Health Officials: 4-YEAR-OLD CHILD DIES FROM RSV-ASSOCIATED ILLNESS

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Riverside University Health System Public Health announced today that a 4-year-old child from eastern Riverside County died from an illness possibly linked to respiratory syncytial virus.

"The loss of a child is devastating, and all of Public Health sends its heartfelt condolences to the family, loved ones and anyone impacted by this tragic event," Riverside County Public Health Officer Dr. Geoffrey Leung said.

The child's identity and city of residence will not be released, RUHS health officials said.

As officials observe an increase in influenza and RSV in young children, various precautions can help prevent the spread.

Leung recommends parents and their children practice frequently washing hands, covering coughs and sneezes, keeping sick children home, indoor masking, and disinfecting surfaces.

RUHS health officials said parents who are concerned about their child's risk of a severe RSV infection can speak to a healthcare provider about receiving a medicine called palivizumab, which is typically given to premature infants and young children with heart and lung conditions.

RSV season started slightly sooner this year and is expected to last through March, according to RUHS health officials. Though it causes mild, cold-like symptoms, it can be serious for infants and older adults in the winter.

It is spread through coughs, sneezes and direct contact with an infected surface or with someone who has RSV, RUHS health officials said. Contagiousness can last for up to eight days and could begin two days before symptoms start.

Symptoms include shallow or difficulty breathing, coughing, poor appetite, and listlessness or irritability. Additionally, it can cause bronchiolitis and pneumonia.

Carriers Feeling Cheery About On-Time Holiday Deliveries

By David Sharp, Associated Press

The nation's major shipping companies are in the best shape to get holiday shoppers' packages delivered on time since the start of the pandemic, suggesting a return to normalcy.

Carriers like the U.S. Postal Service, FedEx and United Parcel Service project to have enough capacity after struggling under the holiday crush for the past two years, when many people hunkered down at home and turned to online shopping.

The system is already being put to the test ahead of big shopping days on Black Friday and Cyber Monday, when retailers entice shoppers with bargains. Amazon held a second Prime Day in October to jumpstart early holiday sales, but some shoppers are still holding out for deals in the coming days.

Brie Carere, chief customer care officer at FedEx, told The Associated Press she's not worried: "The network is running the best that it has since COVID. We're confident and ready."

Consumers Could Pay Price if Railroads, Unions Can't Agree

By Josh Funk, AP Business Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) _ Consumers could see higher gas prices and shortages of some of their favorite groceries during the winter holiday season if railroads and all of their unions can't agree on new contracts by an early-December deadline that had already been pushed back.

The likelihood of a strike that would paralyze the nation's rail traffic grew on Monday when the largest of the 12 rail unions, which represents mostly conductors, rejected management's latest offering that included 24% raises and $5,000 in bonuses. With four of the 12 unions that represent half of the 115,000 rail workers

Democrat Will Rollins Concedes Election for 41st Congressional District

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Democrat Will Rollins has conceded to Republican Ken Calvert in the race for the 41st Congressional District, and called his opponent to congratulate him.

Rollins said in a statement released Monday on social media that, "we are in a moment of uncertainty, because America is divided. And there are a lot of people out there who benefit -- financially, militarily, politically -- when Americans turn against one another."

Rollins was trailing Calvert by 10,364 votes with 98% of precincts reporting in the district as of Monday. Calvert had 52% of the vote to 48% for Rollins.

Rollins said in a Twitter post he called Calvert to offer his congratulations.

"I had hoped for a different result, but I respect our democratic system and am sure that our fine election workers did their jobs honestly and responsibly, and I accept the count. Thank you to the hundreds of thousands of you who voted," Rollins said.

Rollins led by more than 10,000 votes when results were released on election night. But Calvert slowly chipped away at Rollins' lead and declared victory on Nov. 15.

"This election demonstrated that Riverside County voters are more interested in people serious about solving our challenges, than personal politics. In the end, it's clear that voters sent a strong message rejecting the gutter politics of lies and personal attacks from an out-of-town extremist liberal," Calvert said.

Ken Calvert

Calvert has represented parts of Riverside County in Congress since 1993, previously for the 44th, 43rd and 42nd districts before it was reconfigured for the 2022 election.

