64 WOMEN COME TOGETHER MIDAIR TO CREATE 2 UNIQUE FORMATIONS

On Saturday, 64 women from around the world assembled in the sky to break a world record, previously held by 48 women.

To break the record, the skydivers assembled into a snowflake formation, detaching from each other, then reorienting and reassembling into a different snowflake pattern.

All skydivers, aged 18 to 70, were in contact with the larger group, creating a connected pattern hurtling through the sky at 120 miles per hour.

State Sting Operation in Menifee Cites More than A Dozen Alleged Unlicensed Contractors

In an ongoing statewide sting operation aimed at unlicensed contractors, a dozen local tradespeople in Menifee have been cited for placing excessive bids on construction projects without having earned a contractor's license.

To protect consumers, state law dictates that contractors cannot bid on work for more than $500 if they are unlicensed.

The California Contractors State License Board, (CSLB) SWIFT operation (Statewide Investigative Fraud Team) has been targeting unlicensed contractors in counties from the Oregon to Mexican borders. In the last week of September, it teamed with Menifee Police and the Riverside County D.A.'s office, putting out bid requests to suspected unlicensed contractors in Menifee.

A Minimum Wage Increase for California Health Care Workers Is Finally Kicking In

BY ANA B. IBARRA, CalMatters

California health workers this month will finally get a long-promised minimum wage increase.

It'll kick in this month, according to a letter state health officials sent to the Legislature today, describing a process that should trigger the pay boost.

"The health care minimum wage increases shall be effective 15 days after the date of this notification, on October 16, 2024, unless a later effective date is specified," Michelle Baass, the director of the California Department of Health Care Services wrote in the letter.

The state's Department of Industrial Relations confirmed the implementation date on its website today.

Gov. Gavin Newsom last year signed a law, Senate Bill 525, that gradually phases in pay increases for the state's lowest-paid health workers to $25 an hour over a number of years.

A minimum wage increase for California health care workers will begin in October 2024. It was supposed to kick in four months earlier, but lawmakers delayed it because of budget concerns.

"Some items sold by weight, such as produce, meats and baked goods, had less product in the package than was displayed on the label." Deputies Search for Homicide Suspects after Finding Men with Gunshot Wounds

PERRIS (CNS) - Perris Sheriff's Station deputies continued to look for suspects last Thursday after locating two men with gunshot wounds, one of whom died at the scene.

The deputies arrived at the 600 block of Indian Hills Circle in Perris shortly before 3:15 p.m. Wednesday after receiving a report of an assault with a deadly weapon, according to a Riverside County Sheriff's Department statement.

They attempted to deliver medical assistance, but one of the victims was pronounced dead at the scene, according to the statement. His identity was not immediately disclosed. The other was transported to a local hospital, believed to be in critical condition.

The Riverside County Sheriff's Office Central Homicide Unit assumed the investigation, with investigations still trying to identify potential suspects. The dead man's name was not publicly released.

Anyone with information regarding the incident was

Felon Who Ignited Fire in Menifee Department Store Headed to Prison

MURRIETA (CNS) - A felon who ignited a blaze in a Menifee Target store, causing significant damage, was bound for state prison Tuesday to serve a 23-year sentence after pleading guilty to several charges.

Abel Arizmendi Jr., 31, of Lake Elsinore, on Monday admitted one count of arson to a structure and a sentence-enhancing allegation of perpetrating arson in an area under a previously declared state of emergency as part of a plea agreement with the Riverside County District Attorney's Office. Prosecutors dropped a charge of aggravated arson, as well as three unrelated counts stemming from a separate case, in exchange for Arizmendi's admissions.

osso certified the terms of the plea deal and imposed the sentence stipulated by the prosecution and defense. He signed the prison commitment order Tuesday morning.

According to Cal Fire, on the morning of Jan. 22, 2023, Arizmendi used an unspecified ignition device to set a trash receptacle ablaze in the men's department of the Target at 30340 Haun Road.

"The fire started in the trash can and quickly spread to nearby clothing and parts of the building, resulting in substantial damage," according to an agency statement.

Multiple engine and truck crews were sent to the location and spent several hours knocking down the blaze. No one was injured.

"The cost of the lost inventory, damage to the interior of the building and restoration equaled $11.7 million and took several months to repair," Cal Fire stated.

A possible motive was not provided.

Cal Fire arson investigators spent roughly a week gathering evidence that ultimately pointed to Arizmendi as the perpetrator, resulting in his arrest on Jan. 31, 2023.

Court records show he has prior convictions for felony evading, assault with a deadly weapon and auto theft.

Contractors

In response, investigators received bids for various construction undertakings, ranging from $2,300 to $31,590, for landscaping, painting, and masonry projects. The cap on unlicensed work is $500 including materials and labor.

For consumer protection, contractors cannot demand a downpayment over the lesser of 10% of the bid or $1,000.

Six of the alleged unlicensed contractors asked for more.

"CSLB is committed to safeguarding homeowners from the dangers posed by unlicensed contractors," said CSLB Registrar David Fogt. "We strive to consistently inform consumers about the value of hiring licensed contractors and strongly encourage California homeowners to check a contractor's license before beginning any construction project."

Checking on a contractor's license also provides the consumer with a glimpse into any possible complaints or sanctions.

Potential penalties for the 12 cited and three others referred to the D.A. include administrative fines of up to $15,000, jail sentences of up to six months, and fines of up to $5,000. Repeat offenders may face a mandatory 90-day jail sentence and a fine of $5,000 or 20 percent of the contract price, whichever is greater.

provides compensation of up to $5 when a customer is determined to have been overcharged.

Riverside County's take on the settlement is $3.96 million.

"The program is an incentive to encourage consumers to report false advertising to the store directly as soon as it is discovered," the D.A.'s office said.

