflies and hummingbirds.

They're a gardener's – and a pollinator's – dream, flowering from late spring through frost.

More sun lovers

What more is there to say?

And marigolds are dutiful and dependable. Available in a variety of heights, they typically bloom orange, yel-

Petunias, specifically Supertunia, Tidal Wave and Laura Bush types, are notably resilient. Petchoas, the love children of petunias and calibrachos, resist scorch but may need deep watering if things get really ugly.

Cosmos are remarkably resistant plants with feathery foliage and daisy-like blooms of pink, magenta, white, orange or yellow.

low or copper-red. But if you look hard enough, you'll find seeds for a few ivory-colored varieties, like Kilimanjaro, Sugar & Spice and Moonlight.

And -- psst! -- Lana Lace, a new compact and uniform African marigold with crisp cream flowers that stands up well to the weather, will be available at garden centers in 2027.

the opening ceremony of the 2028 Games, applications for Olympic and Paralympic volunteer positions will open.

The volunteer crew will consist of 60,000 individuals. The Olympic volunteer period will run from March through August 2028, while the Paralympic volunteer period will run from August through September 2028. Each volunteer is expected to commit to a minimum of 10 shifts during one of those periods, officials said.

LA28 is seeking volunteers for a wide range of roles, from welcoming and guiding guests and athletes to providing medical care or language translation assistance.

While a majority of volunteers will serve within the greater Los Angeles region, volunteers also will be needed in other cities hosting Olympic events, including Oklahoma City, New York, Columbus, Nashville, San Jose and San Diego.

Applicants will be asked to provide their preferred location and any special skills that may qualify them for a specialized role.

The LA28 volunteer program began in 2025 and offers two ways for people to get involved: community service opportunities and volunteering during the LA28 Games.

LA28 has hosted more than 25 community volunteer events in partnership with local nonprofits across the L.A. region, officials said.

32nd Annual Palm Springs International ShortFest Opens Next Week

PALM SPRINGS - The 32nd annual short film festival begins next week, June 23-29 at Festival Theaters. The festival will showcase 329 films from 71 countries and territories, including 52 world premieres, 21 international premieres, 40 North American premieres, 30 U.S. premieres and 79 Californian premieres.

"ShortFest is a lot of things, and one of the best parts is discovering filmmakers we'll be obsessed with," Lili Rodriguez, artistic director of the Palm Springs International Film Society, said in a statement. "This year's lineup is funny, strange, emotional political, chaotic, gorgeous - - everything short films should be."

The lineup includes "Oh" starring Jamie Linn Watson, "The End is at Hand" starring Efen Ramirez and Richard Kind, "First the Blush" written and directed by and starring Mariam Al Ferjani, "Following" starring Melissa Joan Hart, "Going Home" written by and starring Patton Oswalt and co-directed by Alyssa Limperis, "Kiloran Boy" starring Alan Cumming, and "Chop Cheese" directed by Sophia Meloni and starring Christopher Meloni and Michael Gandolfini.

The selection committee received more than 7,000 short films submissions from 145 countries and territories. Additionally, 136 out of the 329 films were directed by women.

Juried award winners -- drawn from five Oscar-qualifying award categories -- will be revealed on June 28 and accompanied by cash prizes totaling $38,000. The Best of the Fest program will close out the event the following day. ShortFest will support young filmmakers in the Coachella Valley with two events. On June 25, a Film-maker Boot-camp will give high school students across the region access to filmmaking and a chance to talk to industry professionals. The Curator Fellowship will provide individuals ages 18-25 an opportunity to work alongside the ShortFest programming team to create the Valley Vision program, which will be screened at 2 p.m. June 23.

"The Palm Springs International ShortFest has long been a place where the world's most exciting new voices come to be discovered, and this year's lineup is a testament to that tradition," Festival Chairman

Nachhattar Singh Chandi said in a statement.

The full lineup can be found at psfilmfest.org.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF Doroteo Ruvalcaba Gonzalez Case No. PRRI2503437

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Doroteo Ruvalcaba Gonzalez.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by David Ruvalcaba in the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that David Ruvalcaba be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 7/15/2026 at 8:30am in Superior Court of California, County of Riverside, Department 8 located at 4050 Main St, Riverside, CA 92501.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

NOTICE OF ANCILLARY PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:
DORIS JEAN MCDEARMON AKA DORIS J. MCDEARMON
CASE NO. PRR12601065
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of DORIS JEAN MCDEARMON AKA DORIS J. MCDEARMON.
AN ANCILLARY PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by RONALD KEITH MCDEARMON in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.
THE ANCILLARY PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that RONALD KEITH MCDEARMON be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE ANCILLARY PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.
THE ANCILLARY PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take any actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 07/17/26 at 8:30AM in Dept. 8 located at 4050 MAIN STREET, RIVERSIDE, CA 92501
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing.

Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF MARY KATHLEEN BOSSEL
Case No. PRR12601389
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of MARY KATHLEEN BOSSEL

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Brittany Bossel in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Brittany Bossel be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 26, 2026 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 11 located at 4050 Main St., Riverside, CA 92501.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE TS No. CA-23-959422-CL Order No.: FIN-23003025 YOU ARE IN DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST DATED 6/3/2017. UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER. A public auction sale to the highest bidder for cash, or cash equivalent if deemed acceptable to the trustee, cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, check drawn by state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, or savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state, will be held by duly appointed trustee. The sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by the Deed of Trust, with interest and late charges thereon, as provided in the note(s), advances, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, interest thereon, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee for the total amount (at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale) reasonably estimated to be set forth below. The amount may be greater on the day of sale. BENEFICIARY MAY ELECT TO BID LESS THAN THE TOTAL AMOUNT DUE.

Truslor(s): Michael J Jaques, a married man as his sole and separate property and Irene Romero Duran, a married woman as her sole and separate property, all as joint tenants Recorded: 6/6/2017 as Instrument No. 2017-0225715 of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of RIVERSIDE County, California; Date of Sale: 7/8/2026 at 09:00 AM Place of Sale: In the courtyard of the Historic Corona Civic Center located at 815 W Sixth St, Corona, CA 92882 Amount of unpaid balance and other charges: $386,709.32 The purported property address is: 617 SHENANDOAH DRIVE, CORONA, CA 92879 Assessor's Parcel No. : 115-534-003 All bidders, at the date, time, and place of the scheduled sale, will be required to show satisfactory support to the auctioneer of their ability to pay the amount they intend to bid, unless arrangements have been made with the trustee prior to the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 800-280-2832 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-23-959422-CL. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 866-645-7711, or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-23-959422-CL to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE OWNEROCUPANT: Any prospective owneroccupant as defined in Section 2924m of the California Civil Code who is the last and highest bidder at the trustee's sale shall provide the required affidavit or declaration of eligibility to the auctioneer at the trustee's sale or shall have it delivered to QUALITY LOAN SERVICE CORPORATION by 5 p.m. on the next business day following the trustee's sale at the address set forth in the below signature block. NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE POSTSALE OVER BIDDERS: For postsale information in accordance with Section 2924m(e) of the California Civil Code, use file number CA-23-959422-CL and call (866) 645-7711 or login to: <http://www.qualityloan.com>. The above statutorily mandated notices to Tenant, Prospective OwnerOccupant, and Prospective PostSale Over Bidders are brief summaries of what may be required under Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. Compliance with all relevant provisions will be required. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Truslor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:

LORA MICHELLE BLUM
CASE NO. PRR12601468
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of LORA MICHELLE BLUM.
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by JUDITH ANN BLUM in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that JUDITH ANN BLUM be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 07/07/26 at 8:30AM in Dept. 11 located at 4050 MAIN STREET, RIVERSIDE, CA 92501
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

CITY OF CORONA
OFFICE OF THE CITY CLERK
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council will conduct a public hearing in the City Council Chambers at 400 S. Vicentia Ave., on Wednesday, July 1, 2026, at 6:00 p.m. or thereafter upon the following:

ZTA2026-0001: Amendment to Chapter 17.70 of the Corona Municipal Code to update waterefficient landscape requirements and Landscape Design Guidelines to reflect changes in state law and revise outdated fencing regulations.

(Applicant: City of Corona)

California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA): Per Section 15061(b)(3) of the State Guidelines for Implementing the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and Section 3.06 of the City's Local CEQA Guidelines, a Notice of Exemption has been prepared for this project because a project is exempted from CEQA if the activity is covered by the general rule that CEQA applies only to projects that have the potential for causing a significant effect on the environment. Where it can be seen with certainty that there is no possibility that the activity in question may have a significant effect on the environment, the activity is not subject to CEQA. The proposed amendment involves text revisions to the landscape and fencing regulations in Chapter 17.70 of the Corona Municipal Code and the Landscape Design Guidelines. The proposed text revisions will have no significant effect on the environment.

The public is invited to attend the City Council meeting and comment on the application described above. Due to time constraints and the number of persons wishing to give oral testimony, each speaker will be limited to three minutes. You may wish to make your comments in writing and submit them to the City Clerk for inclusion into the public record. If you challenge any portion of these projects in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered at, or prior to the public hearing. Any person unable to attend the public hearing may submit written comments to the City Clerk, 400 S. Vicentia Ave., Corona, CA 92882. If you have questions regarding this notice or the applications to be heard, please call the Planning & Development Department at (951) 736-2262.