The 41st District includes several Coachella Valley cities -- Palm Springs, Rancho Mirage, La Quinta, Palm Desert and Indian Wells -- along with Corona, Menifee and Norco in western Riverside County.

The district is nearly split evenly between registered Democrats and Republicans, and non-party voters make up about 20% of the eligible voters.

Gas Prices Continue Holiday Season Decreases

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - The average price of a gallon of self-serve regular gasoline in Riverside County recorded its largest decrease since Oct. 20 Tuesday, dropping 6.2 cents to $5.137, its lowest amount since Sept. 2.

The average price has dropped 45 times in 48 days since rising to a record $6.373 on Oct. 5, decreasing $1.236, including 1.4 cents Monday, according to figures from the AAA and the Oil Price Information Service. It is 21.3 cents less than one week ago and 53.8 cents lower than one month ago, but 51.1 cents more than one year ago.

The national average price dropped for the 13th consecutive day, decreasing 2.6 cents to $3.636. It is 12.3 cents less than one week ago and 16.7 cents lower than one month ago, but 22.7 cents more than one year ago.

The national average price has dropped 16.9 cents over the past 13 days, including nine-tenths of a cent Monday. It is $1.38 lower than the record $5.016 set June 14.

California gas prices are customarily substantially higher than the national average because the state has the highest gas taxes in the nation, along with refinery cap and trade fees, higher general cost of living, a

CHP: Officers to Crack Down on Unsafe Drivers During Thanksgiving Travel

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Drive safe and sober during the Thanksgiving holiday weekend or face consequences, the California Highway Patrol warns.

The agency will initiate its annual Thanksgiving "maximum enforcement period" beginning at 6 p.m. Wednesday, when all available officers will deploy to catch drunk or drug-impaired drivers, speeders and other traffic violators.

The MEP will conclude on Sunday night.

"As with every holiday, the CHP will work to keep motorists safe as they travel to gatherings with friends and family," Commissioner Amanda Ray said Monday. "Our officers will be on patrol to take enforcement action as necessary and to provide assistance to motorists who are stranded or in need of help on the side of the road."

"Enjoy your Thanksgiving festivities, but please celebrate responsibly, wear your seatbelt and always designate a sober, non-drinking driver," she said.

Officers from the Riverside, Blythe, Beaumont, Indio and Temecula CHP stations will be on inland freeways, highways and unincorporated roads, looking to snare scofflaws.

During last year's Thanksgiving maximum enforcement campaign, the CHP arrested 1,033 people statewide on suspicion of driving under the influence, compared to 868 arrests during the previous Thanksgiving holiday period -- a 19% increase.

A total of 42 people died in collisions and other incidents on roads and highways under the CHP's jurisdiction over Thanksgiving weekend 2021. The fatalities included 16 pedestrians and one bicyclist, the agency said.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, half of the vehicle passengers killed in collisions nationwide during the Thanksgiving holiday period in 2020 -- the latest year for which data was available -- were not wearing seatbelts.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Nov. 25, 1963, the body of President John F. Kennedy was laid to rest at Arlington National Cemetery; his widow, Jacqueline, lit an "eternal flame" at the gravesite.

On this date:

In 1783, the British evacuated New York during the Revolutionary War.

In 1914, baseball Hall of Famer Joe DiMaggio was born in Martinez, California.

In 1915, a new version of the Ku Klux Klan, targeting blacks, Jews, Catholics and immigrants, was founded by William Joseph Simmons.

Deliveries

There are several factors at play: Consumers have gotten an early start, done more shopping in stores and moderated spending because of inflationary pressures, thus reducing shipping volume and spreading out shipments over a longer period. An extra shipping day between Thanksgiving and Christmas helps, too.

The outlook could be a win for carriers who need fewer temporary workers, retailers who face fewer peak surcharges, and shoppers whose gifts are more likely to be delivered on time, said Satish Jindel, president of Pennsylvania-based Ship-Matrix.

The overall optimism represents a sharp contrast to holiday seasons in 2020 and 2021 when more everyday items were shipped during the pandemic, supply chain problems were a concern, and shipping companies struggled to keep up.

Carriers that reached their capacity limit dumped their excess parcels on the struggling U.S. Postal Service in 2020, when more than a third of Postal Service first-class mail was late by the time Christmas arrived. Back then, the Postal Service battled through despite thousands of quarantined workers.