On Wednesday, the Riverside D.A.'s Consumer Protection Unit said Lamps Plus has agreed to a stipulated agreement to pay $4.1 million for false advertising in its price guarantees.

According to the DA's office, the judgment prohibits Lamps Plus from offering a 120 percent Price Protection Policy, and from advertising any Price Match Guarantee Policy in a manner that results in the Price Protection Guarantee Policy being false or misleading.

The civil complaint alleges that Lamps Plus unlawfully advertised price protection policies, including price match and 120 percent price match guarantee, without disclosing that such policies did not include Lamps Plus own-brand products.

Lamps Plus did not admit liability or wrongdoing in paying out $4.1 million.

In a statement, the DA alleged the use of "Compare At" and "Comparable Value" sales tags to indicate a bargain price, even where the product sold was an own-brand product with no competitor in the market or where the comparable product was not of similar design or quality."

Promoting Transparency Election Observer Tours Available to Election Day

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - Since Tuesday and continuing to the day of the general election, Riverside County residents interested in seeing how the Office of the Registrar of Voters processes vote-by-mail ballots and coordinates other tasks are welcome to have a look.

"Election Observer Tours" started Tuesday and will be held every Tuesday and Thursday until Nov. 5, according to officials.

"We invite community members to engage with the democratic process and learn how their votes are counted," Registrar of Voters Art Tinoco said. "Together, let's ensure a fair, accurate and transparent election for all."

The tours, which will facilitate a maximum of 20 people at a time, will be at the agency's headquarters at 2720 Gateway Drive in Riverside, generally from 11 a.m. to noon, or 4 to 5 p.m.

The Office of the Registrar of Voters has been a lightning rod of debate for the past two decades, struggling to counter accusations of negligent chain-of-custody policies, inaccurate voter rolls and unsecured electronic ballot tabulations.

The office has also contended with re-occurring red ink on its budget and has been notorious for laggard vote counts, running sometimes weeks after Election Day.

Tinoco is the fourth registrar at the helm since 2006. He has made transparency one of his priorities in the current election cycle.

For more information on observer tours, residents were asked to make reservations by calling 951-486-7200.

Information regarding where to vote early and other considerations can be found at <https://voteinfo.net>.

County Schools, Businesses, Government Agencies Brace for Quake Drill

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - People in government offices, businesses and schools throughout Riverside County next week will stop everything for a minute to "drop, cover and hold on" during a statewide earthquake preparedness drill, now in its 16th year.

The Great California ShakeOut of 2024 is scheduled for 10:17 a.m. on Oct. 17.

"What we do to prepare now, before the next big earthquake, will determine how well we can survive and recover," according to a statement posted to ShakeOut.org. "Great ShakeOut earthquake drills are a once-a-year chance for everyone to practice 'drop, cover, and hold on' and learn other earthquake safety tips."

The ShakeOut website indicated that as of Monday, Oct. 7, 9.6 million Californians were slated to participate in the drill. During last year's event, about 10.2 million statewide registered to take part.

The exercises began in 2008.

In Riverside County, 619,911 people have registered so far for the drill.

Municipalities whose local government employees will be involved include Coachella, Desert Hot Springs, Indio, Lake Elsinore, Menifee, Murrieta, Norco, Palm Desert, Rancho Mirage, Riverside and Temecula.

Multiple Riverside County agencies are also signed up, including the Assessor-Clerk-Recorder's Office, Emergency Management Department and Parks & Open Space District.

College of the Desert, La Sierra University, Norco College and Riverside City College will also join the drill. Most kindergarten through 12th grade school districts countywide, along with private and charter schools, will have students and staff participating.

According to ShakeOut.org, the objective is to emphasize precautions during a 7.8-magnitude or larger quake along the southernmost portion of the San Andreas fault.

Officials believe that such a tectonic shift could produce waves of movement for hundreds of miles, over four minutes. According to the U.S. Geological Survey, some 2,000 people would die, tens of thousands would be injured and more than $200 billion in damage would result. The cataclysm would have 50 times the intensity of the Jan. 17, 1994, Northridge earthquake.

Hundreds of aftershocks would ensue -- a few of them nearly as big as the original quake, according to the USGS.

The drill in 2019 came just over three months after the early July quakes that struck Ridgecrest. The 6.4- and 7.1-magnitude shakers caused significant damage to roads and structures in the hamlet, which lies just south of the China Lake Naval Air Weapons Station.

Californians should be prepared to be self-sufficient for 72 hours following a major disaster. That includes having a first-aid kit, medications, food and enough water for each member of a household to drink one gallon per day, according to local and state officials.

Homeowners and renters should also know how to turn off the gas in their residences in case of leaks.

Wage

The law was initially set to go into effect June 1, but Newsom asked lawmakers for a delay because of state budget concerns. The law is expected to cost the state $1.4 billion in the first six months of implementation, according to estimates from earlier this year by the Department of Finance.

The deal Newsom struck to postpone the wage increase had an uncertain start date. It stipulated the raises could begin sometime between Oct. 15 and Jan. 1. The roll out date depended on the state bringing in at least 3% more tax revenue than the administration expected, or the state starting to collect data to secure federal funding that will help offset some of the costs related to the law.

The letter from the Department of Health Care Services notifies the Legislature that the latter is now in place.

Some employers stuck to the original deadline of June 1 and have already provided a pay bump. But most workers have been patiently waiting.

Health workers who stand to benefit from the law welcomed the news that the wage increases would begin.

“We deserve this. We deserve to be recognized. We deserve more than what we are getting paid,” said Yvonne Martinez, a housekeeper at Doctors Medical Center in Modesto.

She’s been doing this work for 14 years and currently makes just over $20 an hour. The job is physically demanding — it’s cleaning restrooms, sanitizing surfaces, changing linens, taking out the trash — but it’s also mentally and emotionally draining, she said.