CITY OF CORONA
OFFICE OF THE CITY CLERK
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council will conduct a public hearing in the City Council Chambers at 400 S. Vicentia Ave., on Wednesday, July 1, 2026, at 6:00 p.m. or thereafter upon the following:

SP2025-0001: Proposal of a Specific Plan for the Skyline Heights Project to establish residential and open space land uses and development standards for 249.39 acres located southwest of Foothill Parkway and north of Skyline Drive.

(Applicant: Brian Hardy, Richland Ventures, Inc.)

California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA): In accordance with Section 15164 of the State Guidelines for Implementing the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and Section 8.06 of the City's Local CEQA Guidelines, the City of Corona, as the lead agency under CEQA, has prepared an Addendum to the Final Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for the Skyline Heights Project, which was approved and certified by the City of Corona on February 1, 2017 (State Clearing House No. 2014021003). The Addendum was prepared to address proposed revisions to the approved project, including a reduction in the total number of residential units from 292 units to 276 units, and the addition of approximately 12 acres of public and private parkland. The City has determined that the revisions do not result in new or substantially more severe environmental impacts from that evaluated under the Skyline Heights Final EIR. The City Council will consider the Addendum in conjunction with the associated project approvals (SP2025-0001 and TTM 36544) at a public hearing to be held on July 1, 2026. Per Section 15164, an Addendum does not need to be recirculated for public review, but can accompany the prior Final EIR. The Addendum and the prior, certified Final EIR are available for download from the City of Corona's website at <https://www.coronaca.gov/departments/planninganddevelopment/planningdivision/environmentalceqaadocuments>. A physical copy of the documents are available at the Planning Division public counter, located at Corona City Hall, 400 S. Vicentia Avenue, Suite 120, Corona.

The public is invited to attend the City Council meeting and comment on the application described above. Due to time constraints and the number of persons wishing to give oral testimony, each speaker will be limited to three minutes. PUBLIC NOTICE

This is a public notice that the City of Corona's Historic Preservation Board will conduct a public hearing in the City Council Chambers at 400 South Vicentia Avenue, on Monday, June 29, 2026, at 5:00 p.m. or thereafter upon the following:

MARD2026-0002: Review of proposed alterations to Historic District HD-005 (City Park), a designated historic district listed on the Corona Register of Historic Resources, as part of the Corona City Park Revitalization Project, located at 930 East Sixth Street.

California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) – Pursuant to Section 15164 of the Guidelines for Implementing the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and Section 8.06 of the City's adopted Local CEQA Guidelines, the City, as the lead agency, has prepared an Addendum to the previously certified Environmental Impact Report for the City of Corona 2020–2040 General Plan (SCH No. 2018081039). The City has determined that the proposed Corona City Park Revitalization Project would not result in new significant environmental impacts, substantially increase the severity of previously identified impacts, or otherwise meet the criteria for preparation of a subsequent or supplemental EIR under Sections 15162(a) and 15163(a) of the State CEQA Guidelines.

(Applicant: Rachel McClure, City of Corona, Public Works Department)

This is a public hearing, and you are invited to attend and comment on the applications described above. If you challenge any portion of this project in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered at, or prior to, the public hearing. If you have written comments that you wish to be included in the staff report, please deliver them to the Historic Preservation Board Secretary, on or before the Wednesday prior to the meeting. If you have questions about this notice or the application to be heard, please call Associate Planner Brendan Dalde in the Planning and Development Department at (951) 736-2262.

ANY INFORMATION OBTAINED MAY BE USED FOR THAT PURPOSE. FOR TRUSTEE'S SALE INFORMATION PLEASE CALL: (844) 901-0998 OR VIEW OUR WEBSITE: HTTPS://SALESINFORMATION.PRIMERECON.COM NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (844) 901-0998 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this internet website - HTTPS://SALESINFORMATION.PRIMERECON.COM - for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case: TS#190586. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (844) 901-0998 for information regarding the trustee's sale, or visit this internet website HTTPS://SALESINFORMATION.PRIMERECON.COM for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case TS#190586 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. Effective March 1, 2026, new federal regulations (89 Fed. Reg. 70.258) require specified information to be reported on nonfinanced title transfers of residential real property to covered entities and trusts. In order to successfully bid on applicable properties, the successful bidder will be required to complete, sign, and certify a form providing specified information, including but not limited to the following: All Successful Bidders: Category Information Required Beneficial Owner(s) Full legal names of all individuals who exercise substantial control over the entity, date of birth, complete residential street address, citizenship, and unique identifying number (like tax ID no. or nonexpired passport no.) Roaring Crowds in Stars and Stripes Show up for the Us Team, and Soccer's Moment in Their Country

By AMY TAXIN and JAIM-IE DING Associated Press

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — It was a stadium like any other, packed with American sports fans wearing their favorite team's jerseys and red-white-and-blue face paint, roaring as players took the field.