Performance improved last year. And Postmaster General Louis DeJoy said the situation is even better now, with the installation of 137 new package-sorting machines ahead of the holiday season, bringing the total to 249 additional package-processing machines since March 2021.

That boosts the Postal Service's daily package processing ability to 60 million, and staffing improvements allowed the Postal Service to reduce seasonal hiring by half.

"Our customers and the American people should feel confident in the service we will provide for the holiday season," he said.

All told, shipping companies are projected to have excess capacity of 10 million to 20 million parcels beyond what's needed each day at peak shipping time, providing a buffer and lowering peak surcharges, Jindel said.

And they continue to line up extra workers to help with peak demand. Amazon, which operates its own fleet of delivery vehicles, said it's once again hiring 150,000 employees for full-time, part-time and seasonal roles in the United States. United Parcel Service planned to hire upward of 100,000 seasonal workers to get over the hump while stressing that it's still a good idea to avoid waiting to the last minute.

"Shopping, buying and shipping early continue to be important to avoid the busiest times of peak season," said UPS spokesperson Jim Mayer.

Why You Should Step Up Your Self-Care Game During the Holiday Season

While the holiday season is full of fun, festivities and meaningful time spent with family and friends, it's often accompanied by work and school deadlines, tedious to-do lists and shopping stress. Here are a few reasons to step up your self-care routine during this busy period so you can usher in the new year, happily and healthily:

Catch Some Z's

The holidays come on the heels of the end of Daylight Saving Time, and your body may still be adjusting to the time change. Plus, with all the commitments of the season, you may be more likely to be pulling early mornings and late nights. These factors combined could be leaving you feeling drowsy during the day. Even more concerning, lack of sleep over time can contribute to a number of chronic health issues. Set yourself up for greater alertness and better health this winter by carving out time for sufficient, high-quality sleep. Having trouble nodding off? Check out sleep aid apps that offer soundtracks, guided meditation and breathing exercises.

Gain Smile Confidence

According to a 2020 Cigna Dental Report, smile satisfaction is one of the top three drivers of self confidence among U.S. adults. So while practicing good oral care and maintaining a solid beauty and self-care routine is always important, it's especially so during a time of year when you may be eating extra sweets and smiling more for the camera.

The good news is that you can give yourself the gift of a healthy, beautiful smile you can feel confident about, starting at an affordable price with the new Oral-B iO4 + iO5 electric toothbrush series. Multiple brushing modes offer a personalized clean, and when you brush for 2 minutes, which is what the American Dental Association recommends, the brush lights up to celebrate the accomplishment. What's more, the iO Series 5 provides you with real-time tracking and coaching via the Oral-B app, helping you commit to better oral care throughout the holidays and beyond.

How to Protect Your Home and Valuables This Holiday Travel Season

Whether you're visiting your in-laws or taking a tropical vacation over the holidays, you'll likely be leaving your house and the majority of your belongings unattended while you're gone. Recent research suggests that if you're like many Americans, you may not be doing enough to protect your assets when you hit the road.

According to a study conducted by The Harris Poll on behalf of Selective Insurance, 59% of U.S. homeowners have a home security system or device, yet less than half (49%) use one to protect their unoccupied homes when they are on vacation.

However, most homeowners do take some safety measures before departing for extended periods. For instance, 68% lock all their windows when they leave town. Additional precautions include having someone check their home (61%), setting lights on a timer (39%), shutting off water (21%), and hiring a house sitter (13%).

Nevertheless, risk experts say you're best off with a system that monitors for break-ins and other mishaps, including fire and flooding from storms or leaky pipes.

"Vacations are a great time to create new memories, but they are quickly forgotten if you return to a damaged or burglarized home. Taking sensible home safety preparations before leaving is as important as packing the right items in your suitcase," says Allen

Anderson, senior vice president of Personal Lines at Selective Insurance. "Our research shows that home security systems and devices are widely under-used across the country, but they are powerful tools to mitigate against unoccupied home theft, fire and water leaks."

According to Anderson, here are some steps you can take this holiday travel season for greater peace of mind:

- Install and use a smart home security system or device. Doing so provides a vital line of defense and could save you money. Many insurers, including Selective Insurance, will provide a homeowners policy discount to policyholders with a professionally monitored security system.