She lives paycheck to paycheck, and many of her coworkers have two jobs to make ends meet. The work they do is essential, but it’s not often recognized with a livable wage, she said.

As designed, the minimum wage increase isn’t supposed to come all at once. Workers will reach the $25 hourly pay rate over a number of years, and some sooner than others, depending on the type of facility they work in.

For example, workers at large hospital systems will see a boost to $23 an hour. But workers at rural and so-called safety net hospitals will start at $18. The Department of Industrial Relations lists the wage schedule for each employer type covered by the law. Some workers will not reach $25 until 2033.

The law was authored by Sen. Maria Elena Durazo, a Los Angeles Democrat, and sponsored by the union SEIU California.

“With patient care suffering from a staffing shortage driven by low pay and compounded by COVID-19, nursing aides, medical assistants, clinic workers, hospital janitors and other critical healthcare workers came together to tackle this crisis head on,” Durazo said in a written statement today. She credited the change to workers, but also to employers and the governor for committing to increasing wages.

Approximately 426,000 workers are expected to benefit from the law, according to estimates from the UC Berkeley Labor Center. This includes medical assistants, front office staff, medical billing personnel, patient techs, janitors, food service workers, among others.

Newsom’s minimum wage hike for health workers is the state’s second for a specific industry. In April, fast food workers started making $20 an hour. California’s minimum wage is $16 an hour for all other workers.

The Grace Period for Student Loan Payments Is Over. Here's What You Need To Know

NEW YORK (AP) — The 12-month grace period for student loan borrowers ended on Sept. 30. The “on-ramp” period helped borrowers who are struggling to make payments avoid the risk of defaulting and hurting their credit score.

“The end of the on-ramp period means the beginning of the potentially harsh consequences for student loan borrowers who are not able to make payments,” said Persis Yu, Deputy Executive Director at the Student Borrower Protection Center.

Around 43 million Americans have student loan debt, amounting to $1.5 trillion. Around eight million of those borrowers had enrolled in the SAVE plan, the newest income-driven repayment plan that extended the eligibility for borrowers to have affordable monthly student loan payments. However, this plan is currently on hold due to legal challenges.

With the on-ramp period and a separate program known as Fresh Start ending and the SAVE plan on hold, student loan borrowers who are struggling to afford their monthly payments have fewer options, added Yu. Student loan borrowers who haven't been able to afford their monthly payments must consider their options to avoid going into default.

If you have student loans, here's what you need to know.

What was the on-ramp period?

The Education Department implemented this grace period to ease the borrower's transition to make payments after a three-year payment pause during the COVID-19 pandemic. During this year-long period, borrowers were encouraged to keep making payments since interest continued to accumulate.

“Normally, loans will default if you fall about nine months behind on making payments, but during this on-ramp period, missed payments would not move people towards defaulting and then being subject to forced collections. However, if you missed payments, you still be falling behind ultimately on repaying your loans,” said Abby Shaforth, director of National Consumer Law Center's Student Loan Borrower Assistance Project.

Since this grace period has ended, student loan borrowers who don't make payments will go delinquent or, if their loans are not paid for nine months, go into default.

Borrowers who cannot afford to make payments can apply for deferment or forbearance, which pause payments, though interest continues to accrue.

What happens if I don't make my payments?

Borrowers who can't or don't pay risk delinquency and eventually default. That can badly hurt your credit rating and make you ineligible for additional aid and government benefits.

If a borrower missed one month's payment, they will start receiving email notifications, said Shaforth. Once the loan hasn't been paid for three months, loan servicers notify to the credit reporting agencies that the loan is delinquent, affecting your credit history. Once the borrower hasn't paid the loan for nine months, the loan goes into default.

If you're struggling to pay, advisers first encourage you to check if you qualify for an income-driven repayment plan, which determines your payments by looking at your expenses. You can see whether you qualify by visiting the Federal Student Aid website. If you've worked for a government agency or a non-profit organization, you could also be eligible for the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program, which forgives student debt after 10 years.

What happens when a loan goes into default?

When you fall behind on a loan by 270 days — roughly 9 months — the loan appears on your credit report as being in default.

Once a loan is in default, it goes into collections. This means the government can garnish wages (without a court order) to go towards paying back the loan, intercept tax refunds, and seize portions of Social Security checks and other benefit payments.

What if I can't pay?

If your budget doesn't allow you to resume payments, it's important to know how to navigate the possibility of default and delinquency on a student loan. Both can hurt your credit rating, which would make you ineligible for additional aid.

If you're in a short-term financial bind, you may qualify for deferment or forbearance — allowing you to temporarily suspend payment.

To determine whether deferment or forbearance are good options for you, you can contact your loan servicer. One thing to note: interest still accrues during deferment or forbearance. Both can also impact potential loan forgiveness options. Depending on the conditions of your deferment or forbearance, it may make sense to continue paying the interest during the payment suspension.

What is an income-driven repayment plan?

The U.S. Education Department offers several plans for repaying federal student loans. Under the standard plan, borrowers are charged a fixed monthly amount that ensures all their debt will be repaid after 10 years. But if borrowers have difficulty paying that amount, they can enroll in one of several plans that offer lower monthly payments based on income and family size. Those are known as income-driven repayment plans.

Income-driven options have been offered for years and generally cap monthly payments at 10% of a borrower's discretionary income. If a borrower's earnings are low enough, their bill is reduced to $0. And after 20 or 25 years, any remaining debt gets erased.

What is the latest with the SAVE program?

In August, the Supreme Court kept on hold the SAVE plan, the income-driven repayment plan that would have lowered payments for millions of borrowers, while lawsuits make their way through lower courts.

Eight million borrowers who had already enrolled in the SAVE plan don't have to pay their monthly student loan bills until the court case is resolved. Debt that already had been forgiven under the plan was unaffected.