Only this time, the sport was soccer.

The U.S. team's home opener in the World Cup on Friday brought more than 70,000 passionate soccer enthusiasts to the massive stadium near Los Angeles, where they saw the U.S. beat Paraguay 4-1. They had, in many cases, paid thousands of dollars to see their team play on the biggest global stage for a sport that has long been eclipsed in the United States — a sport many say is finally having its moment.

Many fans said they grew up playing soccer in recreational leagues as young children, and well into high school and college. Nakisha Gutierrez, a 37-year-old occupational therapist from Los Angeles, and her sister both played the sport. Their Argentine father raised them on soccer, and the next generation is now taking it up, too, she said.

"It's in the family blood," said Gutierrez, her cheeks painted with sparkling red-and-blue stars. "It is the American culture — it's starting to be."

The World Cup is played every four years, and fans around the world track their national teams, hoping they'll have a strong enough showing to qualify for it. In many countries — like Friday's opponent, Paraguay — just making it to the tournament can prompt street parties, fireworks and national holidays. In the United States, though, the response is often a bit more muted. Soccer has long been overshadowed by football, basketball and "America's pastime" of baseball.

But soccer's popularity has risen in the United States since the country last hosted the World Cup in 1994. Major League Soccer was launched two years later, and soccer has become especially popular among young athletes.

There was palpable joy in the air for U.S. fans watching the match as Folarin Balogun scored an electric two goals in the first half of the game, and star player Christian Pulisic made a shot that led to a Paraguay own goal. But the stadium was a roar when Gio Reyna sealed Paraguay's fate with a late fourth goal during added time.

Samuel Esquivel, 9, said he was screaming when the match ended.

"That was probably, like, the second best goal," he said of Reyna's shot. He started playing soccer last year and said he already wants to win a World Cup.

His father Roman Esquivel said they came from a family that played football, basketball, and baseball. But Esquivel's daughter and son both fell in love with soccer, and their enthusiasm for the game has spread to him as well.

"It's the most beautiful sport in the world," he said. "There's a reason why the whole world plays soccer."

Interest has also been buoyed by immigrants from countries where, as Gutierrez puts it, "soccer is life."

Ava Cupit, 14, traveled with her family from Franklin, Tennessee, to cheer on the U.S. team, dressed up as the Statue of Liberty. Her great-grandfather was from Spain and helped bring soccer to their small town, where he built fields and promoted the sport.

"He made us all fall in love with it, and our whole family loves soccer," Ava's mother Rachel Cupit said. "The people who've married in, they've just become a part of it too."

In the massive stadium in Inglewood, California, usually home to football games, seats were a sea of red and white.

LA28 to Open VOLUNTEER APPLICATIONS July 14 for Olympic and Paralympic Games

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - The Los Angeles Organizing Committee for the 2028 Olympic and Paralympic Games will begin accepting applications July 14 for its volunteer crew program.

LA28 encouraged fans from around the world to apply to become members of the volunteer crew, which it describes as the "team behind the scenes powering the world's largest sporting events."

"As fans fill the seats and athletes take the global stage, behind every event, every venue and every moment is the LA28 volunteer crew," LA28 CEO Reynold Hoover said in a statement.

"Volunteers are the backbone of the Games. They are a friendly face who helps welcome the world, create memorable experiences and bring the Olympic and Paralympic spirit to life. Their passion and energy will help define LA28 for athletes, fans and communities across the region," Hoover added.

Starting July 14, which is exactly two years out from

LA28 Volunteers, see page 10

Fans wore glitter, Stars-and-Stripes high-tops, overalls, robes and the team's hallmark jerseys. Some dressed as that ultimate symbol of American patriotism, Uncle Sam, with long white beards and top hats. A few wore George Washington costumes.

They came to show their international matches before large crowds backing their opponents.

Self-proclaimed soccer "addict" Jose Contreras said he grew up playing the sport with his uncle in Mexico because it was cheap and accessible. He flew from Georgia to support the U.S. in its opening match, even support for their team, and to show that Americans, like the rest of the world, can be passionate about soccer, too. Many were trying to attend all of the U.S. team's group round matches. One spectator said he came from Texas after seeing the U.S. team previously face off in though there are games he could attend in Atlanta, closer to home.

"This is one of the happiest days of my life," Contreras said.

The USA's next match is today against Australia in Seattle, 12 P.M.