- Lock your garage and all of your doors and windows – and double-check them.

- Install outdoor lights. Use an automatic timer to set your interior and exterior lights and give your home the appearance of occupancy.

- Stop your mail, package and news deliveries.

- Stow away your valuables.

- Consider waiting until you return from your trip to share vacation photos to social media, or use privacy settings to control who sees your posts.

- Unplug all unnecessary electronics.

- Bring all house keys with you, or leave one with a trusted friend to check up on your home while you're gone.

- Turn off your water! Some of the most frequent and costly homeowners' claims are due to water damage.

As you make your holiday travel arrangements, think beyond airline tickets and hotel bookings. Be sure that your plans also include home protection in your absence. (StatePoint)

Cut the Stress out of Holiday Travel Planning

The holiday travel season is just around the corner, and experts are expecting it to be a busy and expensive one, with airline ticket prices for the winter holidays increasing nearly 30% since last year. While travel experts recommend you start organizing trips at least three months in advance, do not fret if you're a last-minute planner. There are still a few ways to maximize your travel plans and save a few dollars while you're at it.

Hit the Highway: For those planning on taking a road trip this season, make sure your vehicle is up to date on all registrations and maintenance so you don't experience any road bumps. If you're planning a road trip and you're a T-Mobile customer, you get a year of AAA membership for free with all Magenta plans. This means you can get from point A to point B with the confidence and safety of 24/7 roadside assistance, if you need it. Plus, T-Mobile customers also save $0.10 per gallon of gas from Shell via the T-Mobile Tuesdays App.

Opt for Low Traffic Travel Days: When booking airline travel, CheapAir.com recommends avoiding Thursdays-Sundays. Instead, book airline travel on Tuesdays or Wednesdays if possible, as those are the slowest travel days of the week. According to CheapAir.com, traveling on actual holidays like Thanksgiving Day or Black Friday can save you $75-$90 in flight ticket prices. Christmas Eve and Christmas Day are also expecting lower airfare prices this year.

Check the Cancellation Rules: Make sure you can cancel your hotel, airline, or car rental reservations if you need to, and understand what additional fees you may be subject to if you do need to adjust your trip. Plans can change at the drop of a hat, especially in the post-COVID world.

Use Those Travel Perks: Many credit card companies offer benefits like points and frequent flier miles, which you can redeem on flights, hotels and more. If you're a T-Mobile customer, you can save up to 40% on select hotels and car rentals by booking through T-MobileTravel.com. Most come with free, flexible cancellations. You can also save your travel perks to use for your holiday travel plans and save even more.

Stay Connected: The internet can be hit or miss when traveling abroad, so make sure you're well-versed in the details of your data plan before logging on. Luckily, T-Mobile customers with Magenta MAX plans can get 5GB of free high-speed data worldwide in more than 215 countries and destinations, plus free in-flight Wi-Fi and streaming all flight long on four of the biggest U.S. airlines. Visit <https://www.t-mobile.com/travel> to learn more about T-Mobile's travel benefits.

Pack Smarter: Make sure all your tech items are within arm's reach during your trip. Pack charging cables,

5 Ways to Protect Your and Loved Ones Health This Holiday Season

The holidays are right around the corner, and experts are already seeing a rise in respiratory illnesses like influenza (flu) and respiratory syncytial virus (RSV). In addition, COVID-19 continues to be a serious health threat in the United States.

As you gather with family and friends this holiday season, remember that one of the most important gifts you can give your loved ones is the gift of health. For a healthier, happier season, the American Lung Association offers these five tips:

1. Get your COVID-19 and flu shots: The single best way to stay healthy and protect others is to be up to date on your recommended COVID-19 vaccinations and make sure all of your loved ones – from those aged 6 months to 100+ years – are also up to date on theirs. This includes the new COVID-19 booster shot, which is expected to provide protection against the most recent variants and subvariants. It's also time for your annual flu shot. Staying current with all your vaccinations is key to protecting your health.

headphones and tablets to keep children entertained on trips. Packing a portable charger in your carry-on is a game-changer when all the outlets at the airport are in use.