The next court hearing about this case will be held on Oct. 15.

What happened with the Fresh Start program?

The Fresh Start program, which gave benefits to borrowers who were delinquent prior to the pandemic payment pause, also closed on Sept. 30. During this limited program, student loan borrowers who were in default prior to the pandemic were given the opportunity to remove their loans from default, allowing them to enroll in income-driven payment plans, or apply for deferment, among other benefits.

How to Prep Perennials Now for Beautiful Spring Blooms

It's a common misconception that once fall rolls around, perennials simply go dormant and don't require maintenance until spring. But, fall is actually the perfect time to show perennials love.

In a recent Backyard Smart video, the lawn and garden experts at Exmark give the lowdown on prepping perennials for cold weather so you can enjoy beautiful blooms come spring. Here's what to know:

The Benefits of Dividing Perennials: When plants become overcrowded, they compete for essential resources like water, air, and nutrients, which can hinder their growth. Dividing perennials helps distribute plants across your yard, maintaining a healthy size, preventing overcrowding, and reducing the risk of disease.

When to Divide Perennial Plants: Generally, fall's the best time to divide perennial plants that bloom in spring and summer. (Conversely, spring's the best time to divide fall-blooming plants.) But if you're planning on dividing in fall, don't wait too long! Get outside about four to six weeks before the ground freezes, or else your plants will be in for a rough winter. Careful! Not every perennial needs to be divided every year. Most need it every three to five years, and some don't need it at all. Do your research before you begin.

How to Divide Perennials: Make the necessary preparations to ensure your perennials properly take to their new homes. First, thoroughly water your plants a day or two beforehand and cut them back so you can clearly see what you're dealing with. Then, head out on a cloudy,

One Home Renovation Project With Huge Potential Returns

Adding an accessory dwelling unit (ADU) to your property can increase the value of your home, become a source of rental income, or help you expand your living space for your adult children or parents.

If you don't know what an ADU is, you're in good company. A 2023 Freddie Mac survey found that 71% of respondents were unfamiliar with the concept.

ADUs are often known as in-law apartments, granny flats, carriage houses or secondary suites. According to Freddie Mac, here's why investing in adding an ADU may be worth it:

The basics: An ADU is a smaller, independent residential structure built on the same lot as a single-family home. To qualify as an ADU, the additional living area needs to include a kitchen, bathroom and separate entrance. Common examples include a dwelling over a detached or attached garage, a suite above the main floor of the home, a basement apartment, or a detached structure such as a guesthouse or backyard cottage.

The benefits: Building an ADU on your property may contribute to the supply of affordable housing in your area, but it also has a wealth of benefits for you, the homeowner. It can boost the value of your home by as much as 35%, and become a potential source of extra income if you rent your ADU to a tenant. An ADU can also make for a great home office, guest house or workshop, or be a good solution if your adult children are returning to live with you, or you are the caretaker to aging or disabled relatives.

Eligibility: Before adding an ADU to your home, you will need to learn about the zoning codes that apply to your property. Ordinances and policies vary by location and change frequently. Make sure you understand any federal, state or local laws involved with renting your ADU. Discussing this with an attorney is one option. To find your zoning code, check your local government's website or reach out to your local zoning or building code office.

Financing: You should create a construction budget and consider how you will pay for a new ADU or renovations to an existing ADU. The good news is that you don't necessarily need to pay the expenses upfront. There are loans designed to help you pay for improvements to your home. For example, Freddie Mac CHOICERenovation is a financing solution that can provide you with funding to add an ADU on your property. Speak with your lender about the financing options available to you and which may best suit your needs.

Whether you're looking for a way to increase your property value or create a living space for a loved one, adding an ADU can be a rewarding investment. While navigating zoning laws, renovation budgets and landlord responsibilities may seem daunting, there are many resources available to guide you through the process. (StatePoint)

“Joker: Folie à Deux”

By Bob Garver

Back in 2019, “Joker” managed to make over $1 billion at the global box office and earn itself 11 Oscar nominations, including Best Picture and a Best Actor win for Joaquin Phoenix. I recall respecting the movie for Phoenix’s performance and the inspired idea to paint him as a Scorsese-style antihero, but I also recall not really “enjoying” the film in the traditional sense where I laughed or was thrilled very much. The film took a very realistic, mental-health heavy approach to the origin of the beloved Batman bad-die, and I couldn’t help but feel that a movie that combined an evil clown with the world of standup comedy shouldn’t feel so grounded. In other words, “Why So Serious?”

Five years later, Phoenix and director Todd Phillips are back and have added some much-needed outrageous elements. Arthur “Joker” Fleck (Phoenix) is on trial for the crimes he committed in the first movie. His lawyer Maryanne Stewart (Catherine Keener) can save him from the death penalty if she can convince the court that Joker is a separate personality from Arthur that can be subdued. The prosecutor is none other than Harvey Dent (Harry Lawtey), and of course fans are already licking their chops at the deliciousness of the character that is to become known as Two-Face arguing against a fellow Batman adversary having a split personality. It won’t be much of a surprise to say that Arthur isn’t going to follow his lawyer’s by-the-book counsel, and will instead use the televised trial as a forum to give the unhinged performance of a lifetime.

But Dent isn’t the only new member of Batman’s rogues gallery in the mix. The movie throws in a new take on Harley Quinn, played by the notoriously-audacious Lady Gaga. Arthur meets Harley while touring another part of Arkham Asylum, and a sadistic guard (Brendan Gleeson) lets them spend some time together, probably just so he can hurt Arthur by taking her away from him later. As if it weren’t enough for Gaga to be Phoenix’s figurative dance partner, she’s his actual dance partner too, because this movie is a musical! Over 20 song and/or dance numbers are performed throughout the film. Musical numbers still not enough? Okay, there’s also animation – a cartoon opens the movie. There shouldn’t be a single dull moment onscreen. And yet... this sequel is even more boring than the original.