Holiday travel can be stressful, but it doesn't have to be. Do your research, take advantage of deals and you'll cut out the hassle of planning your upcoming travels. (StatePoint)

2. Keep your medications and mask with you: If you are traveling, make sure to keep your regular medications and a mask with you (not in your checked luggage). It is good to have a mask on hand if you are with someone who is immunocompromised and prefers you to wear one.

3. Consider testing: Before large gatherings, consider doing an at-home COVID-19 test as an added layer of confidence that you are healthy. The average cost of a two-pack self-test at the drugstore is $25 and is covered by most insurance policies.

4. Wash your hands often: Scrub with soap and water for at least 20 seconds. If you're unable to wash your hands, using hand sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol is a good alternative.

Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth, as it allows the germs on your hands to reach moist, porous surface tissue where the germs can enter your body and cause infection.

5. Stay home if you're sick: Stay home when you are feeling ill. If you have symptoms of COVID-19 or flu, you should test immediately and contact your healthcare provider if you are at high risk for severe illness to discuss possible treatment options.

With COVID-19, the flu and other seasonal illnesses spreading nationwide, take steps to protect yourself and those you love to make this a happy and healthy holiday season for all.

"The Menu"

By Bob Garver

Like the cozy restaurant setting of "The Menu," the theater at my screening of the film this past Friday was sparsely populated. But though the attendance was small in number, there was an unusual sense of kinship in the air. Laughs and groans could be attributed to individual audience members, as well as occasional biting comments (including one of my own, after the movie), and I think we all got a sense of what made one another tick. One thing was for certain: like the characters in the movie, we were all in this intense experience together.

The film follows audience surrogate Margot (Anya Taylor-Joy) as she journeys with her date Tyler (Nicholas Hoult) to a private island that boasts the upscale restaurant Hawthorne. Other diners include a food critic (Janet McTeer), a movie star (John Leguizamo), and other affluent types. The group is greeted by no-nonsense maître d' Elsa (Hong Chau), who leads them into the dining room, where they meet world-renowned chef Julian Slowik (Ralph Fiennes). Slowik will be in charge of everything this evening, from the food to the entertainment. Both may be suited more to his tastes than the guests'.

Opinions are mixed on a first course that includes a rock and a second course of absent bread. Everybody is uncomfortable with a third course of incriminating tortillas and a story of violence from Slowik's past. The real game-changer comes with the fourth course, which includes a demonstration of violence rather than a story. Slowik's intentions soon become clear: he and the staff of Hawthorne are going to kill everyone, including themselves and all the customers. But first, he's going to break his elitist guests' spirits, "play with his food" as it were, though I will shoot down a popular theory and say that his plan does not involve cannibalism.

Simply put, Julian Slowik is the most memorable movie villain of the year – maybe of the last several years. Fiennes imbues the character with menace, wit, humor, and most of all, charisma. He has an entire kitchen staff under his thumb, and seemingly an entire restaurant full of victims as well. Nobody besides Margot makes a whole-hearted attempt to escape. Nobody even needs to be tied down. Heck, nobody even complains when they're billed before dessert. It could be argued that the patrons know they're no match for the large henchmen stationed at the exits, or that they realize that they deserve what they're getting, but I think it has more to do with them all wondering with morbid curiosity what's coming next from Slowik's kitchen of surprises. That's why the rushed ending was such a disappointment for me. I was hoping Slowik's plan for the characters' fates would be a little more... individually catered.

While Fiennes does give the standout performance in "The Menu," I don't want to short-change Taylor-Joy and Hoult. Margot doesn't fit in with the crazed staff or the snooty guests and Slowik's one imperfection is that he himself doesn't know what to do with this fellow member of the service industry. As for Tyler, he's more excited about being allowed to dine under Slowik's roof than with the beautiful woman sitting across from him. In a movie where half the characters are trying to commit murder, he's somehow the most detestable for his simple condescension. The characters' eccentricities, mind games, and dark humor all come together to make "The Menu" one of the best films of the year.

Not bad for a movie whose entire point is that cheeseburgers are a joy and an honor to serve.

Grade: B

"The Menu" is rated R for strong/disturbing violent content, language throughout and some sexual references. Its running time is 107 minutes.

Former Federal Agent from Riverside County Gets 10 Years in Prison

MURRIETA (CNS) - A Riverside County man who worked as a federal agent was sentenced Monday in Los Angeles to more than 10 years behind bars for using his access to closely controlled government databases in exchange for cash.