How did this happen? I’ll start with the scenes of dialogue. There’s too much pausing and talking slowly. For all the talk of humor, these characters don’t have a great sense of timing. The musical numbers are all just dreary renditions of songs that make allusions to things that are comedy-related, but don’t have the energy to match. I guess Phillips thought he was onto something with that “Send in the Clowns” scene from the first movie, but that scene was only memorable because it was so unbelievable that a random stockbroker would know all the words to that song. As for action scenes, there isn’t much besides guards abusing their power, a non-fatal fire, and some admittedly good stuff toward the end that makes for too little, too late.

I get that “Joker: Folie à Deux” isn’t trying to be one of the zanier Batman movies, and it’s not like I don’t see an effort being made with the passionate performances. But to take characters as wild and chaotic as The Joker and Harley Quinn (not to mention the musical genre) and make them this lifeless is just a bad idea that should have been revised into something more palatable. The movie itself may even realize that this continuity has no future, as it seemingly passes up a perfect opportunity to set up a third installment. This film squanders so much promise... it’s laughable.

Grade: C-

“Joker: Folie à Deux” is rated R for some strong violence, language throughout, some sexuality, and brief full nudity. Its running time is 138 minutes.

‘Joker: Folie a Deux’ Opens with $40 Million to Lead Box Office

LOS ANGELES (CNS) - “Joker: Folie à Deux” opened atop the box office this weekend though it fell below expectations, taking in $40 million, according to industry estimates released Sunday.

Director Todd Phillips’ sequel to his 2019 blockbuster, which stars Joaquin Phoenix and Lady Gaga, has received mostly poor reviews and failed to match the $96.2 million opening weekend of the first film.

“The Wild Robot” slipped to second one week after opening in first place, grossing $18.7 million Friday through Sunday at theaters in the United States and Canada, Comscore reported.

“Beetlejuice Beetlejuice” was third with $10.3 million in its fifth week.

“Transformers One” took fourth place with $5.3 million in its third weekend in theaters, followed by “Speak No Evil” with $2.8 million in its fourth weekend.

Rounding out the top 10 domestic releases were “Sam and Colby: The Legends of the Paranormal” ($1.7 million), “White Bird” ($1.53 million), “Deadpool & Wolverine” ($1.52 million), “The Substance” ($1.34 million) and “Megalopolis” ($1 million).

This weekend’s overall three-day box office haul was estimated at $90 million. The year-to-date total is $6.43 billion -- down 11% from the figure at this time last year, according to Comscore.

Savory-Sweet Soy Basting Sauce Transforms Ground Chicken Into Izakaya-Style Meatballs

By CHRISTOPHER KIMBALL Christopher Kimball's Milk Street

Japanese chicken meatballs, called tsukune, are a standard offering in pub-like izakayas and restaurants specializing in yakitori. Sometimes shaped into cigars rather than orbs, the meatballs are grilled on skewers and finished with tare, a savory-sweet soy-based seasoning sauce.

Unlike tender meatloaf or burgers, these meatballs have a pleasing bounciness, so don't feel the need to be gentle when combining ingredients to make the meat mixture. In this recipe from "Milk Street 365: The All-Purpose Cookbook for Every Day of the Year," we vigorously mix dark meat chicken with grated garlic and ginger, fresh scallions, panko breadcrumbs and an extra savory combination of sesame oil and white pepper. This gives the meatballs their characteristic structure and chew.

Instead of skewering and grilling the tsukune, we shape the mixture into small, thick meatballs, then do all the cooking in a nonstick skillet on the stovetop. Take care not to brown the meatballs aggressively or they'll cook unevenly from edge to center. Heat the oil for browning them over medium-high, then reduce the burner to medium as soon as the meatballs are in the pan.

Once lightly browned on the bottom, flip each meatball and add a mixture of sake, soy sauce and mirin that has been simmered with smashed garlic and bruised ginger. Cook, occasionally turning the meatballs and basting them with the sauce, until the exteriors are glazed. To add a little spice to the tsukune, offer shichimi togarashi (Japanese seven spice blend) or yuzu kosho (Japanese chili and citrus paste) at the table.

Japanese-Style Chicken Meatballs Start to finish: 50 minutes

Servings: 4

Ingredients:

½ cup sake

½ cup mirin

¼ cup soy sauce

2 medium garlic cloves, 1 smashed and peeled, 1 finely grated

2-inch piece fresh ginger, 2 teaspoons finely grated, the remainder thinly sliced and bruised

1 pound ground chicken, preferably dark meat

4 scallions, minced, divided

⅓ cup panko breadcrumbs

1 large egg white

1 tablespoon toasted sesame oil

Ground black or white pepper

2 tablespoons grapeseed or other neutral oil, plus more for oiling your hands

Directions:

Line a rimmed baking sheet with kitchen parchment and mist with cooking spray; set aside. In a 12-inch nonstick skillet over medium-high, combine the sake, mirin, soy sauce, smashed garlic and bruised ginger. Bring to a boil and cook, stirring often, until reduced to ⅓ cup, 6 to 8 minutes. Remove and discard the garlic and ginger; transfer the mixture to a small bowl. Rinse out and dry the skillet.

In a large bowl, combine the chicken, grated garlic, grated ginger, ¼ cup of the scallions, panko, egg white, sesame oil and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Using your hands or a silicone spatula, vigorously stir and knead the mixture until well combined and sticky. Using lightly oiled hands, divide the mixture into 16 portions (about 2 tablespoons each), form each into a ball and place on the prepared baking sheet. Lightly press each ball to slightly flatten it into a 1- to 1¼-inch round.

In the same skillet over medium-high, heat the neutral oil until shimmering. Place the meatballs in the skillet,

As I wrote a couple of weeks ago, I am out the ears on basil. I made a giant batch of pesto a few weeks ago and am still working my way through it. (For that pesto recipe visit www.zapinin.com/food.) So in the spirit of not wasting it, I have been thinking of some novel ways to get through it. Along comes pesto roasted vegetables. I roasted carrots and beets from my garden, so this is a garden-fresh meal. My favorite.

Pesto Roasted Vegetables

I'm writing this specifically for carrots but you can roast any vegetable your heart desires.

Ingredients

- 1 lb carrots
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- 1 tsp salt
- ¼ cup pesto

To make

Preheat the oven to 425 degrees. On a sheet pan cover your carrots in olive oil and salt. Bake for about 30 mins or until slightly browned and are fork tender. Toss in the pesto and enjoy!

reduce to medium and cook until lightly browned on the bottoms, about 4 minutes. Flip each meatball and add the sake-soy mixture; continue to cook, occasionally turning the meatballs and basting them with the sauce, until the centers reach 160°F and the exteriors are glazed, 5 to 7 minutes; reduce the heat if the soy mixture is reducing too quickly.

If desired, transfer the meatballs and glaze to a serving dish. Sprinkle with the remaining scallions.

County Educator Bob Mauger Honored as California Teacher of the Year

Teaching wasn't a consideration as Bob Mauger embarked on his career path.

There were fits and starts before zeroing in on pursuing a degree in social and criminal justice, becoming a probation officer being the goal.

But then, as many parents do, he stepped into his daughter's elementary school classroom as a parent volunteer. That fired a new synapse, an interest in childhood development.

He started teaching as a paraeducator working with the emotionally disturbed population while he pursued his master's degree in teaching and learning.

Continuing his evolution, Mauger decided to apply a lifelong passion instilled by his father for hands-on work in mechanical repair, adding a technical education credential. And a successful career path was formed.

Bob's expertise in restoring cars has led to the restoration of the automotive technology program at Corona High School, which is not only preparing students with technical skills but also with life skills, including confidence, a strong work ethic, and how to be a good human.

And he has done this so well that he is one of only five educators to be honored as 2025 California Teacher of the Year.

He is described by one colleague as, "a consummate professional with the desire to make his auto technology classes not only industry standard, but the best in the nation." Another adds that Mauger's "High core values and excellent communication skills have led to his auto shop becoming a platform for connecting students to learning." Even before this recognition, it was a year ago, that the Progress profiled a humble Mauger, putting these described attributes into action.

Following the death of his friend, retired Riverside County Fire Captain Shane Porter, Mauger learned that a Porter family project to restore a dilapidated, old Jeepster had stopped with Shane's passing.

Shane Porter had obtained the Jeepster for his wife, paramedic Tigger Porter, and their sons Tim and Michael to all work together on the restoration. That ceased with Capt. Porter's illness and passing.

Bob Mauger had an idea. Make the restoration a class-work project. And about 22 students jumped in with no hesitation.

"I think teenagers sometimes get a bad rap, and a lot of my students come from rough backgrounds, Mauger told the story's author, Don Ray. "And for me to build positive connections with them, and to build those connections with the community and to have them or show them how rewarding it is to do nice things for other people, that's what this was."

"They thought it was just another project at first, but once we got into it, and once they learned more about the family, it (was) like they became family."

And that is the educator the State of California is honored as one of its finest.

In recognition, Riverside County Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Edwin Gomez observed, "His resourcefulness in securing industry-standard tools and equipment helps ensure that students have what they need to succeed, secure jobs, and overcome personal challenges."

Bob Mauger is the second CNUSD educator to be recognized as California Teacher of the Year. Dr. Angel Mejico, who has taught visual arts and the Art Academy at El Cerrito Middle School for two dozen years, was honored in 2019.

California Is Banning Artificial Food Dyes in School Snacks and Drinks.

Here's What the Science Says

BY KRISTEN HWANG,
CalMatters

Many brightly colored kids' snacks and beverages will disappear from California schools under a new law Gov. Gavin Newsom signed on Sunday that bans certain artificial food dyes from K-12 campuses.

Starting in 2028, six common food dyes will no longer be allowed in food sold at schools because of concerns that they cause behavior and attention problems in some children. The banned dyes are: Blue 1, Blue 2, Green 3, Red 40, Yellow 5 and Yellow 6.

Artificial food coloring production in the U.S. has increased more than six-fold since the Food and Drug Administration first issued safety regulations in the 1930s. Although initial studies indicated that artificial colors were nontoxic, recent research has linked eating foods containing synthetic dyes to hyperactivity and trouble concentrating, particularly among children.

This legislation builds on a first-in-the-nation law Newsom signed last year to ban the sale of food containing four food additives common in candies and baked goods, and are thought to be harmful. That law applies to food sold anywhere in California, while this year's legislation focuses solely on school nutrition.

"The reason it makes sense to focus on schools is because that's where a lot of those behavioral and hyperactivity issues are going to compound," Melanie Benesh, vice president for government affairs with Environmental Working Group, a national advocacy group that co-sponsored the legislation. "If you know there are kids in these schools that have a sensitivity to these dyes, and it makes it harder for them to concentrate, then you are not creating the most conducive learning environment for those kids."

Several state legislatures are considering bills similar to California's. The federal government, however, has not updated its safety standards.

"California is once again leading the nation when it comes to protecting our kids from dangerous chemicals that can harm their bodies and interfere with their ability to learn," said Assemblymember Jesse Gabriel, the Democrat from Encino who authored the law.

Packaged food manufacturers opposed the food dye restrictions, saying that the FDA — not California — is the appropriate food safety regulator.

"The approach taken by California politicians ignores our science and risk based process and is not the precedent we should be setting when it comes to feeding our families," said John Hewitt, a senior vice president at Consumer Brands Association, which opposed the measure. The organization represents major food manufacturers, such as Coca Cola and J.M. Smucker.