Felix Cisneros Jr., 48, of Murrieta, was sentenced to 121 months in federal prison by U.S. District Judge R. Gary Klausner, who also ordered him to pay a fine of $30,000. Klausner also entered a forfeiture order of $133,000 against Cisneros, according to the U.S. Attorney's Office.

Cisneros was convicted in May of 30 federal counts of bribery, conspiracy to commit bribery, money laundering and tax evasion.

Evidence presented at his five-day trial in downtown Los Angeles showed that over an 18-month period that started in September 2015, Cisneros accepted cash, checks, private jet travel, luxury hotel stays, meals and other items from Armenian organized crime figures in exchange for information and protection.

He accepted the cash and other bribes while working as a special agent with Homeland Security Investigation, an agency within the U.S. Department of Homeland Security.

In exchange for the bribes, Cisneros altered information within a DHS database, obtained an official DHS letter to allow the parole of an organized crime figure's brother-in-law in the United States from Mexico, and collected information on a criminal associate and provided information about a law enforcement investigation.

Cisneros also underreported his income on his federal income tax returns by at least $20,000 for the year 2015 and at least $73,404 for the year 2016, the Los Angeles federal jury found.

BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 098871-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. Bean and Cheese Quesadilla

When I was a child, I used to get the bean and cheese burrito from this one spot. It was one of my favorite “eat out” foods. Soft flour tortilla lightly toasted with a slight crisp, ooey gooey cheese that pulled into long thin strands before breaking and swinging against my chin, and perfectly savory and meaty beans to round it out. Well, you can see why it was so good. I had made some home-made beans for a taco bar I set up for my oldest child’s birthday. And I obviously had cheese and tortillas (small ones tho)

Ingredients

- 2 tortillas, any size
- Shredded cheese, queso Oaxaca or cheddar
- Pinto beans, homemade or from a can

To Make

Heat a skillet, preferably cast iron, on medium heat. Place the tortillas on the skillet and heat on one side for a minute. Flip. Place down a layer of cheese on one of the tortillas, the other tortilla off to the side. Then a thin layer of beans. Then another layer of cheese. Then cap with the other tortilla. Let cook for a minute or two then flip. Cook another minute or two until the cheese is melty. EAT!

as such. I was hit with a wave of inspiration and for somereason thought back to these glorious burritos. With what I had available, I was able to make a bean and cheese quesadilla. And boy did it hit the spot and nostalgia button. Let’s make a quesadilla!

Turkey Stock: Easy, Economical Way to Use More of the Bird

By Katie Workman, Associated Press

Making turkey stock is a great way to use what you have on hand post-Thanksgiving. It’s easy and economical: Almost all leftover parts of the bird can be put to use, including the bones, the skin, and small bits of meat attached to the carcass.

Makes about 4 quarts

Ingredients:

Bones, leftover bits of meat, scraps and skin from 1 roasted turkey

6 carrots, scrubbed and cut into 1-inch pieces

8 celery stalks, cut into 1-inch pieces

1 large onion, unpeeled and quartered

2 bay leaves

1 cup dry white wine (optional)

1 tablespoon whole black peppercorns

1 teaspoon kosher salt, or to taste (see Note)

5 quarts cold water

Directions:

Place the turkey bones and all scraps into a large stockpot, big enough to hold them with some room to spare. Add the carrots, celery, onion, bay leaves, white wine (if using), peppercorns, salt and water into the pot. The water should cover the bones, or almost cover them, but it should be at least an inch below the top of the rim of the pot. Bring the water to a simmer over high heat, then reduce it immediately and keep the liquid gently simmering. Simmer for 1 to 2 hours, depending on how intense you want the stock to be. Press the bones down into the stock as it reduces, but it’s OK if the liquid lowers below the top of the turkey bones. Use a spoon to skim off any foam that rises to the top as the stock simmers.

Strain the stock through a colander or fine mesh sieve and discard the solids. Cool the stock, then place it in the fridge, either in a large pot or in quart containers. When the stock is chilled, scrape most or all of the fat from the top. Use as desired in various recipes. Turkey stock can be refrigerated for up to 4 days, or frozen for up to 4 months.