What does the science say on food dyes?

Managing risk of harmful chemicals can be tricky, and California is no stranger to considering controversial legislation that attempts to reduce exposure.

An early version of the law Newsom signed last year to ban certain food additives was derided by critics as a "Skittles ban" before lawmakers amended it in a way that excluded the dye in the popular candy. Meanwhile, cancer warnings that are required by a 1986 law known as Proposition 65 are often criticized for creating consumer confusion and spurious lawsuits.

But advocates say federal regulations don't move as quickly as science, requiring state lawmakers to take initiative.

California's environmental hazard research agency published a 300-page report assessing the risk of synthetic food dyes in 2021. The conclusion: The studies used by the FDA to develop safety standards did not assess neurological outcomes that have since been associated with food coloring. Those papers, which are between 35 to 70 years old, instead looked for physiological toxic effects, such as weight gain or decreased liver function in animals.

More recent research, including clinical trials, show links between eating dye and behavioral problems in children at much lower doses than the FDA's current allowable limit.

"We all agreed that the weight of evidence supported an association, and that the current acceptable daily intakes for some of the dyes set by FDA may not adequately protect against behavioral or neurobehavioral outcomes," said Asa Bradman, a public health professor at UC Merced who worked on the state's risk assessment. "And you know, that's kind of a bombshell."

Hewitt from the Consumer Brands Association said packaged food manufacturers stand by the FDA guidelines.

"It's unfortunate the scientifically proven, safe ingredients have been demonized without a scientific basis," Hewitt said.

But Bradman said the industry hasn't been able to discredit any of the newer research — it has only pointed to the original studies, which are outdated and not appropriate for assessing behavioral changes.

Dyes in juice, soda and ice cream

Children are the most vulnerable to the adverse effects associated with food coloring, in part, because they're more likely to eat foods and beverages that are dyed. Even medications for children, such as cough syrup and vitamins, are manufactured with synthetic dyes. Kids are also more susceptible because their brains are still developing, and their body weight is

Investigators Concerned Resident Accused of Using Boy for Porn Targeted Others

COUNTY CHILD EXPLOITATION TEAM SEEKING PUBLIC HELP

BANNING (CNS) - A 20-year-old Banning man accused of sexually assaulting a young boy and distributing videos of the acts online possibly targeted other children, prompting authorities Friday to ask anyone with information to come forward.

John Edward Lario was arrested and charged last month following an investigation by the multi-agency Riverside County Child Exploitation Team, or RCCET.

Lario pleaded not guilty during a Sept. 19 arraignment on four counts of forced oral copulation of a minor, two counts of lewd acts on a child and one count each of using a minor to produce child pornography and child endangerment.

The defendant, who's being held on $1 million bail at the Smith Correctional Facility, is scheduled to appear for a felony settlement conference on Dec. 4 at the Banning Justice Center.

"As the investigation into Lario continues, RCCET investigators are asking for the public's help in identifying and locating any other possible victims," according to a District Attorney's Office statement. "They ask anyone with information to call the nationwide RCCET Hotline at 866-723-3595."

According to prosecutors, the New Zealand Department of Internal Affairs contacted U.S. Homeland Security Investigations in early September after overseas investigators discovered internet-based child pornography traceable to a resident of Riverside County.

HSI and RCCET coordinated efforts to identify the party responsible for circulating the obscene matter and ultimately allegedly connected it to Lario, compiling sufficient evidence to procure a search warrant, which was served at his Charles Street home on Sept. 3, authorities said.

"That led to the identity of the alleged victim, an 8-year-old boy," according to the D.A.'s office.

Lario was taken into custody without incident. The child is no longer in danger.

The defendant, who has no documented prior felony convictions in Riverside County, could face life in prison if convicted.

Corona Tax Preparer Who Filed Fraudulent Returns Headed to Prison

RIVERSIDE (CNS) - A Corona tax preparer who filed numerous fraudulent returns was bound for federal prison Tuesday to serve a six-year sentence.

Salvador Gonzalez pleaded guilty in June to three counts of aiding and assisting in the preparation of false tax returns. During a hearing at U.S. District Court in downtown Riverside Monday, Judge Jesus Bernal imposed the 72-month prison term and ordered Gonzalez to pay $403,908 in restitution to the government.

The defendant was arrested in March 2023 after a federal grand jury handed down a 47-count indictment.

According to the U.S. Attorney's Office, he operated Grace's Lighthouse Resource Center Inc., and from 2013 to 2021, he "prepared income tax returns for individuals and corporate clients to submit to the IRS that claimed tens of thousands of dollars in bogus business losses."

"Gonzalez directed his clients to create a phony corporation and to title their homes, cars and other assets in the name of the corporation," the agency stated. "Gonzalez then referred those clients to an associate to prepare these sham corporations' tax returns."

Prosecutors said the defendant arranged for customers to submit business and personal expenses, including mortgage and car payments, as well as utility bills, indicating a "loss" at the end of every tax cycle.

"Gonzalez then prepared the clients' individual income tax returns, which incorporated the fraudulent business losses and offset their income," the U.S. Attorney's Office said. "To further reduce the clients' taxes owed to the IRS, Gonzalez fabricated deductions on the personal returns such as unreimbursed employee expenses, cash contributions to charity and medical and dental expenses."

The defendant's fees were initially $500 per return, but in 2019, he converted the payment for services to 1% of customers' adjusted gross incomes, prosecutors said.

"In total, Gonzalez caused a tax loss to the IRS of at least $28 million," the U.S. Attorney's Office said, citing court records.

Alleged Fentanyl Supplier Accused of Murder Found Dead in Jail Cell

MURRIETA (CNS) - An autopsy was pending Monday on a 40-year-old inmate who died at the Byrd Detention Center under circumstances that officials said did not appear suspicious.

Johnnie Curtis Stevens of Norco was discovered unconscious in his cell, No.

89 of the FH Block, at the Murrieta jail just after 10 a.m. Friday, according to the Riverside County Sheriff's Department.

Sgt. Chris Wedel said correctional deputies immediately initiated resuscitative measures until paramedics arrived and took over, but Stevens was pronounced dead at the scene.

"There were no signs of foul play," Wedel said. "The investigation is ongoing."

Curtis had been housed at the detention center since his arrest in April on suspicion of second-degree murder for the November 2023 death of 40-year-old Jason Schmuck, who was the victim of fentanyl poisoning.

According to sheriff's officials, Schmuck was found dead in his home near the intersection of Roundup Road and Stagecoach Drive in Norco. The fatality was ultimately determined to be fatal drug intoxication from fentanyl consumption, investigators said.

The alleged supplier was Stevens, though the investigation spanned more than five months before he was arrested.

The defendant had no documented prior felony convictions in Riverside County.

dry day and get to work.

Dig up plants around the roots and gently lift them out of the ground, knocking away loose dirt and debris. For best results, dig outside the outermost part of plants that water drips from. You can either gently pull apart the roots with your hands, cut into them with a knife or spade, or use two gardening forks to wedge plants in half. Various perennials have different roots systems, so read up on the best method for the species.

You can typically get four to six new sections from a single plant. Just make sure each division has three to five shoots and a substantial, healthy root system. Afterwards, you’re free to plant your new divisions, rearrange existing beds, or share new plants with family or friends!

Water and Cut Back: Even if you’re not dividing your perennials, it’s good to get one last thorough watering in before the first freeze. Leading up to that point, gradually wean perennials from regular watering to monthly watering throughout fall.

The general rule of thumb is to cut perennials back once they start to fade. However, there are exceptions. Some perennials should be left alone. Make sure you know what’s in your garden before beginning.

Feeding and Mulching: Once plants are situated, it’s time to layer up. Clear off old mulch so that the soil is exposed, and remove any weeds or grass peeking through. Then, spread on a 1-2-inch thick compost layer, followed by an equally thick mulch layer. The compost will gradually break down and release nutrients, promoting better root growth, better soil pH and hardier plants come spring. The mulch provides insulation while protecting soil from erosion and compaction.

Be on the Lookout: Cold weather doesn’t necessarily mean pests take a break from making a meal of plants. Many—such as slugs—will chow down on anything your garden has to offer, so stay attentive! Before mulching, lay down slug bait to send them packing.

smaller compared to the amount of dye consumed, research shows.

Juice, soda, icing and ice cream cones are major sources of exposure among kids.

Poverty and race also increase exposure risk, the state’s report found. Black children and women of childbearing age ingested significantly more food coloring than other ethnic groups.

The foods that contain the most dye are “poor quality junk food,” Bradman said. Most schools already have healthy food programs aimed at reducing them on campus. This legislation would help encourage schools to serve even healthier foods, he said.

Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an “eligible tenant buyer,” you can purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an “eligible bidder,” you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 122331-CA to find the date on which the trustee’s sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee’s sale. The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder’s office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (855) 313-3319 or visit this Internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 124441-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an “eligible tenant buyer,” you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. The successful bidder will pay all conveying fees, all real estate and other taxes that are due on or after the delivery date of the remainder of the payment and all other costs associated with the transfer of title. At the conclusion of the sale, the deposits of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them. The Secretary may grant an extension of time within which to deliver the remainder of the payment. All extensions will be for a 15-day increments for a fee of $500.00, paid in advance. The extension fee will be in the form of a certified or cashier's check made payable to the Secretary of HUD. If the high bidder closes the sale prior to the expiration of any extension period, the unused portion of the extension fee shall be applied toward the amount due. If the high bidder is unable to close the sale within the required period, or within any extensions of time granted by the Secretary, the high bidder may be required to forfeit the cash deposit or, at the election of the foreclosure commissioner after consultation with the HUD representative, will be liable to HUD for any costs incurred as a result of such failure. The commissioner may, at the direction of the HUD representative, offer the property to the second highest bidder for an amount equal to the highest price offered by that bidder. There is no right of redemption, or right of possession based upon a right of redemption, in the mortgagor or others subsequent to a foreclosure completed pursuant to the Act. Therefore, the Foreclosure Commissioner will issue a Deed to the purchaser(s) upon receipt of the entire purchase price in accordance with the terms of the sale as provided herein. HUD does not guarantee that the property will be vacant. The scheduled foreclosure sale shall be cancelled or adjourned if it is established, by documented written application of the mortgagor to the Foreclosure Commissioner not less than 3 days before the date of sale, or otherwise, that the default or defaults upon which the foreclosure is based did not exist at the time of service of this notice of default and foreclosure sale, or all amounts due under the mortgage agreement are tendered to the Foreclosure Commissioner, in the form of a certified or cashier's check payable to the Secretary of HUD, before public auction of the property is completed. The amount that must be paid if the mortgage is to be reinstated prior to the scheduled sale is $272,859.02 as of 10/23/2024, plus all other amounts that would be due under the mortgage agreement if payments under the mortgage had not been accelerated, advertising costs and postage expenses incurred in giving notice, mileage by the most reasonable road distance for posting notices and for the Foreclosure Commissioner's attendance at the sale, reasonable and customary costs incurred for title and lien record searches, the necessary outofpocket costs incurred by the Foreclosure Commissioner for recording documents, a commission for the Foreclosure Commissioner, and all other costs incurred in connection with the foreclosure prior to reinstatement. Tender of payment by certified or cashier's check or application for cancellation of the foreclosure sale shall be submitted to the address of the Foreclosure Commissioner provided below.
